ERIN ROLLS ITS SLEEVES; FIGHTS TO GET AHEAD

Digs In to Correct 700 Years of Evil.

This is the first of a series of articles on the Irish Free State by James O'Donnell Bennett, who recently returned from a visit of several weeks in the new Ireland.

By JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—To be for two months a close observation of the work and ways of young men who are building a new state is a great experience.

Once I spent two and a half years in observation of the work and ways of men who were engaged in the systematic destruction called war. That was thrilling tragedy. The present experience has been sober instruction. The inhabitants of the Irish Free State have now had six years of peace for their work of state building. The principal lesson they have learned is that not everything that needs to be done to correct evils, growing out of seven centuries of foreign misrule and social unrest, can be done in six years. The three principal boons vouchsafed by the six years of self-direction are the prizing of order, the achievement of a considerable degree of patience, and some development of initiative.

Federal Taxation Lower.

The administration of the country has been economical. National taxation has decreased but in many places local rates have increased, although in Dublin and nearby towns they have decreased. The decrease is being grudging praise and the increase much groaning. When I told a shrewd administrator in the city of Cork about the abundant groaning that had been poured into my ears, he said:

"Clean streets and enlarged social services cost money. The people are paying higher local rates, but they are getting more service and they know it. Here, as everywhere, social legislation is increasing, and social legislation costs money."

National politics has not been disgraced by scandal or jobbery under the new régime.

"Politics in this country has no graft in it," said Desmond Fitzgerald, Free State minister for defense.

Cosgrave, the hard worked chief of the executive council, receives a salary of $12,500 a year and is exempted from the payment of income tax on a very small part of his salary. No executive mansion and no entertainment fund are provided for him. In the United States a man of his conspicuous means, ability and prestige would be paid ten times as much by some great corporation.

Only One Minister Non-Catholic.

The eight ministers of state, appointed by him, receive $8,500 a year each and are exempted from income tax. [Supertax is levied only on income above $10,000.] I hear all of the ministers spoken of by the people as men of signal ability. Five out of the eight are men of university training. All save one, Mr. Blythe, minister for finance, are Roman Catholics. He is a Presbyterian.

Their offices are simple to the point of meagerness and they live on the scale of a well to do Irish business man: nothing luxurious. A servant, newly come into the household of one of the ministers, asked one of the old servants:

"Who valets the master?"

"Oh, drop your codology," replied the person. "He valets himself."

"Codology," I may add, is an Irish colloquialism, meaning pompous foolishness or foolish pomposity.

Mrs. O'Sullivan, wife of the minister of education, asked me what was my outstanding impression of the leaders of the new state.

Builders Are Unassuming.

"First of all," said I, "the impression of their unassumingness."

"Yes," said she, "I don't see any of them swanking about."

"Though none of our ministers," said a journalist, "were born to the purple, they have done the state credit on ceremonial occasions. They have been able to mount the tall hat and bring it off." ("Bring it off," I learned, is the equivalent of our "get away with it.")

In every phase of their work these men face enormous difficulties. For example, seventy-five per cent of the producing capital of the Irish Free State is in the hands of a Protestant minority, who do not number more than ten per cent of the population of the country, while seventy-five per

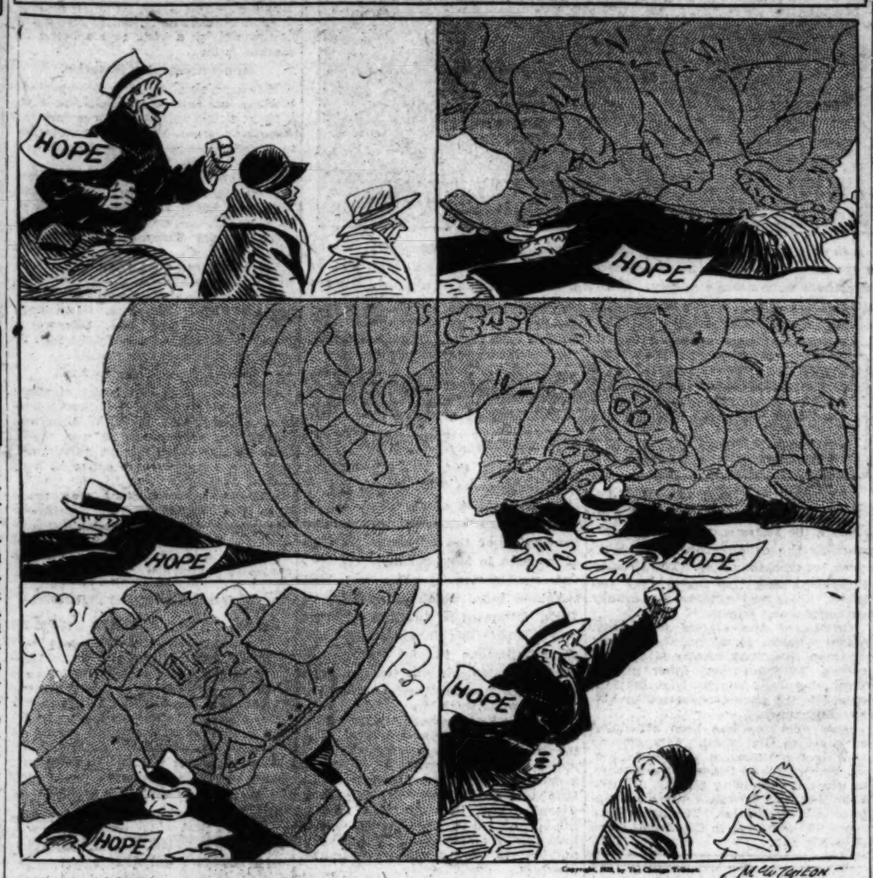
THE SPIRIT OF FOOTBALL



WOMAN MOURNS HUSBAND AND SON, VICTIMS OF RUM

Bootleg booze of the prohibition vintage which crazes its victims yesterday had robbed Mrs. Thomas Fearon, 5504 Dorchester avenue, of a member of her family for the second time in five months.

"This liquor, first my son,—and now my husband," she sobbed as she told a coroner's jury how booze had claimed the life of Jerome Boyd, her 12 year old son by a former marriage, last May, and how it led her husband, a 55 year old steamfitter, to commit suicide on Friday night.

Jerome was one of three boys who were struck and killed by an automobile driven by a booze crazed driver. Her husband ended his life by hanging himself in a cell at the Hyde Park police station after he had been arrested for drunkenness and threatening his wife. He banged himself from the bars of the same cell which held the slayers of his stepson five months ago.

"He never drank much, only once in a while," Mrs. Fearon testified, "and then he went crazy. My son and now my husband."

The coroner's jury decided that Fearon committed suicide while temporarily insane from the effects of bootleg booze.

Barbusse Faces Charge of Plotting Against France

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Henri Barbusse, communist, pacifist, and author of the war novel "Le Feu," is being accused of plotting against the security of the state with other Reds in the government's campaign to stamp out the French communist party. M. Barbusse is also one of the three publishers of the daily Humanité.

Rob Oil Station Before Eyes of Policeman

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A filling station bandit, supposedly a member of the group which held up five stations in the city last night, outwitted a waiting policeman at a Shorewood filling station at Capitol drive and Morris boulevard tonight, obtained $17 from the attendant and escaped in an automobile driven by a girl.

The first reports from the Shorewood police station were that the bandit's attempted holdup was frustrated and that Patrolman Albert Reichartz, secreted in an inner room of the station office, had shot him through the shoulder.

Tells Different Story.

Detective Sergeant Adolph Kremer of the Milwaukee police department, however, told a different story when he returned from an investigation of the incident.

"The holdup man appeared at the filling station at 7:45 and walked in behind the attendant," Kremer said, "and prodding him with a revolver compelled him to give up $17. As the attendant was handing over the money Patrolman Reichartz stepped from his ambush, with revolver leveled, and ordered the robber to put up his hands.

Then Bandit Shouts.

"'For —— sake drop that gun,' the bandit shouted to Reichartz. 'We've got you covered from the outside and he'll get you if you don't drop that gun.'

"Reichartz dropped his weapon and the holdup man then turned his revolver toward him and ordered him back into the inner room. He then left the station and entered the waiting automobile which a woman was driving."

Policeman's Story.

Patrolman Reichartz at first reported that he had shot the bandit as he fled and that blood was oozing from his shoulder. The attendant, John Waddleson, 45, Downer avenue, corroborated the story. Later, he said he was not certain the policeman had fired.

Beloit Children Send 1,000 Christmas Boxes Abroad

Beloit, Wis. Oct. 19.—[Special]—Beloit public school children did their Christmas giving early. Today 100 boxes they have been filling with toys, candy and clothing were shipped to the American Red Cross headquarters in New York to be sent abroad as Christmas gifts to children under care of the Red Cross in distant lands.

Police Join in Crap Game, Then Arrest Other Players

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Five disguised policemen got into a regular noontime crap game with a crowd of paving workers near the Peckham Junior High school on Fond du Lac avenue today and as soon as the game warmed up arrested all other participants. It was a five cent game.

SELLING AVALANCHE CAUSES BIG LOSSES ON STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special]—Reactionary forces took control of the New York stock market today and with a devastating sweep reduced the value of listed securities to the lowest levels reached on the current decline. In the two hours of trading active issues passed through one of the widest breaks in history. Final quotations revealed net losses ranging from 5 to 20 points and the aggregate depreciation in open market values was estimated at $1,000,000,000 or more. A loss of $857,119,407 was revealed in the stocks of 10 leading corporations alone.

Stocks of all groups were driven down under the avalanche of selling, but it was the high priced issues—the pivotal stocks—that caught the full impact of the movement. The "bear party", the largest and most impressive that Wall street has known in recent years, rode roughshod over the bull faction.

OGLESBY AND MRS. CARROLL WED TOMORROW

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The marriage of John Oglesby, 52, former lieutenant governor of Illinois, and Mrs. Augusta Carroll, Springfield social leader, is to take place Monday at Peoria, it was announced tonight.

The ceremony will be at the home of Mrs. Henry M. Pindell, sister of Mrs. Carroll. Only immediate relatives will attend.

Mr. Oglesby is son of the late Gov. Richard Oglesby.

Mrs. Carroll is the widow of Charles B. V. Carrol of Springfield.

Fires at French Deputy for Voting to Quit Rhine

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Ernest Grapin fired a shot at Paul Dumaina, deputy of the department of the Haute Marne, tonight. M. Grapin, when arrested, told the police he is opposed to the evacuation of the Rhineland and Premier Briand's foreign policies and he attempted to kill the deputy who had voted for it, as a protest.

TEARS DIM EYES AS EDISON SEES OLD WORKSHOP

He Finds Worn Tools in Their Places.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison today revisited the scenes of his first labors and triumphs. The eighty-two year old inventor inspected the workshop where 50 years ago he evolved the first incandescent light.

Tears showed in Edison's eyes as he went slowly about the workshop in which he labored in 1879. Everything—benches, stools, and tools—was in the same ordered disorder that they were in in 1879 when Edison labored that there might be lights in the homes and factories of the world. A look of reminiscence came into his deep eyes as he fondly picked up, one after the other, the old tools.

At Old Boarding House.

Later he visited Mrs. Jordan's boarding house, where he lived those fifty years ago, and which was the first house ever lighted by electricity.

Everything was just as it was a half century ago—all but the location. Fifty years ago the workshop and boarding house were in Menlo Park, N. J.; now they are in Dearborn, Mich. They were moved and rebuilt by Henry Ford, Edison's close friend.

On Monday there will be the real anniversary. The President of the United States, Herbert Hoover, will make the principal address. He, with Mrs. Hoover, and a number of American and foreign notables, will arrive Monday morning.

Rides on Ford's Car.

Mr. Edison arrived here this morning from East Orange aboard Mr. Ford's private railway coach "Fairline."

When Edison arrived this morning in Ford's private car from his East Orange home he disembarked at Smith's Creek depot. This was the place where Edison was thrown off the train by an angered conductor in pre-civil war days, when Edison was a "news butcher" on the mixed train running between Detroit and Port Huron.

The conductor gave the boy Edison the air when some of his chemicals, with which he was making experiments in spare moments, exploded and set a box car on fire.

There were eight in the Edison party, including Mrs. Edison, their son, Charles, and his wife. Mr. Ford greeted them, and a moment later Mrs. Ford appeared.

Thereafter, the inventor and the manufacturer strolled about the village, which still is in process of construction.

Inventor Is Touched.

As Mr. Edison entered his one time headquarters, reminiscent of the struggles and associations of another century, and which William Jehl, one of his first assistants, had put in its original order, his lips trembled as he turned to Mr. Ford and thanked him.

"It is almost unbelievably faithful," he said.

In the laboratory all was so restored that Edison sometimes carried himself back over the fifty years that are gone.

He spoke of an old carpenter friend in Menlo Park.

"Yes, he lived over there," he commented, pointing from a window.

As he looked over Ford's Institute of Technology, constructed and named in his honor, he picked up one of the mercury vacuum pumps.

"There's something I've been look-

Two hundred and fifty aliens, who abused the privileges of freedom which America offered to them, left Chicago last night in four coaches on the Nickel Plate railroad, under a heavy armed guard, on their way to Ellis island and thence to their native lands. Among the 250 deportees were 45 from Chicago, including Giuseppi Accardi, Genna gangster known as "Il Spia" [the spy].

The Chicago deportees filled two coaches, while the other two coaches came in from the west, bringing undesirable aliens from St. Louis, Kansas City and other cities as far west as Seattle where the deportation special started. They were joined here by fifteen men from Iowa and Wisconsin.

Chicagoans in Group.

Many of the Chicago group had been under arrest and in jail awaiting the deportation train and were taken to the La Salle street station by officers of the immigration service here. According to immigration officials, most of the others had been at liberty under bond to appear at the train, while a few had been at liberty on their own recognizance. According to officials at the station, all of the men who were not in custody at the time appeared in time to board the train, which left at 11:20 p. m.

The windows of the four coaches were heavily barred and guards were stationed on each car. The train was to make several stops between here and Buffalo to pick up a few eastern aliens. Among those who left from Chicago were a number of convicts whose sentences had been commuted to permit the federal government to send them out of the country. Others included insane persons, gunmen and keepers of vice resorts. Two women who came to Chicago after entering the country illegally also were with those deported from here.

Attached to Gennas.

Accardi is one of the first important gangsters to be sent out of Chicago. Sought for almost three years, he was arrested several days ago on a prohibition charge, and turned over to immigration agents. He admitted being in the country illegally, saying he had deserted an Italian ship, on which he was a sailor, when it touched at New York several years ago.

Picked up by police in 1928, Accardi was found to have been a collector for the defense fund of John Scalsi and Albert Anselmi, Genna gunmen then awaiting trial for the murder of two policemen. Both were murdered last spring. Accardi was released on bond pending a hearing, forfeited his bail, and was a fugitive until last week. He will be sent back to Italy.

CHINA ORDERS ITS FREAK DRESSERS FINED OR JAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Oct. 19.—China's reformers have decided that something must be done about the spread of freakish dress among men and women in this country, and have prevailed upon the government at Nanking to make the wearing of "queer dress" a criminal offense, punishable by fines or jail sentences.

The mandate issued by Nanking says all Chinese know what they ought to wear, and it is not necessary to tell them in detail what is improper.

"People with a bent for the novel and queer have gone so far as to adopt strange styles and don curious looking costumes," says the mandate. "Their example has been widely emulated, with the result that the entire nation is crazy over novel clothes. If this state of affairs is allowed to continue, not only will the morale of the people be reduced, but China will become a laughing stock of the world in things sartorial."

LAUNCHES FIRST MOVE TO START A STATE BANK

Hermann Calls for Chain Inquiry.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—As the first step in his move to bring about creation of a state bank to handle state, city and county deposits, Supervisor George J. Hermann will present a resolution to the county board Tuesday calling for an investigation into chain banking.

Mr. Hermann's proposal is actuated, he said, by the fact that the state, cities and counties received only 2 per cent interest on their deposits with the banks, whereas the banks charge 6 per cent when any of these governments wish to borrow money.

Calls It an Injustice.

"When the report of the investigation into chain banking methods is presented to the county board, I shall recommend that the county demand a higher interest rate on its deposits," the supervisor said. "It is a public injustice for the banks to pay only 2 per cent on deposits which they send down to Wall street to earn them 8 to 15 per cent in brokers' loans. I'd rather see the public funds put in a vault with a watchman to guard them, earning nothing, than to permit the banks to grow rich on them and insult us with their 2 per cent."

Mr. Hermann believes that a state bank, with as many branches as might be needed, should be created, and he plans to take this proposal to the county board with the view of preparing a bill for the next legislature. This state bank, he said, could handle all state, county and municipal funds at 4 or 5 per cent and could in turn lend money to various counties or cities at the same rate. The bank also could invest deposits and continue in the call money market at higher rates, he said.

Lend to Loan Companies.

Furthermore, the state bank could lend money to building and loan companies at a lower rate than existing commercial banks charge, this aiding the public at large, the supervisor believes.

"I am told by many building supply dealers that there is very little building going on in Milwaukee now because of the high rate of interest, charged the building and loan companies by the banks," Mr. Hermann said. "They have to pay the banks from 5½ to 8 per cent, and the rate at which they can afford to lend to the builders is too high."

Mr. Hermann pointed out that the state has at all times from ten to fifteen millions on deposit, Milwaukee county three to five millions, and Milwaukee city several millions. These deposits, together with those of the other seventy counties in the state and all the other municipalities, constitute an enormous amount and could be invested and made to earn money for the public instead of for private banks, he said.

Nothing Against Chains

"I have nothing against the local banking chain," said Mr. Hermann, "for I realize that they had to combine to prevent incursions of surrounding interests. The Bank of Italy and the St. Paul group threatened to come into Wisconsin and the first Wisconsin company is fully justified in organizing a holding company for representative local banks.

"However, the fact remains that we lend our money to the banks at 2 per cent and pay 6 when we wish to borrow, and the banks are enriching themselves by investing cheap, public money at a high rate in the call money market. There also is no assurance that even this condition will last. It may grow worse. This chain movement is spreading everywhere and it is entirely probable that one bank, such as the National City, will eventually emerge in control of all the others.

Sees Peril to Public Interest.

"Such a prospect is a menace to the public interest, and it is time for counties and municipalities to begin looking out for themselves. I do not profess to be a banking wizard, but it takes only common sense to see the difference between 2 and 6 per cent and to see that the public could profit on brokers' loans just as well as the banks. The chain bankers deny that they are merging and insist that they are combining their resources in the interest of the individual bank, but nobody believes that there is any philanthropy back of their activities."

Mr. Hermann's resolution Tuesday

Good Fellowship Club in Recital Next Sunday Night

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Good Fellowship club of St. Mary Magdalen church will sponsor a recital program by Victor Mika next Sunday, Oct. 27, at 8:30 p. m., in the church auditorium.

Mr. Mika's program will consist of three groups of songs in English, Polish and Italian. The English will be selections by Grieg, Lao Silesu, Bartlett, and Moya; the Polish, arias from The Enchanted Forest, by Grossman, and the Italian, arias from Rigoletto and Pagliacci.

This is the second program sponsored by the Good Fellowship club this season. The aim of the club and its purpose is to bring before the people the operas of all nations and especially as rendered by the younger generation of artists. The club is under the direction of the Rev. B. B. Dykowski.

2 BRONZE GOAT HEADS, 3,000 YRS. OLD, FOR MUSEUM

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Announcement of the receipt by the University of Pennsylvania museum of two bronze heads of goats, said to be more than 3,000 years old, and an ancient Babylonion boundary stone bearing an inscription referring to King Nebuchadnezzar, was made today by Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the museum.

The ancient relics came to the museum through a bequest of the late Herman V. Hilprecht, who excavated them in Babylonia during his explorations there.

Mr. Jayne said the bronze heads were among the most notable works of art ever brought from Mesopotamia. They were discovered by Dr. Hilprecht in 1900 at the site of ancient Fara and represent the wild Asiatic goat characterized by its spirally twisted horns. The eyes are inlaid with shell and similar markings are apparent around the throat.

Arrest Milwaukee Lawyer at Waukesha as "Masher"

Waukesha, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Burton Perrigo, a Milwaukee lawyer, obtained a continuance in Municipal court here today on a charge of disorderly conduct. Perrigo was accused of making overtures to three young women when he drove his car to the curb where they were standing. The policeman testified that when he approached the group Perrigo started his car and attempted to depart. When he refused to obey the officer's command to halt the latter fled his revolver in the air. Perrigo then stopped and was taken to the county jail.

700 School Teachers Hold Convention at Fond Du Lac

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Nearly 700 school board members, teachers and student teachers were in attendance here today at the annual convention of Fond du Lac county rural school boards. Dr. G. V. Gudex of the state board of health was the principal speaker.

Auto Dealer Is Killed as His Car Turns Over

Elkhorn, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Arthur Ketterhagen, 38, automobile dealer at East Troy, Wis., died in Burlington hospital tonight of injuries suffered when his car turned over with him. Hial Peck, 45, farmer, who was with him, is not expected to live.

EDISON LAMP'S JUBILEE BEGINS HERE TOMORROW

Fountain Light Display to Mark Observance.

"Light's Golden Jubilee"—the 50th anniversary of Edison's discovery of the incandescent electric light—will be celebrated tomorrow night and the rest of this week with spectacular display of lights around Buckingham fountain in Grant park.

Messages of congratulation to Edison will be written on the clouds tomorrow night through the medium of a new sky writing gun which will shoot the messages from the ground.

Story of Discovery.

Edison perfected the incandescent light on Oct. 21, 1879, and THE TRIBUNE for Dec. 31, 1879, under the heading "Edison's Carbon Horseshoe Light," says:

"The following correspondence has passed between THE TRIBUNE and the Menlo Park wizard:

"'Tribune Office, Chicago, Dec. 30, 11 a. m.—To Prof. Thomas A. Edison, Menlo Park, N. J.: How long have your first lighted carbon horseshoe electric lamps given continuous light? —Editor, Tribune.'

"'Menlo Park, N. J., Dec. 30,' 4 p. m.—To J. Medill, Editor CHICAGO TRIBUNE: One week today, and still burning.—Edison.'"

Discusses New Light.

To this exchange of messages, Mr. Medill added these deductions:

"One week is 168 hours. The time that gas is burned in families, stores, and shops, averaging the seasons, summer, fall, spring and winter, will not exceed four and one-half hours per day. A week's continuous burning is, therefore, rather more than thirty-seven days, or five weeks of ordinary use of gaslight. If the duration of the carbon horseshoe burned did not exceed 168 hours it would still be the light of the future and substitute gas to an enormous extent, as a new burner could well be put in once every five or six weeks, but the chances now are that it will last much longer. Perhaps it will burn continuously for months."

The principal celebration of Edison's discovery will take place tomorow evening in Dearborn, Mich., a suburb of Detroit, where Edison will reenact his construction of the first light before a group of distinguished men, including President Hoover, at a party given by Henry Ford. Edison is past 82.

DOCTOR FREED OF WOMAN'S CHARGE.

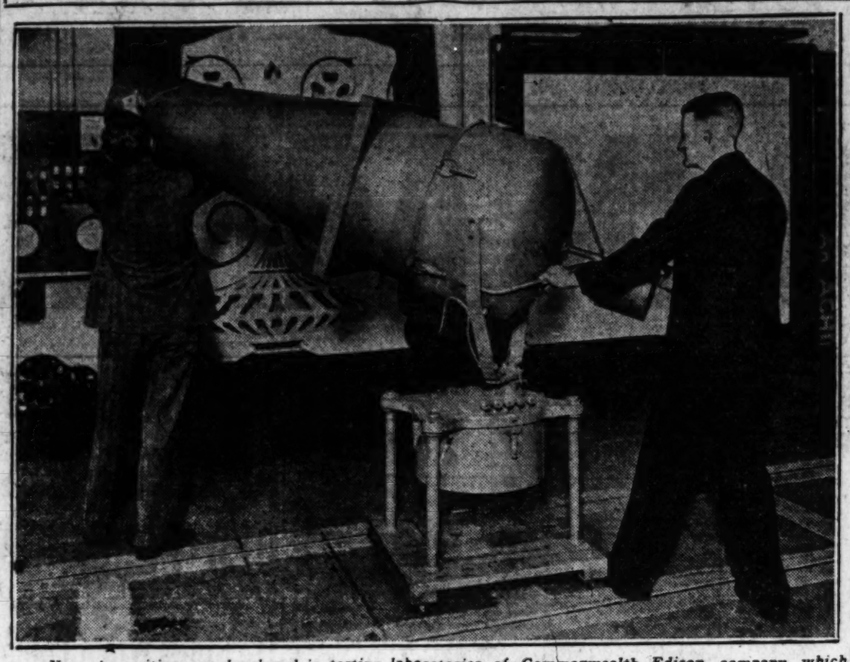
Gun to Write Edison Greetings on Sky Tomorrow



New sky writing gun developed in testing laboratories of Commonwealth Edison company, which will be used tomorrow night to flash greeting on the sky in connection with the Edison celebration. If there are no clouds the operators make them with smoke bombs. Carl Zersen (left) and Walter A. Meares are handling the gun, which uses metal slides and projects letters fifty feet high 1,000 feet away by means of a 3,000,000 candle power searchlight reflector.

ing for," he said. "I had it 50 years ago, but since then had forgotten it entirely and have been looking for it recently to use in my work. Here it is, and so I say I'm your first pupil in the Edison Institute of Technology."

Shortly after noon, Mr. Edison retired to the Ford residence. He said he was tired and expected to rest the remainder of the day and Sunday, in preparation for the arduous schedule Monday.

The public and most parochial schools of Detroit and suburban cities will close to permit the children to see the procession in which the President will be the central figure. The procession will wind to the city hall from Dearborn. Courts and city offices will be closed.

HOOVER STARTS TODAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover will leave Washington late tomorrow for his first trip to the central and Mississippi valley states since his inauguration last March.

Before Mr. Hoover returns to Washington next Thursday he will have delivered three set speeches, the first in Detroit, the second in Cincinnati, and the third in Louisville, Ky. The itinerary calls for stops in four states, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

The presidential party will include Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of War James W. Good, George Akerson, the President's secretary; naval and military aids, secret service men, and a large group of newspaper men.

Speaker Longworth [Rep., O.], will accompany the party from Cincinnati to Louisville, traveling with the President.

OHIO CANALIZATION IS MARKED BY BOAT TRIPS DOWN STREAM

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—[U. P.]—Guided by the flagship, City of Cincinnati, the 925 mile trip to Cairo, Ill., marking the canalization of the Ohio river, was started today. The Greater Pittsburgh and the Queen City followed, bearing Allegheny county authorities and guests.

On board the Queen City were Mayor Charles H. Kline, the mayors of three Allegheny county cities, burgesses, politicians and other guests. They chose the county boat in preference to the packet chartered by official Pittsburgh.

Only one stop has been scheduled en route to Cincinnati. City officials and river enthusiasts at Huntington, W. Va., will be at the wharf tomorrow to greet the cruising party. A three hour halt will be made there for appropriate ceremonies. The boats were scheduled to arrive in Cincinnati some time Monday.

TALKS FROM HIGH IN AIR TO PHONE MEN BY RADIO

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Talking from an airplane 4,000 feet in the air and 1,300 miles away, Capt. A. R. Brooks today addressed the annual convention of the telephone pioneers of America in Minneapolis.

A combination of radio and land telephone lines, which connected New York, Minneapolis and the airplane into a single circuit, thus added another milestone to the progress of communication. It was the first time and airplane was "bridged" into a connection between two distant points.

The Bell Telephone laboratories radio station at Whippany, N. J., was the link between the plane, which was flying over New Brunswick, N. J., at a speed of 95 miles an hour, and the land telephone lines leading to a listening post in New York and to the convention in Minneapolis. There loud speakers made the aviator's voice audible to the thousand assembled pioneers.

Incidentally, Capt. Brooks notified J. S. McCulloh, president of the New York Telephone company, of his election as president of the pioneers. Mr. McCulloh accepted.

JESSE JAMES WOULD BLUSH!

PRINCESS ALICE SCORES VICTORY IN HER OWN TOWN

Washington Feud Goes to Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Score one for Princess Alice Roosevelt in her gentle spat with Dolly Gann. This time fate, or the strategic place she holds as a resident of Cincinnati has played into her hands.

When President and Mrs. Hoover came here on Tuesday to dedicate the canalized Ohio river they will pay their respects to Speaker Nicholas Longworth by a visit to his home in Walnut Hills.

Announcement a Surprise.

This announcement was unexpected. It came late this afternoon along with a flock of last minute advices and instructions from Washington relative to arrangements for the President's address Tuesday morning.

The public had been led to believe the President would make as little ceremony about the visit as possible, in view of the crowded program of river activity Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some believed that the chief executive feared to shatter the Longworth-Gann truce by showing an interest in Walnut Hills. But Mrs. Gann does not live here and Mrs. Longworth does. So what's a truce in the face of such heaven sent opportunity.

Mrs. Longworth in Capital.

It appears that this latest strategy was put over by Mrs. Longworth herself, as she still is in Washington, where the announcement was made. Speaker Longworth is in Cincinnati, but Mrs. Longworth is expected here before Tuesday.

Definite announcement was made that the United States lighthouse Greenbrier, and not the steamer Mississippi, will be the official boat of President and Mrs. Hoover on the cruise to Louisville.

TRY TO PLACE OIL 'SCANDAL UPON HARDING

Letter President Wrote Quoted at Trial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Evidence in the Fall $100,000 bribery case closed today. The defense in an eleventh hour made an effort to place full responsibility for the former secretary of the interior's naval oil reserve leasing policies on the late President Harding. Theretofore the defense had thrown sole responsibility on another dead man—the late secretary of the navy, Denby—and the former President's name had been only casually mentioned.

Fall, apparently recovered from a supposed attack of pneumonia since the trial got under way two weeks ago, declined to testify in his own behalf, and what the government considers the strongest case made out against any of the defendants in the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair oil scandal litigation will go to the jury late Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Argument on Monday.

Sheafs of instructions to the jury, submitted by opposing counsel, were ruled on this afternoon by Justice William Hitz in anticipation of six hours of final arguments to the jury beginning Monday morning, with the time, it was agreed this afternoon, to be equally divided between the prosecution and the defense.

At the last minute today the defense, over the vigorous objections of Special Prosecutors Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, succeeded in getting before the jury President Harding's letter of June 7, 1922, transmitting to the senate Fall's accounting of his stewardship of the navy's emergency oil reserves.

Prior to introduction of the letter and throughout the trial the defense contended that the Elk Hills, Cal., reserve lease awarded to E. L. Doheny, from whom Fall is charged with having accepted a $100,000 bribe, was executed in accordance with a policy formulated by the late Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby and after negotiations in which Fall played little or no part. The only prior mention of Harding's name during the trial was in connection with the identification of his executive orders transferring control of naval oil reserves from the navy department to the interior department.

Harding Writes Approval.

Fall's report was submitted in response to the now famous La Follette resolution of April 29, 1922, which ultimately exposed the oil scandals, and in the letter of transmission to the senate, effectively read to the jury this morning, the late President said in part:

"I think it is only fair to say in this connection that the policy which has been adopted by the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior in dealing with these matters was submitted to me prior to the adoption threof and the policy decided upon and the subsequent acts have at all times had my entire approval."

Introduction of the Harding letter was no more of a surprise than the failure of the defense to make any attempt to controvert the highly important evidence offered by the government tending to link Fall's financial dealings with Doheny and the transaction out of which he secured $304,600 from H. F. Sinclair, whose Mammoth Oil company was given a lease on the navy's Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

For the first time in any of the oil scandal prosecutions a single jury has heard the whole story of the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair deals and how Fall was reported to be taking money at the same time from two oil men who were seeking valuable concessions from the government. One jury, not allowed to know of the deal with Doheny, acquitted Sinclair of conspiracy to defraud the government. Another, ignorant of the Sinclair transaction, acquitted Fall and Doheny of conspiracy.

War Scare Ignored.

As in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial, the case will go to the jury without the production of facts about the Japanese war scare of 1921 which Doheny, a chief defense witness, insisted inspired him to seek drilling rights in the Elk Hills reserve and to undertake construction of fuel oil storage for the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a patriotic measure.

Chief Defense Counsel Frank J. Hogan succeeded, however, in getting over to the jury the impression that such a scare actually existed by calling upon Capt. H. A. Stuart, U. S. N., to testify that Secretary of the Navy Adams refused to allow production of a report of Rear Admiral A. R. Gleaves, chief of the Asiatic squadron in 1921, on the ground that "it would be incompatible with the public interest."

Wife's Testimony Barred.

Another last minute decision of the defense to use Fall's wife and his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase, in an effort to clinch its contention that the $100,000 paid Fall by Doheny was merely an "innocent loan" to tide the ex-cabinet member over temporary financial difficulties, was frustrated by the government.

Objections halted Mrs. Fall before she could tell the jury what Fall said and did when the late E. L. Doheny Jr. brought him $100,000 in cash in the "little black bag". Mrs. Chase was not allowed to finish what promised to be a pathetic recollection of her father's joy at the prospect, with Doheny's money in hand, of wiping out troublesome debts and enlarging the New Mexico homestead.

J. C. Anderson, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, of which Doheny, his brother-in-law, was formerly the chairman, occupied the stand for nearly an hour with his story of the negotiations which resulted in his company's acceptance of a contract to build oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor in return for preferential drilling right in Elk Hills reserve.

Robison Finally Yields.

He told how the then Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, formerly chief of the navy bureau of engineering, nearly broke up the negotiations with a demand for much higher royalties for the government than Doheny was willing to concede. Robison finally yielded after a row with Doheny, who insisted in standing upon a schedule of royalties submitted by H. Foster Bain, then chief of the interior department bureau of mines, who represented Fall in the negotiations. Robison, when he was cross-examined by government counsel, admitted his understanding that the Bain schedule had been agreed upon by Fall and Doheny in some as yet undisclosed conference.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pilots Gather

Pilots from many air centers in the middle west flew into Chicago yesterday and last evening were grooming their planes for participation in the air pageant to be presented this afternoon at the dedication of the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. The dedicatory program will start at 1 o'clock and continue until 6.

The new Curtiss Condor, 18 passenger transport ship, was scheduled to leave New York late last night for an overnight flight to the airport here, carrying officials of the Curtiss organization. While no word had been received last night from Col. Lindbergh, who had been invited to attend the opening, it was considered likely that, following his usual policy of silence regarding his plans, he would arrive in time for the festivities.

Fifty of the country's best known pilots are expected to take part in the show this afternoon. Many of them will arrive in the planes they are flying in the national reliability tour. The 26 planes in the tour are due to fly into Curtiss field at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

PLAN TO REVISE 5 YEAR PROGRAM OF U. S. DEFENSE

Air Will Be Given a Special Effort.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An investigation of the administration and effectiveness of the national defense act of 1920 will be undertaken by the house military affairs committee this winter, it was disclosed today by Representative Frank James [Rep., Mich.], its prospective chairman. The purpose of the inquiry is to bring the act, upon which the land defenses of the nation are based, up to date by new legislation, if necessary.

The army's five year building program, together with the army housing situation, is also slated to be investigated by the committee, Mr. James revealed.

Will Study Air Program.

Special attention, Mr. James said, would be devoted to the adequacy of the army's air building program when considered in the light of recent developments which have shown that both the Atlantic and Pacific can be spanned by aircraft. Panama canal air defenses will also be looked into.

"When we take up the national defense act," Representative James said, "we will study its provisions and their application with a view to determining whether or not its provisions are being carried out properly and whether or not it will be necessary to abolish any of its provisions or add new ones to bring it up to date in view of the present and future needs and the experience thus far gained in its administration."

Discussing the air end of the projected inquiry, Mr. James said that attention would be given to the possibility of adding to the present five year program.

No Longer an Island.

"We will first see if the program is up to date," Mr. James said. "Then we will endeavor to find out if the five year program went far enough. At the time we were considering the program, war department experts told us that we were on an air island and immune from air attack from across either ocean. Now we know planes can fly across the ocean. Lindbergh and many others have flown the Atlantic. The flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Japan across the Pacific has shown the possibilities of lighter-than-air craft and that they can carry airplanes is a demonstrated fact."

Representative James believes more planes should be provided for defense of the Panama canal.

HERO OF OFFENSIVE ON HAMEL DIES AS RESULT OF SERVICE

Lieut. Frank A. Koljane died yesterday in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital from illness traceable to his service in the world war. He was a hero of the battle of Hamel, the first offensive on European soil by Illinois troops. It was there that Americans from the Prairie state won the admiration of the Australians for their dash and their courage.

Lieut. Koljane went to France a "top kick" in the 132d infantry, 33d division. He was sent into the Hamel salient on March 21, 1918, and on July 4, during furious fighting in which 1,000 Americans went into the line with the Australians, he assisted Lieut. Harry Yagle and two of the Anzacs in capturing a machine gun nest which was doing heavy damage.

For his valor, Lieut. Koljane was given the distinguished service cross and King George V. personally decorated him at Molliens Au Bois.

Lieut. Koljone was past commander of the Combat Medal Men's association and a member of Forges post of the American Legion. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 2326 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

AIR TOUR FLYERS AT MILWAUKEE; DUE HERE TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The 25 contestants in the national reliability air tour landed here for an overnight stop today, with John Livingston the theoretical winner.

Livingston made a perfect score in the flight from St. Paul today and unless some unforeseen incident eliminates him he will be declared the victor. Art Davis is his closest competitor. Both are flying Waco planes. A crowd of 5,000 witnessed the arrival of the contestants and accompanying planes.

The planes left St. Paul at 10 a. m. stopped at Wausau, Wis., for luncheon. A heavy fog forced six planes to land near Chippewa Falls, Wis. All arrived at Wausau without further incident.

The next leg of the itinerary will take the flyers to Moline, Ill., and Chicago. They will leave Milwaukee at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

BOARD REVOKES CLYDE H. TENNIS' REALTY LICENSE

The real estate license of Clyde H. Tennis, Detroit and Chicago realty promoter with offices at 1800 Washington boulevard, was revoked yesterday following a hearing by the real estate committee of the Illinois board of education and registration. The action was taken on complaint of Miss Ellen Elgar, 40 years old, 6240 Ingleside avenue, who charged she gave Tennis $2,200 last February for the purchase of land in Texas. She said Tennis refused to supply a deed or refund the money.

Tennis, with Mrs. Florence Shaver, secretary of the Clyde Tennis Land company, was held up on Sept. 26 in Mrs. Shaver's apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive by two men who tied them up with sheets and took jewelry which Mrs. Shaver valued at $32,000.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Evidence in the Fall $100,000 bribery case closed today. As in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial, the case will go to the jury without the production of facts about the Japanese war scare of 1921 which Doheny, a chief defense witness, insisted inspired him to seek drilling rights in the Elk Hills reserve and to undertake construction of fuel oil storage for the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a patriotic measure.

Chief Defense Counsel Frank J. Hogan succeeded, however, in getting over to the jury the impression that such a scare actually existed by calling upon Capt. H. A. Stuart, U. S. N., to testify that Secretary of the Navy Adams refused to allow production of a report of Rear Admiral A. R. Gleaves, chief of the Asiatic squadron in 1921, on the ground that "it would be incompatible with the public interest."

Wife's Testimony Barred.

Another last minute decision of the defense to use Fall's wife and his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase, in an effort to clinch its contention that the $100,000 paid Fall by Doheny was merely an "innocent loan" to tide the ex-cabinet member over temporary financial difficulties, was frustrated by the government.

Objections halted Mrs. Fall before she could tell the jury what Fall said and did when the late E. L. Doheny Jr. brought him $100,000 in cash in the "little black bag". Mrs. Chase was not allowed to finish what promised to be a pathetic recollection of her father's joy at the prospect, with Doheny's money in hand, of wiping out troublesome debts and enlarging the New Mexico homestead.

J. C. Anderson, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, of which Doheny, his brother-in-law, was formerly the chairman, occupied the stand for nearly an hour with his story of the negotiations which resulted in his company's acceptance of a contract to build oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor in return for preferential drilling right in Elk Hills reserve.

Robison Finally Yields.

He told how the then Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, formerly chief of the navy bureau of engineering, nearly broke up the negotiations with a demand for much higher royalties for the government than Doheny was willing to concede. Robison finally yielded after a row with Doheny, who insisted in standing upon a schedule of royalties submitted by H. Foster Bain, then chief of the interior department bureau of mines, who represented Fall in the negotiations. Robison, when he was cross-examined by government counsel, admitted his understanding that the Bain schedule had been agreed upon by Fall and Doheny in some as yet undisclosed conference.

LARGEST AIRPORT IN THE MIDDLE WEST WILL BE DEDICATED AT GLENVIEW TODAY

General view of the Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview, showing the hangar and clubhouse at the left and planes on the runways at the right. The field will be dedicated today with an air circus in which 200 pilots will take part. The planes in the Ford reliability tour will also visit the airport during the afternoon when they arrive from Moline.

Pilots Gather

Pilots from many air centers in the middle west flew into Chicago yesterday and last evening were grooming their planes for participation in the air pageant to be presented this afternoon at the dedication of the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. The dedicatory program will start at 1 o'clock and continue until 6.

The new Curtiss Condor, 18 passenger transport ship, was scheduled to leave New York late last night for an overnight flight to the airport here, carrying officials of the Curtiss organization. While no word had been received last night from Col. Lindbergh, who had been invited to attend the opening, it was considered likely that, following his usual policy of silence regarding his plans, he would arrive in time for the festivities.

Fifty of the country's best known pilots are expected to take part in the show this afternoon. Many of them will arrive in the planes they are flying in the national reliability tour. The 26 planes in the tour are due to fly into Curtiss field at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

PLAN TO REVISE 5 YEAR PROGRAM OF U. S. DEFENSE

Air Will Be Given a Special Effort.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An investigation of the administration and effectiveness of the national defense act of 1920 will be undertaken by the house military affairs committee this winter, it was disclosed today by Representative Frank James [Rep., Mich.], its prospective chairman. The purpose of the inquiry is to bring the act, upon which the land defenses of the nation are based, up to date by new legislation, if necessary.

The army's five year building program, together with the army housing situation, is also slated to be investigated by the committee, Mr. James revealed.

Will Study Air Program.

Special attention, Mr. James said, would be devoted to the adequacy of the army's air building program when considered in the light of recent developments which have shown that both the Atlantic and Pacific can be spanned by aircraft. Panama canal air defenses will also be looked into.

"When we take up the national defense act," Representative James said, "we will study its provisions and their application with a view to determining whether or not its provisions are being carried out properly and whether or not it will be necessary to abolish any of its provisions or add new ones to bring it up to date in view of the present and future needs and the experience thus far gained in its administration."

Discussing the air end of the projected inquiry, Mr. James said that attention would be given to the possibility of adding to the present five year program.

No Longer an Island.

"We will first see if the program is up to date," Mr. James said. "Then we will endeavor to find out if the five year program went far enough. At the time we were considering the program, war department experts told us that we were on an air island and immune from air attack from across either ocean. Now we know planes can fly across the ocean. Lindbergh and many others have flown the Atlantic. The flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Japan across the Pacific has shown the possibilities of lighter-than-air craft and that they can carry airplanes is a demonstrated fact."

Representative James believes more planes should be provided for defense of the Panama canal.

3,000 AMAZON PLANTS FOR MUSEUM.

HERO OF OFFENSIVE ON HAMEL DIES AS RESULT OF SERVICE

Lieut. Frank A. Koijane died yesterday in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital from illness traceable to his service in the world war. He was a hero of the battle of Hamel, the first offensive on European soil by Illinois troops. It was there that Americans from the Prairie state won the admiration of the Australians for their dash and their courage.

Lieut. Koijane went to France a "top kick" in the 132d infantry, 33d division. He was sent into the Hamel salient on March 21, 1918, and on July 4, during furious fighting in which 1,000 Americans went into the line with the Australians, he assisted Lieut. Harry Yagle and two of the Anzacs in capturing a machine gun nest which was doing heavy damage.

For his valor, Lieut. Koijane was given the distinguished service cross and King George V. personally decorated him at Molliens Au Bois.

Lieut. Koijone was past commander of the Combat Medal Men's association and a member of Forges post of the American Legion. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 2326 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

AIR TOUR FLYERS AT MILWAUKEE; DUE HERE TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The 25 contestants in the national reliability air tour landed here for an overnight stop today, with John Livingston the theoretical winner.

Livingston made a perfect score in the flight from St. Paul today and unless some unforeseen incident eliminates him he will be declared the victor. Art Davis is his closest competitor. Both are flying Waco planes. A crowd of 5,000 witnessed the arrival of the contestants and accompanying planes.

The planes left St. Paul at 10 a. m. stopped at Wausau, Wis., for luncheon. A heavy fog forced six planes to land near Chippewa Falls, Wis. All arrived at Wausau without further incident.

The next leg of the itinerary will take the flyers to Moline, Ill., and Chicago. They will leave Milwaukee at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

BOARD REVOKES CLYDE H. TENNIS' REALTY LICENSE

The real estate license of Clyde H. Tennis, Detroit and Chicago realty promoter with offices at 1800 Washington boulevard, was revoked yesterday following a hearing by the real estate committee of the Illinois board of education and registration. The action was taken on complaint of Miss Ellen Elgar, 40 years old, 6240 Ingleside avenue, who charged she gave Tennis $2,200 last February for the purchase of land in Texas. She said Tennis refused to supply a deed or refund the money.

Tennis, with Mrs. Florence Shaver, secretary of the Clyde Tennis Land company, was held up on Sept. 26 in Mrs. Shaver's apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive by two men who tied them up with sheets and took jewelry which Mrs. Shaver valued at $32,000.

2 STILLS IN AUTO; HE'S SEIZED.

Louis Goldstein, 2000 West 13th street, was arrested by the Oak Park police yesterday when two 150 gallon stills were found in his automobile.

DEATH PURSUES YOUNG BROTHERS AND TAKES BOTH

One Slain as He Grieves Over Loss of Other.

His younger brother, Sammy, 14 years old, had been killed on Thursday in an automobile accident, and John Fiore, a moody youth of 16 years, was a pallbearer at the funeral yesterday.

John was melancholy in his home at 2807 Arthington street last evening and refused his supper. About 8 o'clock he took his hat and coat, informing the family he intended revisiting the neighborhood at Taylor and Sangamon streets where the Fiores were born and reared.

His parents, believing a visit with his boyhood companions might soothe his sorrow, let him go. Fifteen minutes later John was dead.

Meets Old School Rival.

The first acquaintance he met was Thomas Moretti, 16 years old, a senior student at McKinley High school. They had been antagonists in the parochial school years before and the old resentment flared anew on Moretti's part.

They squared away for fisticuffs and fought five minutes until Moretti, having exhausted himself in battering Fiore's face, fled to his home at 926 Taylor street. Fiore was standing on the front steps, challenging Joseph Moretti to send his son out to finish the combat, when the younger Moretti appeared with a pistol.

Boy Shot Three Times.

The first shot pierced Fiore's chest. He was turning to flee when two more bullets struck him in the back. He died a few minutes later in the Mother Cabrini hospital.

While the Maxwell police were hunting the slayer his mother, Mrs. Camilla Moretti, brought him into the station. Moretti declared he used the pistol only after Fiore and three others attacked him, but his father contradicted the tale. Moretti was locked up on a murder charge and his victim's body was taken home.

BOY SHOT TO DEATH IN FEUD

John Fiore, 16 years old, 2807 Arthington street (left), who was shot to death, and Thomas Moretti, 16 years old, 926 Taylor street, who is held at the Maxwell street station as the slayer.

NEW YORK IS FORMING ARMY OF WET VOTERS

New York, Oct. 19.—Mobilization of a wet army to do legislative battle every day in the year is well under way in New York state, it was disclosed today. A nonpartisan organization, with former Senator James W. Wadsworth as its general, is being assembled to carry on active warfare against the state drys. The army is arrayed against no party, but it will follow political dividing lines with the assembly district as the unit. Prominent Democrats as well as Republicans form the commanding staff of the forces.

The first step of the aggressive wet crusade, according to the present plan, will be a statewide attempt to reduce the dry strength in the legislature and increase the wet strength there.

GERMANY BUYS MOVIE COMPANY FOR PROPAGANDA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—In order to show the nation pictures favorable to the republic, the German government has bought control of 61 per cent of the Emelka company, the second biggest movies company in Germany. It is reported the price was about $750,000.

The republic's arch enemy, Alfred Hugenberg, who controls the country's biggest film company, Ufa, endeavored to secure control of the Emelka company.

Although the latter has not been a moneymaker for the last year, the cabinet at a conference decided it better to buy up the Emelka company and its theaters at a stiff price than to let Dr. Hugenberg acquire it.

TRANS-ATLANTIC ZEPPELIN LINE IS INCORPORATED

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune tomorrow will say the day of regular transoceanic Zeppelin service, carrying passengers, mail, and possibly small freight, has been brought nearer by the incorporation in Delaware yesterday of the International Zeppelin Transport company, backed by the National City bank interests.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, has been in Europe conferring with German bankers, the Herald-Tribune will say, and it is believed German capital will participate in the development of the service.

7 BANKS USED BY RUM RING MUST PRODUCE BOOKS

May Shed Light on Capone Check.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special]—Government agents will go before a federal grand jury at Trenton, N. J., on Tuesday bearing documentary evidence of the part played by seven banks in the operation of the so-called north Atlantic rum ring.

William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, today announced that the records of the seven banks had been subpœnaed, naming two of the banks. One is the Bank of America, in New York City. The other is the Federal Trust company of Newark. Officers of the financial institutions will be required to bring the records to Trenton to aid the grand jury.

Seek Light on Capone Check.

It is expected that this baring of records will throw light on the mysterious check Al Capone, notorious Chicago gangster, is said to have issued from his cell in a Philadelphia jail.

Capone stopped payment on the check, but the name of the rum chief to whom it was made out will be of interest to the investigating body.

Imminent arrests of several new figures among the "higher ups" in the rum ring were promised today by Mr. Calhoun. He announced that the three leaders of the syndicate named in the indictment but not yet arrested were expected to surrender at any moment. Four of the seven chief members of the ring among the thirty-four indicted have already been arrested. William and Al Lilien, brothers, and James Murphy, are the three still at large.

Prosecutor James M. Dunn of Passaic county, went to Newark to confer with Mr. Calhoun over the possibility of a link between the present liquor syndicate and the kidnaping of Willard H. Elliott, Passaic banker, last June. Elliott was missing six days and on his return he said he had been held captive by Chicago gunmen. This, together with the Capone check, suggested the possibility of Chicago underworld connections with both the syndicate and the kidnaping.

TWO $10,000 YACHTS LADEN WITH LIQUOR SEIZED AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Two 36 foot yachts, a lugger and approximately 300 cases of beer and 475 cases of whisky were seized in the Detroit river last night by coast guards and customs inspectors. The officers said the yachts were valued at $10,000 each.

Two men giving the names of Don Anright and Ray Hotch of Ecorse were arrested on the yachts.

Harry E. Dickinson, Trenton police chief, reported today that he was fired upon last night while searching the Detroit river for a duck hunter reported missing. The shots, according to the chief were fired by the crews of two unidentified boats.

The shooting was reported to coast guards at the Trenton base. George Parker, acting chief of the base, said today that coast guards reported firing to stop a boat in the river last night but he could not determine whether they shot at Chief Dickinson.

HOT DOG! HERE'S A FRANKFURTER FASHION REVIEW

Condiments and cosmetics for stylish hog dogs constitute one of the principal displays installed at the Drake hotel for the annual meeting of the American Institute of Meat Packers which opens for a two-day session tomorrow. Pre-convention sectional meetings were held yesterday and Friday.

The "cosmetic" display consists of bottles of coloring which determine the complexion of the frankfurter. There are seven shades of skin suggested, with innumerable color combinations. Attendants at the exhibit said the color line is clearly drawn on hot dogs in different sections of the country, the south preferring them more highly colored and more highly seasoned than the north.

Among the exhibits is a $2,500 machine, perfected at a cost of $250,000, which gives a twist to a long string of meat and transforms it into small individual sausages.

STAR WITNESS UPSETS STATE IN DOODY TRIAL

Mack Refuses to Identify His Pal as Slayer.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Eddie Maciejewski, alias Eddie Mack, sprang a sizzling surprise yesterday on the prosecuting attorneys in the trial of "Babyface" William Doody in the Criminal court building. Produced as a state's witness to identify Doody as his companion at the slaying of Police Chief Charles Levy of Berwyn, Mack upset the hitherto tranquil machinery of the trial by doing exactly the opposite.

Positive identification of the midget gunman had just previously been made by Sergt. Robert Soldat, Levy's partner in the attempted capture of the two men.

Sergeant Identifies Doody.

Soldat had risen in the witness box when asked to point out the second man he saw in the stolen car the night of last May 25, and stretching a long arm and a positive index finger toward the defendant, had asserted: "That's the man right there."

Eddie Mack had then been brought into the court room for the second time. On his first trip he had been identified by Capt. James Mikes as the prisoner captured by Soldat that night. This time he stood as before, in a neat dark blue suit and black shoes, twisting the palms of his hands together nervously.

"Is that the man you captured at the stolen car?" Soldat was asked.

"Yes, that's the fellow," Soldat answered, and Mack was led out of the court room.

Mack Takes the Stand.

He was back almost directly, for it proved that his identification by his captor had all but concluded the sergeant's testimony. A rumor had been circulated that Mack had agreed to turn state's evidence, and his appearance in the rôle of a witness seemed to confirm the report. He took the witness stand, and the clerk administered the oath. Hitching up the knees of his trousers, Mack sat down.

"What is your name?" began Prosecutor Ditchburne.

"Eddie Maciejewski."

"Where do you live?"

"At 4957 Justine street."

The courtroom was quiet, the spectators intent. Prosecutor Ditchburne rose and walked toward the bench.

"Have you been advised of your rights by a lawyer?" he asked the witness.

Asked to Speak Louder.

"I have," repl'ed Mack, whose voice was pitched even lower than Soldat's had been. It hardly reached the ears of Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, who requested him to speak louder. Judge Otto Kerner leaned one arm on the bench beside the witness box and looking down at the man in the chair, added:

"Yes. Please keep your voice up so that the last two gentlemen in the jury box can hear you."

The admonition did little or no good. Mack's voice was barely audible as he answered the next two queries, each of which carried its load of dynamite for the state case.

"Were you arrested in Berwyn the night of May 25 in a stolen car?"

"I was."

"Who was your companion that night?"

"A man whose name I believe is Dowdy."

Reply Jolts Prosecution.

For the space of half a minute there was utter silence in the courtroom. Ditchburne stood as though petrified, his hands in his pockets. State and defense lawyers were motionless. None of the spectators, apparently, caught by the tenseness of the drama they could barely perceive was taking place, due to the difficulty of distinguishing Mack's words, moved or spoke.

Cautiously, as though conscious of disaster but yet half disinclined to believe that the reply had been deliberate, Ditchburne took a couple of steps forward, bringing him directly in front of the rail of the witness box. His face was hardly two feet from that of Mack as he put his final question, deliberately.

"Do you see him anywhere in this courtroom?"

Mack did not hesitate, raise his voice, or turn his head. His eyes roved across that half of the courtroom in which Doody sat, but did not turn in the direction of the defendant, across the lawyer's table in the center of the courtroom.

Refuses to Identify Doody.

"I don't see him anywhere," the even, expressionless voice replied. The last few jurors knew what he had said more from the motion of his lips than from any sounds that came from them.

"That will be all," announced Ditchburne in a normal voice. On that dramatic note the day's proceedings ended. Judge Kerner adjourned court until tomorrow morning.

"The double-crossing rat," ejaculated Prosecutor Butler to reporters a moment later, as Mack was led through the swinging door near the witness box, back to his cell again. "He can't get away with a story like that. We have his statement, made the night he was arrested, naming Doody as the man who escaped, and we have the same statement which he made to us here yesterday."

Veteran Criminal court attaches pointed out that the prosecutors should have had sufficient warning that Mack intended to double cross them by his attitude when he was approached about his testimony ten minutes before he was taken to the witness stand.

"My lawyer has advised me to testify only if you put me on the stand as a state's witness," he told the prosecutors. "If you use me as a court's witness I will refuse to answer."

It was pointed out that some one had advised Mack that if he was called as a state's witness the prosecution would be legally bound by his testimony. As a witness called by the court he would be subject to vigorous cross-examination by the prosecutors in the event his testimony weakened their case. The state, however, will attempt by some method to cross-examine the witness tomorrow.

Attorney Frank A. McDonnell is Mack's lawyer and it was through him that the prosecution carried on the negotiations for the testimony.

Next in importance to the appearance of Mack on the stand was the description by Sergt. Soldat of the conditions under which he had seen a man he claims was Doody in the coupe as he stepped up to one side and Levy to the other.

"Describe the light at that time in that vicinity," he was directed by Butler.

"There was a street light at the corner of Clarence and 21st street, half a block ahead of the coupe," was the reply. "There was another light on the east corner, half a block back of us. There was a lighted vestibule in the apartment building where the car was parked, and it was almost directly in front of the door. Outside the door there were two lights on the wall of the apartment building.

"And as these two fellows stepped into the hot car, we went on either side, and opened the doors, and as we did that two lights in the back of the coupe flashed on. I saw these two men sitting in the front seat."

LAWYERS WILL START FIGHT TO CURB LOBBYISTS

Washington, D. C. Oct. 19.—(AP)—A move designed for "eliminating the lobbyist" will be made before the American Bar association in Memphis Monday by lawyers of the District of Columbia who will ask legislation restricting the designations "lawyer" and "counsellor-at-law" to bona fide practicing attorneys.

Major Julius I. Peyser, president of the district association, said there are large numbers of lobbyists who term themselves "lawyers" and obtain hearings they would not receive in any other way.

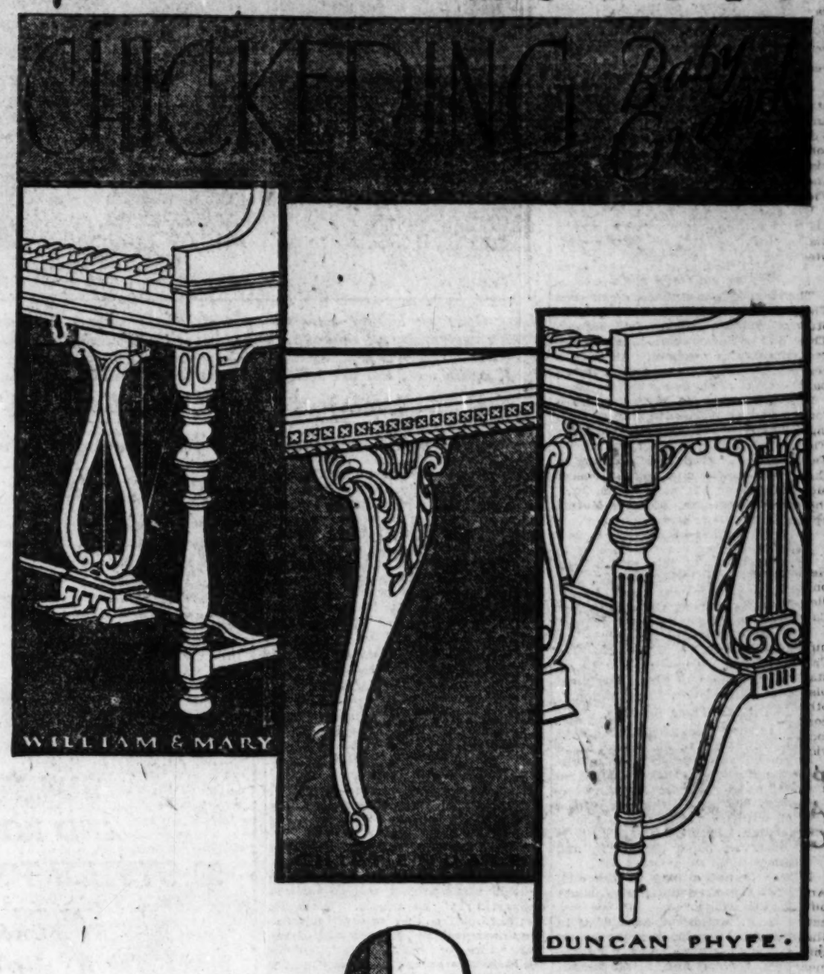
Exhibit 1930 PERIOD MODELS



OVER A CENTURY AGO . . . Chickering built the most ideal pianoforte then known. Today, Chickering is building the same ideal instrument in designs of the finest period conception. Contrast the dainty, beautiful 1930 Chickering period models in Chippendale—Duncan Phyfe—William & Mary—Florentine—Sheraton—with any other pianos and the difference in favor of Chickering is startling.

Chickering's 106 years of rigid adherence to highest quality standards; its 106 years in developing superior ability in designing the most artistic pianos for smartest homes, finds its full fruition in these 1930 Chickering models.

Exhibition Daily to 9 P. M.

COME in tomorrow, after dinner if more convenient. Inspect the Baby Grands that won the approval of leading decorators and the acceptance of smart people everywhere. Play them yourself—or let the marvelous Ampico release their gorgeous tone for your entertainment. You will get an entirely new conception of what a beautifully designed Baby Grand can add to the enchantment of your home.

Every Home May Own a Chickering

LIKE all other fine things—the best is always least expensive considering the many years of service. There is a Chickering within the means of everyone who really appreciates its fine quality.

Baby Grands as Low as $1095 only 10% need be paid immediately—the balance over a period of three years—your old piano taken as part payment.

Noted Decorators Endorse these Chickerings

Don Romaine of Chicago

"I am highly pleased with your new Chickering period models. They will grace any apartment, large or small, and their authenticity of style and detail is remarkable . . ."

Valiant—of Philadelphia and Baltimore says:

"The new Chickering period models are astonishingly beautiful. Heretofore it has been so difficult to find pianos of the finest grade with cases correspondingly attractive . . . You have accomplished this in a unique manner..."

Pollak of New York

"The idea of making Baby Grands in smart Period Styles—meets with our strong appeal and approval . . . The styles fit harmoniously with the decorative scheme conceived by the decorator . . . Your clients will heartily endorse these new instruments . . ."

IRISH FREE STATE ROLLS SLEEVES TO BATTLE WAY UP

Digs In to Correct Evils of 700 Years.

cent of the poorer classes are Catholics. The rancors that could arise from the governing of such a minority by the representatives of such a majority are obvious. But to the honor of the Cosgrave administration, it can be said that no desperate rancor has developed and the Protestant government of northern Ireland thinks and speaks respectfully of the Free State administration.

Army of Liberators.

Another inheritance of the Free State administration, which might have wrecked it, was the army of liberators, who had fought for Irish freedom against England and who later had helped to save the new government when it was putting down civil war. A large number of these men were of the type of patriot that expects to be taken care of in office when peace is restored. It was a difficult thing—nay, it was a cruel ordeal—for statesmen, newly come into great power to refuse appointments to men with whom they had at one time or another during "the troubles" been in prison, in internment camps, or in hiding in the hills, or alongside whom they had been fighting.

One minister—Mr. Fitzgerald—told me that morning after morning his mail would contain an average of seventy letters from former comrades in arms, who besought jobs and beyond doubt desperately needed them. But if the state service was not to be enfeebled at the outset, the department chief must set his jaws hard and say to the applicant—who frequently appeared in person:

"Tim, Mike, Terry—it can't be. I haven't the places to give. You must take the civil service examination."

All Earn Their Salaries.

Such refusal demanded fortitude of a kind, which the tender hearted and clannish Irishman least likes to display—the fortitude that can be interpreted as ingratitude. But the exercise of it has saved the state from scandal, with the result that the journalist, Hugh Curran, a far from partisan observer, could confidently tell me this:

"There is not a man in the civil service of the Free State who is not earning his salary."

And E. P. McCarron, an official in the ministry for local government, said:

"Every reform and retrenchment that an experienced civil servant has suggested to the Cosgrave administration has been promptly put into effect by the administration, irrespective of the effect upon its popularity. Only young men would have dared do that. The experienced politician would have told you that it was madness."

All along its way the administration has been balked by temperamental attributes of a people newly come into statehood. A morbid conservatism, especially in personal finance, is one of those attributes. Everybody in the Free State knows that what the Free State most needs is the development of industries, large and small, to take up unemployment and thus stem the tide of emigration. But how can you expect industrial initiative from a west coast peasant, who is so fiscally benighted and timid that, although he has a little store of savings in the bank at 3 per cent he will borrow money at 6 per cent when he intends to make a considerable purchase. This is because he has a superstitious horror of disturbing his bank account.

$1,000,000,000 Invested Abroad.

Dr. Timothy Smiddy, who was the Free State's first minister to the United States and is now Irish high commissioner in London, tells me that citizens of the Free State have invested abroad one billion dollars, from which they derive sixty millions a year.

That was his answer to my question as to whether it is lack of capital which delays industrial development here.

"The American," he added, "or the Englishman, bringing a reputation and technique to Ireland needn't bring a dollar. His project will be eagerly supported by the people. There is, for example, a fine opportunity for boot factories, for thirteen out of fifteen pairs of boots are imported. There is also an extraordinary opportunity for furniture factories and an English firm in Bristol is about to take advantage of it."

But there is another side to the picture and here again we encounter the whimsical factor in human affairs. The Galway lad, wishful to make a fine figure on a holiday, would rather be wearing what he thinks is a stylishly cut London suit costing $40 than a well designed, honestly tailored suit costing $25 and made from the beautiful tweeds manufactured in his own town. His preference was my gain, for it left a Galway tailor free to make me a handsome Galway suit in three days.

Many Sides to Irish Picture.

In fact there are so many "other sides to the Irish picture," so many whims, "so many jogs and jags in the outline of every Irish question"—as the Rev. Canon Moran of Galway put it—that the cautious traveller soon becomes fearful of dealing in easy outlines: the "jogs and jags" lessen and sometimes destroy their impressiveness.

Conversation and criticism remain the principal indoor and outdoor sports of the Irish people. It was not an unfriendly foreigner, but a candid, jovial Irishman, who gave me this assurance:

"An Irishman will talk to you any time, anywhere, on any subject, for any length of time."

That is a fact, and it makes the collection of notes easy. But the further fact that as the traveler extends his investigations he hears at least three different opinions on every question makes the sorting and weeding and verifying of the notes the most distracting assignment I ever undertook.

Three times now I have crossed this island from the Atlantic ocean to the Irish sea and I have interviewed poets, politicians, priests, actors, grocers, rebel patriots, who are still unreconciled, constructive patriots, wardens and provosts of universities, chauffeurs, American consuls, ministers of state, boarding-house keepers, barristers, harbor masters, engineers, and journalists.

"No Longer Irishmen."

Some of these kindly informants, the sincerity of none of whom I question, have called the government of Northern Ireland "England's spearhead in Ireland's side." Waxing lyric, these unreconciled rebels, who fought with tongue and with firearms for an absolutely independent and unpartitioned republic of Ireland, would say:

"Sad are the songs we sing but, saddest of all, the songs we dare not sing."

One elderly man buried his face in his hands and almost went when he uttered those words. He was terribly in earnest. Others said:

"We are no longer Irishmen. We are Free Staters and Ulstermen. We are partitioned, and 'tis all futile!"

But when I would submit such a view of the state of the country to a man of business his reply would not infrequently be so abrupt as "Tosh!" a word, I take it, equivalent to our word "bosh."

One day Richard Wallace, chairman of the Cork Harbor commission, who is more intent upon extending the city's wharves than upon grief, enlarged that reply of "tosh" as follows:

"We of the Free State are, as I figure it, ninety-five per cent free. And what do we get for the lacking five per cent? We get the British market, and in the event of another world war, which God forbid, we get the protection of the British fleet."

IRELAND FIGHTING WAY TO TOP

Open air masses, attended by vast multitudes and celebrated in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of Catholic emancipation, have been a spectacular feature of recent weeks in the Irish Free State. Here is pictured the celebration of high mass amid the ruins of Mellifont abbey, near Drogheda, where mass had not been sung since the suppression of the abbey in the reign of Henry VIII., four centuries ago.

Erin Prospers, Free State Minister Tells Hosts Here

Ireland today is more prosperous than she has been in many years. There is less crime in Ireland than in any other country in Europe, and the consumption of alcohol, although it is plentiful and there are no prohibitions, has dropped 33 1-3 per cent in the last six years.

DESMOND FITZGERALD. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Desmond Fitzgerald, minister of defense for the Irish Free State, yesterday made those statements before 1,000 members and guests of the Irish Fellowship club at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel. He said he had come here to tell Ireland's American friends of the country's good fortune under the latest government.

On Good Will Mission.

Mr. Fitzgerald and Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, member of the Irish Free State parliament, and Liam Burke, chief executive of the government party, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning as members of a good will mission to the United States. [illegible] main at the Palmer house until ne. Friday and will be guests of some o the city's notables. Various function have been arranged for them.

Mr. Fitzgerald was introduced to hi audience by Robert E. Crowe, presi dent of the Irish Fellowship club. H gave many figures to show the pres ent prosperity of Ireland, said crime is at a low ebb there, and gave figures to show how the consumption of liquor has fallen off.

"We promote temperance in Ireland by putting a high tax on liquor," he said. "A man can get all he wants, but he has to pay pretty high for it. Our plan is working; the drinking of alcohol is steadily decreasing."

He said consumption of alcohol has dropped one-third from that of the fiscal year 1922-23.

"This is shown by the decrease in revenue," he continued. "In the former year the revenue was almost $50,000,000. This last year it was approximately $30,000,000.

"There was much crime existing in 1922 from the effects of the revolution. When we took over the government there were no courts functioning, the country was in a state of anarchy, there was no government functioning. Yet today there is less crime in Ireland than in any European country and our people are living better than ever before, and the price of living has dropped appreciably."

The Irish statesman told how former tenant farmers had been transformed into owner farmers, and continued:

"The cooperative movement is rapidly growing among the farmers. We have put in certain protective tariffs to bring about a balance between industry and agriculture. As a result of these tariffs there are now 100 new manufactories in Ireland.

Spend $16,000,000 on Roads.

"Our exports have increased $900,000; we have reduced our adverse trade balance $30,000,000. We have [illegible] in building roads.

"We have built more houses in the last five years than were built in Ireland in 50 years before. We spend one-fourth of our national income on education. We have reduced taxes."

The Irish visitors went from the luncheon to Soldiers' field, where they were guests of Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, at the football game.

HOTEL MAGNATE FOUND IN BATH NEARLY DROWNED

Is Revived by Pulmotor After Nine Hours.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Harry S. Black, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Realty and Improvement company, operators of the Hotel Plaza and other hostelries, today was recovering in his apartment at the Plaza after being found unconscious in his bathtub in his suite, his head under water.

His life was saved by a pulmotor crew which worked over him for nearly nine hours, ending their efforts early this morning. The accident was due, it is said, to an attack of acute indigestion which caused a fainting spell.

While Mr. Black is confined to his bed, weakened by his narrow escape from death, Dr. George Bolling Lee, the hotel physician, said he was out of danger.

Identity Is Ascertained.

It was not until early today that Mr. Black's identity was ascertained. The police first were informed that it was J. M. Black, 65 years, who had been found unconscious in an overflowing bathtub in his suite on the eighteenth floor of the hotel.

Instead of telephoning to the hospital for an ambulance or to the police, an employé telephoned to the Consolidated Gas company, saying that the services of the pulmotor crew were required at the hotel immediately.

A patrolman who saw the truck of the Consolidated pulmotor crew outside the hotel for a long time, entered the hotel and made inquiries at the desk.

In Care of Nurse.

Mr. Black had not been in good health for some weeks, hotel attachés said, and although not confined to his apartment was in the care of a nurse.

He was in the habit of taking a bath between 6 and 7 o'clock, and when he went into his bathroom Friday evening he told his valet he would go out for dinner. Mr. Black occupies a penthouse apartment, one of the largest and most luxurious in New York.

LOOT TAILOR SHOP OF FURS, $200.

Two armed bandits entered the tailor shop of Albert Yertal at 1547 North Austin boulevard yesterday, locked him in a rear room and looted the shop of $200 and five fur coats valued at $500. They drove away with a confederate, waiting for them in a green sedan.

PROTECT FOREST PRESERVE FROM 'NATURE LOVERS'

Nature lovers who admire the brilliant hues of autumn foliage in the forest preserve will have to confine their admiration to mere looking in the future. Chief August Loula of the forest preserve police announced last night that he would station twenty men in the preserve today to prevent gatherers of autumn leaves from cutting limbs from the trees. Every Sunday sees a horde of nature spoilers chopping off entire limbs to obtain leaves, in many cases ruining the trees. In the future, he said, persons who cut trees will be arrested on a charge of malicious mischief, which carries a jail sentence as a penalty.

6 YEAR OLD BOY KILLED BY TRUCK; DRIVER IS HELD

Charles Devine, 6 years old, 415 South Campbell avenue, was fatally hurt yesterday afternoon when a truck struck him while he was crossing Van Buren street at Campbell avenue. He died at the County hospital several hours later. George Berndt, 2246 Lewis street, driver of the truck, is being held by the police.

This death and one other yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 742. The other victim:

John Ahohm, 64 years old, 1758 West 22d street, died at St. Anthony's hospital last night of injuries received Thursday when he was struck by a motorcycle in front of his home. The motorcyclist sped on without stopping.

Mrs. Anna Seger, 75 years old, of Anna, Ill., was fatally injured yesterday and three women companions were injured seriously when the auto in which they were riding overturned on Governor's highway in Will county, eight miles south of Chicago Heights. She was riding with her daughter, Miss Ione Seger, and Mrs. T. P. Sifford and Mrs. M. A. Walker, all of Anna. Mrs. Seger died in a Chicago Heights hospital.

SPEAKERS TELL EDUCATION NEED FOR GROWNUPS

Schools Neglect Elders, Conference Told.

If there is any leisure class in this country it is in the thousands of college and university undergraduates, Everett Dean Martin, director of the People's Institute of New York, declared at the one day session of the public conference on adult education yesterday at the Palmer house. There has never been so great a desire among the masses for an education as there is now, Mr. Martin said, pointing out that there are twice as many adults taking some kind of night school work as there are students in the colleges and universities of the United States.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, warned of the possibility of cutting down the annual $700,000 budget for adult education here, because of the stringency of school board funds.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago praised the movement for adult education.

This country has been systematically educating only its youth and neglecting the education of aged persons and those in middle life, declared Dr. A. Caswell Ellis, director of the Cleveland college of Western Reserve university.

Family life in America has been changing because of the new liberalism towards women, commercialized amusements and the exaggerated psychology of utter self-expression, Dr. Frank Sluts, founder of the Moraine park school, Dayton, O., said. An outside education is being provided by the theater, the movies and the modern novel which is giving youth a lack of faith in home life, he asserted. Adult education, he said, would influence character education of the child through its parents.

PIANOS,

like people, are judged by their associates. At Cable's, every instrument, regardless of price, must be worthy of the high quality standards set by its leaders—the Bechstein, most famous of European Pianos, and the Conover, one of the few really great Pianos of today.

The Artistic

CONOVER

So carefully is it constructed that it retains its original beauty and mellowness of tone after years of usage. Time is the most convincing proof of Conover worth.

The Celebrated

BECHSTEIN

On a Bechstein, Wagner composed his famous "Ring" music... Franz Liszt described it as a "perfect" instrument... it is the preferred Piano of the great Music Masters of the past seventy-five years.

MRS. RITA LYDIG OF SOCIAL FAME IS DEAD AT 50

Later Years of Her Life Marked by Tragedy.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig, long prominent socially, although her later years were crowded with tragedies and difficulties, died today in her apartment at the Hotel Gotham.

The cause of death was not stated tonight by members of the family. Her death came unexpectedly. She had been in ill health for years past and had undergone several operations. She had sought relief in Europe as well as here. Last June she suffered a nervous breakdown. She became ill again about three weeks ago, but her condition was not considered serious.

She was 50 years old. With her at the end were her sisters, Mrs. Henry Breckenridge and Miss Mercedes De Acosta.

Of Spanish Ancestry.

Mrs. Lydig's full name at the time of her death was Rita Hernandez De Alba de Acosta Lydig. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo De Acosta, a prominent New York family of Spanish ancestry.

She was noted throughout her earlier years for her beauty, of the dark Spanish type. Many of the greatest artists of the time have painted her portrait, among them Sargent, Boldoni, Madrazo and Zuloaga. With her beauty she possessed rare charm and intellectual brilliance as well.

In 1895, when she was only 16 years old she was married to the wealthy W. E. D. Stokes. They had one son, W. E. D. Stokes Jr. The marriage was not happy, however, and they were divorced. Subsequently, in 1902, she married Maj. Philip M. Lydig, wealthy and socially prominent. They were divorced in 1918.

Aided Suffrage Movement.

She was an early worker in the woman suffrage movement and was active in campaigns against the drug evil and a leader in the Woman's Conservation movement. During the war she was chairman of the Social Welfare committee of the mayor's women's committee on national defense and did war work abroad also.

Mrs. Lydig again came prominently before the public in August, 1927, with her announcement of her engagement to the late Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, one of the most important pulpits in the city. Dr. Grant at that time was 61 years old. Mrs. Lydig was a leading member of his church. The engagement attracted nation wide attention, an attention which was intensified when Bishop William Manning refused to sanction the marriage because Mrs. Lydig had been divorced.

The bishop's position was based on canon 42 of the constitution and canons of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Break Their Engagement.

At length, on May 26, 1924, Dr. Grant and Mrs. Lydig publicly announced the breaking of their engagement. Only a month later Dr. Grant resigned his rectorship, giving ill health as the reason. It was expected by many then that this would be followed by a renewal of the engagement with Mrs. Lydig, but she immediately put these rumors at rest with a denial.

In November of that same year Dr. Grant was taken gravely ill and remained an invalid until his death in February, 1927.

Fights Bankruptcy Petition.

Mrs. Lydig's health also became increasingly frail, and she was afflicted also with grave financial difficulties. These came to a crisis in April, 1927, with her filing a petition of bankruptcy listing her liabilities at $94,352. The efforts to straighten out this difficulty were attended by lengthy and acrimonious litigation.

In May of that year Mrs. Lydig sold at auction the magnificent furnishings of her home in East 55th street, and thereafter lived in hotels. The sale netted $50,111. In the meantime Mrs. Lydig had published a book, "Tragic Mansions," telling of the tragedies which are hidden behind the doors of the wealthy, and it was understood that the proceeds of this also would apply on her debts.

RAIL OFFICIAL IS COOL TOWARD A UNION STATION

Milwaukee Road's Depot O. K., Scandrett Says.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Milwaukee's eagerness for a union depot to replace the antiquated 50 year old railway passenger stations in the downtown district has not made a deep impression on Milwaukee road officials, it was indicated today. Officials and directors of the line who, today, visited the city on their annual fall inspection tour, were cool toward the idea.

"Just like so much frosting on ginger cake," was the comment of H. A. Scandrett, president of the road, when informed that the South Side Civic association and aldermen were behind the movement to interest the railways in a project for a terminal commensurate with the freight business and passenger patronage of a metropolitan area.

Spends for Car Shops.

"There is much more we can do for the city than erecting a modern station building," Mr. Scandrett said. "Look at what we are spending for new car building shops in West Milwaukee and grade separation on the northwest side.

"The station we have now doesn't seem to be so much out of date for a city like Milwaukee. It can't be more than fifty years old," Mr. Scandrett declared.

That the opinion of the Milwaukee roads president is not exactly in harmony with those of officials of other railroads entering the city is apparent in unofficial comments obtained from time to time from the North Western, the Soo, and the North Shore lines.

Revenue Must Justify.

"It is our belief," said Mr. Scandrett, "that Milwaukee benefits more when we spend nearly $3,000,000 for new car building shops and grade separation projects than it would if we expended money toward a union station. The present structure seems to be adequate for the patronage we obtain here and it is our policy to restrain from making improvements unless the revenue obtained warrants the expenditure."

Included in the inspecting party were representatives of eastern banks and investment houses that refinanced the Milwaukee road after it had entered bankruptcy. H. E. Byram, former president of the road and now one of its directors, is also on the tour.

Members of Party.

Other directors on board the inspection train are Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the board, New York Trust company; W. W. Colpitts, consulting engineer, New York; Howland S. Davis, banker, New York; Fairmat R. Dick, banker, New York; Samuel H. Fisher, New York; Mark W. Potter, attorney, New York; and W. W. K. Sparrow, vice president C. M. St. P. & P. R. R., Chicago.

Pierpont V. Davis, vice president of the National City company of New York also is with the party. William D. Van Dyke, president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee, a director of the road, joined the tour here. Mr. Van Dyke was host to the members of the party at a golf meet at the Milwaukee Country club this afternoon and at a dinner in the Milwaukee club tonight.

The train will leave Milwaukee at seven o'clock tomorrow morning for Green Bay, and then north to Iron Mountain, Mich., where the road has extensive ore properties.

$981,154 PROMISED TO COMMUNITY FUND; GOAL IS $1,086,000

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Michael J. Cleary, general chairman of the community fund drive announced today that reports of all units showed that $981,154 has been pledged toward the $1,086,000 goal established. The campaign is to close on Monday night and indications today are that the quota will be filled.

WED 60 YEARS, BELOIT COUPLE TO CELEBRATE

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In the same house to which they came as bride and groom shortly after the civil war, Mr. and Mrs. John Yost will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary here tomorrow.

Mr. Yost was born 81 years ago in a log cabin near his present home and can remember when deer came to the river nearby to drink and wolves skulked in the outskirts of the clearing, past which hundreds of autos now speed every day on Riverside drive.

Mrs. Yost, who celebrated her eightieth birthday last week, was born in New York state, but has lived in this vicinity since she was 4 years old.

The Yosts were married in Turtle township and spent their honeymoon in Chicago. They have three children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchidren.

Girl Fails to Return from School; Police Hunt Her

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Ruth Waite, 12, of 477 Greenbush street, has been missing from home since yesterday afternoon, when she did not return from school, her father reported to police today. According to the father, the girl had shown an interest in Salvation Army workers and frequented their society, but inquiries among them failed to reveal any trace of her.

HUTCHINS TO BE INSTALLED AT U. OF C. NOV. 19

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will be inducted into office at ceremonies in the university chapel on Nov. 19. The board of trustees tomorrow will mail invitations to 4,000 prominent citizens and educators and to 12,500 alumni in the Chicago region. The alumni will attend a reception on Nov. 20, the final event of a two day investiture program.

Among the speakers for the five major events on the program will be President James R. Angell of Yale, President Harry W. Chase of the University of North Carolina, President David Kinley of Illinois, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern, President George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

The installation ceremonies will open on the morning of Nov. 19, with academic delegates, members of the faculty and trustees marching to the chapel from Ida Noyes hall. Dr. Hutchins will be installed as the fifth president of the university.

Those invited to the inauguration include President and Mrs. Hoover, Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes and Dwight Morrow, W. L. Mackenzie King, premier of Canada; Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, who is a former trustee of the university, and Thomas Edison and John D. Rockefeller, and all persons who have received honorary degrees from the university.

5 POWERS PLAN TO TALK NAVIES BEFORE PARLEY

United States and Japan to Exchange Views.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—A new series of diplomatic exchanges which may have a great effect on the outcome of the forthcoming naval reduction conference to be held in London next January will be opened soon by the five powers which have accepted invitations to the parley.

Success having attended Great Britain and the United States in their efforts to reach an understanding on the controversial cruiser question, separate attempts are now to be made to patch up the differences between the other nations who will attend the parley. Three "twosomes" are expected to engage in the conversations.

France, Italy to Confer.

The United States and Japan will exchange views on some of their problems; Great Britain and France will discuss submarine and other points of particular interest to them, while the French and Italian statesmen will engage in separate exchanges regarding their naval needs in the Mediterranean.

There were the strongest indications today that Great Britain and the United States will bend every effort to persuade the other three powers to abandon the submarine as an offensive weapon.

Great Britain and this country are on record as favoring the abolition of the submarines if other powers would agree, but it is not believed that the time has arrived when these craft can be wholly abandoned.

Subs Lose Value.

Great Britain and the United States still argue that the value of the submarine as an offensive weapon has been reduced by the invention of depth bombs carried by destroyers and the development since the war of better and more effective methods of locating the underwater craft.

Strong opposition to the abolition of the submarine is certain to come from France and Japan. Submarine warfare was condemned by the Washington conference, but the French would not accede to their abolition. The United States did not favor abolition of the submarine at that conference.

Italy Wants Parity.

France, having accepted the Italian invitation to undertake mutual exchanges on their problems, Washington and London hope the two powers will reach some sort of an understanding which will make possible a five power agreement. At present Italy insists that no continental power must have greater naval strength than Italy, especialy in the Mediterranean. France, on the other hand, had opposed parity with Italy.

While negotiations are going on in London to reduce the naval establishments, American naval authorities will be engaged in a hard fight to obtain sufficient personnel from congress to man the new American cruisers now nearing completion. The navy now has 84,500 enlisted men and will inform congress that about 10,000 more are needed. Whether the budget will carry funds for more than 84,500 is unlikely.

More Sailors Needed.

The first of the new cruisers will be manned by men taken from obsolete cruisers which have been placed on the disposal list. By July 1, 1930, when the next budget goes into effect, all these men will have been used up and it will be necessary either to recruit additional strength or take the needed crews from ships already in commission.

MacDONALD HAS A REST; OFF FOR MONTREAL TODAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(AP)—An easy program today gave Prime Minister MacDonald a day of vacation in his strenuous peace mission to America. The British prime minister has completed his public appearances in Ottawa and will be free from official engagements until he entrains tomorrow night for Montreal en route back to England.

Luncheon with Sir William Clark, British high commissioner, and dinner with Premier MacKenzie King at Laurier house were the only appointments for MacDonald today. Neither of these functions were public.

In addition to being with her father at the luncheon and the dinner, Miss Isabel MacDonald had a tea engagement with the Women's Canadian club at the Chateau Laurier.

Foot Troubles Cause Bad Health

They affect the body in many different ways. The feet swell, burn, ache; sharp pains under heels, ball of foot becomes sore and feels as if you are walking on marbles; corns, calluses, ingrown nails and bunions; excessive perspiration with offensive odor, overdeveloped ankles and legs, varicose veins; legs cramp, knees stiffen, pains in hips, small of back, shoulders and neck, poor circulation, with nervous exhaustion and muscular weakness. Most people think they have rheumatism, neuritis, arthritis, female or kidney trouble when their troubles are all caused from their feet. Do not be discouraged. Regardless of what your condition may be or what you have tried, or whom you have consulted, Dr. Pinkston guarantees to relieve all foot troubles and cure nine-tenths of them regardless of the nature or condition of the ailment.

PRESIDENT WORKS ON DELEGATION; MAY OMIT DAWES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover today continued to devote attention to the task of naming the complete personnel of the American delegation which will represent the United States at the five power naval reduction conference to be held in London next January.

Five delegates to work with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who will be chairman, remain to be selected.

Although it has been generally assumed that Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to London, now on vacation in Chicago, and Ambassador Hugh Gibson, the American envoy at Brussels, would be selected as delegates, there were indications today that the delegation would all come from the United States. In some quarters it was said it is unlikely that Mr. Dawes will sit in the conference as a delegate.

There were indications today that two civilians may be chosen. The names of Charles Evans Hughes and Elihu Root, both former secretaries of state, have been mentioned.

U. S. WARSHIP ORDERED TO WAR ZONE IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The United States gunboat Panay was ordered to Wuhu today from Hankow in view of the emergency created by mutiny of Chinese soldiers there.

Standard Oil company officials sent a wireless message to their headquarters here that they had abandoned the town. The Japanese are reported to have sent a ship to Wuhu to bring away the entire Japanese colony.

Earlier Reuter dispatches from Shanghai said loyal Nationalist troops rushed Wuhu and quelled the mutiny, which was confined to 500 dissatisfied soldiers. British women and children were said to have returned to their homes.

CANADIANS ASK FULL VOICE OVER BASE AT HALIFAX

Insist Great Britain Has No Jurisdiction.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 19.—Canada has been brought directly into the sphere of British-American disarmament discussions between the premier, J. Ramsay MacDonald, and President Herbert Hoover by the suggestion that the demilitarization of the Canadian naval base at Halifax may constitute one of Britain's diarmament moves.

With Canada, and not the imperial government, rests the decision as to what shall or shall not be done at Halifax. And while there is no disposition at the Canadian capital to say an offhand "nay," there is an apparent feeling that Canada must be represented at London, or elsewhere, when the fate of anything affecting Canada is being determined.

Canada Will Have Voice.

Mr. MacDonald in a speech here last Thursday said. Canada and the other British dominions would be fully represented at the January conference, not in a consultative capacity only, but in an active way.

The British government in London has no authority whatever over Canada's military or naval activities, it is pointed out by official sources at the Canadian capital. And all naval and military property which was once under imperial jurisdiction has long since passed into Canada's hands. The last imperial troops to garrison Halifax left the Nova Scotian capital as far back as 1906. Since then the dominion has had complete control.

Canada regards her military and naval establishment in Halifax as so extremely modest as to constitute neither an immediate nor a potential menace to the United States. There is one destroyer, the Champlain, on loan to this country from the British admiralty, which has Halifax as its base of operations, and two mine sweepers, the Ypres and the Armentieres. There is also a shore training school and a dockyard. Halifax is garrisoned by a small company of the Royal Canadian regiment, some coast artillery and a few engineers, army service troops, ordnance and other administrative personnel.

Halifax, however, was the scene of great and useful activities during the war, when liberal use of the port was made by the United States government in the transportation overseas of American troops. Since then it has been visited by American warships conveying the midshipmen of the Annapolis naval academy on their summer cruise. Halifax, in peace times, is the scene of practically all of eastern Canada's naval cadet training activities.

Butt of Jokes.

As a naval base it has been the butt of many political jests, made by Conservative members of the house of commons, and, according to Thomas L. Church, Toronto Conservative member of the commons, its principal claim to fame as a naval base is that it is the sea coast point at which "the rusty little Canadian navy is housed in a garage."

In any case it is not likely to be the Canadian prime minster who will journey to London early next year to represent Canada at the big powers' disarmament parley. Canadian parliament opens in January. It is an election session of parliament—a session to be immediately followed by an election—which is approaching. The biggest tariff revision of this generation is on the schedule of parliamentary activities. Upon what happens in parliament this session largely will depend the fate of the government at the polls in the late summer of 1930.

ITALIAN PRINCE TO DO WOOING IN CIRCLE OF STEEL

Belgium Will Guard Her Royal Guest.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 19.—The nine foot high basket of pure white roses which the Italian Ambassador, Marquis Carlo Durazzo, sent to Princess Marie-José of Belgium today convinced court circles here that the engagement of the princess and the heir to the Italian throne, Crown Prince Humbert, is now an accomplished fact.

Attacks on the Italian embassy, such as occurred last night when adolescents voiced their anti-Italian feelings by throwing stones into the ambassador's dining room windows and firing shots at the embassy gate, cannot prevent the fact that Prince Humbert is scheduled to arrive here next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The engagement will be announced on Thursday, Oct. 24, which happens to be the wedding anniversary of Prince Humbert's father and mother, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy.

Apologize for Riot.

Silk top hat in hand, Paul Hymans, Belgian minister for foreign affairs, today called on Marquis Durazzo to apologize on behalf of the Belgian government for last night's assault on the embassy. The riot might have ended tragically for the ambassador's family if the Brussels police had not acted speedily and dispersed the aggressors by revolver shots.

No trace of the rowdies has been found as yet except for a felt hat lost in front of the embassy and the huge pole with which the aggressors rammed the embassy door. Armed with this battering ram the mob tried to break into the building armed with revolvers. The police, however, suspect that Italian emigrants and Polish communists led the group of Belgian hotheads with anti-Italian feelings into this disastrous move of protest against the royal engagement.

Embassy Heavily Guarded.

The Belgium authorities are much annoyed and the police are busy investigating. The ambassador's parlor is ruined and the entrance door damaged, and a heavy force of police is watching both the Italian embassy and consulate.

An unusual number of private detectives, secret service men and police will guard the Belgian king's palace here and the Italian embassy throughout Prince Humbert's visit to his fiancée. There will be no public ceremonies except perhaps a visit to Brussell's city hall. Prince Humbert will only meet his fiancée, her family, and the diplomatic corps. After his departure Princess Marie-José will devote her time to picking out a vast trousseau here and in Paris.

Cook County Reassessment Upheld by Supreme Court

The Cook county realty reassessment was upheld by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday in the affirming of a decision of the Circuit court against a taxpayer's suit to block the assessment under the state tax commission's orders. The suit was brought by Elmer E. Heidenway, through his attorney, William F. Struckmann, on the declaration that the reassessment was unfair and unconstitutional.

Attorney Struckmann argued that the original assessment, the 1927 quadrennial, could not be changed and that the reassessment is taking property without due process of law. The suit was brought against County Treasurer Harding and other county officials. Hayden Bell, attorney for the county, held that the original assessment was voided and that the state commission's orders were binding.

In passing on the authority of the legislature to enact statutes in question, the decision reads: "The constitution provides that the value of property for taxation shall be ascertained by some person or persons to be elected or appointed in such manner as the general assembly shall direct and not otherwise. This vests in the legislature power and control over the assessment of taxes, except as limited by the constitution or by inherent limitations restricting the power to public purposes. Courts have no power to fix the valuation of property for taxation.

"Every official act and function involved in the entire process of making a valuation for assessment purposes must be performed by some persons or persons elected or appointed in the manner provided by the general assembly. In the performance of their duties.

"WHITE WINGS" TO GO OUT ON STRIKE TODAY

Garbage Collectors Also Leave Work.

Street sweeping and garbage collection in Chicago were scheduled to languish from today on at the orders of Michael Carrozzo, president of the Street Laborers' union, who called off approximately 2,500 "white wings," garbage handlers and street repair workers last midnight. The strike follows a dispute at a city asphalt plant where 200 men have already been laid off their jobs.

Carrozzo, who has had difficulties with the police for carrying a gun and with the state's attorney when indicted for complicity in the murder of Maurice Enright, a labor leader, threatened a similar strike last spring. This was averted when the council finance committee voted to raise the salaries of his men; some from $6 to $7.20 a day and others from $5.20 to $6 a day.

Cost $56 to Join Union.

City officials claim that this strike grew from the replacement of temporary workers in a city asphalt plant with civil service employés. Carrozzo, they said, asked the new men to enter the union at $56 a head and to pay $5 a week while thinking the proposition over. When several refused to join the union men left.

With the supply of asphalt cut into a number of city repair gangs, approximately 800 men, had to laid off, the city officials said. Other repair gangs working on brick and creosote block repairs now are threatening to walk out also. As the vehicle tax repair season is nearly finished, the city officials expressed little concern over the matter. The walkout of the sweepers, however, presented them with another problem.

Complains of 4 Day Week.

Carrozzo told another story. His contention was that the city has drifted into the habit of allowing his men to work only three or four days a week while asking the civil service commission to certify additional laborers which are not needed. Instead of asking for more laborers the street department, he said, should cut the present number to give those that work a full pay check.

"We are willing to have the force cut to come within the revenues available," said Carrozzo, "but it is no more than right that when a man is certified by the civil service commission that he be given steady employment instead of working only three or four days a week."

The city officials, however, pointed out that Carrozzo is interfering with the ruling of Judge Friend, which states that civil service employés must be given preference to temporary workers by resisting the replacement of the temporary asphalt workers by civil service men.

RADICALS TAG DEBENTURES ON NEW TARIFF BILL

Revive Farm Fight with President Hoover.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—For the third time during the special session, the senate today went counter to President Hoover's wishes on the export debenture farm relief scheme.

By a vote of 42 to 34 the senate adopted an amendment to the tariff bill incorporating the proposition as an optional plan for the use of the federal farm board in dealing with crop surpluses.

The margin in favor of the proposal was greater than last spring when the senate twice went on record for it. On the first occasion, on May 8, the senate by a vote of 44 to 41 rejected a motion to eliminate the debenture provision from the farm relief bill. A few weeks later the senate by a vote of 46 to 43 sent the farm bill back to conference because the conferees had eliminated the senate export debenture provision.

Yields on Showdown.

Finally the senate, by a vote of 74 to 8, accepted the conference report minus the export debenture section, after the house, by a vote of 250 to 113, had instructed its conferees to stand pat against the proposition.

While today's action further complicates the already tangled tariff situation, administration leaders were hopeful tonight of eliminating the debenture provision in conference, as was done in the case of the farm relief bill. President Hoover, it is surmised, would be strongly inclined to veto the tariff bill if the provision is left in.

The opposition to the debenture scheme in the house, however, shows no signs of weakening, and the administration forces are confident of being able to eliminate it before the tariff bill gets to a final vote.

Victory for Radicals.

Today's vote represented another victory for the Democratic-radical coalition. Voting for the amendment were 14 Republicans and 28 Democrats, while against it were 31 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The fourteen Republicans who joined in the Democratic-radical coalition were Senators W. E. Borah and John Thomas [Idaho], S. W. Brookhart [Iowa], Bronson, Cutting [N. Mex.], L. J. Frazier and G. P. Nye [N. D.], G. W. Norris and R. B. Howell [Neb.], Hiram Johnson [Cal.], R. M. La Follette [Wis.], Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMaster [S. D.], W. P. Pine [Okla.], and Thomas D. Schall [Minn.]. One additional Republican, Senator John J. Blaine [Wis.] was paired in favor of the amendment.

The three Democrats who voted against the amendment were Senators J. B. Kendrick [Wyo.], Robert F. Wagner [N. Y.], and David I. Walsh [Mass.]. One Democrat, Senator W. H. King [Utah] was paired against it.

Four Senators Switch.

Only four senators have changed their positions on the debenture proposition since the previous votes, the differences otherwise in the totals being accounted for by absentees who were paired on one side or the other.

Senators Cutting and Thomas voted against the debenture before, but switched over to it today. Senator Kendrick, who voted against it today, was paired in favor of it previously. Senator J. E. Ransdell [Dem., La.], who was paired in favor of the amendment today, voted against it before.

Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] were both absent today, but were paired against the amendment.

Administration Republicans knew they were beaten in advance of the vote and made no real fight against the amendment. The three hour debate which preceded the roll call was occupied chiefly by senators favoring the debenture plan. The speakers included Senators Borah, Norris, Brookhart, and others.

Called Aid to Tariff Bill.

The excuse for attaching the debenture provision to the tariff bill was that the scheme is designed to make the tariff effective on farm products. Under its operation revenues derived from customs duties would be diverted for the payment of a bounty on exports of such farm products as might be temporarily made subject to the plan at the discretion of the farm board.

The amendment, which was sponsored by Senator Norris, was substantially the same as was voted for in connection with the farm bill. It provides that the farm board, whenever it finds it available, shall issue through the secretary of the treasury debentures to any farmer, cooperative association, stabilization corporation or other person exporting the commodity to be benefited. The debenture shall be at the rate of one-half of the tariff duty, except that in the case of cotton, which is on the free list, the rate shall be two cents per pound.

The wheat debenture, for example, would amount to 21 cents per bushel, one-half of the 42 cents duty. The exporter of wheat presumably would obtain 21 cents more than the world market price for his wheat, and the theory is that the price of wheat sold in the domestic market would be forced up to the same level.

The export debentures would be receivable at face value in payment of customs duties on any commodity. The exporter of a farm product could also sell his debentures to an importer, probably at a slight discount.

In order to prevent any undue speculation in the handling of the debentures, the secretary of the treasury would be authorized to provide for the redemption of debentures at a rate of not less than 98 per cent of the face value.

As a means of checking possible overproduction which would follow the use of the export debenture scheme the amendment includes a plan for a gradual reduction in the debenture rate as production of a particular commodity increases.

Cost is Ticklish Point.

Cost of the scheme to the treasury would, of course, depend upon the extent to which its use would be invoked by the farm board. President Hoover in his letter to Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.] last April asserted that it would mean a direct subsidy from the treasury amounting to more than 200 million dollars annually if generally applied.

Other objections advanced against it by the President were that speculators would receive a gigantic gift from the government; that it would stimulate overproduction which eventually would defeat the purpose of the plan; that stimulation of production of certain commodities would nullify the movement toward diversification of farm crops; that it would afford opportunity for manipulation in the export market to the disadvantage of the farmer; that the payment of an export bounty would lead to action by other nations to protect their own agriculturists, and that the plan would require a substantial increase in taxes.

What Proponents Say.

Against the President's objectives the radical Republicans and the Democrats have contended that the government should grant a subsidy to agriculture if necessary, inasmuch as the railroads, shipping companies and other industrial groups have had what amounted to subsidies; that the scheme provides a sure way of making the tariff as effective on farm products as it is on industrial commodities, and that the price stabilization plans which the farm board may develop under the new agricultural marketing act may prove to be ineffective.

With action on the debenture amendment the senate virtually completed consideration of the administrative sections of the tariff bill. On Monday the senate is expected to vote on the motion of Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] to recommit the bill to the finance committee with instructions to confine the revision to agricultural commodities. This motion seems certain to be rejected. The senate then will proceed to the consideration of the rate schedules.

The senate agreed to convene at 10 o'clock on Monday, an indication that from now on better progress will be made on the bill.

City of Neenah Has $35,000 Balance in Its Treasury

Neenah, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The city of Neenah will have money in the bank at the end of the present fiscal year, Dec. 29. It is unofficially estimated that the balance will be $35,000. A year ago the council adopted a budget plan and since has lived up rigidly to its provision. With the result that a surplus instead of the usual deficit will exist.

BAR'S JUDICIAL VOTE REJOICES ALL BUT G. O. P.

Brundage Camp Jubilant; Cermak Sees Victory.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Cries of exultation arose from the Democrat-Deneen and the Brundage people's camps yesterday over the results of the Chicago Bar association primaries on judicial candidates. Meanwhile the Republican organization sat in somewhat of a cavern of gloom as it contemplated the failure of any of its five candidates to land among the bar winners.

Now that the lawyers have registered their sentiment on the various candidates, the campaign is all set to be thrown wide open this week. The seventeen sitting judges, fifteen of whom got the bar indorsement—Judges William N. Gemmill, Republican, and Joseph B. David, Democrat, falling on the wrong side of the wire by a small margin—are to resume their platform appearances. They will tour the city in squads, and twelve or fifteen meetings a night will be held.

Judges Brush Up Anecdotes.

Now that the ice has been broken, all seventeen of the sitting jurists appear to be enjoying themselves, and, politics being barred from their discourse, many of them are furbishing up their best bench anecdotes. Judging from the speeches of the last few days, every judge has a couple of pet stories. These are interspersed with the argument that politics is unknown in the courts and hence has no place in a judicial election, making party titles meaningless.

The People's Ticket Against Coalition, the Brundage group, which landed four of its twelve candidates among the leaders in the bar poll, yesterday prepared to redouble its activities. Its managers declare the bar poll is an augury that the ticket will knock in among the winners on Nov. 5.

Cermak Predicts Victory

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, interpreted the bar poll figures as indicating that more Republican votes will be cast for the Democratic "sitting judges" ticket than for either the Republican or People's candidates.

"No politics is involved in this election," said Mr. Cermak. "It is recognized that the Chicago Bar association is overwhelmingly Republican, by at least three to one. Yet eighteen of the twenty-two candidates on the Democratic ticket were among the winners in the bar primary, and three others fell behind the victors by only a few votes. A Democrat, Judge John McGoorty, topped the list.

"The vote of the bar is indicative of the way the Republican voters will express themselves at the coming election.

"One result, I hope, will be to end the campaign of buncombe and hot air in which the supporters of the Republican factional tickets have been indulging. They have sought to conceal the real issue, which is whether the sitting judges should be replaced by inexperienced and unknown men, handpicked by political bosses."

Ask Straight Ticket Voting.

The Democrats held a meeting of country town precinct workers at the Sherman, and the theme of the speeches was "Vote the Democratic ticket straight."

A ruling from the state Supreme court held that the two vacancies on the Circuit bench are to be filled separately instead of as a group. It was construed as meaning that Philip J. Finnegan, Democrat, is running against George A. Curran for the Arnold vacancy, and Daniel P. Trude, Republican on the Democratic ticket, is contesting with Edgar A. Jonas, Republican, for the Swanson vacancy.

From the People's ticket camp Edward J. Brundage put out a comment on the bar primaries. He said:

"The Bar association vote dents the bi-partisan claim that sitting judges are infallible. Some of them fell by the wayside notwithstanding the advantage of having names familiar to all the Bar association members because of being sitting judges.

"The vote itself is a justification for the People's Ticket Against Coalition. The lawyers who selected the candidates on the People's ticket must feel proud of the vote.

"Now having met and overcome the first hurdle, the movement for the People's ticket against the Cermak-Deneen bipartisan wet and dry Democratic ticket will be given added momentum during the remaining two weeks. We will rely on the people asserting their right to vote for judges of their own choice."

B. W. Snow, acting Republican chairman, again dwelt on "bipartisan alliances."

"Republican leaders have been dealing under cover for years with Democratic bosses upon the basis of spoils division," he said. "The present control of the Republican party is determined to put an end to these bipartisan under cover deals. It refused to concede demands made for certain judicial nominations, and it is bitterly opposed to the consequent Cermak-Deneen attempt to divide the places on the bench under an agreement, the terms of which have never been made public."

The board of managers of the bar association last night issued a statement dwelling upon certain billboard advertisement which might lead the public to believe the association had "indorsed" all the candidates of one of the tickets. "None of the candidates whose names appear on the billboard advertisements has, in fact, been indorsed for election by the Chicago Bar association," the statement said.

FINGERNAILS PAINTED A VIVID SCARLET ARE THE LATEST PARIS FAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Fingernails enameled a vivid scarlet are the latest craze sweeping over Paris. Many American women, both in the local colony and tourists, are among the devotees. Exclusive beauty parlors charge $20 to apply a vermillion shade, which is guaranteed not to wear off for a fortnight and withstand hot or cold water.

"The prevailing styles of black and dark materials in dresses is responsible for the red fingernails," said Jean Patou, noted stylist, in explaining the fad. "Crimson nails emphasize the lily whiteness of the hands, which combine to give an exotic background against a black robe."

Psychologists assert that fingernails stained a blood red as though dipped in gore reveal the vampire inhabitations which the women unknowingly betray.

In Ciros last night nearly half the socially prominent women of all nationalities present had red fingernails.

PROSECUTION OF CRIME UNDER MR. SWANSON.

Observers of the state's attorney's office have been disposed to withhold judgment on the work of Mr. Swanson and his staff. The prosecutor, therefore, has enjoyed for nearly a year freedom from unfavorable criticism, a year in which to organize his office, introduce his own policies and practices, and justify the faith which the county has had in him. Since at this time it may be assumed that Mr. Swanson is fully responsible for the conduct of his department, comment on his record is not premature.

A number of recent occurrences in the criminal courts have indicated the grave delinquency of certain assistant state's attorneys. If these are isolated incidents the miscarriages of justice may be charged to the incompetency, indifference, or more sinister fault of the assistants and Mr. Swanson's responsibility may be in some degree mitigated. The compensation which the county offers its prosecutors is insufficient to attract much legal ability. That is a fundamental problem which Mr. Swanson has inherited, and if only an occasional assistant is singularly incompetent, or even vicious, the prosecutor cannot be condemned too severely. But if these incidents are not isolated, if they are an index to the character and ability of many members of the staff, if they indicate that the office is disorganized, the situation becomes a responsibility which the state's attorney cannot shirk.

The case of Max Berman and Louis Arnold is fresh in the public memory and it is one which prompts an appraisal of the law enforcement machinery of the county. This pair of felons have been practicing since 1919. Fourteen judges have dealt with them, but Max and Louis have escaped with only one prison sentence each. Notwithstanding the guaranty that, free, they would continue to plunder society, and notwithstanding that each had been arrested in the act of committing their latest burglaries, an assistant state's attorney, together with a police captain, recommended clemency for the defendants, suggested that the felony charges be waived. Judge Kerner, however, refused to approve the waiver. During the noon recess of the trial Max and Louis vanished from the Criminal courts building. They have not been found.

The assistant state's attorney recommended the felony waivers for Max and Louis either on his own judgment, at the advice of his superior, or because he was following the policy of the department. The practice of waiving felonies is often useful in expediting the work of the courts and the judicious use of the process does not demand an apology, but it is impossible to believe that the expedient was justified in the case of Max and Louis.

There has been no decline in the number of felony waivers and count waivers under the administration of Mr. Swanson; indeed the prosecutor has commended the practice, with reservations, to his assistants. If the assistants have not been instructed in the proper against the improper use of the waiver, Mr. Swanson's executive ability may legitimately be challenged. Has he permitted an abuse of the principles upon which he wants his office conducted?

George Baker is another criminal who has been released upon the community partially at least through the carelessness of an assistant state's attorney. Baker, while robbing a store, was shot by a policeman and taken to the house of correction hospital. Before trial he was released from the hospital on bond. When the case was called before Judge Trude a doctor's certificate was presented stating that Baker was too ill to appear. Judge Trude held Baker to the grand jury and issued a mittimus ordering that the defendant be taken to the county jail. The woman who had signed Baker's bond asked to be released and was relieved of all responsibility by an assistant state's attorney. Obviously the assistant state's attorney shares responsibility with other authorities in this miscarriage of justice, but the episode is not evidence of watchfulness and the full exercise of authority on the part of the prosecution.

It is not fair to say that Mr. Swanson's staff has been guilty of many such colossal blunders, but the number of indications of laxness, of weakness in the preparation of evidence, of indifference on the part of the staff is distressingly large. The suspicion, at least, is warranted that the principal peace officer of the county is not providing the measure of protection for the public which we expected from him.

Mr. Swanson has initiated a number of crusades, some of which were of first importance as attacking sources of major crime. His investigation of the bombers at one time promised to be successful. Until detectives for the state's attorney's office exposed the workings of a gang of bomb makers and distributors Mr. Swanson had apparently been conspicuously unconcerned with this crime. On that occasion faith in Mr. Swanson was reaffirmed. It seemed that he had proceeded with deliberation, but that at last he had started to exterminate the bombers, the necessity of which was impressed upon him when his home was bombed during the campaign. But even Mr. Swanson's firmest partisans were skeptical as the days and weeks passed without the prosecution of the bombers being pressed and without further police and detective action. The bombers have not yet been brought to trial.

Recently the weakness of Mr. Swanson's offensive against the bombers was indicated beyond question. The employers' association produced the record of bombings since Dec. 12, 1928. There were 97. On the day the report was published the ninety-eighth and ninety-ninth bombs were exploded. The record at this writing is 104. More alarming perhaps than the increased number of bombings was the change in the type of victims. Bombs are no longer exclusive instruments of extortion and recrimination against bootleggers, politicians, gamblers, and racketeers. They are being used to injure legitimate business. Forty-five of the ninety-seven bombings were directed against business men.

A few weeks ago the prosecutor proclaimed a campaign against real estate racketeers, a campaign which has progressed, apparently, no further than the original announcement. What was announced to be a wholesale investigation of city hall graft and pay roll irregularities has not materialized. The inquiry into sanitary district corruption is pending and, although few results have yet been obtained, it may be premature to judge Mr. Swanson's conduct of that investigation. But Mr. Swanson, it may be said, exhibits a tendency to start crusades which he is unable or does not propose to finish.

In the face of the crime situation, which is no less alarming than during the days of Mr. Swanson's predecessor, the small hope for relief which an examination of the record produces is particularly discouraging.

THE TRAGIC ERA.

Citizens of Republican persuasion who have read Claude Bowers' "Tragic Era" suspect him of having produced an intentionally partisan history of southern reconstruction for present day political uses. Mr. Bowers is indelibly a Democrat. He is a party orator and archivist, a party journalist and keynoter. In his "Jefferson and Hamilton" he revealed his belief in the manifest virtue of the party which still assumes to trace its origin to the great Virginian, although its southern section has repudiated ninety per cent of his doctrines.

Mr. Bowers, as such a Democrat, might try to make the Republican party of today wear the horns he thought he found on the radical Republicans of the north who got control of the reconstruction policies after the war and made the peace more terrifying to the white south than the war itself had been.

It is usually a bad thing to lose a war. It may be bad to start one, but it is worse to lose it. If it has been a hard and bitter war it will be still worse in defeat. The peace was not pleasant for the French after the Franco-Prussian war. The peace was not pleasant for the Germans after the late war. When military force has been dissolved by defeat, surrender, or submission the loser is helpless and the conditions imposed by the winner may be hard for the soul and body to bear.

Grant and Lee in their meeting at Appomattox Court House did not and could not indicate or decide the spirit in which the reunion of separated states should take place. Responsibility for the mistakes which were made and the troubles which they caused cannot be put on any one group of men. Many causes contributed and the radical Republicans who went to extremes of coercion could justify themselves by reference to many acts of many other men.

The Democratic leaders who controlled the Democratic national convention in Chicago in '64 and who conducted the campaign to defeat Lincoln declared, in their resolutions, that the war was a failure. Some of them came very close to sedition. They were disunionists. They gave their party the color of southern sympathies and of opposition to the federal cause.

With peace the Republicans faced the possibility of Democratic control by a reunion of the Democratic sections north and south, of southern Democrats who had fought for separation with a northern leadership which had given political support to that fight. The north was filled with alarm. The southerners presented themselves for their seats in congress. Southern states passed black laws for the regulation of the freedmen. In the apprehension of the Republicans, Democratic control of congress and of the administration could mean almost anything, even the recognition of the southern debt. Even the repudiation of the federal war debt did not seem fantastic as a fear. The north could be led to believe that the war had been won and then lost.

It became impossible for conservative Republicans to carry on with the patience and consideration Lincoln would have tried to exercise and which it was the ultimate judgment of Andrew Johnson to use. They were swept away by the radicals, such as Thaddeus Stevens, bitter men determined to crush Democratic power by obliterating white control in the south. They would not have had so much success if northern Democratic leadership had not given so vivid an impression of hostility to the cause of union in its most trying hours.

Editorial of the Day

FUMBLING THE FUMBLE.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

Intercollegiate football is played this autumn under a code of rules which contain this regulation regarding a fumble:

Rule VI. Section 13 (d):

"The ball is dead.

(d) "When a backward pass or fumble strikes the ground and is recovered by an opponent."

The rule was adopted to prevent the players from injury in the wild scramble usually following a fumble and also to prevent a superior team from suffering a severe penalty—sometimes defeat—because of a minor misplay. It is an absurd rule. Its practical application eliminates one of the game's best features—the element of chance. Officials and players are as bewildered as the spectators. We have no worries for the spectators, and we believe the players are prepared to take their chances in a scramble for a loose ball, but at least the officials might be saved from embarrassment. It is a travesty on football to see players and officials in a huddle after practically every play. Of course it is necessary to go through the present season under the present rules, but we hope for better things in 1930.

The following Bible reading begins with the first verse of the twenty-first chapter of Revelation and continues to the end of the twenty-second chapter. The American standard version is used. The only change is in paragraph form and punctuation method:

NEW HEAVEN AND EARTH

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth are passed away; and the sea is no more. And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, made ready as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of the throne saying, "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he shall dwell with them, and they shall be his peoples, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God; and he shall wipe away every tear from their eyes; and death shall be no more; neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain, any more; the first things are passed away."

And he that sitteth on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And he saith, "Write, for these words are faithful and true." And he said unto me, "They are come to pass. I am the alpha and the omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit these things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. But for the fearful, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and fornicators, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, their part shall be in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death."

And there came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls, who were laden with the seven last plagues; and he spake with me, saying, "Come hither, I will show thee the bride, the wife of the Lamb." And he carried me away in the spirit to a mountain great and high, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, having the glory of God; her light was like unto a stone most precious, as it were a jasper stone, clear as crystal; having a wall great and high; having twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels; and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel; on the east were three gates; and on the north three gates; and on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. And he that spake with me had for a measure a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof. And the city lieth foursquare, and the length thereof is as great as the breadth; and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs; the length and the breadth and the height thereof are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, a hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of an angel.

And the building of the wall thereof was jasper; and the city was pure gold, like unto pure glass. The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, chalcedony; the fourth, emerald; the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, topaz; the tenth, chrysoprase; the eleventh, jacinth; the twelfth, amethyst. And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; each one of the several gates was of one pearl; and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. And I saw no temple therein; for the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb, are the temple thereof.

And the city hath no need of sun, neither of the moon, to shine upon it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the lamp thereof is the Lamb. And the nations shall walk amidst the light thereof; and the kings of the earth bring their glory into it. And the gates thereof shall in no wise be shut by day (for there shall be no night there); and they shall bring the glory and the honor of the nations into it; and there shall in no wise enter into it anything unclean, or he that maketh an abomination and a lie; but only they that are written in the Lamb's book of life.

And he showed me a river of water of life, bright as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb, in the midst of the street thereof. And on this side of the river and on that was the tree of life, bearing twelve manner of fruits, yielding its fruit every month; and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. And there shall be no curse any more; and the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be therein; and his servants shall serve him; and they shall see his face; and his name shall be on their foreheads. And there shall be night no more; and they need no light of lamp, neither light of sun; for the Lord God shall give them light; and they shall reign for ever and ever.

And he said unto me, "These words are faithful and true; and the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, sent his angel to show unto his servants the things which must shortly come to pass. And behold, I come quickly. Blessed is he that keepeth the words of the prophecy of this book." And I John am he that heard and saw these things. And when I heard and saw, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel that showed me these things. And he saith unto me, "See thou do it not; I am a fellow-servant with thee and with thy brethren the prophets, and with them that keep the words of this book."

PATRIOTIC SONGS

ONCE TO EVERY MAN AND NATION.

James Russell Lowell (1845).

Once to every man and nation
Comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of truth with falsehood,
For the good or evil side;
Some great cause, God's new Messiah,
Offering each the bloom or blight,
And the choice goes by forever
'Twixt that darkness and that light.

Then to side with truth is noble,
When we share her wretched crust,
Ere her cause bring fame and profit,
And 'tis prosperous to be just;
Then it is the brave man chooses,
While the coward stands aside
Till the multitude make virtue
Of the faith they had denied.

By the light of burning martyrs
Jesus' bleeding feet I track,
Toiling up new Calvaries ever
With the cross that turns not back;
New occasions teach new duties,
Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still and onward,
Who would keep abreast of truth.

Though the cause of evil prosper,
Yet 'tis truth alone is strong;
Though her portion be the scaffold,
And upon the throne be wrong,
Yet that scaffold sways the future,
And, behind the dim unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow

TO MAKE LIVER EDIBLE.

METHOD of making a palatable liver extract in the home:

Equipment: Meat chopper, rubber sealed, large mouth fruit jar, 1 quart; 2 enameled sauce pans; a wire strainer [mesh about 17. This is about the mesh of a good grade mosquito screening], unbleached straining cloth bag such as is used for jelly; spoons, glasses; pitchers. Steps:

1. A little more than half a pound of beef liver should be ground through the chopper twice. Grind fine. This is done in the evening.

2. Put one glassful of this liver pulp and one and one-half glasses of cold water in the fruit jar. Cap. Shake vigorously for five minutes. Leave in ice box overnight.

3. The next morning shake the pulp-water mixture vigorously for five minutes. Strain through the wire strainer. The pulp on the strainer is returned to the jar. One and a half glasses of cold water are added and it is returned to the ice box.

4. The strained liquid is placed in a sauce pan and heated with constant stirring over a hot fire. It turns brown and curdles. At this stage the same pan is set in cold water. The extract must not be overcooked or undercooked. If it is red rather than yellow it has not been cooked enough. When it becomes cooled enough to handle it pound into the cloth bag and squeeze through as is done in making jelly.

5. The liquid is set aside in a pitcher for a few minutes. The dry pulp is returned to the sauce pan and three-quarters of a glass of milk-warm water is added to it. The pulp and water are thoroughly stirred. The mixture is then strained through the cloth jelly bag. The dry pulp left after this second extraction is thrown away.

6. The two extracts are mixed. They are now ready to serve. The extract can be flavored with salt or in any other way as desired and served slightly warm as a soup or tea, or cold as a drink.

The remaining procedure relates to getting all the value out of the liver and thus saving money and increasing the medicinal value of the product.

In step 3 the ground liver, after having been removed from the wire strainer, is put into a fruit jar mixed with one and a half glasses of cold water and set in the icebox.

7. In the evening this step 3 liver pulp is removed from the ice box, thoroughly shaken for five minutes and then strained through the wire screen. The pulp is now discarded. One and a half glasses of the strained liquor is added to the ground liver in place of cold water as described in step 2. All other steps of the procedure are followed exactly as described.

This is the method given by Drs. Castle and Bowie in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

USUALLY IT IS 24 OUNCES.

E. writes:

1. When a person is on a milk diet, how many quarts of milk should be taken daily?

2. What kind of milk should be used?

3. Is 3 months too long a period to remain on such a diet, excluding all other foods?

REPLY.

1. The accepted method calls for 6 ounces four times daily, or 24 ounces.

2. Whole sweet milk is generally used. Skim milk and buttermilk are sometimes used.

3. Yes, much too long.

EVEN BABIES HAVE DREAMS.

Mrs. N. P. writes: Is it natural for an infant three months old to cry and smile in his sleep? Lately my baby has been restless during sleep and when I investigated reason for this I find him crying, though fast asleep. He also indulges in chewing his hands, whether hungry or not. Can it be teething?

REPLY.

Babies dream and sometimes they act their dreams. Your child may be overdoing this, but probably not.

All babies chew and suck their hands.

WILL KEEP SOCIETY AWAY.

Mrs. A. Z. writes: What is your opinion of taking 5 grains asafetida to ward off the flu? Is it a builder? A preventive?

REPLY.

If you take asafetida you will ward off society but nothing else.

DISTANTLY RELATED.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the relationship between a daughter and her father's first cousin? What is a first cousin "once removed"? D. B.

Some cases distinguish between the terms "second cousin" and "first cousin once removed," holding that the former applies to persons having a common great-grandparent and that the latter applies to the children of one's first cousin.

Thus, if A and B are ordinary first cousins [having a common grandparent], then A's children are second cousins of B's children, but they are first cousins once removed of B. Other cases recognized that the expressions are so loosely used that "second cousin" must often be interpreted as covering both types of relationship. The terms do not appear in the Illinois statute, and have ordinarily no legal importance.

OUR PUMPKIN CROP

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1864.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Sons of Free Maryland paraded the streets this evening and then serenaded President Lincoln. His speech was carefully written out and read. He referred to Seward's unfortunate phrases about the "contingencies of Democratic successes," and intimated that "whatever might be the meaning of certain dark Democratic threats, he should continue to discharge the functions of the presidency until the 4th of March, and then see that whoever should have been elected in November should assume the duties of office." He closed with a touching reference to the devotion of our soldiers and sailors.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—At daylight on the 15th Glasgow, Howard county, a town of about 2,000, was surrounded by 5,000 rebels under Marmaduke and Clark, who opened a rapid fire from four pieces of artillery without a moment's warning. Col. Chester Harding with six companies of the 43d Missouri, a company of militia, and the Glasgow city guard, about 1,000 in all, fought the enemy desperately for five hours, when they were obliged to surrender. The rebels then burned the city hall and other buildings.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Gen. Douglass telegraphs from Macon City that Shelby has about 5,000 rebels in Howard, Randolph, and adjoining counties. Guerrillas plundered Ridgely, Platte county, on the 16th, and the next day burned Smithville, Clay county. Business has been suspended in St. Joseph. Leavenworth and Kansas City are being fortified.

OCTOBER 20, 1899.

LONDON.—The Daily News special from Cape Town says: "News has reached De Aar junction that the Boers attacked Mafeking and were repulsed. By a feint of the British the Boers were drawn back over Lyddite mines which had been laid for the defense of the town. The mines were then exploded and the invaders suffered terribly. It is reported 1,500 were killed." Skirmishing continued near Ladysmith, but the big battle expected yesterday has evidently been postponed until today. Three hundred wounded Boers have arrived at Johannesburg. Four thousand British troops between Glencoe and Dundee are cut off from Ladysmith and trapped by Gen. Joubert's forces.

CAPE TOWN.—Glencoe camp has been attacked by a great force of Boers, who posted guns on a hill overlooking the town and opened fire. The battle is now in progress. Gen. Joubert is in personal command of the Boer forces engaged in the attack.

NEW YORK.—William H. Appleton, head of the publishing firm of D. Appleton & Co., died in his 68th year.

CHICAGO.—John M. Roach, general manager of the Chicago Union Traction company, was elected president of the American Street Railway association at the close of its 18th annual convention here.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1919.

LONDON.—Viscount Astor of Hever castle died of heart disease, after a year's illness, at the age of 71. His body is at the home of his son, Waldorf Astor, member of parliament, and will be cremated. He renounced his American citizenship and became a British subject in 1899.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tonight's bulletin announced that President Wilson had had a slight digestive disturbance, but otherwise his condition is unchanged. Dr. Grayson throws out the hint that the President is unable to sign bills, and that for the time being they will be allowed to become laws by expiration of the constitutional ten days' time limit.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The fall of Petrograd and the occupation of Kronstadt fortress by the Russian anti-bolshevist forces has been reported officially by the general staff of the Finnish army, according to information reaching the state department.

CHICAGO.—White property owners in that portion of Hyde Park between Cottage Grove and Michigan avenues have organized to fight a further influx of Negroes into the south side residential districts.

TRAFFIC THOUGHTS

Elkhorn, Wis. Oct. 3.—Your editorial "Progress Toward Safety" is pertinent. Police Commissioner Russell's order to concentrate attention for two weeks on the enforcement of stop sign regulations is pure bunk and humbug. It is the old story of the three men who went to sea in a tub to see what would happen. The fact is the police should concentrate attention every day in the year to the enforcement of Chicago traffic laws. Chicago stop and go light signals at through streets and boulevards are as good as any city in the United States but there are not enough of them. Reckless motorists ignore these signals and the police let them get away with it.

Dr. Robertson proposes another careful analysis of the accidents which have occurred with a view to discovering what caused them. This is more humbug. Why theorize when the facts are plain? Enforce the present traffic laws; they are good as far as they go.

The practice of beating the red light in Chicago is an outrage to the outside motorists who are passing through or visiting the city, and no doubt has contributed materially to the motor toll in Chicago. If the city council of Chicago drafts an ordinance abolishing left hand turns throughout the entire city, they ought to be put in a tub and sent to sea. The prohibition against left hand turns is o. k. in congested parts of the city that are sufficiently policed.

Stop lights do prevent accidents in all cities where the police enforce the law. Accidents occur more frequently on street car streets, where they have no stop and go signs and no police. Chicago has more street car streets without police or stop signs than any other large city in the United States.

Reckless motorists and jay walkers do as they like. Take Lawrence avenue going west from Western avenue, Montrose the same. Western avenue, North and South Halsted, North and South Sheffield, North and South Clark, etc. They drive 30 to 40 miles an hour and ignore all side streets. You are taking your life in your hands when you try to walk or drive across a street car street in Chicago.

When I stop for the green light the motorists hoot and butt me from the rear. When I stop one length behind a street car the motorists cut in on me from both sides and stop alongside the street car. You cannot make a left turn on Lawrence avenue west of Western avenue when the police are off duty, without a battle. I find most all street car streets in Chicago no man's land, as police and signs are as scarce as hens' teeth. If the police will enforce all traffic laws they will soon see the light ahead and be able to improve on the present regulations.

Some provision should be made for all side streets off of street car streets. Milwaukee has stop signs on all residential and side streets. The penalty is so severe for breaking traffic laws that very few ever try it twice.

ARTHUR H. RACKETT.

NIGHTMARE.

ON BOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 9.—The Ocean edition of THE TRIBUNE has an article about the figure by Epstein on the new building for the underground, London.

As an architect, I may venture to claim a slightly higher rating as a critic than the taxi drivers whom Mr. Epstein quotes as traveled men of broad minds and therefore competent judges of art. As I, too, have traveled in several countries studying such matters, also, I am an American, whom Mr. Epstein trusts to uphold him in general.

Mr. Epstein left the title unfinished, as he did the alleged work of art. "Night." The subject is clear to all when the title is completed by adding the last syllable, making it "Nightmare," leaving no one in doubt as to the horror he was trying to get off his chest.

To solve the problem as to why any one could be so weak-minded as to spend good money to inflict such terrible stuff on this and future generations and the unoffending public required an alienist.

A. Z. W.

DIPLOMATIC BOUQUETS.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 8.—I have had occasion to read several of your editorials relative to naval parity and foreign relations in general. I have about come to the conclusion that any action taken by our government is wrong unless it coincides with your views.

It seems to be your opinion that any attempt by any foreign power to enter into any agreement with this country has some ulterior motive and that our government is easily duped, which, besides announcing to the world our inferiority, gives the impression that there is nobody honest outside of this country. Ambassadors are appointed to help maintain good will between nations, which means when they attend functions of various kinds they occasionally praise the country to which they are appointed. Any ambassador going over with a flag pinned in his coat, hawking out "Well, folks, here I am from good old U. S. A. I'm going to change this dump," would not only be persona non grata, he would be kicked out quick.

I have read many speeches made by members of foreign governments, and some of the statements they made in which they favored the United States would have reached from one end of the country to the other had a similar statement been made respecting another country by a prominent member of our government. Last week a Labor member deplored the announcement of taking trade away in Canada from the United States at a time when Premier MacDonald was trying to improve relations between Great Britain and the United States. Can you imagine what the reaction would be if the same statement were made by our secretary of state?

FAIR PLAY.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Why should the taxes of the people of Chicago be raised to give the schools more money when the parties who handle it use such poor judgment?

Several years ago a block of modern two flat buildings on Laramie avenue near Hirsch street were bought by the board of education and torn down to make room for a new schoolhouse, but it still lies idle. If the board was not ready to build why did they not wait until they were and in the meantime receive the rentals from the properties? If they had the money why isn't the school built? A TAXPAYER.

POLICEMAN AND COLORED GUNMAN SLAIN IN DUEL

Shoot It Out When Crazed Man Menaces Woman.

Duty called and Policeman George Giovannoni, answering, was killed yesterday. He took part in the chase of a crazed Negro, afterwards identified as Carey Love, 5024 Federal street, who had attempted to kill a woman, and though mortally wounded the policeman put a bullet through Love's head and the hero and the criminal fell dead side by side.

Giovannoni worked nights at the Wabash avenue station. He was 38 years old and married, but had no children. He lived at 6035 South California avenue. Yesterday morning he was shopping in the neighborhood where he traveled beat.

At 49th and Federal streets he chanced upon a scene that was to mean death for him a few moments later. Other policemen were running after a Negro who was firing back at them and they were firing at him.

Gets Warrant in Court.

Mrs. Irene Owens, colored, 5035 Federal street, had gone to the court at the Wabash avenue station, which is at the intersection of 48th street. There she procured a warrant for Love, who had attempted to kill her, she testified. On her return toward her home she again encountered Love.

"Send police to 49th and Federal streets quick!" came a plea over the telephone to the station a few minutes later. "A man is trying to shoot a woman."

Policemen James Best and William Walsh jumped into an automobile and drove the two blocks to 49th and Federal in less than a minute. They saw Mrs. Owens fleeing from a man who had a gun in his hand and who was gaining on her.

They fired at Love and Love fired at them. Giovannoni heard the shots and took in the situation at a glance. He dropped his parcels and drew his gun running to intercept Love. The Negro ran through an alley and into the back yard of 4821 Federal street. Giovannoni was right behind him; Policemen Best and Walsh were a short distance behind Giovannoni.

Shoot Each Other to Death.

At bay, the Negro fired four shots at Giovannoni, the bullets striking the policeman twice in the abdomen, once in the chest, and another in the jaw. Three shots went from the policeman's pistol and the duel to the death was over.

There was nothing for the other policemen — and Policeman Timothy Dwyer, who came rushing to help — to do but take their fallen comrade to a hospital in the hopes he was still living. But he wasn't.

Giovannoni's star will be added to the collection in Commissioner Russell's office, each representing a life given up in the protection of other people's lives and property.

2 Sons, Daughter Inherit Bulk of Sargent Estate

The will of Mrs. Helen Durham Sargent, widow of George M. Sargent, founder of the American Brake Shoe company, was filed yesterday with Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The bulk of the estate is to be held in trust for two sons, William D. and George H. Sargent, and a daughter, Mrs. Anne Sargent Gilbert. Bequests of $1,000 each are left to the Methodist Episcopal Old People's home at Edgewater, the Northwestern University Settlement association, and the Chicago Training school for City, Home and Foreign Missions. Mrs. Sargent died at her home at 1502 Hinman street, Evanston, on Oct. 15.

Glider Record Broken by Former Mark Holder

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Remaining aloft a fraction more than 1 hour and 21 minutes, W. H. Bowlus of this city set a new American glider record. Bowlus bettered his previous mark by a wide margin, using the same sail plane in which the former mark was established.

ACTOR DIES

Ernest Stallard as he appeared in 1903 while playing the part of Mark Tapley in "Tom Pinch."

Ernest Stallard, an English actor, who played in "The Perfect Alibi" during its recent run at the Garrick theater, died of chronic myocarditis Friday night at the Garfield Park hospital.

Mr. Stallard was stricken a few days before "The Perfect Alibi" closed its engagement here on Oct. 12 and he had hoped to rejoin the company at Detroit, where it is now playing. Representatives of the Actors' Fund have cabled H. M. Trouncer and Cecil Trouncer, Mr. Stallard's brother and son, respectively, who are in London, and the body is being held pending word from his English relatives.

Mr. Stallard played the part of Arthur Ludgrove in "The Perfect Alibi." It was around the rôle of Ludgrove that the crime story was woven and Mr. Stallard, as Ludgrove, met death nightly in the play at the hands of murderers.

Mr. Stallard was 64 years of age and had played many important theatrical parts since his arrival in the United States years ago. He was a member of the Lambs' club of New York.

PHILOSOPHIC WORLD HONORS DR. DEWEY AT 70

Praised as Pioneer of "New Reality."

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The pragmatic approach to philosophical and social problems, said to be a trait peculiar to America, was extolled in the person of its chief living exponent at today's double celebration of the seventieth birthday of Prof. John Dewey.

Several hundred teachers, students and admirers of the man who is termed America's foremost philosopher and the interpreter of its life, attended a celebration held in the forenoon at the Horace Mann auditorium. There two professors, George H. Mead and Herbert W. Schneider, expounded the meaning and future of Dewey's philosophy.

Luncheon Follows.

More than 3,000 persons attended a luncheon at the Astor, designed to climax the birthday exercises begun on Friday evening. President James R. Angell of Yale university, a former student of Prof. Dewey, presided.

In paying tribute to teachers and thinkers to whom he felt himself indebted, Dr. Dewey made a plea for "communication and transmission of thought and ideas without restrictions, intimidations or censorship — legal, political or extra legal.

"Externalism," he denounced as the chief American sin against the search of true, inward happiness.

Jane Addams Speaks.

Jane Addams of Hull House fame recalled Dr. Dewey's activities in Chicago. She stressed his fresh, practical, nonacademic attitude toward social problems. She referred to the many Dewey students in many countries who were grateful to their teacher for "helping them to get a foothold in reality."

The traditional, classical, philosophies had a hard day of it.

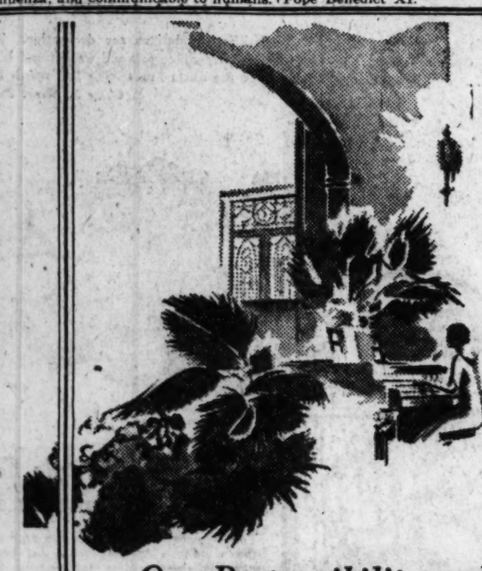
ACTOR DIES, NINE STRICKEN, CARING FOR SICK PARROT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19.—Theatrical circles, stunned by the death Thursday of Humberto Zurlo, the well known actor, are now in consternation by the critical illness of the leading actress, Carmen Mas, and the less serious condition of eight other members of the same company. All contracted psittacosis from a pet parrot, which died first.

It was revealed that the parrot, which played a minor rôle in the theater, recently began to pine, and it was petted and taken care of by members of the cast.

Psittacosis is an infectious malady, contracted by parrots, similar to influenza, and communicable to humans.



Our Responsibility and Our Privilege

For sixty years, the personnel of the Skeeles-Rockefeller organization has been especially trained to provide just the right spirit of respect and dignity which is so necessary in the last ceremonies for the departed.

Skeeles-Rockefeller service fills every need and every desire—richness without ostentation—generous expression without lavish display—simplicity with beauty. Such service is not accidental—it is the result of a great many years of training and experience—it reflects close adherence to the early traditions and policies laid down and emphasized by the founders of this business.

Skeeles-Rockefeller are justly proud of their enviable record—they know they have served best—by serving well. The staunchest friends of Skeeles-Rockefeller are those families whom it has been their privilege to serve.

Every item in a Skeeles-Rockefeller funeral is included in one moderate charge. Two chapels, strategically located on the north and south sides, are easily accessible from any part of the city—conveniently reached by elevated, surface lines or bus. Wherever you live our service is available.

KITTY SMITH, ONE TIME STAR OF BALLET, IS DEAD

Kitty Smith, former premiere danseuse of the Philadelphia ballet and dancer in vaudeville, for whom cigars and perfumes were named during the '80s and '90s, died yesterday at the age of 72 years in her apartment at 4410 Sheridan road. With her were her husband, James W. Thompson, one of the first black face monologists, who toured with his wife for the first 25 years of their married life, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fort Hanford.

KITTY SMITH.

Kitty Smith was born in Philadelphia and brought up four younger sisters by her dancing, three of whom are dead. She was married in 1884 to Mr. Thompson, and toured with him, later carrying on the road, their three children. In Chicago she appeared with him at the Chicago Opera house, the Lyceum and the Majestic theaters, appearing in many extravaganzas, including "Black Crook" and "French Spy." Their two girls, Catherine and Toots, now Mrs. Hanford, also became dancers, forming a team called the McConnell Sisters.

Services for Kitty Smith will be held Monday morning from the chapel at 4437 Broadway to Our Lady of the Lake church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery beside the grave of her son, James.

FALL FROM SILO KILLS R. R. WARD, U. OF I. TRUSTEE

Benton, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Robert R. Ward, a trustee of the University of Illinois, was killed this morning by a fall from a silo on his farm a few miles from Benton.

ROBERT R. WARD.

Mr. Ward was president of the Benton State bank and has served six years as a university trustee. He was elected to the board in 1916 for a full term of four years and in 1927 was appointed by Gov. Small to serve out the balance of the term of Fred L. Wham, an elected trustee appointed to the federal bench. Formerly he was a member of the board of state fair advisers.

He was born at Benton on Aug. 9, 1879, and was a graduate of the University of Illinois law school of the class of 1903.

Mrs. Agnes Buerger, Wife of Police Sergeant, Dead

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Buerger, 34 North Lockwood avenue, wife of Police Sergeant Fred W. Buerger, veteran attaché of Commissioner Russell's office, will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Help of Christians Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Buerger, who was 47 years old and the mother of four sons and six daughters, died Friday at the West Suburban hospital, following a blood transfusion operation. Her husband will have served twenty years on the force on Oct. 29.

Catholic University Controller Is Dead

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Monsignor C. A. Dougherty, controller of the Catholic university and prominent prelate of the Roman Catholic church, died here last night of heart disease. He was 68 years old and was appointed prelate in 1921 by Pope Benedict XI.

Skou, Noted U. S. Painter, Dies in Paris at 52

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Sigurd Skou, noted American painter, died here today at the age of 52.

There Are 3 Hursen "Funeral-Homes"

Chicago has persistently demanded the unusual elegance and reasonable price which are characteristic of all "Hursen" funerals. Every part of Chicago has demanded these two things. That is why there are 3 Hursen "funeral-homes" in Chicago, one each on the North, South and West Sides of the city.

Originally there was only one Hursen "funeral-home." That was and still is now on the West Side. It was there that the Hursen revolution in funeral practice and in funeral prices began. So great was the demand for "Hursen" funerals from the start that this Hursen "funeral-home" on the West Side was compelled to serve every part of Chicago, from 'way south, from 'way north, as well as 'way west.

This is proof that appreciation of "Hursen" quality, service, and price, on a basis never before or since attempted, has been universal in this big city. The same super-elegance, and the same Hursen method are lavished on all "Hursen" funerals, whether they be large or small. They are the standard in America. They have made history. Hursen elegance at a funeral is an evidence of the depth of your own devotion. So, call Hursen, of course!

Paris O.K.'s every Wyle Hat

There's a Smart Style for Every Smart Occasion

The Price is Always $1.88

Headsizes 20½ to 24 Inches

You see them on style-wise young heads everywhere—these chic Wyle Hats with their Parisian lines and details! At the football games—dashing across campus—arriving for afternoon bridge—in rumble roadsters—at the theater—and, of course, wherever there's dancing.

You can hardly believe they cost only $1.88—they are so cleverly designed—so really distinctive—so new in color—the identical styles you have been paying from $5 to $10 for. From maker to wearer—that is the reason for the remarkably low price.

Cunning felts—the bodies of which are imported from Italy—show the new forehead lines—with brims and without—featuring the new tailored details. Velvets, so chic this year, have bows, long backs, the new shirring—and each one of them is fashioned of genuine all-silk Lyons velvet. Tweeds favored by Paris for sports wear are here—Mi-fine metallic hats for evening, untarnishable and very flattering—tinsel trims for afternoon and dress wear.

As to colors—you will find a shade to match any frock or ensemble. And at this low price you can have a different hat for every costume! There is a Wyle Shop near you—you'll find the address below. Drop in and see the charming styles and the wide selections. And remember—all the Wyle Hats are $1.88.

HOLD HUNT CLUB RACES ON PABST FARMS SATURDAY

Only Amateur Riders Are Permitted in Events.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19. — [Special.] — The Oconomowoc Hunt club will hold its first annual point-to-point race meeting on the Pabst farms at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. With the revival of horse interest in Milwaukee horse lovers have been enthusiastic participants in horse shows and hunter trials, but never before have race events been attempted.

There will be three races: A lightweight point-to-point, in which horses carry a minimum weight of 170 pounds; a heavy weight point-to-point with a minimum weight of 190 pounds; and a woman's flat race. The point-to-points will be over about three and a half miles of the country over which the members regularly hunt. From a small hill in the center of the course it will be possible for the spectators to observe the horses take all the fences. The women's flat race will be a straightaway dash for five furlongs finishing at the same point as the other races.

Similar to Steeplechase.

The point-to-point race while similar in many respects to the steeplechase, has decided factors of difference. As the name signifies the horses are raced from the starting point to the distant finish point, traversing all the obstacles which intervene and rarely having to traverse the same obstacle more than once.

Point-to-point races usually are given by hunt clubs and held on land over which they regularly hunt. The obstacles are not artificially placed, but are those which must be jumped while following the hounds. Such races primarily are open to hunt members and riders must be amateurs.

Horses entered in the events on Saturday must be the property of members of the Onwentsia (Lake Forest, Ill.), Milwaukee, and Oconomowoc hunts and must have been regularly and fairly hunted by the owner or member of the owner's family during the present hunting season. Riders must in all cases be amateurs, who will ride either in racing silks or the scarlet coats of the hunting field. No horse which has won a steeplechase is eligible, which makes it purely an amateur sporting event for people who actually are hunting.

Increase Competition.

As a means of increasing competition between the three hunts the Alice W. Prime challenge trophy has been offered for the hunt winning the greatest number of points at each race meeting, the winning horse scoring four points; the second, three; the third, two, and the fourth, one point. For permanent possession this trophy must be won twice by the same hunt.

Other trophies for each race are being presented by Fred Pabst, John Cudahy, M. F. H. of the Milwaukee hunt, and William Brumder and Andrew Montgomery, joint masters of the Oconomowoc hunt. Mrs. Armin A. Schlesinger is presenting individual trophies to the riders of all horses placing in the three races.

Entries Are Satisfactory.

Mr. Montgomery, who is chairman of the race committee, has reported satisfactory entries. Mrs. Schlesinger is putting a horse in each of the three races; John Cudahy will race two horses; William Brumder, two; Fred Pabst, three; Mrs. Orton L. Prime, one; Mrs. Arthur Young, who has persuaded her distinguished brother, Gen. William Mitchell, to come on from Virginia to ride one of her horses, is entering two; Chester Baird, Dr. Stanley Seeger, Thomas Van Alyea, both the Walter V. Johnstons, Brock Fuller and F. W. Magin have entered horses. Robert and John T. Pirie Jr., are entering horses from Lake Forest and Stevenson Jennings also is coming up to ride.

The race committee, of which Fred Pabst is president, and Andrew M. Montgomery, chairman, is composed of the following: Edward A. Bacon, William G. Brumder, Harry A. Collins, John Cudahy, W. Brock Fuller, Walter V. Johnston, John A. McLeod Jr., August Pabst, Fred Pabst Jr., Joseph D. Patton, Orton L. Prime, Thomas S. Van Alyea, and W. Dirk Van Ingen. They have reported that arrangements for parking automobiles have been cared for, the most convenient entrance to the course being from highway 30.

Many Social Functions.

Many social functions are being planned at the time of the races, with a tea at John W. Mariner's followed by a Dutch treat dinner dance at the Majestic hotel. Most of the Milwaukeeans who will attend the races are planning to stay over at Oconomowoc and attend the breakfast at Mrs. Thomas Van Alyea's country place on Sunday morning.

Oconomowoc Hunt Club Ready for Its First Meeting

The Oconomowoc Hunt club of Milwaukee will open its fall season next Saturday with a race meeting. Among the participants, who have been getting in shape for weeks, are, left to right: Fred Pabst Sr., president of race committee; Andrew Montgomery, Mrs. Forsyth Johnston, August Pabst, and Thomas Van Alyea.

KIN OF PULASKI AT MEMORIAL FOR HERO TODAY

Polish Count Will Speak at Stadium.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Milwaukee's 150,000 citizens of Polish nativity or extraction will observe the 150th anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, revolutionary war hero, by a general ceremony throughout the city tomorrow.

Although the actual anniversary day was Oct. 9, the celebration was deferred until tomorrow because of the inability of Count Francis Pulaski of Warsaw, Poland, to arrive here sooner. Count Pulaski is a direct descendant of the famous warrior. He came to America to participate in the national observance at Savannah, Ga., Oct. 9.

Parades, memorial services and programs of music will mark the ceremonies arranged for Milwaukee.

Count Pulaski will be met upon arrival at the Milwaukee road station at 11:15 a. m., by a committee headed by Dr. Alexander Szczepanski, Polish consul general at Chicago.

A parade of nine divisions, made up of Polish lodges, bands, war veterans, firemen and policemen, National Guard units, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, war mothers, and other organizations, will form at First avenue and Mitchell street at 1 p. m., Capt. Leo S. Kosak will lead the parade as grand marshal.

The count will be the principal speaker on the stadium program, which is to begin at 2:30 p. m., under the chairmanship of John C. Klecska, former congressman. Other speakers are Dr. Szczepanski, Milton C. Potter, superintendent of schools, Mayor Hoan and Attorney Francis X. Swietlik, chairman of the Pulaski monument committee.

The Polish Opera club of 300 voices will sing, and there will be solos by Miss Phyllis Nowak, Miss Rose Saskowska and Walter Schwabe.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT! THIS MUSKRAT HAS PAIR OF SPECTACLES

Madison, Wis. Oct. 19.—[Special]—A muskrat that acquired a pair of eye glasses has been found in Lake Mendota but Ronald Waggershauser, a senior at the university, now is using these aids to vision.

Waggershauser dove off the Theta Pi pier last June and lost his glasses. Jack Hayward, Kewanee, Ill., helped him look for them, but they could not be located on the bottom of the lake. Hayward, in taking one of the last swims of the season, noticed something shine in a muskrat house built near the pier and investigated. He found the muskrat had taken possession of the glasses.

THE FIRST MOTOR CAR EVER DESIGNED TO PRESENT A UNIT OF

Harmonized Beauty

THE NEW 1930 HUPMOBILE EIGHT

100 horsepower and 80 miles per hour sheathed in the smartness of an original decorative idea

Revolutionary in its lower price, its extreme comfort and spaciousness, its velvet-smooth performance . . . Yes . . . And revolutionary in body design as well.

For in this new and original motor car, a single modern style motif is used throughout the car.

Never before has one decorative design been used to create a perfect and harmonious ensemble, inside and out . . . For the first time, lamps match instrument board. Radiator cap matches door-handles. The triangular peak in the visor is repeated in the top and back of the body. And again and again in the bumper plates, the emblem, the tops of the lamps, and horn button. Even the little robe-carrier attachments, the ends of the foot-rests, and the face of the rear light carry the same motif. The inside lights chime with the cap to the gasoline tank. And the decoration on the window sills combines flawlessly with the vanity case! . . . Not a discordant note is struck. Not a single fitment is out of key. From radiator to gas tank, from top deck to tires . . . this new Hupmobile is planned to harmonize in a single chord of beauty . . . For power and speed that give an unparalleled performance, for notably luxurious riding, and for an ideal of harmonized beauty never seen before in any motor car . . . visit your Hupmobile dealer today.

BODY TYPES . . . 5 Passenger 4-door Sedan $1595 . . . 4-door Town Sedan $1670, including custom-built trunk . . . 2 Passenger Coupe with rumble seat $1595 . . . 2 Passenger Cabriolet (collapsible top) with rumble seat $1670 . . . 7 Passenger De Luxe Sport Phaeton $1695. CUSTOM EQUIPMENT . . . *available for all models, at amazingly slight extra cost. CHEKA HUNTS FOR WOMAN BANDIT DRESSED AS NUN

Ex-Countess Blamed for Terrorism.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 19.—Special detachments of the Cheka have been sent from Kiev to capture a woman bandit leader, reported to be the former Countess Levitzski, who has been terrorizing communist officials.

According to the Kiev Pravda, the countess, a member of an old Ukrainian family, who has been living quietly in a convent since the revolution, suddenly appeared at her estate, which has been converted into a collective farming community by the government, burning buildings, killing officials and destroying grain.

Want Her Dead or Alive.

A number of tax collecting expeditions, which have been ambushed and murdered in this vicinity during the last month, are believed to have been victims of the countess' band, whom she personally leads, dressed as a nun. The Ukrainian government has ordered the Cheka to bring the countess to Kiev, dead or alive.

The Moscoe press is demanding that soviet officials effect sterner methods to complete the collection of grain from the peasants, who have thus far resisted the government's efforts to compel them to surrender their harvest.

During the last six weeks, 60 farming communities have been burned in central Russia, while in other districts the peasants are openly revolting against the grain collectors.

Peasants Murder Collectors.

The exact number of communists, who have lost their lives collecting the produce tax, is not mentioned in the soviet press but from the numerous attacks and murders reported daily, it is expected the figures will exceed the 400 killed last year. The newspaper Isvestia admits that 20 were killed last week. The most serious peasant uprising was reported to be in the Smolensk and Gomel districts.

Discussing the acute shortage of meat in the cities, the Moscow Economic Life admits that cattle raising in Russia is on the down grade. In 1926, the peasants owned 106,300,000 cattle and 97,600,000 hogs, while this year it has decreased to 96,000,000 cattle and 82,000,000 hogs. The Economic Life blames reduction in livestock upon the unwillingness of the peasant to keep more than a single animal for fear of being taxed.

ROBBER, 17, GIVEN DEATH SENTENCE BY AN OKLAHOMA JUDGE

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—For committing robbery with fire arms Ted Cole, 17, has been sentenced to death Dec. 31 and Emmet Kelly, 29, has received a life term. Both defendants pleaded guilty, but no shots were fired in either case.

Judge Saul Yager, who was promoted to the district bench a year ago, imposed the death penalty yesterday and the life term today. The judge is 34 years old.

Cole was given the death penalty for holding up a bottling works. Cole and his two companions got $412.

Kelly pleaded guilty to robbing a filling station of a few gallons of gasoline. Kelly was a paroled convict. Cole confessed that he had been a robber since he was 11.

Y. M. C. A. TO OPEN NATIONAL MEET HERE TOMORROW

Fight Looms on Move to Alter Constitution.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 354 members of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. will open their sixth annual meeting tomorrow at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The sessions will continue through Thursday. The policies and programs for the nationwide work of the association will come up for review. W. Spencer Robertson of New York, secretary of the American Locomotive company, is president of the council, which is the legislative body of the Y. M. C. A. movement in the United States. He will preside at the sessions here.

Fred W. Ramsey, formerly of Cleveland, successor of Dr. John R. Mott as general secretary of the association, will coöperate with President Robertson as the chief officer of the sessions.

A far reaching change in the constitution will be considered. This plan proposes to place state and training agency budgets under the same scrutiny and control as the national budget. The movement has been sponsored by the Kansas delegation, Lyle O. Armel, general secretary of the Topeka, Kas., Y. M. C. A., will introduce the resolution in favor of the amendment.

Controversy Expected.

The Armel resolution is expected to produce a sharp skirmish on the floor of the council, in as much as it will curb the power of state committees. It charges the state committees have been running out of bounds in budget matters and arbitrary apportionments to local associations. The state committees, it is asserted, have increased their budgets in the face of an order by the national council for the reduction of expenses.

To Prevent Student Program.

The interest of more than 700 student associations in the colleges and universities of the country will be presented by Dean Thomas W. Graham of Oberlin college, chairman of the student division. The total budget of the association for work in the United States and throughout the world, which amounts to $2,500,000, will come up for review.

William E. Speers of New York, chairman of the home division, will report on the work of 1,422 city, railroad, industrial, rural, colored and army and navy associations with a membership which of nearly 1,000,000. These associations have more than 5,000 officers, and $225,000,000 worth of property.

BAR ON POLITICS VOTED DOWN BY M. E. CHURCHMEN

Richmond, Va., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A memorial that would have prohibited Methodist ministers from participating in partisan politics, sponsored by Fred A. Abbot at Norfolk, was ruled out of order at the Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south today by the committee on memorials.

The conservative elements won a decisive victory. Four of the five members of the committee are not in favor of a strict prohibition against the ministers taking part in politics.

The lay delegates, it is reported, are opposed to politics in the church. They want to take politics out of the pulpit and prohibit Methodist ministers from active participation in partisan affairs.

Friends of Bishop Collins, presiding officer, may ask that the committee on memorials be discharged and seek to have the conference decide on the issue.

AUSTRIA ON EVE OF FINISH FIGHT OVER BASIC LAW

Fascist Reform Program to Curb Socialist Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 19.—The fight to the finish between Austria's equally divided Fascists and Socialists starts early next week following Chancellor Johan Schober's initiative in presenting to parliament an outline of the proposed constitutional reforms.

Although the chancellor emphatically denied that the reforms were aimed against the Socialists, he ended up his long address yesterday with a bow to Count Ernst Starhemberg, leader of the Heinwehr and a direct descendant of the Starhemberg who saved Vienna from an attack by the Turks in 1683.

Will End All Delay.

"I remember," Chancellor Schober said significantly, "what the government said in 1683. 'We must lo longer stall. The time has come to act.'"

Under the proposed constitution voting will be obligatory, and the president will be elected by the direct vote of the people. The president's power is greatly increased, permitting him to dissolve parliament or call a special session. He will also have the right to declare emergency laws under extraordinary circumstances, although he must later secure the backing of parliament. He will likewise be commander-in-chief of the army.

Parliament for Vienna.

Striking nearer home, the proposed consultution will create a special parliament for Vienna, which would be the direct capital of Austria but would not be a province as at present, nor the capital of any province. This new municipal parliament would be composed of government members and members of the Vienna city council, thus counterbalancing the present 100 per cent Socialist power with Fascist representation.

Among the multitudinous other reforms, Chancellor Schober proposes the abolition of juries, which, through frequent acquittals, give rise to many scandals, and the substitution of a court consisting of three professional judges and three laymen.

Man in 2 Car Crashes in Hour; Wife May Die

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Returning to the scene of an automobile accident in which he had figured an hour before, Earl Turner was in another crash which may cost the life of his wife. Turner, returning from Chicago earlier in the day, crashed through a billboard and the automobile burned. He suffered burns.

Turner came to Mattoon, got another car, and with his wife started back to the scene of the crash. As they reached it they had a head-on collision with a truck. Mrs. Turner suffered concussion of the brain.

WHAT CONSTITUTES AN UP-TO-DATE AUTOMOBILE?

PICTURE A $20,000 MADE-TO-ORDER CAR

THEN COMPARE IT WITH STUTZ OR BLACKHAWK

Check for yourself the fourteen vital questions listed below

PERFORMANCE WITH SAFETY

Suppose you were purchasing a made-to-order car at a cost of say, $20,000. You would have certain high standards in mind. By such standards we ask you to pass judgment on Stutz and Blackhawk. For your guidance in making such a test, we list the following questions:

1. Would you subject yourself and your family to the dangers of flying glass? Or would you equip your $20,000 automobile with safety glass all around?
I would have ☐ Ordinary glass ☐ Safety glass
Safety glass all around was pioneered by Stutz four years ago.

2. Would you be content with the ordinary three-speed transmission? Or would you prefer the more modern four-speed transmission?
I would have ☐ Ordinary three-speed transmission ☐ Transmission with four speeds forward
The Stutz transmission, with four speeds forward, provides superior performance and longer car life. The trend is toward four speeds.

3. Would you be satisfied with the conventional car which rolls backward on inclines when brakes are released? Or would you prefer Stutz Noback, which automatically prevents undesired back-rolling on inclines?
I would have ☐ Ordinary car without Noback ☐ The added protection of Noback
Noback is among the important safety devices pioneered by Stutz.

4. Would you select the conventional L-head type of engine? Or would you insist upon having the increased efficiency of the valve-in-head engine?
I would have ☐ Conventional type, L-head engine ☐ Advanced type, valve-in-head engine
The Stutz valve-in-head line-eight engine is not only more powerful, it is also quiet, smooth and economical.

5. Would you accept valves actuated by rocker arms, with their greater noise and greater area of wearing surfaces? Or would you insist upon having the overhead camshaft with its direct-acting, simple and quiet valve operation?
I would have ☐ Conventional push-rods and rocker arms ☐ Silent overhead camshaft
As compared with rocker-arm valve mechanism, the Stutz overhead camshaft eliminates 192 wearing surfaces.

6. Would you be content with the single ignition found in ordinary cars? Or would you prefer dual ignition with two spark plugs for each cylinder, insuring greater power and economy?
I would have ☐ Single ignition ☐ Dual ignition
Dual ignition is one of the many features of advanced engineering found on Stutz and Blackhawk.

7. Would you want your engine to have the less efficient single carburetion as originally designed for four-cylinder cars? Or would you prefer the greater engine efficiency made possible by dual carburetion?
I would have ☐ A single carburetor ☐ Dual carburetion
Dual carburetion and dual intake contribute to the outstanding performance of Stutz and Blackhawk cars.

8. Would you be willing to have an automobile equipped with ordinary oil and grease cups? Or would you like the latest, Stutz one-thrust chassis lubrication system which feeds oil to all moving parts of the chassis in one operation?
I would have ☐ Ordinary oil and grease cups ☐ One-thrust lubrication system
One-thrust chassis lubrication is among the many convenience features of the Stutz and Blackhawk.

9. Would you expect your $20,000 automobile to be equipped with ordinary headlights? Or would you prefer Ryan-Lites, which give long range without dangerous glare and which give side-illumination with added protection for night driving?
I would have ☐ Ordinary headlights ☐ New and improved Ryan-Lites
Ryan-Lites, standard equipment on Stutz and Blackhawk, are the only automobile lights that meet all legal requirements everywhere.

10. Would you be content with the conventional bevel gear drive? Or would you have the improved worm drive rear axle which permits the floorboards to be lowered 20 per cent and lowers the center of weight of the entire car?
I would have ☐ Conventional rear axle ☐ Worm drive rear axle
Worm drive is one of the fundamentals of Stutz-Blackhawk advanced engineering.

New Series SAFETY STUTZ AND BLACKHAWK CARS

11. Would your made-to-order car be of the conventional type, with a relatively high center of weight? Or would you build safety into your car by lowering the center of weight?
I would have ☐ Conventional car, relatively unsafe ☐ Safety Stutz with low center of weight
Stutz low center of weight, made possible by worm drive, means better roadability, greater ease of control, improved riding, greater performance and greater safety.

12. Would you be content with the ordinary type of chassis frame, which yields to torsional strains? Or would you insist upon having a massive double-drop frame providing utmost safety?
I would have ☐ Ordinary chassis frame ☐ Massive double-drop frame
The Stutz double-drop frame has seven cross members, five of them tubular.

13. Would you have ordinary running boards suspended on brackets and hence easily collapsible in case of side-collision? Or would you feel safer with Stutz side-bumper steel running boards built integral with frame?
I would have ☐ Running boards suspended on brackets ☐ Side-bumper steel running boards integral with frame
Stutz side-bumper steel running boards integral with the frame protect the occupants of the car in case of side-collision.

14. Would you specify conventional brakes with just ordinary braking power? Or would you feel safer with Stutz Feathertouch Booster Brakes?
I would have ☐ Ordinary conventional brakes ☐ Feathertouch Booster Brakes
Stutz is safest because it can stop in three-fifths the distance required by conventional cars.

In a nation-wide investigation, conducted by an impartial research bureau, owners of four other cars selling at the price of the Stutz were asked to express their opinion concerning six of the Stutz features mentioned above:
97 per cent wanted Safety Glass
66.5 per cent wanted four-speed transmission
90.5 per cent wanted Noback
81.5 per cent wanted low-weighted safety
63 per cent wanted Feathertouch brakes
88 per cent wanted side-bumper steel running boards

Now remember it takes ten other cars to give you ten of the Stutz-Blackhawk features and Stutz still has many major features all its own.

Of course you would want all the advantages mentioned here if you purchased a $20,000 made-to-order car. But think how much easier it is to get them in a Stutz or Blackhawk.

And instead of paying $20,000, you may pay $2995 to $8500 for a Stutz or $1995 to $2735 for a Blackhawk. That's why we ask you come to our showroom and see for yourself these New Series Cars. You will find them the finest and most beautiful cars Stutz ever built.

JOHN O. CRANE WEDS DAUGHTER OF ROMAN COUNT

Bride Descendant of Two Old Royal Families.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 19.—In a pretty family ceremony in the chapel of Palazzo Ruspoli, John Oliver Crane of Chicago and Contessa Teresa Martini Marescotti, a descendant of two of Rome's oldest royal families, were married this morning. Mr. Crane is a son of Charles R. Crane of Chicago, former United States minister to China and wealthy manufacturer.

Although marriages of titled Italian males to American heiresses are a common occurrence, this is the first time that a daughter of one of the houses that constitute the inner circle of Roman aristocracy has taken an American husband.

Bride Wears Stunning Trousseau.

The bride, who is one of the most striking blond beauties in the capital, was stunning in a white satin wedding gown, with a quaint Florentine head dress fitted under a bandeau of pearls and waxed orange blossoms. She wore a white satin veil covered with tulle, full twenty feet long. The train was carried by three pages, children of Donna Giacinta Marescotti del Drago, the bride's sister.

Cardinal Ragonesi, who was to have officiated, was ill and his place was taken by Chaplain Ruspoli, who is a member of the bride's mother's family. A stringed quartet played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mass followed the ceremony.

Groom's Family Present.

Witnesses for the bride were Prince Allessandro Ruspoli, her uncle; Marquis Benozi, the bridegroom's brother, Richard Crane, and his brother-in-law, Jan Masaryk.

Members of the bridegroom's family who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane, Mrs. Mary Russell of Lake Forest, Ill.; Mrs. Emily Chadbourne, Mrs. Louisa L. Uscombe, Richard Crane, Alice Masaryk, and Mr. Mrs. Jan Masaryk.

Following the old Roman custom, the couple drove to St. Peter's after the ceremony and knelt at the three traditional spots in the sacrament chapel, and then before St. Peter himself, where the bride kissed his toe.

Presents for Guests.

The wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents, the Conte and Contesse Allessandro Martei Marescotti. All the guests were given handsome jewel boxes of painted wood with a picture of the famous Tor d Mezza Via (half way tower), where the popes used to rest on their way from the Eternal City to the country seat of Castel Gandolfo. This property belongs to the Marescotti family. Inside the covers of the boxes are medallions containing the names of John and Teresa interlaced, the handwork of the bride.

The couple left this afternoon for the Italian lakes. The Wedding journey will be confined to Italy.

STREET INSPECTOR FALLS DEAD.

James Daly, 45 years old, 3631 South Hamilton avenue, a city street inspector, fell dead of heart disease yesterday in an alley west of Dearborn street, between Randolph and Washington streets.

C. S. DOUGHERTY QUITS STAFF OF STATE ATTORNEY

Attorney Charles S. Dougherty yesterday announced his resignation as an assistant state's attorney to take effect Nov. 1. Dougherty, a holdover from the Crowe régime, was rated as one of the best men on the prosecutor's staff, and Special First Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch expressed regret over his leaving.

C. S. DOUGHERTY. [Mydel Sykes Photo.]

Dougherty, who has been a prosecutor since June, 1925, refused to give any reason for his sudden resignation, but it is known that he thought he was gradually being pushed aside for the new Swanson appointees, and the inactivity caused him to return to private practice. He will join with former Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman under the firm name of Hoffman & Dougherty.

Since his appointment Dougherty has successfully prosecuted 425 cases in which penitentiary sentences resulted. Only two of his cases have been reversed by the Supreme court.

Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal of Maid's Slayer

The state Supreme court yesterday dismissed the appeal of Odo Puschell, 22 year old chauffeur, from a sentence of life imprisonment, imposed in the Lake county Circuit court two years ago for the murder if Miss Wilma Miller, a maid in the home of Thorne Donnelley at Lake Forest. Puschell was convicted largely on the testimony of James Hairston, a Negro janitor, who said Pusc[illegible] was in the house at the time of [illegible]e crime. Puschell contended he was on a train en route to Fort Sheridan.

LINCOLN DRIVE EXTENSION PLAN UP TOMORROW

Bohn to Demand Action on His Resolution.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19. — [Special.]—A definite step toward preliminaries for the extension of Lincoln Memorial drive from Lincoln Memorial bridge south to the county line is to be taken Monday. It will be in the form of a resolution instructing the city engineers and public works officials to prepare estimates of cost and a detailed survey of the route and the feasibility of both financing and construction. The resolution goes to the common council with the recommendation of the council committee on streets and alleys. No opposition is likely in the council.

It was pointed out by the committee that the need for the continuation along the lake shore of a boulevard requiring no stop lights and without cross intersections at grade, has been clearly emphasized by the experience on the north drive since it was opened two weeks ago.

Join in Public Clamor.

The extension is agitated not only by residents along the south shore district of the city, but by civic bodies and motorists from the southwest, west and northwest sides. Residents along the present Lincoln drive, also, have joined the clamor for a through boulevard of this character beyond the city limits to the south.

It has been because of the pressure, regarded as city wide, that Ald. John L. Bohn [23rd] introduced his resolution and intends to get action on it Monday.

"It is felt by virtually every one in the Twenty-third ward, as well as others, that there is a great need for a drive below the bluff at South Shore beach," Ald. Bohn said.

"The highway now skirting the shore line is on the summit of the bluff and numerous requests have been sent to me asking that a new road be built below it."

For a Direct Connection.

"Direct connection of such a drive with the Lincoln Memorial drive by bridge or other means would be an engineering accomplishment that would be recognized throughout the world Ald. Bohn declared.

"It has been suggested that the Lincoln Memorial drive be routed over Wisconsin avenue as far as Broadway, then south to connect with a highway on the south side beach. Although this suggestion has its advocates, most persons I have talked to on the subject, both on the north side and south, believe that a direct connection between the two highways would be the logical improvement.

"The object of my resolution is to get the project in motion and have it placed in the hands of engineers to see what can be done. It is purely an engineering and financial problem. It is one that when solved will bring about closer union between the north and south sides of the city."

Sees Objection Dwindle.

The resolution asks specifically that the desirability and feasibility of extending the memorial drive south over the harbor entrance be investigated, that a survey of the land be made, and that the cost of the plan be estimated.

"Here is an opportunity that ought not be overlooked," Ald. Bohn said. "To one who scans casually the possibility of connecting the drives, it may appear to be a costly venture which should not be attempted for some time to come. When the situation is checked over by engineers, however, it is possible that objections to the project will decrease considerably."

Shocked to Death When He Falls Against Live Wire

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Val Reamer, 24, Grand Rapids, Mich., an employé of the Grand Rapids Blow Pipe company, died today of burns suffered Friday when a large piece of sheet iron he and two other men were lifting at the Nash Motor company plant fell against a high tension wire. Reamer's clothes were ignited. The two men working with him were burned trying to put out the fire. Reamer did not regain consciousness. His body is to be returned to Grand Rapids for burial.

Women Voters' League Open Madison Convention Friday

MRS. W. W. RAMSEY.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19. — [Special.]—Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of Chicago, fifth vice president of the National League of Women Voters, will be guest of honor and speaker Friday evening at the 2 day convention of the Wisconsin League of Women Voters at the Hotel Loraine, Madison.

Friday evening the convention has a league family dinner with talks by two former league presidents, Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Sheboygan, and Mrs. C. J. Otjen, Milwaukee, and an address by Mrs. Mary Kryszak. Mrs. J. H. Rosenstiel, who is another guest of honor and member of the National league, also will speak.

The first morning a general business session will be held with Mrs. Arthur N. McGeoch, state president, presiding. The Rev. A. W. Barstow will give the invocation. Mayor A. G. Schmedeman will welcome the visitors.

Following a business meeting there will be a session called "at work on the league program" with Mrs. Clark E. Daniels, state chairman of International Coöperation to Prevent War, presiding. At this session Prof. Pitman B. Potter will speak on "The World Court." There also will be a model discussion group in charge of the department of international cooperation, Milwaukee County League of Women Voters, Mrs. Phelps Wyman chairman. This model discussion group is carried on by league members with a view to mastering the subject sufficiently to be able to present the league viewpoints and the reasons for it, to legislators. This plan is a new feature for Wisconsin though it has been tried successfully by the National league. Model round tables and a model forum will be features of this ninth annual convention following the same plan, all methods of study having to do with equipping a league member to participate intelligently in government.

The model forum on the regulation of public utilities will be a special feature of Thursday afternoon. Assemblyman Alvin C. Reis will speak on the legislative proposals of the 1929 legislature and State Senator H. B. Daggett will present the opposition made to these proposals Donald Richberg of Chicago will give the consumers point of view.

The Friday luncheon meeting will be for local league presidents, regional directors and members of local league boards. Mrs. M. V. O'Shea, Madison, will preside and there will be five minute talks by state board members and local presidents.

Miss Irma Hochstein is in charge of the model forum and has planned it with a view to inform participants on fundamental principles underlying public utilities and their regulation, with a general discussion of utilities from the power, consumer and government points of view.

The afternoon also will see the staging of a model interview on the Lame Duck amendment, arranged by Mrs. Herman Wirka.

A gala dinner meeting will be held Thursday evening with Gov. Kohler and Donald R. Richberg as the speakers. The governor's address will be on "Accomplishments of the 1929 Legislature."

Mrs. W. G. Bleyer, Madison, will give a report Friday morning of the year's legislative work. There will also be a model round table on county boards of education in charge of Mrs. Henry Meigs, state chairman of education.

The final general session will be held Saturday morning, closing with the introduction of newly elected officers. Mrs. Arthur N. McGeoch, state president, has written to league members saying: "Come and make our work effective and fruitful. The measure of the success of our convention is entirely the measure of the participation of league members in it. Yours for the most helpful, the most inspiring, the most fruitful convention we ever have had!"

CHURCH IS NOT A ROTARY CLUB, BISHOP WARNS

The Christian church neither is a Rotary club nor a mutual benefit society, according to Bishop Irving Peak Johnson, Episcopal bishop of Colorado. Bishop Johnson spoke before a large number of Chicago business men at an Episcopal conference at Taylor hall, Racine. He stated that the church is a compass which points the way to the spiritual life.

The success or failure of the church, in Bishop Johnson's opinion, is not determined by any elaborate system of bookkeeping, but by its leavening effect upon society. The layman's conference closes today.

Confessed Slayer of Girl to Face Court This Week

John E. Preston, 30 years old, confessed slayer of Miss Agnes Johnston, 26, 7824 South Carpenter street, on a lonely road near West Chicago a week ago, will be arraigned before Circuit Judge William J. Fulton this week, probably on Wednesday, to enter pleas to three indictments charging murder, rape, and assault with intent to rape. Preston is being held without bail on the murder charge and a bond of $60,000 on the other two charges. Circuit Judge John K. Newhall has appointed Attorneys Edgar Elliott of Lombard and Herman Grotefeldt of Downers Grove to defend Preston.

Your car will be worth more next year if it's an Eight

You're out of date without an EIGHT!

On every hand you hear people talking Eights. And, what is more convincing, you see them buying Eights.

In 43 states,* for the first seven months of this year, new car registrations above $1000 showed a 94 per cent increase in Eights—an 18 per cent decrease in Sixes. (Five states do not compile registrations by engine types).

Every fine car in America is an Eight. In fact, 41 per cent of all makes of American cars are Eights.

Is it any wonder that thousands intending to buy new Sixes are hesitating?

What is a Six going to bring in next year's trade-in markets? How can it possibly measure up in value with an Eight? Those are the questions that every thinking motorist is asking himself.

Right now, at the price of a Six, you can buy a brilliant new Studebaker Eight. A champion Studebaker Eight with all the extra power, extra smoothness, extra flexibility and extra value that only an Eight can give.

... an Eight built by Studebaker, now enjoying its 77th successful year—now the largest producer of Eight cylinder cars in the world ... an Eight by Studebaker, holder of 11 world records of speed and endurance and more American stock car records than all other cars combined.

Choose an Eight from the three great Studebaker lines of Eights now available at new low One-Profit prices. Your car will be worth more a year from now if it's an Eight.

In Illinois, Eights increased 110 per cent while Sixes declined 12 per cent.*

BRIDE OF 27, WED TO AGED HUSBAND, FACES CONTEMPT

False Testimony Charged in Annulment Case.

Mrs. Leontine Gerard-Gilbert Foley, 27 year old nurse, who married Patrick Foley, 76 years old, 849 North La Claire avenue, three days after she was granted an annulment of her marriage to Joseph Gilbert, reputed adventurer, was given thirty days to show why she should not be held in contempt of court for perjury yesterday by Superior Judge Kavanagh. Four children of her aged husband, all older than Mrs. Foley, charge through their attorney, Walter W. L. Meyer, that she gave false testimony to promote the second marriage.

Mrs. Foley was granted an annulment Aug. 13, 1929, by Judge Kavanagh. In her bill she avered that she was married to Gilbert Feb. 16, 1928, and that he deserted her five hours after the ceremony. She pictured Gilbert as a dashing adventurer, who swept her off her feet in a lightning courtship by promising her a life of ease as mistress of his almost limitless ranch in New Mexico.

Fled with Her Money.

They were married in the Municipal court and set out immediately to purchase furniture for their home, she testified. She entrusted him with her savings of $385 for this purpose. He was undecided after a shopping tour and begged her to put off selection until the next day, she said, and returned to his hotel. The next morning he disappeared with her money.

In her story to the judge she declared that she had never lived with Gilbert and later learned that his name was Gilbert Garmillo. The judge instructed her attorney, Leopold Saltiel, to draw up an order and signed it on the same day. On Aug. 16 she married Foley.

On Sept. 25 Attorney A. W. Main of the law firm of Meyer & Renter, asked to be appointed friend of the court to investigate her story. He produced affidavits to show that Mrs. Foley had lived with Gilbert at the home of Mrs. Esther Larson, 5845 West Lake street, from Feb. 16, 1928 to Feb. 20. He asked that the decree be set aside.

Demurrer Is Overruled.

Yesterday Attorney Saltiel presented a demurrer denying the charge of the affidavits. Judge Kavanagh overruled the demurrer and allowed him thirty days to present an answer. Attorney Saltiel announced that he will ask the first husband in New Mexico to testify for Mrs. Foley.

Attorney Meyer alleges that Mrs. Foley married Foley for his fortune of $9,800. He stated that she has never lived with Foley, but has kept her quarters at 5412 Iowa street and intends to leave for California on a honeymoon as soon as she can leave her nursing duties. He disclosed the fact that Mrs. Foley and her first husband were to buy the furniture, mentioned in her bill, from Foley and charges she attempted to deceive both men.

All attempts of the children to convince their father that Mrs. Foley is a designing adventuress have failed, the attorney said.

Ceremonies at Gary Today to Honor Pulaski Memory

The 150th anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot who was killed fighting in the American Revolutionary army, will be commemorated today at Gary with ceremonies in which all of Lake county will participate. The 133d engineers and the black horse troop of Culver Military academy will take part in the parade. Secretary of State Otto G. Kaid and Col. Sergius Zahorski, chief of cavalry of the Polish army, will attend.

Dominion Envoys to Britian Ask For Diplomatic Status

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Before leaving for Washington, where he will arrive next week to take up his duties as first South African minister to the United States, Eric Louw launched a movement here for a better status for the dominion high commissioners in London. Mr. Louw retired as South African high commissioner here to assume his Washington post.

The high commissioner of dominion governments, which now enjoy equality with the government of Great Britain, is not in London on a level with the representatives of even the smallest of European states, and this handicaps them, declared Mr. Louw when he spoke before the South African Luncheon club here, which was giving him a farewell dinner.

Lord Passfield Replies.

His protest against his unsatisfactory position here was replied to by Lord Passfield, minister for the dominions, who said that there was difficulty in regard to what one might call diplomatic titles and domestic designations.

Mr. Louw later said that Lord Passfield had confused the issue to parry his protest. "In dealing with this matter I have been most careful to avoid mentioning titles or designations. Lord Passfield is avoiding the real issue. My remarks were made after several months of experience as high commissioner in London.

"Apart from any question of a particular title or designation, the status and privileges accorded to the high commissioner of any dominion in London by the British government, should be on the level with the status and privileges accorded to the representatives of any other countries."

Affects British in South Africa.

"My appeal indirectly affects the representative of the British government in South Africa," continued Mr. Louw, "because his position there will be just as difficult as mine was here in London as soon as the ministers of the United States, Holland, and Italy arrive in South Africa."

Mr. Louw's outspokenness, which has caused considerble commotion here, recalls the MacDonald-Mackenzie King discussion at Ottawa, as a result of which the phrase "royal spheres" will be used in proclamations instead of "our dominions."

WOMEN DISCUSS PLANS FOR NEXT FLOWER SHOW

Preparations for the fourth annual Chicago Garden and Flower show were begun yesterday by its executive committee and representatives of clubs affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs who met at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. The show will be held from March 28 to April 5, 1930, at the Sherman.

By their early start on plans leaders of the project hope to inspire amateur gardeners to prepare exhibits that will surpass those of other years. The women's clubs, as well as any other organized group interested in gardening, are to compete in twelve classes for amateurs. Ribbons, medals, and cash prizes totaling $800 are to be awarded.

The schedule of competitions adopted at the luncheon includes exhibits of table decorations, exterior window boxes, interior window boxes, sun parlor decoration, floral or fern arrangement for room decoration, miniature home grounds, flower arrangement in shadow boxes, and bud and bark effects, and garden or flower posters.

One of the most interesting of the competitions, Leonard H. Vaughan, chairman of the executive committee, said, is that of miniature home grounds.

"The exhibits are not to be shown merely as individual models," he said. "They will be assembled as a miniature suburb, representing the best modern ideas of suburban development."

James H. Burdett, secretary of the committee, explained that each club making five entries will be given a hundred tickets to be sold for expense money. Mrs. Charles E. Caldwell, state garden chairman of the Illinois federation, presided. Central committees organized by the federation are to manage club competitions, she said, but stressed the fact that all other clubs interested in gardening are eligible to compete.

TWO BARRACKS BURNED.

ILLINOIS boy is Prize Winner . . .

"BILLY seemed to be out of sorts and fretful a lot," says Mrs. W. I. McClure, 7702 Cregier Avenue, Chicago. "He was sallow and bilious; didn't want to eat and couldn't digest his food right.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that, and made him a different boy. It regulated his bowels quickly; improved his appetite and digestion. He has had no trouble since; but has continued to gain until today friends say he's a regular prize winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise rich, fruity California Fig Syrup. Physicians have endorsed it for over fifty years. A pure vegetable product, it is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Appetite increases; digestion improves with its use! A youngster's entire system benefits. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see!

When buying, look for the name California that marks the genuine.

38 PLANES LAND AT MILWAUKEE IN NATIONAL TOUR

2,000 at County Airport See Aerial Armada.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An aerial armada of 38 planes landed at the county airport shortly after 3 p. m. today, completing the Wausau to Milwaukee leg of the national reliability air tour in a few minutes more than an hour.

Wyley Post, flying a Lockhead plane, made the hop in one hour and three minutes, landing first, and Forest O'Brine of St. Louis Robin endurance flight fame, landed second. He was disqualified, however, a few days ago.

13 Planes Carry Passengers.

Twenty-five of the planes are contestants in the race, now led by Stanley Livingston, and 13 carried officials and accompanying passengers. The planes will leave at 10 a. m. tomorrow for Moline, Ill. The tour started Oct. 5 at Detroit, where it will end.

About 2,000 persons gathered at the field for the landing. Drizzling rain made visibility poor and the beacon light was turned on for the pilots.

A dinner and entertainment were provided the men on the tour at the Plankinton hotel by the Milwaukee chapter of the National Aeronautic association, under direction of John M. St. Nichols, vice president of the Milwaukee organization. Clarence Falk, president, welcomed the flyers, but there were no other speeches.

Entertain Women Flyers.

The two women contestants in the race, Mrs. Keith Miller and Mrs. May Hazlit, and Mrs. Frances Harrell, who was forced out of the competition when her plane cracked up at Cincinnati, were guests of Mrs. Stuart Auer over night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schory, Milwaukee, were among the passengers in the accompanying planes. Mr. Schory is a representative of the Hamilton Aircraft corporation.

The tour, besides bringing the largest number of planes ever to land at the Milwaukee airport, brought a number of noted flyers, including George Haldeman, Ruth Elder's pilot; Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, record endurance pilots; Capt. Frank Hawks, nonstop transcontinental record holder and Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic flyer.

Directory Puts Population of Milwaukee at 596,432

OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF A CHURCH TODAY

Oldest Protestant Body in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Commemorating the 100th anniversary of the oldest Protestant church in the state, the landmarks committee of the Wisconsin Historical society will unveil a tablet Monday at Allquez, near Green Bay, on the site of Cadle mission, the first Episcopal mission in Wisconsin.

The Rev. Benjamin F. P. Ivins, coadjutor bishop of the Milwaukee diocese, Dr. Louise Kellogg, Madison, of the State Historical society, and Col. Howard Greene, chairman of the landmarks committee, will speak. The program begins at 1 o'clock. Preceding it, the Christ Episcopal church, Green Bay, will celebrate its centenary.

Both Cadle mission, south of Green Bay, and Christ church were founded in 1829 and placed in charge of the Rev. Richard Fish Cadle. The story of the Rev. Mr. Cadle's work among the Indians as director of the mission and of his services as rector of Christ church will be told by Col. Greene in his address Monday.

The Rev. Ivins will speak on early missionary work, and Dr. Kellogg will talk on "the French regime." The unveiling of the tablet will be done by the small daughter of the Rev. Mager MacMurray, who is the present rector of Christ Episcopal church.

The Rev. Mr. Weller, Fond Du Lac bishop, and the Rev. Mr. Wilson, bishop of Eau Claire, are expected to speak.

INVITES DETECTIVE TO HELP HIM HOLD UP STORE; LANDS IN JAIL

Milwaukee, Wis. Oct. 19.—[Special]—Detective John Heebler was astounded tonight when a strange man made a proposition to him to hold up the Marchowsky department store at Portage.

The stranger had addressed the detective as "Jack," and later confessed that he had mistaken the policeman for a Minneapolis gunman whom he had not seen since leaving the penitentiary.

"If you'll haul out with a car I have spotted," he told Heebler, "we can get into Portage and back before midnight with a roll that will choke your pants leg."

The encounter of the detective and the holdup planner occurred near the former's home near Ninth street and Sherman boulevard, and during the conversation they walked toward the corner. When under the lights the officer turned on the man and put him under arrest. He gave the name of Frank Radoff of 617 11th street.

Detective Heebler called the wagon and Radoff was taken to Central station where he is charged with "advising the commission of a felony". The charge is an unusual one but will be sufficient to hold the prisoner until court on Monday. Meanwhile his record is to be investigated.

Stage Airplane Parade in Wisconsin Avenue Today

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A parade of airplanes through Wisconsin avenue from Juneau park to the court of honor is scheduled to be held at noon Monday. All motor and street car traffic will be routed off the main artery during the hour the parade is expected to consume.

DIES OF INJURY FROM FALL.

Henry Reimann, 50 years old, 1874 Maud avenue, died last night in Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he fell on alighting from a street car in front of 1886 Clybourn avenue.

GIRL'S SCREAMS IN VACANT LOT FRIGHTEN MORON

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A 5 year old girl was lured into a vacant lot at 39th and Townsend streets tonight by a supposed moron. The man, described as middle aged and wearing a dark suit and dirty light shirt, offered the child candy and attempted to tear her clothing off. He tried to stifle her screams, but fled when he was unsuccessful.

Walker's Skull Fractured When He Is Struck by Auto

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Despite the slippery condition of the streets here tonight only one serious accident was reported at the Emergency hospital. Herman Griep, 1065 33d street, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by the automobile of Erwin H. Waltersdorff, 1488 Bremen street, at 27th and Hadley streets. His condition is critical.

DOCTORS TRY TO TRACE CAUSE OF TYPHOID FEVER

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Although tests of city water have failed to reveal any traces of typhoid fever germs, city officials today were making a vigorous effort to trace the source of six cases of fever and 12 suspected cases. All of the cases, it is said, have originated during the last three weeks, during which the city's water supply has been contaminated.

An old abandoned artesian well in a new channel dug for the river was found as the source of the contamination. Authorities found that 15,000 gallons of water, containing large quantities of industrial waste, were being emptied down the well daily.

Contaminated water also has been discovered at Brandon and Randolph, near here. At Brandon seven wells are contaminated, while at Randolph the water supply was found contaminated with creosote. Chlorination systems have been installed both here and in Randolph.

Gilda Gray's Son Picked Up and Fed by Policemen

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Martin Goercki, son of Gilda Gray, screen actress and dancer, was picked up by traffic officers today as he was walking with two companions to Chicago to see a football game. He also is known as Martin Gray and lives at 601 Edgerton avenue, Cudahy. With Walter and Joe Markiewicz, also of Cudahy, a start was made late Friday night with the intention of picking up a ride. Motorists failed to respond and, penniless, they reached Kenosha. Police fed them and returned them to their home.

OLD COLONY LIFE INSURANCE CO. FOUND SOLVENT

State Plea to Dissolve Concern Is Denied.

The Old Colony Life Insurance company, 168 West Jackson boulevard, was found solvent yesterday by Circuit Judge Feinberg in dismissing a petition for an injunction sought by the state to dissolve the company on the allegation that its assets were impaired. The judge upheld the recommendation of Master in Chancery Max Kershak and dismissed the state's bill for want of equity.

The company was founded in 1905 as the American Mutual Life Insurance company and changed its name in 1912. It has approximately 50,000 policy holders. On April 27, 1929, Attorney General Carlstrom sought the injunction on charges that the company's liabilities exceeded its assets by $600,000. The petition blamed the company's speculations in Florida real estate.

The suit was brought after Leo H. Howe, state director of trade and commerce, completed an examination which gave assets as $4,209,276 and set the liabilities at $4,568,078.

Company officials set the value of their building at $4,000,000 and fixed the price of the Florida land holdings at $885,000. With other accounts they contended that the assets were $2,000,000 above the liabilities. The Florida land has valuable phosphate deposits, which were not estimated by the state, the officials declared.

COAL

POCAHONTAS

MINE RUN

$7.05 Per Ton

Building owners are realizing that their earnings are less each year. This condition must be met by cutting the operating cost. It is not only necessary that you see the price per ton you pay for coal, but imperative that the costs for coal be reduced each month. This can only be accomplished by buying more heat units and paying less per ton.

United States Government and City of Chicago pay for heat units when they buy Pocahontas Coal. You can do the same.

We guarantee you 15,000 B. T. U., dry basis in our Pocahontas and agree to a deduction of 5c per ton for each 100 B. T. U. under the 15,000 B. T. U.

Weekly Hints to Building Owners

Business is where friendship ceases, except perhaps in the buying of retail coal. That is because the man who pays the bill lets someone else buy the coal for him and then there is the ever ready excuse that this is the price charged by the reputable dealers. Of course it is not always necessary to belong to an association to be reputable.

The Marine Coal Co. is owned by West Virginia mine operators to distribute their coal direct to the consumer, giving quality coal with the benefit of the rail and lake differential in the freight rate.

Storage capacity, 80,000 tons. Daily delivery capacity, 3,000 tons. 4 silos, holding 500 tons each, for dry coal.

2 steam cranes for quick loading. 18 Mack trucks for prompt service.

Efficient building managers take advantage of our savings. Among our valued customers are: Marshall Field & Co., Baird & Warner, Draper & Kramer, Willoughby & Co., and more than 2,000 homeowners.

PUT GREEN SOD ON SHOULDERS OF HARD ROADS

How Downstate Beautifies Route No. 2.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A few miles south of Vandalia, on Illinois route No. 2, a crew of highway workers is lifting sod from drainage ditches at the edge of the right of way and planting it on the dirt shoulders bordering the concrete.

The laborers engaged in this duty appeared like an exaggerated dramatization of a complaint frequently heard from Chicago motorists—that pavements beyond a Sunday's touring distance from the city are pampered at the expense of the highways in the metropolitan area.

Cook county pays approximately half of the state highway department's maintenance bill, as well as for half of the pavement.

Roads Joy to Driver.

The highways downstate here, which Chicago helped finance, are a joy to the automobile owner who likes to drive for the sake of driving as much as to get somewhere. There isn't the heavy traffic found within a radius of a hundred miles of Chicago. Curves are flattened, the concrete is smooth, and grades are gentle.

The occasional car whirrs up a wooded hill, tinted by frost, and swoops through cultivated valleys at any speed that may please the driver. There are even railroad grade separations in the downstate district known as "Little Egypt," where automobiles are few and trains are infrequent, a deep contrast with the metropolitan area.

Bridge Railroad Tracks.

State route No. 2 makes an overhead crossing of the Illinois Central tracks at two places between here and Duquoin, seventy-eight miles north.

For fifty miles north of the southern tip of the state there are scenic hills that have been called the Ozarks of Illinois. It is mountain driving under the most favorable conditions offered by highway engineers. Neatly painted white fences guard the outside shoulder of the roads at the turns. Extensive grading and filling have made it possible to maintain a 40 mile an hour pace. This was expensive construction, but Illinois has Chicago to pay half the bill while the Small administration was winning votes.

Few Dangerous Curves.

In fact, there are only three or four dangerous curves in the 399 miles from Chicago to Cairo. These are marked with large sign boards in red and white diagonal stripes bearing the legend "danger."

Strangely enough, these sharp curves are in prairie country where it would be a simple problem to moderate the angle. The expert highway engineering was reserved for the difficult tasks encountered in the hills. No highway engineer can make a reputation for himself designing a gentle turn in flat country.

A large portion of the cars on the roads hereabouts are carrying tourists' gear and headed southward. The majority of these machines would sell for less than $750 on the second hand market.

Laborers Going South.

There are no statistics on the subject, but it appeared that skilled laborers are to drive south for the winter in greater numbers than prosperous business and professional men.

The chamber of commerce here, in pointing out the benefits of the $3,100,000 bridge over the Mississippi dedicated yesterday, boasted that 500 cars a day are passing through the city.

WON'T DIG RENT UP, WON'T MOVE, SO SIEGE IS ON

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The siege of 429 West 23d street, with Mrs. Tillie Hart as the besieged, still was in progress today.

Last night, after her landlords had obtained a court order directing her to pay up $600 back rent or move within five days, Mrs. Hart said:

"There's one thing in the world I can't do, and that's raise $600. I'm going away from here."

But today, surveying the surrounding terrain, at present just a lot of big holes in the ground where there is going to be built a big apartment hotel as soon as she gets out of the way, she changed her mind.

She went back to her original determination to remain until her lease expires next June, let wrecking crews come as they will. She's looking for the $600.

"I am not going to move," she said doggedly. "It's a matter of principle."

The house she occupies once was owned by Clement Moore, who wrote "'T'was the night before Christmas."

end to CORNS between toes

Those terribly mean corns between the toes that seem to defy all treatment—they're as easily removable as any other with Freezone! A few drops of Freezone instantly put the corn to sleep. Pain is deadened at once, and soon the corn becomes so loose that you can actually lift it right out with your fingers. Hard corns or soft corns—all yield to Freezone. Why suffer when your druggist sells Freezone?

SUPREME COURT REVERSES 1927 GAS TAXES CASE

Refund Not in Order, Says Opinion.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Illinois Supreme court today reversed and remanded the cases of the Richardson Lubricating company and Indiana Refining company against state officials in which the Sangamon Circuit court held that taxes collected under the illegal motor fuel act of 1927 and held by the department of finance be returned to the companies from which it collected the tax.

The decision, which was prepared by the late Justice Dietz, holds that the companies are not entitled to collect. The payments to the department of finance, it is held, were made under the impression that the law was valid, and not under duress.

Illegal Phase Overlooked.

"It does not appear," said the decision, "that the complaint here regarded the tax to be illegal or that it questions the validity of the act. Neither is it shown that the complainant objected to the operation of the act or to the payment of the tax thereby imposed. On the contrary, the bill avers that as soon as the act became effective the complainant applied for and took out a license there under, made all of the reports and payments thereby required and was operating under such license at the time the payment in question was made."

Payment Voluntary.

In summing up, Justice Dietz said: "The only fair conclusion that can be reached from the allegations of the bill and answer and the legitimate inferences to be drawn therefrom is that the payment was made voluntarily. It is well settled that in the absence of fraud taxes so paid cannot be recovered even though they are illegal because laid under an unconstitutional law where there is no statute authorizing such recovery. No fraud is charged in the bill, and the answer avers that the defendants were advised and believed that the act was invalid. It is not claimed that a recovery is authorized by statute."

DILL ADVOCATES TARIFF DEBATES BE BROADCAST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Broadcasting of the debates in congress was urged in a radio speech today by Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.].

Dill, speaking on a farm program, declared if "you farmers could listen in on some of the tariff debates now going on in the United States senate you might understand better how it happened that the farmers get very little out of a tariff bill."

KEWANEE

When you build a costly building and install in it an inefficient heating boiler, you have a white elephant on your hands. Many modern buildings house from 5,000 to 10,000 workers. If the boiler breaks down during extremely cold weather, none of these folks would be able to work and thousands of dollars in time wasted.

How long would the tenants remain when you consider that with such a boiler, such a condition is apt to arise frequently during the Winter? That's why we advise you to Build from the Boiler Up.

The tenant is the building's asset. Its success depends on him and he won't stay if he isn't comfortable, and if he is often in danger of serious colds. This proves that the heating boiler is the most important feature in the buildings, and should have FIRST consideration in the plans.

The Kewanee All-Steel (riveted) Firebox Boiler has proved the salvation of many of the finest buildings in this country—office buildings, public buildings, apartment buildings, school houses, churches, mercantile marts, warehouses, depots and others, because it doesn't break down, or get out of order or crack or leak. It is always there when needed most. It is built to last an indefinite number of years. It is constructed of the same class of material and in the same manner, as the world's great steamships, locomotives, and bridges. It is an engineering and mechanical triumph.

Ask the manager of our branch office in your city. Ask the best architect you know—the best heating engineer.

GASTONIA MEN NOT GUILTY IN FLOGGING CASE

Jurors Deliberate Less than an Hour.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Concord, N. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Four Gastonia cotton mill men were found not guilty this afternoon in the Ben Wells flogging case by a jury in Cabarrus county Superior court. It took a shirt sleeved jury of farmers and merchants an hour and twenty-five minutes—an hour of which was taken up by lunch—to arrive at the conclusion that the Loray mill foremen had tried to save the communist organizers instead of spank them.

Ben Wells, the Britisher, was the only one of the trio to bear bruises on his body one morning last month when he wandered in from the woods with Cliff D. Saylors and C. M. Lell. Today he was too busy "speaking" in the north to appear, but sent word he would show up Monday. In Judge A. M. Stack's court time waits for neither tide nor man, so Wells' story was read into the records by Solicitor Zeb Vance Long.

Jurors Take It Easy.

There was little ceremony in the old fashioned courtroom where the mill men were tried. A great American flag hung behind the judge's bench. Judge Stack sat in an easy chair and tugged at his short mustache as the lawyers questioned witnesses, and the jurors half reclined, the better to show their marksmanship in squirting at a sawdust filled box.

There was nothing of communism, God, religion, and politics that had marked the preliminary hearing before Judge Thomas J. Shaw in Charlotte, but all the old and young familiar faces were there. The Aderholt trial in Charlotte had been put over until Monday, and among those in the courtroom was Solicitor John G. Carpenter of Gastonia. Solicitor Carpenter, with a fresh flower in his buttonhole—he had worn out two the day before in his histronic and historic address to the jury—had come to defend his name from the witness stand, for he had been accused of "leading the mob that flogged Wells." Mr. Carpenter, however, did not tell his tale.

Judge Vindicates Him.

"We know you had nothing to do with this flogging," said Judge Stack as the solicitor climbed into the floor level witness chair and hunched his knees under his chin. "I consider it irrevelant that you appear in this case. Step down."

There were fifty-two witnesses for the defense and five for the state. There were five full blooming oratorical explanations of the case made to the jury by lawyers, and there was a charge by the court, but tonight the mystery of who spanked Ben Wells has taken its place in history along with that of who struck Billy Patterson.

Kidnaping Case Next.

Next week, in Gaston county, another jury will consider the matter of who kidnaped the three unionists from their boarding house gallery and took them for a ride the night the juror went crazy and broke up the first Aderholt murder trial in Charlotte.

The men freed today were O. G. Morehead, superintendent of Loray mill at Gastonia; Carl Holloway, Dewey Carver, and Horace Lane, employes of the mill. Each man had half a dozen air-tight alibis and used them all.

PANTAGES TO ENTER WITNESS BOX TOMORROW

Los Angeles, Cal. Oct. 18.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages will take the witness stand in his own defense Monday at the resumption of his trial on a charge of assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, attorneys for the theatrical magnate announced today.

They said the defendant, who contends the accusation against him is the outgrowth of a blackmail attempt, would undergo two hours of direct examination. District Attorney Buron Fitts said he expected the case to reach the jury some time next week. He intends to conduct the cross-examination of Pantages.

Booker T. Washington Jr. Sues for a Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal. Oct. 19.—(AP)—Booker T. Washington, Jr., son of the noted Negro educator, today filed for divorce from Nettie H. Washington, charging she had been guilty of infidelity.

NEW ALIEN ACT FAVORS LAWLESS, GLENN ASSERTS

Raps Law in Talk to German Club.

Lawless peoples are welcomed and industrious peoples turned away under the national origins law which went into effect last July, it was declared by United States Senator Otis F. Glenn at a luncheon yesterday of the German club of Chicago.

"The law," said Senator Glenn, "has decreased the quotas of immigrants entering the United States from the northern areas of Europe and increased the quotas from southern Europe. Some of these southern European races are those whose people have brought crime and national disgrace to Chicago, and yet we have changed our laws to bring more of them to America, and less of the law-abiding, law-loving German and Scandinavian peoples."

Germany's Quota Cut.

The senator presented figures showing that Germany's quota had been reduced from 51,227 per year under the old act to 25,957 under the new. England's quota is increased from 34,007 to 65,721. The aim of the law was to base the number of immigrants from each country on the ratio of the ancestral nationalities of the present citizens of the United States.

"I dispute the wisdom of going back into colonial days to establish what peoples are desirable today," Senator Glenn asserted. "Can a colonial dame throw hay on a haystack? No!

"Go into New England today, the land where the first Americans settled, and what do we see? Deserted farms, empty villages, abandoned mines. The land has become barren through use. Here in the great central United States, and in the virile west, may be found the real types of citizens whose usefulness to their country should determine whether more of their kind should be admitted to this land."

Sees Tariff Bill Doom.

Senator Glenn asserted that the tariff bill now under consideration in congress is doomed not to pass. There are too many unwise provisions in the bill, having no connection with the original purpose of the session, which was to give relief to agriculture, the senator asserted.

LAY BOMBING TO POLITICAL FUSS IN 50TH WARD

The factional fight in the 50th ward is believed by the police to be the cause of a stench bomb explosion early yesterday at the home of Michael Kelly, 6157 North Richmond street, a building contractor and a former policeman. The rival Republican factions in the north side ward have been fighting over a period of several years and not long ago a meeting broke up in a riot.

Kelly was complaining witness against Michael Maloney, also a contractor, who was sentenced to six months in the bridewell two years ago. Maloney through some procedure escaped serving the sentence until the matter was recently called to the attention of the state's attorney's office. Maloney was then arrested and after two weeks of dispute between the authorities he was lodged in the bridewell Thursday.

The bitter feeling caused by politics in the ward had caused charges and counter charges to be made against various minor political figures in the ward. Several fights have also occurred.

GETS 10 YEARS ON GIRL'S PLEA.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Dan Blackwell, a Negro, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary when found guilty of attacking a girl of 13 years.

RUPTURE

Don't submit to avoidable operations or the use of antiquated trusses with or without understraps, as they all set where the lump is and not where the opening is. The opening is seldom larger than a dime [no matter the size of the rupture], and all cases can be retained with the end of a lead pencil.

"The Spermatic Shield-Complex in combination with the Retainer-Simplex [Patent No. 747247 and other patents pending]—a scientific achievement in a highly specialized art. It will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or [scrotal ruptures [following operations] specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions, with distinguished, personal patrons of all nations."

"If you want done what the rest cannot do—see Seeley."

Will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired.

N. B.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State courts.

Tune in on "Mr. and Mrs."

. . Cartoonist Briggs' "comic section of the air"! Graybar Hour, 8 to 8:30, every Saturday night. Columbia Broadcasting System.

For the center of any family circle . . .

GRAYBAR SCREEN GRID RADIO

THE whole family loves to gather around the radio now . . . And what a radio it is, this new Graybar Screen Grid!

Just listen to it!

Listen to music that fairly sweeps you away . . . music warm and vibrant! Rich with gorgeous "tone-color"! Vivid!

It's the new Screen Grid tube that does it. With these wonderful new tubes, reproduction is so faithful that radio performers seem to come to life right in the room.

Another thing. How this Graybar Screen Grid Radio does bring in the distant stations! They come in, clear and true, in no time! And what selectivity! (Again, it's done by the marvelous Graybar Screen Grid Circuit with the Screen Grid tube—virtually "two tubes in one"!)

Nor is that all. The Graybar Radio is housed in an unusually distinctive cabinet . . . trim, artistic lines . . . exquisitely grained wood . . . lovely tapestry covering. A beauty! The kind that "grows" on you.

And remember, its through-and-through quality is backed by Graybar, the oldest electrical distributor, and outfitter-complete to practically all of the leading broadcasting stations in this country.

Nowhere in all radio tube-dom are there better tubes than RCA Radiotrons, Graybar believes. That's why Graybar distributes them.

One would certainly never suspect for a moment that this marvelous Screen Grid Cabinet Model No. 550 costs (less radiotrons) only . . $179

(And this price includes—believe it or not—an improved electro-dynamic loudspeaker!)

The Graybar Screen Grid Table Model No. 500, is also surprisingly moderate in price at (less radiotrons) . . . $110

The 24-hour sun bath!

Here's an indoor sun that shines in any weather . . . in the winter . . . at night . . . on gloomy days . . . anytime! At the snap of a switch, the Graybar Sunshine Health Lamp duplicates real sunshine—safely—and brings it where it's wanted. It's a health necessity for indoor people . . . for children . . . for "shut-ins".

Compact, too. Only 20 inches high. Weighs 24 pounds. But the big surprise is the price. Only . . $49.50

Have poise—instead of avoirdupois!

Many a woman is keeping the trim, slim figure demanded by Dame Fashion today—thanks to the Graybar Stimulator. This compact little health motor does marvels in taking off surplus flesh—pleasantly!

But it does more than that. It peps one up. Chases fatigue. Renews youthful vigor. Brings the healthy glow that adds so much to one's personality!

Varying gradations of massage, to suit every need. Simple construction. Easy operation.

Tip: It's good for husbands, too. A practical way to get that necessary exercise. And it's also a splendid value! The price is only . . . . . $59.50 Table free

(And remember . . . you get a table free!)

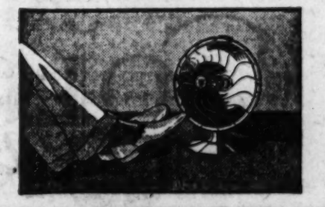
A "whole handful" of vacuum cleaner. The Graybar Cleanerette weighs only four pounds—but it's a little giant for cleaning curtains, mattresses, upholstery,—and the inside of your car. It's just made to get at difficult corners! $13.50

Ask your dealer about the Vaporette Set

For husbands who can't sew . . . Here's a washer that won't take off buttons! The Graybar Two-Speed Clothes Washer's soft rubber wringer rolls see to that! This washer has a special slow speed . . . safe for dainty things. It also has a fast speed . . . to wash every-day things quickly and thoroughly. $165.00



No "cold spells" here

Banish that "shivery" feeling! When cold Fall winds blow—sit back and bask in the cheery warmth of a Graybar Reflector Heater. It's dependable . . . portable . . . good-looking. Indispensable, these brisk mornings and chilly evenings! And convenient for Baby's bath, too. $7.50

Northwestern — Burnstein for Calderwood, Gens for Oliphant, Baxter for Moore, Haas for Hanley, Reil for Haas, Hang for Marvil, Clark for Erickson, Evans for Woodworth, Griffin for Baxter, Eylar for Baker, Engebretsen for Hang, Spivey for Evans, Davis for Anderson.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Powerful Minnesota was forced to call on its reserves both in the line and in the back field yesterday to overcome a Northwestern eleven whose spirit was greater than its strength. Minnesota's reserves were equal to the task and when the final whistle was blown in a colorful Dads' day game at Dyche stadium the score was recorded Minnesota, 26; Northwestern, 14.

For three quarters the battle thrilled the 40,000 onlookers. Minnesota was in the lead at the end of the first quarter. Northwestern was in the lead at the end of the half. Minnesota forged ahead again in the third quarter, and Northwestern again shoved the Gophers back. But in the fourth and final period, Coach Spears called for that reserve division. The Purple tried to match the new power with fresh strength and couldn't. Northwestern's line weakened under the determined thrusts of hardier foes and its back field faltered and failed to rally.

If the game had ended at the close of the third quarter the records would have shown Northwestern, 14; Minnesota, 9. The fact that the Norsemen garnered 17 points in the fourth quarter testifies to the power of those reserves.

Good Start for Gophers.

It was Minnesota's first conference victory of the fall. The Gophers are now started on the path they hope will lead to a Big Ten title. If they continue to play as they did yesterday it will take a mighty good team to stop them. Their line is strong and their back field has power and versatility.

Just as the victory set Minnesota's feet on the trail to a title, so Northwestern's defeat dimmed Purple titular hopes. Coach Hanley's team won a costly triumph over Wisconsin a week ago. Hank Bruder, great punter, great runner, and great defensive back, suffered a broken leg. Northwestern missed him yesterday. No member of Northwestern's back field could take his place. None of them played better than a mediocre game.

Minnesota's back field in contrast had three stellar performers in Pharmer, Nagurski and Brockmeyer. Pharmer place kicked unerringly for eight points and dash through the line for two touchdowns. Nagurski plunged for yardage and made it; Brockmeyer scored a touchdown, ran the ends brilliantly, and punted fairly well.

The Norsemen mixed a fine end running attack with short, hard jabs at the opposing tackles. Oliphant, who played right end for Northwestern, solved the Minnesota flank movement better than did Baker, his colleague on the other end. It was Gonya, substituting for Oliphant, who failed most disastrously to stop a Gopher sortie with Brockmeyer carrying the ball, which was turned into a scoring chance.

Northwestern's best gains were

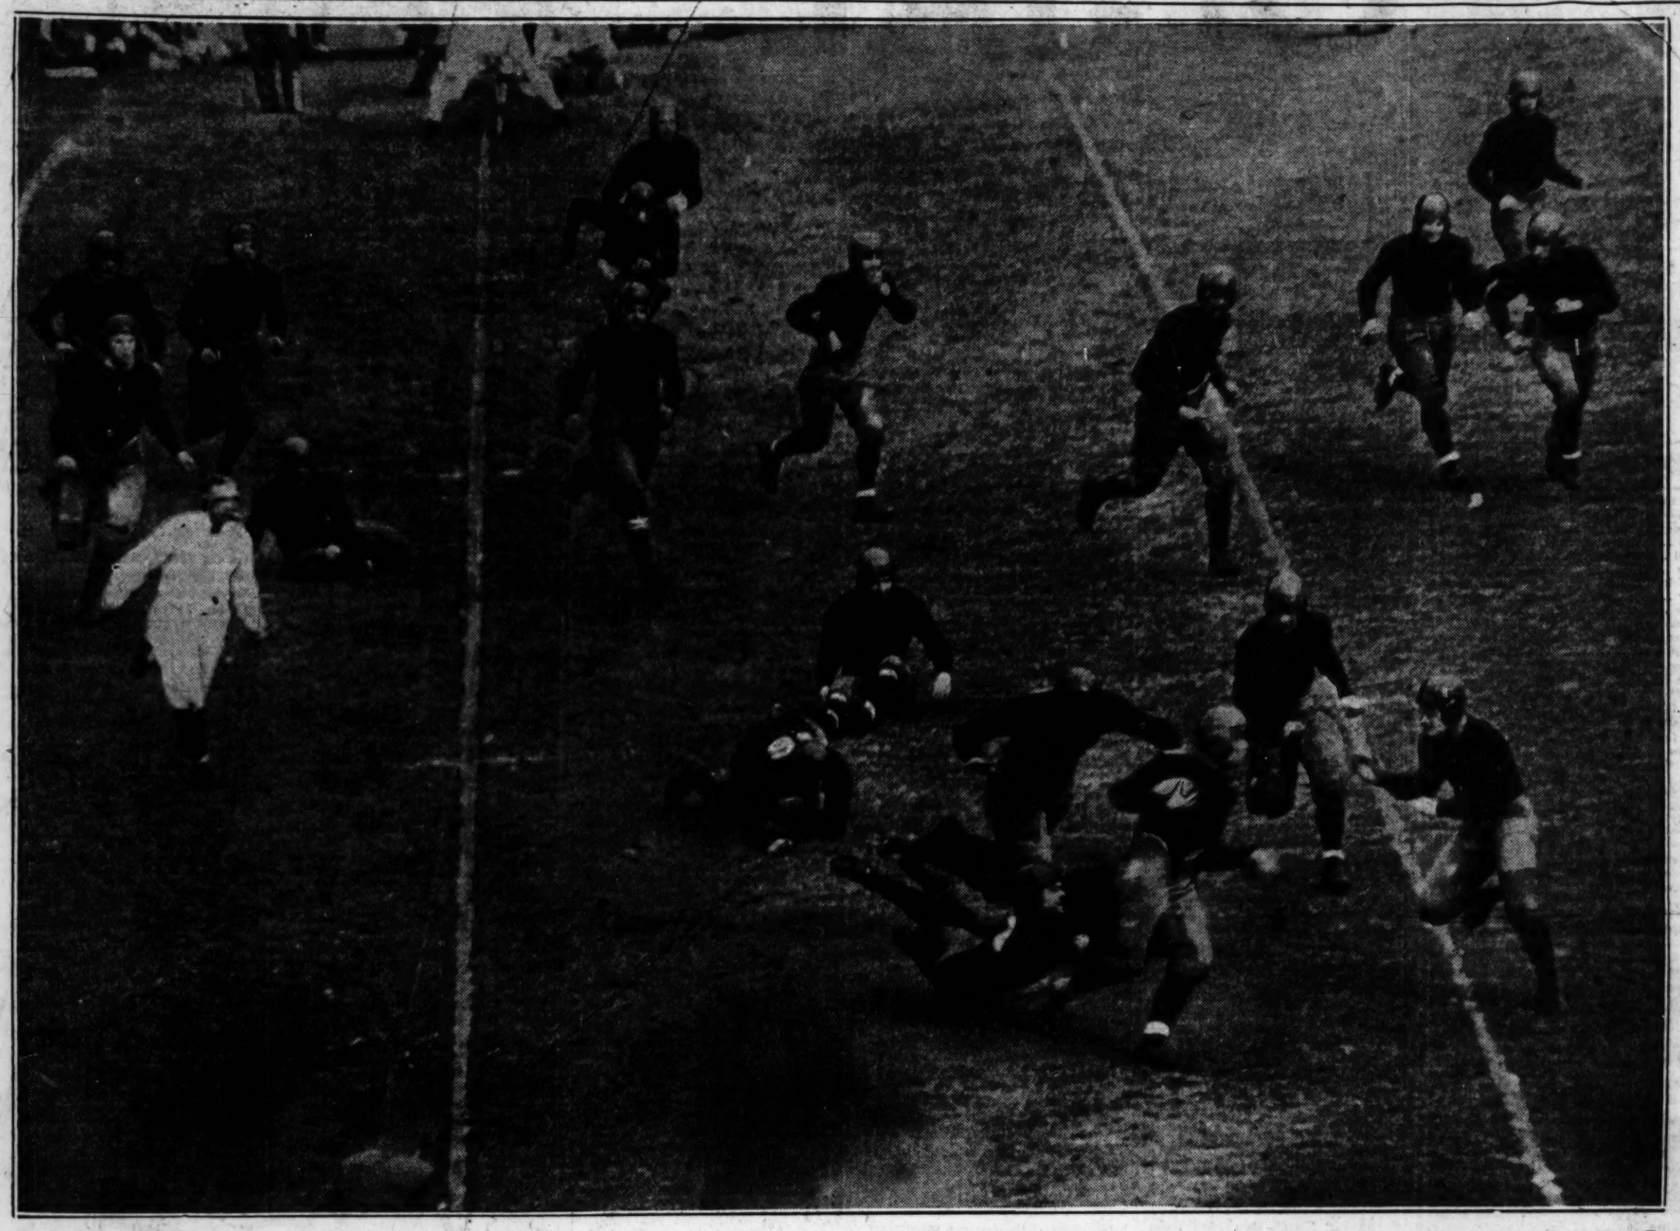
Tribune Pictures Eight Conference Teams in Action

THE TRIBUNE this morning presents pictures of eight of the Big Ten football teams in yesterday's games. Pictures of the Ohio-Michigan game at Ann Arbor, of Northwestern's battle with Minnesota at Dyche stadium, Chicago's victory over Ripon and a panorama of the crowd at the Notre Dame-Wisconsin game on Soldiers' field will be found on page 3 of this section. The pictures of the Iowa-Illinois game, which dedicated the Hawkeye stadium at Iowa City, will be found on page 2.

When the Shock Troops Won for Notre Dame



Schwartz, who started at right half for Notre Dame against Wisconsin, circles the end of the Badger scrimmage line in the first quarter. Schwartz was one of the headliners in the shock troops that Notre Dame sent on the field to take the edge off the Wisconsin offense. Savoldi, full back, was the only regular to start. This combination held a 6 to 0 lead at the end of the period when the regulars took the field. Two more touchdowns in the third quarter completed the final score, 19 to 0. Tom Lieb directed Notre Dame in the absence of Coach Rockne. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Ohio Defeats Michigan, 7-0, on Pass, Holman to Fesler

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich. Oct. 19.—A perfectly executed forward pass, Holman to Fesler, gave Ohio State a victory over Michigan this afternoon, 7 to 0, before a capacity crowd of 87,000 who came by train, auto, and electric cars from all sections of Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and Indiana.

WESLEY FESLER.

Weather conditions were perfect for the spectators but a trifle warm for the players, who repeatedly called for time to rest. A fairly strong wind blew from the south and the team which defended the south goal had the advantage in the punting. Both were equipped with powerful formations, most of which gained ground when executed properly.

Although Michigan was defeated it was not outplayed. Statistics show that the Wolverines made 207 yards by rushing against 50 for Ohio State. The Buckeyes completed 6 forward passes for a gain of 68 yards. The Maize and Blue made 58 yards by completing 3 forward passes. Each tried 11. The punting was about even, but Holman always ran back the kicks from 5 to 15 yards, which gave Ohio the advantage.

Bucks Hold on Foot Line.

Although Ohio scored early in the second period, Michigan was trying until the final whistle. At one time the Wolverines lost the ball on downs on the Buckeyes' one foot line. On other occasions they took the oval inside the visitors' five yard line, but they were not able to cross the scoring mark. The punch was not there, although the backs drove hard and picked their holes nicely.

Michigan had a strong attack which was mixed nicely. There were double and triple passes back of the line and cut backs off the tackles, not to mention swinging end runs and delayed bucks through the line. At one time

Captain Truskowski tossed a lateral pass to Heston who made a gain of 12 yards.

For the most part Ohio State employed an unbalanced line. The plays were generally sent off the strong side or between the center and guard. There was plenty of power in front of the ball carrier. Allen Holman, acting captain of the team, handled his team nicely and seldom placed it in a hole by calling the wrong play. His catching and running back of punts was faultless and he looks like one of the best football players in the Western conference.

Heston Looks Good.

It was a hard fought but clean game. It was the second conference victory for the Buckeyes and the second defeat for Michigan. It was a hard blow for Harry Kipke, who is coaching his first year at his alma mater, and a boost in the stock for Sam Willaman, who is also teaching football for the first time at Ohio State.

An encouraging feature of the game from a Michigan standpoint was the ball carrying of Heston, son of the greatest back who ever wore the Maize and Blue of Michigan. Heston was sent into the game near the close of the second quarter. He performed

HARVARD FIGHTS AS OF OLD; HOLDS ARMY TO 20-20

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—Harvard and the Army fought a 20 to 20 battle, scoring three touchdowns and two extra points apiece this afternoon, and there were times down below on the grassy plain when it looked as if the lads were growing just a mite peevish in the rough impacts of skull against skull.

There were numerous penalties for excessive vigor as Harvard's new found virility and might expressed itself on the durable structures of the cadets from up river. At one point the gray bank of West Pointers sitting together opposite the Harvard side of the stadium broke into a dark growl of indignation. This occurred as Josiah Potter, the ponderous 19 year old full back of the second string Harvard back field squatted on or about Chris Cagle, thumping him spiritedly.

This was one of the incidents for which Harvard was penalized 15 yards, and the officials pointed the finger of shame at the erring young man as the affronted Mr. Cagle, from a reclining position, hollored for retributive justice.

Expected Emphatic Treatment.

However, there was no scandal, and when the two troupes finally dragged themselves off through the tunnels leading to the dressing rooms, panting, and smeared with soil and the application of soot which had been dabbed on their cheekbones to dull the glare of the sun, nobody tarried to exchange recriminations. The Army had heard that Harvard would greet them with a committee of the hardiest athletes who have played the game at Cambridge in many years, and they must have been expecting very emphatic treatment.

They seemed to adjust themselves to the way of the game and to take the challenge in the rough, reckless spirit in which it was intended. There was only one point of disadvantage for the Army in this and that was that their team operates around one great

Iowa Dedicates Stadium; Ties Illinois, 7-7, in Rain

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 19.—Capt. Bill Glassgow of Iowa ran 77 yards from the first scrimmage of the game with Illinois this afternoon and forthwith kicked a point. Inasmuch as Bill was not scheduled to even be in the lineup, on account of a triple fracture of his cheekbone, his precipitate act caused great consternation among the Illini warriors.

BILL GLASSGOW.

The proud Zuppke cohorts recovered sufficiently in the second quarter to match the Iowa tally and the game ended 7 to 7. But it unquestionably was one of those things the experts call a moral victory—a moral victory for the much harassed Hawkeys.

After the first great thrust of the crippled Iowa captain the Illinois boys were in such a panic that Iowa almost made a second touchdown in the first five minutes of play. But the Illinois stalwarts held on their 5 yard line, took a few deep breaths and proceeded about the business of saving their hides. It is doubtful if the 1927-1928 Big Ten conference champions feel that the 7 to 7 count did salvage their said hides.

Rain and More Rain.

The game was played before 40,000 Iowa homecomers as the first contest in the new $500,000 stadium. It rained throughout the entire afternoon and the downpour as the game ended approached the cloudburst classification. But the bunch stuck to the finish. It is doubtful if 2,500 persons left the stands before the final gun.

The dedicatory march of the Iowa band, all pretty but soaked, in their full dress regalia, scarcely had been completed when the homecomers got the thrill the like of which they scarcely had dreamed. As you know, Iowans are pretty sore on the Big Ten football idea and the turn out today before game time seemed a bit grim.

Peters kicked to Thomas, who returned the ball to his own 23 yard line. Thomas was knocked out on the play and the Iowa tough luck groan was given in unison. The teams lined up. Capt. Glassgow's form emerged from the mass in the center of the line. He found himself clear and started traveling. On the Illinois 25 yard Lanum almost nailed him, but Bill squirmed and it was a clear trip the rest of the way.

Ball Strikes Crossbar.

The kick for the extra point should convince the sorely oppressed Hawkeyes that maybe there is an Allah who doesn't hate folks who try to get good athletes to come to their university. The ball hit the crossbar and whirled high, almost straight up in the air. It could have come down on either side of the standard without making the physics profs wonder. But it came down on the scoring side, and, in the light of later events, was the break that averted a second 7 to 6 Big Ten Iowa defeat in 8 days.

We might as well get the other Iowa thrill out of the way before we start singing about the Illini. As soon as the whooping about Glassgow's initial flash died down, there was another kickoff, of course. Westra kicked to Peters, who was downed on his 20 yard line. After two plays Walker punted out of bounds on Iowa's 46 yard line. Glassgow surprised the Illini with a quick kick and the ball was down on Illinois' one foot line. It was brought back and Illinois penalized for clipping, half the distance to the goal from the spot of the offense placing the ball on Illinois 13 yard line in Iowa's possession.

Glassgow fumbled and Wolgast recovered for Illinois. Then Lanum fumbled for Illinois and it was Iowa's ball on Illinois' twelve yard line. Glassgow made seven yards on three downs but on his fourth plunge he was held and the ball went over on Illinois' five yard line.

Zup's Team Gets Going.

This terminated the Iowa rally and they made only one more serious threat in the third quarter when Glassgow made a pass which bounded

ROCKNE, PROPPED UP IN BED, GETS NEWS OF VICTORY

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Knute Rockne, propped up in bed with an ailing leg, received the news of the Notre Dame's victory over Wisconsin with a broad smile today. Rockne said after the game he was feeling better.

Schwartz, one of Rockne's numerous backs, booted it in the opposite direc-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Savoldi, a pudgy lad from a place called Three Oaks, Mich., probably will become famous as the Wandering Italian or some such thing.

Mr. Joe wandered around Soldiers' field yesterday like one who came to see all the sights. He saw them, and in seeing, let 90,000 spectators have a glimpse of a powerful Notre Dame grid army, which marched over, around and through the best resistance that a University of Wisconsin eleven could offer. It wasn't enough by the distance of the moon, and when the final pistol barked in the haze of an Indian summer dusk, Mr. Joe and his cosmopolitan squad were out in front by 19 to 0.

The stocky, speedy Wandering Italian and the others came to avenge what a Badger team had done to Notre Dame's satellites a year ago. They did it in the rough, driving, relentless manner you might expect from a Knute Rockne team. No more could be asked of them.

Scores on Long Runs.

Savoldi, a sophomore, wasn't alone in his sightseeing, but at least he was the leader. There was a back named Jack Elder, better known to fame, who conducted one goal seeking expedition. There was a large number of other backs who did things. There was an endless string of linesmen who opened large holes through which the backs could gallop. But the Wandering Italian from Three Oaks stood out as a bellwether, because he not only crossed the Cardinal goal line once, but twice, the first on a forty yard dash and the second on a sizzling 71 yard sprint.

What Wisconsin did against this persistent attack of the Rockne army was nothing. At the start the Badgers made a threat and fumbled when a touchdown against Notre Dame's second string starting eleven seemed imminent. The break probably was disheartening. At any rate, the Badgers sagged down. Their line couldn't hold, especially at the tackles. Their backs could make no appreciable headway. In the third period they were actually weary. In the fourth they picked up a bit and threatened, but the threat faded. At best it was only a bid for a consolation touchdown.

Lusby Punts Well.

With a better line Wisconsin's backs might have gone places and seen things as did the Wandering Italian and the dancing Elder. There were times when a youth named Oman, who started and finished for the Badgers, was able to carry on by himself. The energetic Lusby was no loafer as a ground gainer or a punter. H. Rebholtz occasionally kicked holes in Notre Dame's wall. His brother, Russell, in a few spots ran and outkicked the best Notre Dame had. But none of this was sustained. The South Benders always were able to stop it after a flurry. This ability to stop things accounted for the fact that the victors had twelve first downs against nine for the Cardinal clad.

Notre Dame contributed its first bit to the day's damage in the middle of the first quarter. This was when the Wandering Italian, who is supposed to be a mere second stringer, shot out of a hole and toured 40 yards to Wisconsin's goal. The next came early in the third quarter, when Elder did as Savoldi had done. Elder ripped off 43 yards before he quit. Then a few minutes later Savoldi exceeded even himself. He raced 71 yards before falling exhausted over his opponents' goal. Only one extra point was picked up on these three chances.

It was a beautiful punt and run back by Oman that made possible Wisconsin's threat early in the game. The fight was only a few minutes old when the Wisconsin back hoisted a perfect punt from his own 25 yard line and sent it thumping out of bounds one yard from the Notre Dame goal.

tion on the first down. Oman caught it on his foes' 49 yard mark and tore up a dodging trail down the field until finally brought down on the South Benders' 8 yard line. In two more plays this same lad had charged through guard and tackle to put the ball seven feet from the coveted line.

Then the chills that were scooting up and down the backs of the Notre Dame rooters ceased. Gnabah, the Badger second string full back, fumbled. Conley fell on the ball on the 3 yard line. Notre Dame promptly kicked out of danger and one of Wisconsin's two chances for a touchdown went glimmering.

Oman Misses Savoldi.

It wasn't long after Gnabah's miscue that Rockne's men began to lay plans for a touchdown. A Wisconsin man lost the ball in the bottom of a beefy heap on the Notre Dame 25 yard line. McNamara recovered it for Notre Dame and the drive was on.

On the first place Schwartz hooked around Wisconsin's left end and then cut back toward the middle of the field. Sammy Behr, another of the Badger backs who carred on even after the odds were hopeless, finally caught him from behind. By that time he had traveled 35 yards to Wisconsin's 40 yard mark.

Next was Joe Savoldi. On a reverse play he marched proudly and speedily through a tunnel like opening in the neighborhood of Wisconsin's left tackle. He should have been stopped but he easily eluded the Badgers' bad tackling. He just kept on going and finally there was nothing between him and the goal except Oman. The latter missed and for the last twenty yards the wandering Italian just loped. Gebert missed the kick for the extra point.

Regulars Go In.

When the second period started there was a commotion on the Notre Dame bench. Sweaters were being pulled off in a mad scramble of men to get into action. Nine of them made the grade. Savoldi and Brill were the only ones to remain in the lineup. The nine were part of Rockne's regular troops. They did nothing through the second period to prove it. The Badgers played them about even.

At the start of the third period it was a bit different. After the kickoff there was an exchange of punts between Carideo and R. Rebholtz. The latter's punt was caught by the former who was brought down on Wisconsin's 43 yard mark.

On the first down, Elder zoomed around the Badgers' left end with the help of compact interference. Then the hostiles began to grab at him, but none could maintain a hold. Behr chased him for a time but quit when he realized he was hopelessly outdistanced in the 43 yard hike for a touchdown. Carideo kicked for the extra point, making the score 13 to 0.

Spinner Play Works.

After Elder's run Wisconsin appeared unmistakably weary. Brill and Savoldi repeatedly tore through for short gains, but when the least bit of a pinch appeared the South Benders kicked as a matter of safety. It was after an exchange of kicks between Carideo and R. Rebholtz that the former found himself shoved out of bounds on Notre Dame's 39 yard line.

It was on the next play that Savoldi popped up out of nowhere. He shot out of a big gap at Wisconsin's left tackle and went down the field for his seventy-one yard journey, in which nobody was able to molest him. All the Badgers were somewhere else. A spinner play sent them in the wrong direction just as it had a dozen times previously. Carideo's attempt for the extra point was fumbled.

After this there wasn't much except substitutes and Wisconsin's eleventh hour threat. In the fourth period, with Oman back on the premises, the Badgers began to move. Finally they closed in on the Notre Dame goal. They had moved from the 40 yard to the 6 yard line. Then a pass was attempted. It sailed over the goal line incompleted and Notre Dame carried the ball out to the 20 yard line to continue the remaining minutes of futile struggling.

GAME SNARLS TRAFFIC

All Chicago highways seemed to lead to the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game in Soldiers' field yesterday, and traffic in the loop and especially the automobile traffic in Michigan avenue from 22d street to Chicago avenue become congested two hours before the game.

Lines of automobiles moved in Michigan avenue south of Chicago avenue and north of 22d street at a three mile an hour pace when allowed to move at all. Traffic in the loop also became congested before the game, and traffic policemen in Wabash avenue and State, Dearborn, Clark streets were kept busy.

JAILED EN ROUTE TO GAME.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Today was a complete flop for three Cudahy boys who started to hike their way to see the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game, from their homes at midnight Friday and ended up in the Kenosha jail at 3 o'clock this morning. One of the three, Martin Gray, 16, is the son of Gilda Gray, stage and motion picture star. He and Joe Markiegicz, 12, and his brother, Walter, 15, were picked up when a policeman suspected they had run away from home. They were taken back to Cudahy.

TEACHERS DOWN LOMBARD, 14 TO 6

Galesburg, Ill. Oct. 19.—[Special]—Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., defeated Lombard, 14 to 6, at the local school's homecoming today.

Perfect Weather Helps to Swell Grid Attendance

Hitting its crest and aided by generally perfect weather, football yesterday drew "a million and more" spectators to college fields. Attendance at these ten games, alone, aggregated more than 500,000:

Notre Dame-Wisconsin	90,000
Ohio State-Michigan	87,000
Penn-California	70,000
Harvard-Army	57,000
Illinois-Iowa	46,000
Northwestern-Minnesota	40,000
Yale-Brown	40,000
Dartmouth-Columbia	35,000
Princeton-Cornell	25,000
Georgia-North Carolina	24,000

Iowa's First Play! It Ties Illinois, 7-7

Bill Glassgow, Iowa captain, cuts through the middle of the Illini line on the first play of the game and races 77 yards for the touchdown. In the next period Illinois tied the score at 7 to 7, and that's the way it remained. The gridiron engagement dedicated the new $500,000 Hawkeye stadium. Rain fell throughout, but the footing for the players was firm, although the ball was difficult to handle. The tie, a moral victory for Iowa, may keep Illinois from winning its third consecutive Big Ten title. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

off the paws of an Illini into the arms of Reedquist in the end zone. The ball was slippery, of course, and the thing oozed away from the Hawkeye end.

Now let's talk about Mr. Zuppke's boys. They were stunned by the opening goings on but succeeded in getting things under way about half way through the second quarter.

The Illini's tying march started after an Iowa penalty for holding which resulted in Glassgow kicking out of bounds on his own 37 yard line. After this Timm skirted left end for six yards and Mills made first down on Iowa's 27 yard line.

Iowa smeared two Illinois plays, then a forward pass, Lanum to Peters, made nine yards. A quarter back sneak by Peters made first down by an eyelash on Iowa's 16 yard line. Mills ran right end for a touchdown. Peters drop kicked the extra point.

The team statistics showed Illinois to have an edge in every phase, including penalties and fumbles as well as the more desired branches of the game. Here are the figures:

Boston Coll. Beats Dayton, 23-7, in 4th Quarter Attack

Dayton, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The University of Dayton withstood the assault of Boston college's line slashing attack for three quarters in their game here today, but in that last period the easterners made 15 points to win the game, 23 to 7.

Forty thousand sat through the rainy day Iowa-Illinois battle at Iowa City yesterday. Wet clothes held no terrors, for the hardy and the loyal rooters of the tall corn land were rewarded with a thrilling game. The wiser fans huddled under umbrellas. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Booth Scores Yale Points in 14 to 6 Victory

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Brown's dream of conquest over the Big Three this year lived for the space of one period in Yale bowl today. It crumbled when fiery little Albie Booth scampered and squirmed and scurried for two touchdowns, drop kicking both extra points personally, so that Yale gained a 14 to 6 victory, its thirtieth in the 35 football meetings of the two universities.

Throughout the first quarter Brown, conqueror of Princeton last Saturday, ruled the field. Yale's backs were on defense for passes, but Brown, with smooth reverse formations, made four first downs along the ground and scored a touchdown on the last play of the first period.

Then the picture changed. When the teams lined up for the kickoff, Booth was at left half for Yale. At first he was a useless weapon. For more than half of the second period he battered the rugged Brown line without success.

Five minutes before half time replacements came to the Yale line and immediately Yale's power tore gaps in Brown's defense. Booth, now that he had room to run, roused Yale's side of the 40,000 crowd to joyful frenzy with his dashes into Brown territory that resulted in the two winning touchdowns. Lineup:

YALE [14].		BROWN [6].
Hickok	L. E.	Munroe
Marting	L. T.	Mackesey

WASHINGTON AND GRINNELL TIE ON MUDDY FIELD

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A water soaked gridiron denied Grinnell college the use of its aerial attack today, and the Pioneers played a scoreless tie with Washington university of St. Louis in their homecoming game. Virtually all of the game was played in midfield. Both elevens threatened to score late in the last quarter, but a fumble ended Washington's chance, and the final gun halted Grinnell's advance.

Ohio Wesleyan Dedicates Stadium, Beats Miami, 20-12

Delaware, O., Oct. 19.—[U. P.]—Ohio Wesleyan defeated Miami university, 20 to 12, here today in a hard fought game which marked the dedication of the new Selby field $150,000 stadium.

DETROIT GRIDDER PARALYZED; SPINE INJURED IN GAME

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 19.—[U. P.]—Fred Danziger of Detroit, full back on the Michigan State college football team, is in a serious condition at a hospital here tonight following an injury on the last play of the first half in this afternoon's game with Adrian.

The injury was to his spine and he was paralyzed tonight. Full extent of his injuries cannot be determined until tomorrow.

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY WINS.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—St. Louis university chalked up its first victory of the season today by defeating Oglethorpe, 6-0.

Weller Leads Haskell to 13-6 Win Over Butler

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A fleet little Indian named Weller today led his fellow Redskins against Butler university and spoiled the white man's homecoming, 13 to 6.

Weller's running and the entire Haskell team's ability to intercept Butler passes told the story. Long runs and a pass to Weller scored in the first quarter. Butler, with three of its regular backs crippled, rallied to enable Cavosie to pass over the goal to Royse.

CARDINALS AND BEARS RESUME RIVALRY TODAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two new teams will carry on the traditional rivalry between the Cardinals and Bears today at Wrigley field, where the professional football season opens for Chicago at 2:15 o'clock.

Only three players remain from the 1928 Cardinal team. The south side eleven, under its new owner, Dr. David Jones, who has replaced Chris O'Brien, an organizer of the league, again has become a factor in deciding the title.

Assistance for Holmer.

The Bears also have strengthened. Walter Holmer, a unanimous selection last year for Western conference full back, now is wearing the orange jersey of the Bears. He's the player the crowd will be watching today. His remarkable kicking and passing ability have added power to the Bears' attack.

Holmer will have assistance, plenty of it. Bill Senn, Laurie Walquist, Joe Sternaman, Paddy Driscoll, and Red Grange, all veterans, will be in the back field some time during the game.

Red Grange is making a comeback after a year's absence. Those who have watched him in the four games the Bears have played say he's in shape.

Nevers Cardinal Ace.

Ernie Nevers and Mickey McDonald are the Cardinals expected to do things in a big way for the south siders. Nevers has been one of the consistent performers in professional football since he left Stanford.

Full Back Method and Falt Elkins, Indian half back, are others with professional reputations. Elkins was one of the stars of the Frankford eleven last season.

Then there's Gene Rose. Last year Rose played with Wisconsin, and there were times when critics said he was practicing for a professional career at the expense of his Big Ten opponents. Rose will call signals for the Cardinals.

Chuck Kassel, once of the Illini, Duke Slater, Iowa's famous All-American, and Herb Blumer, Missouri captain in 1924, are the outstanding dependables of the Cardinal line.

NINETY THOUSAND THRONG SOLDIERS' FIELD TO SEE NOTRE DAME KEEP ITS RECORD CLEAR BY RUNNING THROUGH WISCONSIN FOR THREE TOUCHDOWNS AND A 19 TO 0 VICTORY. The shock troops counted once in the first quarter and the regulars added two more in the third, which helped avenge the unexpected setback the Badgers handed the Irish last year. The touchdowns all were counted on long runs made possible by excellent blocking both in the line and against the secondary defense. Wisconsin gained many yards, but couldn't string 'em into a score. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

SEVEN POINTS BEHIND AS HUDSON LEADS MICHIGAN'S ATTACK ON OHIO STATE IN THE SECOND QUARTER. Eighty-seven thousand saw the game at Ann Arbor yesterday. In the first minutes of the second period a pass, Holman to Fesler, scored for Ohio. Then came the Michigan counter attack but it was in vain and the Buckeyes won 7 to 0. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

FULL BACK GEMBIS SAILS INTO THE BUCKEYE LINE FOR A SHORT GAIN. Finding the hole plugged by the Ohio forwards, Gembis took off in an effort to slide down the far side. It is the second period and Ohio is battling to maintain its touchdown lead over Michigan. It was a thrilling battle worthy of the traditional rivalry between the schools. RUS BERGHERM GAINS 15 YARDS AROUND THE END OF MINNESOTA'S LINE, BUT ALL HIS WORK WAS LOST BEFORE A FOURTH PERIOD RALLY AND THE GOPHERS WON, 26 TO 14. Apparently inspired by last week's 7 to 0 victory over Wisconsin, Northwestern led, 14 to 9, at the end of the third period. Then Minnesota rushed in fresh men and scored 17 points in a rally which compares to Purdue's finish against Michigan last Saturday. Hank Bruder, out with a broken leg, was missed badly by the Wildcats. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

RIPON'S PASS REACHES HOSTILE HANDS. Knudson, Chicago full back, who was all over Stagg field yesterday, backs up to grab this pass just before it reached Capt. Martin of Ripon. (Story on page 6, Sports.)

KNOX TRAMPLES CRIPPLED SQUAD FROM AUGUSTANA

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Augustana college football team was defeated, 25 to 0, this afternoon, by Knox college. The visitors held an edge over the Norsemen, who were handicapped by the loss of seven men because of injuries.

CARBONDALE 6 TO 0 VICTOR.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Carbondale Normal disappointed a large homecoming crowd here today by trimming a stubborn Illinois State normal eleven, 6 to 0. Carbondale scored in the first two minutes of play. Thereafter the battle was about even.

The game was one of frequent penalties, each team losing more than 100 yards. Hudgens and Lutz, Carbondale backs, skirted the normal ends for long gains, but failed to break loose in the scoring zone. Thomas, husky tackle, played the best ball for the losers.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS.

North Central college walloped Wheaton, 45 to 0, in a Little 19 game at Wheaton yesterday. North Central made eleven first downs, while Wheaton had five. Razavich scored two touchdowns for North Central. Tillman, Wheaton star, was handicapped by an injured ankle, but managed to get away for several good games.

Buckeye Reserves Bow to Michigan 2d Team, 17-6

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—While Ohio's varsity was downing Michigan at Ann Arbor this afternoon, the Buckeye reserves bowed to the Wolverine second stringers, 17 to 6, in a game played at the Ohio stadium.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

star, Mr. Cagle of Louisiana, who was receiving special demonstrations of vigor most of the time. The Harvard team does not practice the star system, and the loss of any one athlete from the lineup could not have damaged Harvard as seriously as the elimination of Cagle would have embarrassed West Point.

Aspersions no Longer Justified.

However, Cadet Cagle came through the battle sound of wind, limb and mind, and I believe both squads now are whooping back and forth across the small area between their respective wings of the locker house to the effect that a most enjoyable afternoon was had by all.

After this demonstration there are 83,000 witnesses to testify that any aspersions which may have been cast on the temperament of the Harvard football team by the Princeton boys in their memorable spat some few seasons back are no longer justified—if they ever were. This was a smashing football game, played with mad courage and abandon on both sides, and the 20 to 20 score was an accurate gauge of the standoff in skull, vitality and appetite for punishment.

Cagle, Hertz, Murrell and Johnny O'Keefe of the Army back field came out of the cloister as the second half began with the score 13 to 0 against them and raged down the field like crazy men to take the lead, 14 to 13, before the third quarter ended. From then on the Army fought to hold the advantage, and Harvard's second string backs, Wood, Mays, Devens and Potter, brawled back at them in the frenzy to tie or win.

Finally, toward the end of the game, with Army ahead 20 to 13, the straining throng in the stands, already pretty well done up by the emotional stress of the battle, saw Barry Wood, the second string Harvard quarter back, hurl a gambling pass, a 45 yard pitch in a long arc, over the racing figures on the plain, straight into the arms of Victor Harding, a substitute end. He whirled over for Harvard's third touchdown, and the score was: Army, 20; Harvard, 19.

Wood Becomes Person of Importance.

Wood then kicked the goal, and this admirable young athlete, a sophomore who plays tennis in the national men's championship, became somebody of great importance in the Harvard community by viva voce vote.

Dick O'Connell, Harvard's right end, scored first for his side early in the second period on a 25 yard pass from Elliott Putnam, at quarter, but Putnam's drop kick for the extra point went wide.

Somehow a lot of Harvard players were always leaking through and snatching Cagle by his arms or the slack of his sweater, and I don't believe he gained his own length before half time was reached. Capt. Biff Jones, the Army coach, took Cagle out late in the second quarter just after he had fired a wild pass to an open space on the field to avoid being thrown for a great loss, as Harvard's ends ran him deep into his own territory.

Dick Hutchinson relieved him, and on the next play, he, too, was run back. He tried to do as Cagle had done, but his pass hit Ben Ticknor, the Harvard center, plunk on the chest, and Ticknor kept right on going, about twenty yards, for a touchdown. Wood drop kicked neatly between the bars for the extra point, and Harvard led, 13 to 0.

Starting the third quarter, Cagle, Murrell, O'Keefe and Piper, the regular Army backs, rolled over the Harvard stalwarts of the Harvard defense for first down at the thirty yard line. Finally Cagle got free for the first time of the day, cut back between Ticknor and Davis on Harvard's right side and scurried 30 yards; on O'Keefe's placement kick made the score: Harvard, 13; Army, 7.

The Cadet backs were using power plays now and another rush soon began from mid-field with Murrell smashing the line and Cagle and O'Keefe plowing ahead. Capt. Barrett, the Harvard tackle, went down under the pounding. Murrell made one gain of 20 yards and another series of 13 to a first down seven yards from the goal. On the final plunge, the parade walked straight over Harvard, with Murrell toting, for Army's second touchdown. Again O'Keefe's placement was good, and Army led 20 to 13.

Cagle got a second touchdown in the last period shortly after youthful Mr. Potter aroused his temper. He had just reeled off one 18 yard winning run and now he sifted through and romped 44 yards past the Harvard secondaries to another score with Malloy just behind, holding off two tacklers.

Then Wood's pass and kick tied the score. Darkness closed in and the Cadets formed ranks and marched away behind their drums.

THE NEW IDEA IN SMOKING

TWICE as many men to-day smoke ROBT. BURNS PANATELAS

Yes, twice as many men now smoke Robt. Burns Panatelas as at the first of the year.

You see them everywhere—on the street—at your club in town and country. At every sport event and social gathering.

College men in city or on the campus have welcomed it as their own.

Men who never before smoked cigars are smoking the long, graceful Robt. Burns Panatela.

For it has done something new—outstanding for smoking. It has put style into smoking, and style belongs in smoking.

Young men and men with young ideas take to it like a plunge into a swimming pool. They like the smartness it adds to a well groomed man.

They realize it suits the young, clean cut face, the face of a man physically fit.

Many a smoker finds the mild flavor and fragrance of its clear Havana filler the multiplication of what he has liked in smoking—and more satisfying.

Try the Robt. Burns Panatela yourself, and mark how it belongs with your new fall suit, and autumn hat.

PENNSYLVANIA IS DEFEATED, 12-7, BY GOLDEN BEARS

70,000 See Forward Pass Bring Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—California came, saw, and conquered Pennsylvania on Franklin field was the westerners' margin over the born fight. Two touchdowns to one was the westerners' margain over the fighting Quakers, who went down to a 12 to 7 defeat.

Seventy thousand people, capacity for the Pennsylvania stadium, witnessed the game, which was replete with thrills and played under weather conditions that must have made the Californians feel at home.

The westerners' first score came as a result of Benny Lom's great run back of Dick Gentle's opening kickoff followed by a driving attack that the Pennsylvania forwards could not solve. The Californians went thirty-seven yards for this touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Pennsylvania equaled the count a few minutes later by blocking one of Lom's kicks and recovering the ball on California's 18 yard line. Then the Quakers opened up a lateral passing attack that ended with a touchdown. Masters made good the try for extra point.

California came back in the second period and scored the winning touchdown on a 25 yard yass. The lineup:

CALIFORNIA [12]		PENNSYLVANIA [7]
Norton	L.E.	Gorvin
Timmerman	L.T.	Utz
Pixo	L.G.	Barrett

DARTMOUTH TRIUMPHS.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The rising star of a Columbia team that appeared to be taking its place in the firmament of the elect fizzled out in a dizzy contest today. The Blue and White went down in a 34 to 0 contest, the most decisive beating it has sustained at the hands of a Dartmouth eleven.

Led by Marsters, one of the greatest backs that ever wore the green, with a line in front of him that clearly outplayed the Columbia forwards, Dartmouth's high geared machine rushed over three touchdowns in the opening period. After being held to a stand off for the next two quarters, Dartmouth scored twice more in the final 15 minutes.

Forty thousand spectators, filling the stadium at Baker field to capacity, saw the dazzling Marsters wreck the hopes of Columbia at the outset with an exhibition of broken field running that compared with the most brilliant feats in his sophomore year.

CORNELL, 13; PRINCETON, 7.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Any pessimism that lurked in the Cornell camp about this year's football team was swept right out of Schoellkopf field this afternoon as another smashing Dobie team sent Princeton down to defeat by 13 to 7.

There were 20,000 here for the game today and it was a day of cheer for many old grads. Not since 1907 when Cornell won by 6 to 5 had they had the privilege of tramping after a band that was playing in honor of a Cornell victory over Old Nassau.

There were many to share Cornell's laurels today, but it was a sophomore back, Bob Stevens, who carried off most of them. He intercepted a pass that led to the winning touchdown and he pulled down Howard Johnson's 15 yard pass and stepped over the goal line for the score that gave Cornell victory.

It was Stevens, too, who punted beautifully, getting off one boot in the first period that went 65 yards and was the beginning of the first big push that ended when Scott drove through the line from the one yard mark for Cornell's first touchdown. Capt. Wakeman kicked the extra point.

But Cornell's primary joy was short lived. Seconds later Ed Wittmer caught the Cornell kickoff and raced 75 yards for a touchdown. Barfield tied the score at 7-7 when his placement went over the bars. But Cornell men were not to be denied. They had picked weak spots in the opposing line and they kept driving until within scoring distance when a deceptive forward pass brought victory.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Chicago's Maroons ran their chain of football victories to five yesterday by winning a double header at Stagg field. In the main event the Midwayites ripped through Ripon, 10 to 0, and in the afterpiece the Maroon reserves took their chance to perform by besting Indiana State Teachers' college, 18 to 0. Chicago's heavy line split the Ripon forward wall with apparent ease, and the backs went through for steady gains. Only once was there a spectacular gain, but throughout the game the Chicago backs smashed through to the secondary defense.

Though he didn't score, Errett Van Nice, the Maroon 200 pound half back, carried the burden of the offense, hitting the line for consistent yards that bodes no good for Purdue next Saturday. Not only that but his 47 yard sprint, after twisting through right guard, paved the way for the Maroons' only touchdown.

Ripon Passes Help.

Ripon's passes figured largely in Chicago's victory. The Wisconsin lads' passes were beautifully accurate—into Maroon hands. Ripon threw ter passes, of which one was completed, three knocked down, and six intercepted by alert wearers of the Maroon.

The first half was scoreless, the fine punting of Wesley Heinz, Ripon right end, counteracting a march of four consecutive first downs by Chicago at the start of the game. Van Nice and Temple gained 35 yards on seven plunges, none over seven yards, the first time the Maroons got hold of the ball. The march ended when Van Nice lobbed a pass to Boesel and the latter fumbled as he was tackled on Ripon's 16 yard line, Mangen recovering for Ripon. Neither team got inside the other's 30 yard line again in the quarter.

Fate Decides Breaks.

Red Martin, Ripon's captain who failed to play the game expected of him, intercepted a pass early in the second quarter, but two plays later Knudson intercepted one of Martin's passes to even up. A bit later Temple fumbled on Ripon's 45 yard line, and Pine recovered, but two plays later Martin fumbled and Van Nice, Knudson and Stagg dived on it. Stagg intercepted another pass by a beautiful leap and fingertip catch before the end of the half, but it meant nothing.

Mangen fumbled and Van Nice recovered on Ripon's 45 yard line early in the third quarter, and Bluhm passed to Van Nice for 20 yards and Van Nice cut back through left tackle for eleven yards to Ripon's eight yard line. MacKenzie hit center for three yards and Van Nice got two at right guard, but Temple was stopped and Cassle's place kick for a field goal was wild.

Van Nice Sparkles.

The Maroons got another chance for a touchdown a minute later and they made this one good. After Ripon had kicked, Van Nice smashed through his left guard and raced 47 yards to Ripon's ten yard line before he was pulled down from behind. Bluhm picked up five yards on a quarter back sneak, Van Nice hit left guard for three and Temple a yard at center. Then Bluhm went over on another quarter back sneak and Cassle place kicked the extra point.

Cassle took a turn at intercepting a Ripon pass on the Wisconsin 38 yard line as the third quarter ended. After the line had held and Chicago punted Martin passed from his own six yard line into Van Nice's hands. Van Nice got loose to race over the goal but he'd stepped out of bounds on the 27 yard line and the Maroons started from there.

Cassle Place Kicks.

MacKenzie hit the line for nine yards and Van Nice three more to make it first down. Temple split right guard for three and Van Nice three more at the same spot, but on the third down Bluhm fumbled and recovered with a two yard loss on Ripon's 11 yard line. On fourth down Cassle place kicked a field goal. Neither threatened again while the game ended on the typical note of Stagg intercepting Freeman's pass in midfield.

Chicago made thirteen first downs to one by Ripon and gained 217 yards from scrimmage to 24 by Ripon's backs. Each tried ten passes, Ripon completing one for 15 yards and having six intercepted, while Chicago completed three for 37 yards and one was intercepted. Each fumbled three times and each recovered once.

Reserves Win Easily.

Indiana State Teachers' college proved rather easy for the Maroon reserves. The Midwayites scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth quarters to win, 18 to 0. Indiana threatened only once, after a brilliant 50 yard pass, but a fumble on the next play lost the ball and their chance.

COLGATE BACKS ELUDE INDIANA TACKLERS, 21-6

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Colgate's speedy backs dashed and passed their way to a 21 to 6 victory over Indiana in an intersectional grid tilt here today. Indiana stopped the eastern ball carriers time and again, but when Dowler and Hart's fleet steps once pierced the Crimson line and reached an open field they sped toward the goal.

Dowler first showed the Hoosiers how fast he could step when he dashed off tackle in the first quarter. With fine interference he reached Indiana's secondary defense, eluded tacklers and ran 75 yards down the side line to score.

Colgate Aims at Tackles.

In a like manner Colgate kept hitting the tackles until its backs found openings through which they sped to score in every quarter but the third.

Indiana uncorked a slashing line attack near the end of the half that caught Colgate off guard. Running off tackles, Todd and Ross ripped off big gains to reach Colgate's 12 yard line. Here the easterners braced, but Brubaker caught a pass over the goal line simultaneously with the referee's gun. Another pass shot 2 yards straight down the field to Yablock, who stepped over the goal five yards away, accounted for Colgate's second score.

Fumble Stars Drive.

A Crimson fumble started Andy Kerr's eleven on the road to its third touchdown. Hart started the drive 20 yards from the goal, aided by Maguluso, plunging full back, he reached the 6 yard line He then spurted over the goal standing up.

Colgate was not only superior in its offensive, but also flashed fast ends and a stanch line Pat Page's boys, apparently tired and worn, attempted many long passes in the last quarter.

Dayton Stivers High School Beats Scott, 13-0

Toledo, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Dayton Stivers High school eleven defeated Scott High football team this afternoon, 13 to 0.

PURDUE SCORES 26-7 VICTORY OVER DE PAUW

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—Rolling up a touchdown a quarter Purdue's reserves supplemented by the regulars for an eight minute appearance, had an easy time here this afternoon defeating De Pauw, 26 to 7, in the final trial for the Boilermakers before they jump back into the conference against Chicago next Saturday.

Purdue revealed little in this afternoon's performance, Phelan contenting himself with keeping the game well in hand and giving his reserves a good tryout in actual competition.

De Pauw Makes Bid.

Jim Purvis and Louis Pope, half backs on the starting reserve eleven, provided most of the dynamite in the first three quarters of the game with their all around ability.

Purvis started the scoring when he slipped across the line in the first quarter, while Pope's twisting runs through tackle accounted for the markers in the second and third periods.

De Pauw made a bid in the second quarter with Purdue leading 12 to 0, when Johnston recovered a Purdue fumble that started a Methodist touchdown drive, Hogan finally going five yards around end for the lone De Pauw marker.

Regulars Go In.

In the last quarter Phelan sent in his regular combination, with Welch appearing in the new rôle of full back. The regulars promptly drove down the field, largely as the result of a 35 yard pass fpom Harmeson to Woerner. After Welch had placed the ball on the 5 yard line, Harmeson went around end for the final touchdown of the game.

Carroll College Lowers Lake Forest College, 18-7

Lake Forest lost its second Little 19 game of the season yesterday to Carroll, 18 to 7, at Lake Forest. Both teams used a fast passing attack, Orleback played a great game for Carroll, while Ferzacca led the lighter Lake Forest team.

GOPHERS RALLY IN 4TH QUARTER; BEAT N. U., 26-14

Reserve Power Scores 17 Points.

made via air. The Gopher forwards broke up Northwestern interference in attempted running plays.

Bergherm was the most consistent back field player Northwestern had.

What the Statistics Show.

Statistics for once gibe with the result. Minnesota gained 214 yards from scrimmage, and Northwestern gained only 54. Minnesota gained a total of 270 yards; Northwestern made 181. Minnesota captured 10 first downs; Northwestern made only 6. Only in passing did the Purple players excel. They completed 6 out of 19 tosses for 127 yards gain. The Gophers passed for 56 yards, completing 4 out of 9.

GOPHERS SCORE FIRST

And now for the details of the battle:

Before the break which resulted in the first touchdown Northwestern had made a first down in the first quarter and Minnesota had made done, resorting instead to punting. The Purple, unable to push forward from their own 23 yard line, sent Calderwood back to punt. He received a poor pass from Erickson and kicked only to his 40 yard line. On the second play Somers, a Minnesota sophomore, starting his first conference game, passed over the center of his line to Brockmeyer, who, with a clear field in front of him, ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

Lee Hanley, playing safety for Northwestern, was caught dozing on the play. Marvil, Northwestern lineman, blocked Brockmeyer's attempt to place kick the point.

The quarter ended with the Gophers leading 6 to 0.

Northwestern got back into the fight when the fleet Haas, who had replaced Hanley at quarter back, caught a 20 yard pass thrown by Bergherm and, dodging and twisting, sprinted to Minnesota's 27 yard marker. Bergherm tried two more passes and they failed. But on the fourth down he tried again and this time Burnstein, who had taken Calderwood's place—the latter had twice fumbled, once on Northwestern's 15 yard line—caught the pass and ran about ten yards for a touchdown.

WIN BROCKMEYER.

Reil Scores Extra Point.

Reil, until this season a basketball player, went in for Haas and drop kicked neatly for the point that meant a 7 to 6 lead for Northwestern.

And with that score the half ended. Purple balloons were flying, thousands of dads were cheering as the teams trotted off the field.

Northwestern's joy was suppressed when on the first play after Northwestern's kickoff in the third quarter, Brockmeyer, with splendid interference, galloped around his right end to the Purple 15 yard line. Capt. Anderson, who played a fine game at left guard, brought Brockmeyer down. Failing to gain, Minnesota posted Pharmer back 25 yards from the goal and he place kicked over the bars Again the Gophers led.

Now it was Northwestern's turn to thrill the crowd.

Bergherm's quick kick from his own 35 yard line soared over Brockmeyer's head and, in attempting to retrieve the rolling ball, he fumbled. Erickson recovered on the four yard line. On the fourth down, with a foot to go, Bergherm plunged across for Northwestern's second touchdown. Calderwood who had started again at half back, place kicked perfectly. The third quarter ended with Northwestern ahead, 14 to 0.

Call Out the Reserves.

Then came the reserves. Spears began sending fresh strength into his line. Nurgurski, star tackle, who yesterday had been put into Minnesota's back field, began plunging, plunging, and plunging. Tired Northwestern linesmen couldn't stop him. Kirk, a replacement for Brockmeyer, and Pharmer helped Nurgurski march forward.

Northwestern fought. No one can deny them courage. Four yards from their goal line they made a Herculean effort to stop the Thundering Herd. But when the Purple linemen held, Minnesota resorted to strategy. With Northwestern's forwards shoulder to shoulder and their back field pulled up close to help, Kirk passed to Pharmer over the goal line. Again the same player's talented toe made the place kick good.

Northwestern couldn't help but be disappointed. But the team was game. Unable to keep the lead from slipping away, faced with defeat, it rallied for a desperate passing attack. The breaks didn't come. Burdick intercepted one of Hanley's long passes on Northwestern's 45 yard line. The failure of the rally demoralized the Purple. The line sagged, Minnesota forwards split the right side open, and Pharmer tore through for a forty yard run and a touchdown. He place kicked. Sure, he made it.

One More for Pharmer.

The fight was over. After advancing the ball to Northwestern's 20 yard line, Pharmer hopped back ten yards and place kicked his second field goal. Minnesota didn't need those three points. But it was good practice for Pharmer.

And so it ended.

Northwestern partisans will tell you what might have been if Bruder had been in the back field, instead of on the bench with his leg in a cast. But might have beens aren't recorded in the books.

Minnesota yesterday was the better team.

GEORGIA TECH'S TORNADO WRECKS FLORIDA, 19 TO 7

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado all but wrecked by North Carolina last week, got back on the football map here today with a stirring 19 to 7 triumph over the vaunted Alligators from the University of Florida.

The victory blighted Florida's chances for a southern championship. 7,000 Florida rooters saw their team defeated.

The Tornado scored a touchdown before the game was seven minutes old, it added another each in the second and third. Florida made its only threat in the third period.

Florida's highly touted offensive failed to materialize and except for a brief spurt, which resulted in their lone touchdown, the 'Gators were on the defensive throughout the afternoon. Earl Dunlap, the passing quarter back and "Stumpy" Thomason, the back field mainstay, led the Tech team to victory. They were given excellent assistance by the Tech line.

TEXAS BEATS OKLAHOMA

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Aided but once in its scoring by modern football and depending largely upon a human battering ram in the person of Dexter Shelley, right half back, the University of Texas Longhorns downed the University of Oklahoma, 21 to 0, today at the Texas state fair. The battle marked the renewal of hostilities broken five years ago.

Texas produced one touchdown and a placement kick in the third period, and added two more of each in the fourth period after the heavy sooner team had played a nip and tuck battle for the first half. The ball was not more than twenty yards from the midfield stripe in the first two periods except once on a punt. It immediately was back in midfield on a return kick.

GEORGIA WINS, 19-12

Chapel Hill, N. C. Oct. 19.—(AP)—In a magnificent comeback the Georgia Bulldogs defeated North Carolina 19 to 12 today, before a crowd estimated at 24,000.

W. AND J. HOLDS CARNEGIE TECH SCORELESS, 0-0

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Battling Carnegie Tech to a scoreless tie here today, Washington and Jefferson served notice that it has returned to its former high place in the collegiate football world.

A squad of young athletes led by the veteran lineman, Capt. "Jap" Douds, played a brilliant defensive game, and through the aid of more or less timely breaks, held off three scoring threats during the four bitterly fought periods.

Washington and Jefferson threatened but once, in the second quarter, when Douds intercepted a pass deep in Tech territory. The ball was lost on downs, however, on the five yard line. The Skibo made ten first downs to five for the visitors.

GRINNELL AND WASHINGTON TIE IN RAIN, 0 TO 0

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Grinnell college football team fought off a superior running attack and held Washington university of St. Louis to a scoreless tie in the rain in a Missouri valley conference game here today. The rain put a damper on celebration of Grinnell's annual homecoming, spoiled Grinnell's famed passing attack and caused many fumbles.

With Springer, Waid and Sauselle getting away for good gains repeatedly, due chiefly to a weightier line, Washington advanced to dangerous territory only to lose the ball on downs and then see McIntyre's mighty punts wipe out their hard won advantage.

KANSAS AGGIES TRIUMPH, 6 TO 0, OVER KANSAS

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Battling under leaden skies on a muddy field, the Kansas Aggies today defeated the University of Kansas, 6 to 0, in the twenty-seventh annual revival of the Kansas gridiron classic.

The touchdown was made in the second period. A pass, McMillan to Nigro to Towler, placed the ball on the K. U. one foot line. Wiggins then plunged for the tally. A bad pass from center was responsible for failure in the try for the extra point.

In the last quarter Kansas made a brilliant march, featured by two passes, but the Aggie line stiffened and the Crimson lost the ball on downs.

DUQUOIN BLANKS CARLYLE.

Duquoin, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Duquoin High school football eleven defeated Carlyle here today, 19 to 0. Duquoin scored touchdowns by Pittman, Harris and Cantanzara on line plunges.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question William H. Hotze, 5643 Multimore avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Are you letting the defeat in the world series cool your enthusiasm as a Cub fan?

The Answers.

F. P. Albade, 1474 East 69th street, treasurer—No; because the Cubs fought to the limit of their ability. At no time, in spite of unfortunate reverses, were they yellow, to use that expression. My wife was so wrought up over their defeat that she wrote Malone a letter of encouragement.

Charles Haynes, 1442 North Park avenue, butcher—I do not see why it should. Why give up the ship because the storm prevented the sailors from hoisting the pennant? The Cubs will carry out that part of the ceremony next year. It merely was a case of bum luck this year. They were the leading team in the National league, and that was something.

R. G. Watts, 553 West Randolph street, salesman—One shouldn't let the bad breaks the Cubs had in the world series interfere with his supporting the team. The Cub fan should be just as enthusiastic as heretofore. The Cubs had a bad break, a series of unfortunate circumstances that deprived them of a chance to display their real class.

J. J. Whalen, 7734 North Ashland avenue, engineer—No. The Cubs didn't get the breaks they were entitled to. Inexperience in world series strife also brought their downfall. But I know they can do better. Next year, when world series time rolls around, they'll not let any team like the Athletics beat them.

L. J. Newlin, 509 West Madison street, pantryman—No, on account of the breaks they got during the series games. Everything went against them. I always have been interested in the Cubs, though not so wildly as some fans, and I wanted to see them win. That's what we will want them to do next year, and their chances of doing so will be better if the fans don't fall them because of their recent defeat.

NAVY FLASHES POWER TO BEAT DUKE TEAM, 45-13

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Navy today exhibited greater power, accuracy and versatility in its attack than at any other time this year to defeat Duke university, 45 to 13.

The Naval academy scored at least one touchdown in every quarter. Duke tallied twice in the second period when they released a splendid running attack, headed by Buie and Beaver.

Duke's fumbles and passes intercepted by Byng, Hugnes and other Navy players frequently put the Middies in position to score in the second half, and for the first time this season they generally had a scoring punch when the chance offered.

COE RALLIES TO BEAT MONMOUTH

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Coming from behind in third quarter Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia., won from Monmouth college here today, 12 to 7. Monmouth came back determined to score at opening of third quarter. With Corgnati going around ends and McConnell driving through the line, the ball was carried to the 25 yard line, from where McConnell passed to Mekemson on the 3 yard line. McConnell plunged the ball over from there and then place kicked the point.

After an exchange of kicks Barrows started from midfield to the 20 yard line. Johnstone passed across goal to Ford. Barrows' attempted place kick was blocked. In the final quarter Barrows carried the ball to the one yard line, from where Frisbee plunged it over. Johnstone's drop kick was blocked.

HOLMAN PASSES TO FESLER, OHIO BEATS MICHIGAN

brilliantly on defense. He carried the ball off the tackles and around the ends for long gains, and in the final period he caught a long pass from his captain and was downed on the Buckeye 15 yard line. This gave the Wolverines a great chance to score, but they were finally stopped on Ohio's 1 foot line.

The first quarter was featured by Michigan's stubborn defense in the shadows of its goal posts. After an exchange of punts had left the ball in midfield, Ohio State made a first down by rushing and then kicked to Simrall, the Michigan quarter back. The Wolverines could not gain and Michigan was forced to punt. Simrall lifted to Holman, who made a beautiful return of 12 yards. Several other punt exchanges followed, and finally Ohio took the ball on the Michigan 30 yard mark. Time for the quarter was called shortly afterward.

On the opening play of the second quarter Simrall of Michigan punted to Holman, who returned 5 yards. Two straight plays failed, and then Holman shot a long and high forward pass to Fesler, the Ohio State right end. Fesler made a nice catch as Capt. Truskowski tried to bat the ball, which was caught on the goal line. After recovering his balance, Fesler stepped over the goal line, and Barrett, the Buckeye, center, added the extra point by shooting the ball between the posts from placement. This made the score 7 to 0.

CAPT. TRUSKOWSKI

As previously stated, both elevens threatened to score in the last half, but strong defensive play by both at critical times prevented. The Wolverines came back strong and many times forced Ohio State to tighten its line to stop the line plunging of Gembis, the Michigan full back, and Truskowski, who had been shifted from end to half back.

Duquesne's Kick After Touchdown Beats Loyola

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Duquesne university nosed out Loyola university, Chicago, by a score of 7 to 6 today at Forbes field before a crowd of 4,500. Donnelli's place kick after Burns' touchdown in the final period provided the winning point.

Jim McNeil, Rambler right end, intercepted one of Donnelli's tosses in the middle of the third quarter and Loyola took the ball on Duquesne's 16 yard line. Burke fumbled but recovered for a five yard loss. Molloy tossed a beautiful pass to Burke, who caught it behind the goal line for the first score of the game. Tommy Flynn's kick for the extra point failed.

Two passes in the fourth period carried Duquesne from her own 40 yard line to the Loyola goal for the winning touchdown and point. The first toss, Benedict to Donnelli, gained 35 yards. On the next play McCarthy passed to Jack Burns, who crossed the goal line as Les Molloy tackled him. Donnelli's placement for the extra point was perfect.

Tommy Flynn's crashing of the Duquesne line and Molloy's pass to Flynn for a gain of 40 years featured the closing minutes of play, with Loyola making a desperate effort to score through the air.

Loyola made nine first downs to the home team's four. Donnelli's punting and Devenney's passing featured the attack of Duquesne, while Les Molloy was the Loyola star.

Lineup:

DUQUESNE (7).		LOYOLA (6).
Tavelli	L. E.	Weimer
Skender	L. T.	Lutzenkirchen
Ferrare	L. G.	Poopesvitter
Silverstein	C.	Kolowski

Loyola—Connelly for Collins; Durkin for Burke; Walsh for Lutzenkirchen; Wasco for Koslowski; Nolan for Paul; Paul for Nolan.

MISSOURI ROMPS OVER DRAKE IN 20 TO 0 CONTEST

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers, pacemakers in the Big Six conference defeated Drake university, leaders of the Missouri valley loop, 20 to 0, in their inter-conference football game here today.

The Tigers scored a touchdown in each of the first three periods, but were held scoreless in the final quarter when a reserve team opposed the Bulldogs.

Two minutes after the initial kickoff, Capt. John Waldorf of the Tigers hurled a pass thirty yards to Keither Hursley, veteran end, who dodged through the apparently inadequate Drake aerial defense over the goal line.

Russell Dills, diminutive quarter mile sprinter, replacing Scotty Kenney, tore off tackle for 27 yards in the second period for touchdown number two. He flitted through the whole array of Bulldogs, first line and secondary defense, aided by an imposing line charge and excellent blocking.

Capt. Waldorf supplied the score toss to J. Mack Gladden, regular end, that resulted in the third touchdown, in the third period.

World's Non-Stop Automobile Record Shattered by Plymouth

More than one year's average driving in 26 days! 11,419 miles of travel in 632 hours—with never a stop, never a moment's rest for motor or chassis! That is the record-breaking feat performed by a Chrysler-built standard stock Plymouth 4-door Sedan over all sorts of roads around Tyler, Texas!

The finish was voluntary, with the motor functioning perfectly. Official examination showed scarcely a trace of carbon, no need to grind valves, no appreciable wear, no single part requiring repair or replacement. Observers' affidavits covering every detail of this non-stop record are open to public inspection.

Here is proof of unduplicated engineering soundness made strikingly apparent. Here is proof of unduplicated quality demonstrated beyond question. Here is a low-priced car that is built to last—a car that combines reliability, stamina, operating economy and long life with beauty, style and full-size comfort. Here is the greatest car and the greatest value in the low-priced field today!

Come in and find out for yourself, what Plymouth performance means.

LAKE VIEW TAKES 20 TO 7 BEATING FROM ROOSEVELT

Last Saturday Roosevelt High won its first football game in the four years of its City league competition, and the students at the Wilson avenue school rejoiced accordingly. Just by way of proving that it wasn't a fluke and that Roosevelt is to be reckoned with in the north section, Coach Allon's team made it two straight by defeating Lake View, 20 to 7, at Logan Square yesterday.

Nan Cotsiopoulos, star of the victory over Lake View last week, got his team off to a good start in the first quarter by taking a long pass from Hoeft for a touchdown. Shortly after Nanni repeated the performance, taking another toss from Hoeft over from the 1 yard line. In the third quarter Witz added the final Roosevelt touchdown on a three yard plunge from McCarthy again turned in an excellent game at center for Roosevelt, while Olander and Reynolds featured for Lake View. Lineup:

ROOSEVELT [20].		LAKE VIEW [7].
Hoeft	L. E.	Stromberg
Cotsiopoulos	L. T.	Pelligrem
Witz	L. G.	Coe
McCarthy [C.]	C.	Miller
Nannini	R. G.	Eerdorf
Hoban	R. T.	Stone
Roosevelt	R. E.	Thomas
Wits	Q. B.	Jacobson
Cotsiopoulos	L. H.	McLammon
Nannini	R. H.	Reynolds
Olander	F. B.	Olander

Touchdowns—Hoban, Hoeft, Nannini. Point after touchdowns—Roosevelt: Witz for Cotsiopoulos, Nannini.

AUSTIN, 13; CRANE, 0.

Austin rolled up its first victory in the new season of the City league yesterday by defeating Crane Tech, 13 to 0, at Mills stadium. Tarpey, Austin full back, plunged through Crane's line for the first touchdown in the first quarter. In the last period, Tarpey, still out, grabbed a Crane pass and raced twenty yards for the second Austin touchdown. Lineup:

CRANE [0].		AUSTIN [13].
Kelly	L. E.	Manning
Kelly	L. T.	Anderson
Kelly	L. G.	Zepp
Kelly	C.	Koch
Kelly	R. G.	Norton
Kelly	R. T.	Brainard
Kelly	R. E.	Doner
Kelly	Q. B.	Ray
Kelly	L. H.	Valle
Kelly	R. H.	Kimel
Kelly	F. B.	Armstrong, Tergens

Touchdowns—Tergens, Mannings. Points after touchdowns—Armstrong.

MARSHALL, 19; HARRISON, 7.

Marshall won its second victory in the new season race yesterday and incidentally handed Harrison its first defeat, 19 to 7, at Harrison stadium. Harrison took the lead in the first quarter when Rvidera, right end, blocked a Marshall punt, scooped it up and raced 25 yards for a touchdown. A triple pass for 45 yards followed by a series of line plays gave Marshall its first score a short time later. A fumble by Harrison on its own 1 yard line gave Marshall another touchdown and a third was added in the last period on an intercepted pass. Lineup:

MARSHALL [19].		HARRISON [7].
Klein	L. E.	Klein
Miller	L. T.	Miller
Kreswinski	L. G.	Kreswinski
Deibel	C.	Deibel
Dvorak	R. G.	Dvorak

Carek	L. H.	Carek
Kubic	R. H.	Kubic
Leonetti	F. B.	Leonetti

Touchdowns—Projansky [2], Fine, Kvidera. Point after touchdown—Projansky, Carek.

TILDEN, 26; BOWEN, 0.

Tilden Tech, all-city champion last year, is off to a second victory in the central section race by trimming Bowen, 26 to 7, at Normal park. Conroy and Shemaitis again starred for the Techs, receiving able support from Veshnauna, Kostbade and Schiffman. Lineup:

TILDEN [26].		BOWEN [7].
Conroy	L. E.	Blastic
Veshnauna	L. T.	Wernig
Kostbade	L. G.	Vodvrich
Schiffman	C.	King

Touchdowns—Shemaitis [2] Marshman, Conroy. Points after touchdowns—Shemaitis 2 [drop], Blastic.

St. Rita Beats St. Leo in Last Seconds, 13-7

St. Leo, one of the youngest and strongest teams in the Catholic league, was defeated by St. Rita, 13 to 7, in the league opener for both at the latter's field yesterday. It was St. Leo's first defeat in five games and if it had not been for an intercepted pass they might have earned a tie.

St. Leo took the lead in the first quarter when O'Connor skirted left end and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown. St. Rita proved that it still is one of the most aggressive teams in the league, despite the fact that it lacks weight, by tying the score in the second quarter. A pass, Walsh to Lenzi, brought the ball to St. Leo's 10 yard line, and the latter carried it over in a series of plunges. Carron kicked the extra point.

With only a few minutes of the game remaining, Sheehan, St. Rita center, intercepted a St. Leo pass and ran it from his own 40 yard line to St. Leo's 15 yard line. Lenzi went to work again and took the ball over with 30 seconds left. Lineup:

ST. RITA [13].		ST. LEO [7].
Murney	L. E.	Hackett
Ouska	L. T.	Hamill
Niedbala	L. G.	Kelly [C.]
Sheehan	C.	Ryan
Foster	R. G.	Boyle
Roche [C.]	R. T.	Lavin
Eiten	R. E.	Lynch
Walsh	Q. B.	E. Maher
Lenzi, Ruhl	L. H.	O'Connor
Evans	R. H.	MacKinnon
Carron, Lenehan	F. B.	Fitzgerald

Touchdowns—O'Connor, Lenzi [2]. Points after touchdowns—Carron, Fitzgerald.

MT. CARMEL, 20; ST. IGNATIUS, 0

Mount Carmel opened its Catholic league schedule with a victory over St. Ignatius, 20 to 0, at Shewbridge field yesterday. In the first quarter, Mount Carmel marched from their own 10 yard line, down to the Ignatius 8 yard line, and McCarthy made an end run for the first touchdown.

The victors passed frequently in the last quarter and a 25 yard toss from Zegers to Bowling brought the second touchdown. Another pass, Geggs to Henderson, accounted for the third tally. Henderson was successful in two attempts for extra points. Lineup:

MT. CARMEL [20].		ST. IGNATIUS [0].
Taber	L. E.	Liska
Breen	L. T.	Powers
Osomski	L. G.	Burke

Bowling	R. H.	Neville
McCarthy	F. B.	Dugan

FENGER, 19; CALUMET, 7.

Fenger upset Calumet, 19 to 7, in a south section game yesterday. Fenger attempted seven passes and completed three, all of which led to the trio of touchdowns. Cedergren's passing and Sleesig's punting featured the victory.

FENGER [19].		CALUMET [7].
Dykstra	L. E.	Manz, Scott

Touchdowns—Strain, Cedergren [2], Scott. Points after touchdowns—Cedergren [drop kick], Bloom [plunge].

LINDBLOM WINS, 47-0.

Coach E. L. Moore's Lindblom team made its 1929 debut in the central section of the City league yesterday by defeating Hyde Park, 47 to 0, at White City. The Lindblom eleven showed its strength in every quarter, scoring two touchdowns in the first third and fourth periods. Schabes, Condon, Mellies led the attack, while Capt. Fred Febel continued his accurate place kicking accounting for five points after touchdowns. Lineup:

LINDBLOM [47].		HYDE PARK [0].
Lazarevitch	L. E.	Rogers

Pio Nono, 19; Lutheran High, 0.

OAK PARK, 20; DEERFIELD, 7.

Oak Park High hung up another victory in the Suburban league yesterday by defeating Deerfield, 20 to 7, at Oak Park. Deerfield had been unbeaten and had a record of three victories until yesterday. Capt. Meenan led his team to victory, scoring a touchdown in the first and second quarters. Burton made his team's final score on a pass from Miller.

PROVISO, 12; NEW TRIER, 10.

Proviso of the Suburban league defeated New Trier, last year's co-champion, 12 to 10, at Maywood yesterday. Haas, Proviso fullback, took the ball on an end play and made a spectacular 90 yard run for the first touchdown.

SCHURZ NOSES OUT SENN IN 7-6 GRID GAME

Held scoreless for three quarters, Schurz completed a forward pass and defeated Senn, 7 to 6, at Blue's park yesterday. It was Schurz's second straight league win.

Meike, Senn full back, tossed a pass to Reglin for a touchdown in the first quarter. Stinespring, Schurz half back, received a pass from Bloemna and ran 25 yards for the tally in the last quarter. McFawn kicked the goal for the deciding point. Lineup:

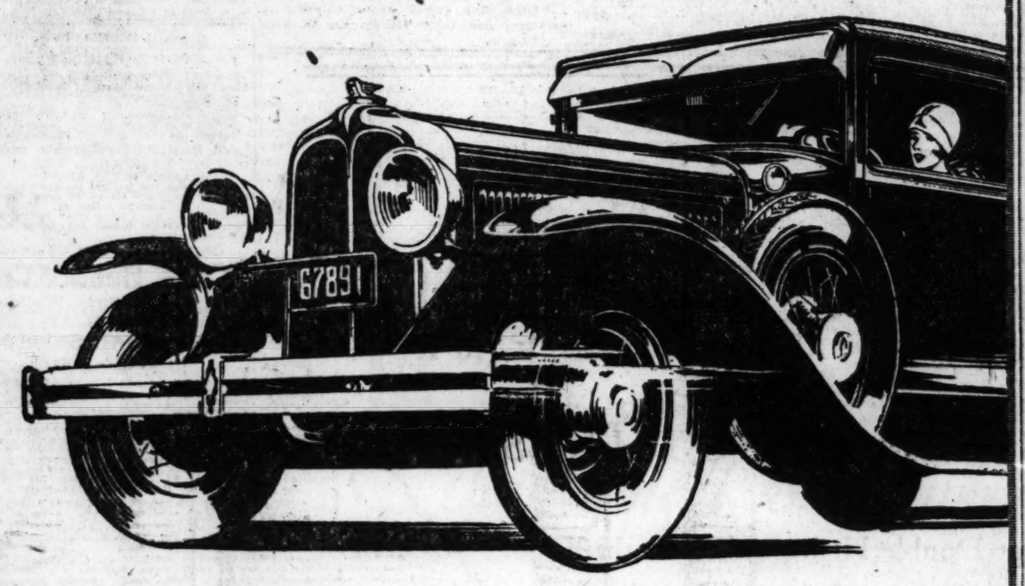
The only car listing for less than $1000 which offers all these Important Features



If YOU are in the market for a low-priced six—and if you study this field for the purpose of learning which car offers you most for your money—then it is safe to predict that your choice will be a Pontiac Big Six. For, search as you may, you will find nothing to compare with Pontiac at equally low prices. This holds true regardless of what qualities may weigh heaviest in your conception of motor car value.

Do you want power? Pontiac's big, 200-cubic-inch engine develops 60 horsepower at 3,000 revolutions per minute—the highest power produced by any six so low in price.

Do you want speed? Pontiac offers the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration to be found in any low-priced six, as proved by the "fifth wheel," the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers.

Do you want smoothness, safety, long life? Pontiac provides them in more generous measure than any other low-priced six because of such features as the Harmonic Balancer which counteracts torsional vibration in the crankshaft, the crankcase ventilating system which prevents dilution of oil, the full pressure lubricating system and Pontiac's exceptionally fine internal-expanding non-squeak four-wheel brakes.

And for those to whom beauty and comfort are deciding factors, Pontiac's bodies by Fisher offer smartness of line and richness of interior unparalleled in the low-price field.

Note the list of features at the right. These are features which are combined in the Pontiac Big Six and in no other car listing for less than $1000. Come in and let us show you what these features mean to you in terms of finer performance, greater riding ease and increased all-round satisfaction with your car. And bring your present car for our liberal appraisal. You'll be astonished at learning how easily you can own a Pontiac Big Six.

1 A 200-cubic-inch L-head engine.
2 The Harmonic Balancer.
3 The G-M-R cylinder head.
4 The cross-flow radiator.
5 Automatic temperature control.

Summer "follows thru" at EXCELSIOR SPRINGS MISSOURI

Overnight from Chicago on the Southwest Limited

Bleak and brown are Chicago's courses; bright and sunshiny are the two, tricky 18-holers at Excelsior Springs. Skip down to America's greatest Spa for a week or a week end.

Vary your program—early morning woodland canters, evening hikes, tennis, boating, dancing. People you'll like to meet and remember.

Drink the far-famed spring waters—enjoy the invigorating baths. An economical way to make you well and keep you well. Just the thing to fit yourself for winter's rigors.

A night away on The Milwaukee Road's famous Southwest Limited. Leave Chicago Union Station 6:00 p. m.; arrive Excelsior Springs 6:48 a. m. And you'll enjoy every minute of your trip—the delicious dinner by George Rector of Broadway fame, the congenial atmosphere of the observation-club car, restful sleep in a big, roomy berth. Let us give you complete details.

ELECTRIFIED OVER THE ROCKIES TO THE SEA

NEW RECORD SET BY JACK HASKELL AT AURORA OVAL

Parmelee Draws Boos as Islam Loses.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jockey Jack Parmelee, who has been one of the stars around Chicago this season, came into disfavor with the 15,000 racegoers at Aurora yesterday when he finished third in the Mooseheart feature on the short priced favorite Islam.

A chorus of boos greeted him when he came back to the scales to saddle, and the crowd continued to hoot him as he made the long painful trip from the scales back to the jockeys' quarters. It is questionable if the outburst against Parmelee was justified. He did get Islam away to a bad start, and was four lengths back of the flying pacemaker, Jack Haskell, as the field hit the turn.

Breaks Track Record.

He continued to trail Jack Haskell throughout the mile and seventy yards trip. But Jack Haskell clipped nearly a full second off the track record. His time was 1:42 1-5. The old mark was 1:43, held by Florence Mills.

Even with a good start, it is doubtful if Islam could have headed Jack Haskell in such fast time. Under a hustling ride by Corbett Jack Haskell led his stablemate Trieze home by three lengths in the Mooseheart with Islam third, and despite the fact that the gray Jack Haskell has run all the brilliant races of his career over the Aurora course, he was again overlooked in the betting in the rush to support Islam. He paid $8.22 to win.

Because the entry, which sported the silks of Lewis & Kemp of Kansas City, finished first and second freak place prices prevailed when $7.70 was hung out. No show mutuels were sold.

Parmelee has been in a slump since the Aurora season opened, winning only a couple of races during the first week. His mounts are always heavily played, but his backers deserted him after his failure on Islam.

Paul Bunyan Wins.

The best card of the fall season attracted the largest crowd, and it was also the heaviest betting gathering.

The Oaklawn purse at 6 furlongs shared the place of honor with the Mooseheart, and it brought Paul Bunyans' third straight victory when he came from behind and beat Golden Volt by four lengths with Fiala third.

Paul Bunyan stepped a fast 6 furlongs when he completed the course in 1:13, and he looks better in every race he runs. He was far back for a time in the Oaklawn, but began moving up on the turn into the stretch and when he began his big drive an eighth from home, he smothered those who were trying to keep pace with him.

The Chicago crowds are beginning to respect Bunyan's speed and they made him the odds on favorite, the final price against him being $3.74. Old Cartoon, the black sheep son of Chicle, won his second race in a row when he came home first in the mile and a sixteenth sixth event. He had to have a million dollar ride by Jockey T. May to slip through on the rail and win by a neck from the long shot, Thistlecoot, in the final strides. Corinne Star wound up in third place. May saved ground all the way with Cartoon and had to take a desperate chance to ride him through next to the rail in the last twenty strides. Cartoon rewarded his backers at $9.76.

Sparta Meets Carpenters in Soccer Clash

Intercity Standing

	W.	L.	T.	Pt.
Holley Carburetors [Detroit]	3	0	2	8
Carpenters [Chicago]	3	0	1	7
Brusell Hungarians [Cleveland]	2	2	1	5
Slavia [Cleveland]	2	2	1	5
Detroit S. C. [Detroit]	1	3	0	2
Sparta [Chicago]	0	3	1	1

A record crowd is expected today at Sparta field, 22d street and Kostner avenue, where the Carpenters clash with Sparta in an Inter-City league soccer game. The kickoff will be at 3 o'clock.

The Carpenters have not been defeated this season, and while a victory in today's game may put them in first place in the league standings, the points will be hard to get should Sparta play like it did against the Holley Carburetors of Detroit last Sunday. Other games today in the Inter-City league:

Detroit and Slavia at Detroit.
Brusell Hungarians and Hollys at Cleveland.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES.

Swedish Americans and Vienna at De Paul field.
Majestic Radios and Buda at Majestic field, 6100 West Grand avenue.
Norwegian Americans at Johnston City at 4500 West Fullerton avenue [game called at 2:30 p. m.].

BUDA CUP COMPETITION.

Maccabees vs. Joliet at Olympia field, 47th avenue and 19th street.
Mozart London vs. Brt. & Col. Vets at 47th and 19th, and kickoff at 1 o'clock.
Ulster United vs. Waverly at 67th street and California avenue.
Dr. Skarodin Boosters vs. Hungarians at 51st and Wood streets.
[Games called for 3 p. m.]

MAJOR LEAGUE GAMES.

Ivy Oak vs. Pullman at Woodbine.
Campbell A. C. vs. MacDuff A. C. at Humboldt park.
Ravenswood and Linnea at 64th street and Racine avenue.

Jack Alexander Brings $4,000 in Aurora Sale

Jack Alexander, which in his day, won many races around Chicago was the star of the sale conducted in the Aurora paddock yesterday. He was sold by McConnell and Walker to M. E. Styfy, a western turfman, for $4,000. C. P. Winfrey paid $1,700 for Vowed Vengeance, the Jones stock farm got Dorothy Mac for $1,550, and Seventeen Sixty went to C. L. Foster for $1,250.

SO. CALIFORNIA ROLLS UP 64-0 ON OCCIDENTAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—With its head coach, Howard Jones, absent to scout Stanford and its first team never at any time in the game together, Southern California's football juggernaut today crushed little Occidental college, 64 to 0, before 22,000 in the Los Angeles coliseum.

Duffield, second string quarter, who started the game but went out before a half was played in place of Gaius Shaver, third stringer, was the scoring hero. Duffield put over three touchdowns, all in the first period and converted once, for 19 points. Shaver tctaled two touchdowns and two conversions. Hammack, second string half, put over two touchdowns. Hill, sub full back, added one and Rocky Kemp, fourth string quarter, and Willingham, a fifth stringer, also made touchdowns.

The Trojans now top the coast conference with successive wins of 76 to 0 over University of California in Los Angeles; 48 to 0 against University of Washington, and 21 to 7 against Oregon State. They meet their first real test against Stanford at Palo Alto next week, where the far west championship will be decided.

Lake Forest Preps Stop Loyola Yearlings, 20 to 0

Lake Forest academy's football eleven defeated the Loyola freshmen, 20 to 0, yesterday. The north shore team displayed a strong running attack and their sturdy line stopped Loyola.

Cornhuskers Fall Before Pitt, 13 to 7

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Pittsburgh utilized the 15 minutes of the second period today to sweep through Nebraska's defenses for two touchdowns and a 12 to 7 victory over the 1928 Big Six champions in one of the most important intersectional gridiron battles of the afternoon.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Pennsylvanians this season and shoved them a step farther along the gridiron path they hope will lead to a national championship. A crowd estimated at 35,000 packed the stadium and temporary bleachers despite the all night drizzle which did not let up until after the game started.

Twice Parkinson, veteran Pittsburgh full back, lugged the ball over the Cornhuskers' goal line. The first score came after Wallnchus, substitute for Williams, had caught a short pass and ran 53 yards to the two yard line. The second followed a steady Pitt drive aided by a Nebraska penalty.

In the third period Clair Sloan hurled a pass 25 yards to Morgan over the goal line for Nebraska's touchdown. Lineup:

NOBODY'S BUSINESS
By Westbrook Pegler

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 19.—About thirty minutes before the start of a big football game, a journalist of my acquaintance approached the coach of one of the teams involved and asked him if it would be all right to enter the dressing room merely to see, near, sniff, and otherwise absorb the general scene of a famous football team awaiting the whistle.

The coach was quite courteous, but he said he would have to keep the boys quarantined with their bottle-holders until the game began because they were all on edge and any distraction might disturb their mood, in which case they might not win the football game. The coach evidently felt that he had not made himself quite clear, however, so a few minutes later an alumnus of the college who is intensely devoted to the teams year after year, came up to explain the matter a little more fully.

"They're Just Like That," Says Old Grad.

"The coach hopes you won't misunderstand," he said. "And he would be glad to have you come to the dressing room or the hotel after the game and meet the boys individually. But the fact is that just now he has got the players in just the right frame of mind to go in there and fight like the devil. I was inside a few minutes ago myself and I can assure you that they are just like that." Here he made a grim face and clenched his hands fiercely.

Now this incident could be duplicated a hundred times any Saturday afternoon in the football season, and I hold that it boils down the Carnegie foundation's report, Chief Justice Taft's dignified criticism, and the whole case against that phase of football which is known as over-emphasis.

Every one, including the coaches, holds that football is an amateur game and if it is an amateur game then it should be played for fun. Yet all over the United States on Saturday afternoons coaches harangue teams of young players and send them out like so many fanatics in a holy war, which, of course, is no fun for them. The coaches do this because it is their job to win games, and a team which takes the field with a laugh on its lips regarding the game as nothing but a game would be torn apart by a team whose emotions have been played upon by the standard tricks of psychology familiar to all city detectives, lawyers, revivalists and football coaches.

School Applies Pressure on Coach.

In after years, old football players speak amusedly of how the old coach whipped them to frenzy with his exhortations in the dressing room, realizing now that he was only striving for an effect to achieve the purpose of holding his job. The pressure on the coach is applied by the school itself. The school demands gate receipts and losing football teams, like losing clubs in the major leagues and third rate prize fighters, can't draw money at the turnstiles. The more money the team must draw the greater the pressure on the coach and the grimmer the game becomes to the young men who play it, with the result that 25 or 30 college boys, ostensibly out for an afternoon of play, must be hypnotized to frenzy before they may be considered ready to take the field.

How Would This Dialogue Go?

It would be absurd, of course, but one of these days I should like to attend a football practice at one of the big universities and hear a dialogue between coach and player somewhat as follows:

Coach:

"Hey, hey, you big clumsy party over there, is that the way you pull out of the line on that play?"

Player:

"My name is Smith. Inasmuch as I am a student here, paying my tuition, and you are a hired employé teaching a non-intellectual activity, thus ranking only slightly above the janitor in my estimation, I shall have to ask you to call me Mr. Smith.'

"As I understand our relative positions, you are paid to teach me to play this game and if that is the case you will please confine your remarks to instructions only. And, moreover, your lectures on loyalty to the school strike me as not only irrelevant but inconsistent. You never attended this school as a student, on the contrary, you attended St. Phoebe's academy, whom we have the honor to play next Saturday afternoon. Yet, you have the gall to stand before this team and exhort us, in the name of loyalty, to lick that school to which you owe such loyalty as the situation requires.

"How About Those Testimonials?"

"Another thing. I notice that you have been selling testimonials for nickel cigars which you do not smoke, and newspaper articles which you have not the capacity to write and otherwise commercializing the newspaper importance which you have derived from the fact of our winning a great many football games. Now, if you have denied yourself this revenue, then you might have some claim to the devotion of the football players, including myself. But since you have developed your job into a racket, it is plain to me that you want this team to win only to increase your rate for testimonials, newspaper articles and other phases of your racket.

"As I said, it must be understood that I am the client in our relationship, and it is your duty to serve me in a respectful way, not revile me. Hereafter I will be mister to you. Now what was it you were about to say about the correct way to pull out of the line on that play?"

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The players must be hypnotized to frenzy before they may be considered ready to take the field.

Quincy College Scores Third Victory, 38 to 6

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Quincy college today won their third straight game when they defeated the Hannibal-Lagrange college, 38 to 6. The locals made most of their gains on aerial plays. Quintens and Redd starred for Quincy with two touchdowns each. Flynn and Singleton each had a touchdown and each kicked goal. Rigney got the touchdown for Hannibal-Lagrange.

Cross-Country Teams to Meet at Bradley

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The annual cross-country meet among teams of the Illinois intercollegiate athletic conference has been awarded to Bradley university here, and the date selected is Saturday, Nov. 23. The start will take place between the halves of the Bradley-Millikin football game. It is expected that six to eight conference teams will compete.

Hunters Make Preparation to Ambush Geese

BY BOB BECKER.

In the sand bars along the Mississippi river excavators have been digging some queer looking holes lately. No archeological investigations are involved in these enterprises.

On the contrary, the projects are strictly zoological, because the boys along the big river are getting ready for the annual migration of the Canada geese, the honkers that breed far north and will winter [for the most part] along the Louisiana gulf coast. The holes being dug in the sand bars will serve as blinds for the goose hunters.

Most of the pits will be lined with boards. Some of them will be heated with little charcoal burners later in the season, when the sand bars may get as cold as a pack of north pole ice swept by a bitter winter wind.

Although the sand bar brigade which aspires to spray the big white throated honkers with number two shot goes below the surface in the construction of a blind, the prairie goose hunter makes his preparations for hunts by building a hideout above ground, because the latter, as a rule, crawls into a cornstalk shelter.

Thus midwest hunters have the choice of two kinds of blinds, depending on the type of country visited for a goose hunt. In southern central Illinois, along the Illinois river, the cornstalk blind is common. Farther south in the state and down through Tennessee and Kentucky you crawl into an underground blind.

The honkers will be down pretty soon. In Illinois the daily limit on these birds is four. But the bagging of that number of husky geese is only half the fun. The broadcasting and the antics of the live decoys as they talk to the wild birds on the wings is in itself a big show.

WEEK'S FIGHT RESULTS

At Chicago—Lope Tenorio won on a foul from King Tut [1]; Pete Meyers beat Bobby O'Hara [10]; Babe Hunt beat Al Friedman [10]; King Levinsky stopped Nick Taft [3]; Solly Schuman beat Johnny Burns [8].

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Maxie Rosenbloom outpointed Jimmy Slattery [10]; Matt Adgie knocked out Allentown Joe Gans [1]; Knute Hansen defeated Roy "Ace" Clarke, foul [9]; Charley Belanger and Billy Jones drew [10].

At Rochester, N. Y.—Frankie Wine stopped Kayo Brown [3].

At New Orleans, La.—Joe King outpointed Jack De Mave [10].

At Wichita, Kas.—George Hanley outpointed Joe Packo [10]; Bid Sid Terris outpointed Buster Martin [8].

At Newcastle, Pa.—Maxie Straub knocked out Jimmy Hackley [2].

At Meadville, Pa.—Frankie Rio and U. S. Carpenter drew [10].

At Peru, Ill.—Paul Pantaleo knocked out Eddie Anderson [6]; Fernando Gonzales knocked out Lou Denny [5].

At London—Frankie Genaro outpointed Ernie Jarvis [15]; Primo Carnera stopped Jack Stanley [1].

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Joe Azzarello outpointed Eddie Anderson [8]; Johnny Ryan knocked out Frankie Grandetta [6].

At Cleveland, O.—Joey Goodman outpointed Armando Schackles [6].

At Paterson, N. J.—Jole Harrison outpointed Jimmy Goodrich [10].

At New York—Tony Canzoneri outpointed Johnny Farr [10]; George Hoffman stopped Ad Warren [10]; Nick Testo outpointed Pal Silvers [10].

At Boston—K. O. Christner outpointed Ernie Schaaf [10]; Jack Gagnon stopped Mike McTigue [1].

At Toronto—Eugene Hunt knocked out Albert "Frenchy" Belanger [6].

At Minneapolis—Dick Daniels outpointed Joe Packo [10].

At Ottumwa, Ia.—Vale Pelegano outpointed Steve Alcahi [10]; Louis Mays outpointed Harold McWilliams [10].

At San Francisco—Benreal Wright knocked out Leon Chevalier [6].

At Des Moines—Henry Pelegano outpointed Freddy Tompkins [10].

BENTON, 47; ZEIGLER, 0.

Benton, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Zeigler grid squad was to inexperienced to hold the Benton team here last night in a game played under flood light on Tabor field and the Rangers buried the visitors under a 47 to 0 score.

CHARGE SEWAGE KILLS THE FISH IN ILLINOIS STREAM

Pontiac, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Sewage from Pontiac is charged with polluting the water of the Vermilion river, killing thousands of fish. The sewage disposal plant maintained by the city does not take care of all the waste, and enough flows into the river to create the pollution, it is charged by anglers.

To remedy the situation, it is proposed to add filter beds to the municipal plant which, it is claimed, will take care of all sewage. Financial difficulties of the city at the present time may prevent the installation. As the sewage from the Illinois reformatory is being treated by the city disposal plant, an effort is to be made to secure financial assistance from the state.

ILL LUCK AT WESLEYAN.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—It seems that there is no end to the ill luck at the Illinois Wesleyan football camp. Wilbur Summerfelt of Chicago, who rates as the best utility lineman on the squad, was lost to the team when he tore the ligaments in his right ankle in dummy scrimmage.

YOU CAN'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT, WHY PLAY AT ALL?

That's Gist of Army Stand on Eligibility.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—When Gen. William R. Smith meets Admiral S. S. Robinson to settle football row between the military and naval academies next week he will present a unique idea regarding rules of eligibility for football players. The general will propose that any college or academy which can not be trusted to exclude professionals from its teams is not worth playing and that any time one college suspects another of harboring players who are football men first and students only it vindicate their football playing, the proper conduct is to drop relations instead of trying to reform the erring institution.

May Need Changes.

It is not certain that Gen. Smith will present these ideas in this form or they will be the substance of his reply to the Navy's old effort to regain football eligibility at West Point. Officially, the Navy's effort has come from the form of coercive action from other quarters and it is said that cordiality between the schools can not be entirely reëstablished until routine shifts of assignments in the service bring new personnel to some of the academy posts.

Of course, Gen. Smith's idea that a college or academy should be given credit for a spirit of honor is not exactly his own invention but it has been so many years since the colleges substituted restraint and surveillance for instinctive honesty in their football relations that it will seem new. He proposes that the naval academy rule to its own eligibility and accept the Army's football teams as bona fide without question, not deeming it necessary to give special guarantees against evasion or cheating.

The whole dispute goes back to the old suspicion that West Point prospects cadets with good football records in civilian schools, not to make officers of them but to use them on the football team. West Point has always insisted that these cadets are cadets in good faith and are likely to make superior officers upon graduation. The Navy imposed the collegiate three year eligibility rule upon itself and asked the Army to do likewise. Now, at the risk of seeming to meddle in the Navy's private affairs, army critics are suggesting that the Navy abolish these restrictions on itself instead of trying to impose them on the military academy if parity is what the Navy wants.

Player's Sweater Is Pledge.

West Point has held throughout the controversy that any time a football player appears on the field in an Army sweater, that very fact is an automatic pledge backed by the honor of the military academy that the player is a bona fide cadet above the rank of pledge with satisfactory grades in all his studies. On this point the Army will stand in the peace negotiations with the Navy, and far from being intimidated by the agitation of Congressmen Britten and Fish, the Navy's political agents in Washington, the Army is prepared to defend its contention.

As the normal maximum age of midshipmen is 24 years, one year younger than that of cadets, there may be some counter proposal that all cadets who have reached the age of 24 be automatically retired from varsity football competition. In the present year, such a concession would eliminate the Army's captain and greatest star, Chris Cagle and another regular back, Dick O'Keefe, as well as Clark Payne, a valuable second string back, and four other fairly important members of the first team. As this is a typical Army squad, I doubt that the Army will willingly consent to even this modified regulation by the Navy of the playing activities of military cadets.

What of the Students?

Incidentally, it may be remembered that at no time in this controversy have any of the students of either academy been consulted as to their desires or opinions in the matter. All the thinking, corresponding and political maneuvering has been done by men mature and serious minded officers of the two services. Perhaps, if the problem has been referred to the young men they would have settled it long ago.

FAVORITE LAKE OF NIMRODS IS BEING DRAINED

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Sportsmen of this vicinity are mourning the loss of Lima lake, the site of which is to be reclaimed for agricultural purposes. For the last month seven more pumps have been at work taking out the water.

The fish left stranded by the receding water were removed by the state fish and game conservation department. The water in the lake and connecting ditches has been maintained by seepage from the Mississippi river. This fall the stage of the father of waters has been the lowest in a number of years, and this has lowered the water in the lake. For many decades Lima lake has afforded ideal hunting and fishing for nimrods and anglers of this city and adjacent territory.

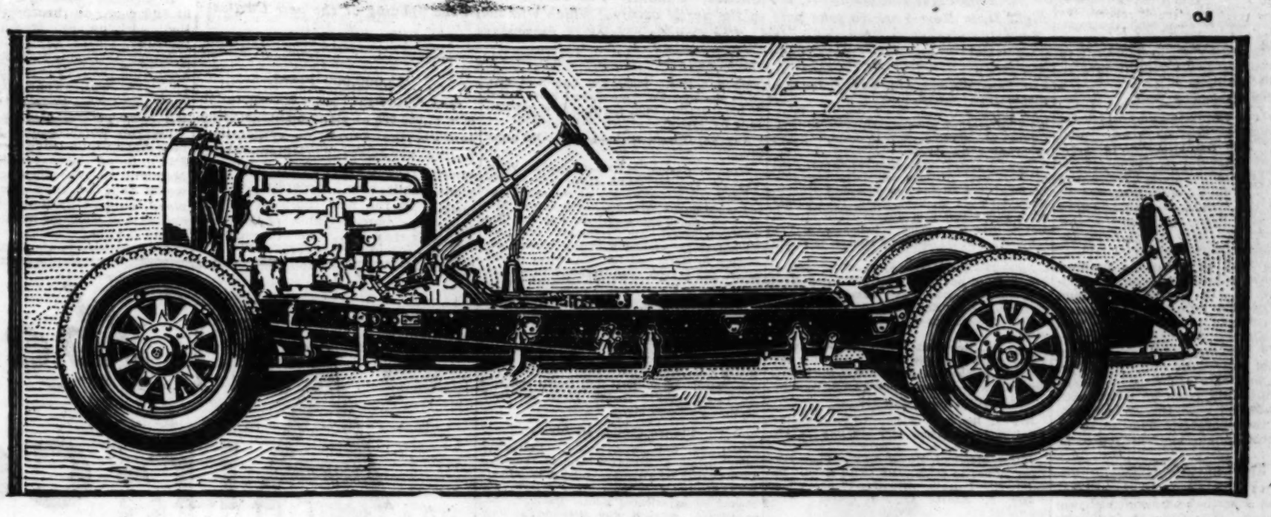
CHECK BUICK'S CHASSIS
-note its distinctive construction



..then you'll know why more than 2,000,000 people have bought BUICKS

Buick's *99-horsepower six-cylinder Valve-in-Head engine is the most powerful engine of its size in the world. It is famous, too, for unrivaled smoothness, economy and stamina. It incorporates such marked engineering advancements as counter-weighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control, positive pressure gas pump, and triple seals against wear.

Buick's Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes provide the most perfect control ever devised for any automobile. They are smooth, sure, silent in operation, and achieve positive results with minimum pedal pressure. And because they are enclosed—fully protected against dust, dirt and water—they insure maximum braking efficiency in any weather.

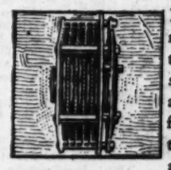
New, longer rear springs, in conjunction with four new Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers, impart a superlative degree of riding comfort. These two vital comfort factors work together in perfect harmony to check both bound and rebound over the roughest roads.

The world-famous Buick chassis and Buick's smart new Bodies by Fisher! An unrivaled combination! Providing the highest degree of motor car performance and all-round motoring satisfaction, over the greatest number of miles!

The more thoroughly you compare Buick with other cars, the more clearly you will understand why more than 2,000,000 people have bought Buicks—why men and women are buying from two to five times as many Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200—and why they have purchased more Buicks during the few weeks this brilliant new car has been on the market than in any like period in Buick history.

See the new Buicks and arrange to buy one. Six of the 14 luxurious body types, incorporating all the famous Buick superiorities, are available at prices ranging from $1225 to $1295, f. o. b. factory. All available on the extremely liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear imparts matchless steering ease throughout the entire turning range, while the new Buick Road Shock Eliminator absolutely prevents transmission of road jolts and jars to the driver's arms. Twin features which make a tremendous contribution to driving ease and roadability.



Buick's famous multiple-disc clutch, too, reveals marked superiorities. In addition to being far sturdier than those of conventional design, it imparts exceptional smoothness, due to its special facing which insures gentle, gradual engagement of the driving and driven surfaces.

Buick's famous torque tube serves two vitally important functions. It not only carries the driving thrust, leaving the rear springs free to cushion the car's progress, but also forms a major unit of the Buick chassis seal. Every moving part of the Buick chassis—from fan to rear wheels—is fully protected against dust, dirt and water, assuring maximum operating efficiency in any weather.

PLANES CAUSE 153 DEATHS IN LAST 6 MONTHS

Unofficial List Reveals Character of Crashes.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

A rough estimate, made from unofficial figures, shows that 153 persons met death from airplane acidents in the summer flying season which is now drawing to a close. This figure was compiled from news accounts of the air crashes during the six months' period from April 1 to Oct. 1.

A comprehensive record of the season's air fatalities will not be available until the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce publishes its annual analyses of accidents in civil aviation next January. Even the department of commerce published record is not a complete report of the air accidents. It is a bare classification of crashes, omitting the specific causes of accidents and the names of the various planes in which the accidents have occurred. This information is withheld by the department in its reluctance to place definite responsibility for fatalities.

Inexperienced Pilots.

The present estimate and the following summary of crashes which found their way into print serve to show the general character of the latest accidents. They show that by far the majority of crashes have occurred to planes in the hands of inexperienced pilots, youths who with only a few flying hours to their credit have become cocksure and careless.

A review of the season's crashes also reveals a large number of accidents due to the errors of trained pilots. The 1928 report of the department of commerce points to the failures of pilots. The analysis shows that 55.79 per cent of the accidents during last year were due to pilot errors. In accidents of transport planes the responsibility rests as much with the operator as with the erring pilot, for it is the operator's duty to select pilots whose judgment is proved to be sound.

Tail Spin Accidents.

Many of the season's air crashes have been described as resulting from tail-spinning. That fact is not particularly revealing. It describes what happened but does not indicate the specific cause. A plane falls into a tail spin from a stall, caused by the loss of flying speed. It may be due to engine failure, pilot error, or structural fault.

The following summary of accidents in the last six months gives the date and place of the accident, the number of fatalities, and, where they are reported, the names of the planes and a description of the cause:

April 13, Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Challenger and Ranger crashed in mid-air.

April 19, San Diego, Cal.—4 deaths. Two navy pursuit planes collide in air while landing.

April 21, San Diego, Cal.—6 deaths. Ford transport of Maddox Air Line collided with army pursuit plane in mid-air.

April 28, Los Angeles, Cal.—3 deaths. Unlicensed Travelair stunting in fog.

One Dead in Chicago.

May 1, Chicago.—1 death. Unlicensed pilot flying Waco powered with Curtiss OX5 "spun" when landing.

May 12, Waukegan.—2 deaths. American Eagle, Curtiss powered, buffeted by wind and rain storm and fell out of control.

May 19, Kankakee.—1 death. Plane flown by novice fell 65 feet from stall. Muskegon, Mich.—2 deaths. Wing crumpled on homemade plane. Galveston, Tex.—1 death. Army attack ship crashed. No cause given.

May 25, Kansas City, Mo.—2 deaths. Fell 100 feet on takeoff. No cause given. Baltimore, Md.—1 death. Demonstrating new plane crashed in tree. Waterloo, Ia.—1 death. Student crashed taking first lesson.

June 2, Kalamazoo, Mich.—1 death. Pilot leaped from burning plane. Grand Island, Neb.—2 deaths. Unlicensed pilot flying new plane first time flew low in threatening weather and crashed. Iron Mountain, Mich. —1 death. Student pilot; "tail-spin."

Plane in River.

June 6, Alexandria, Va.—1 death. Plunged into river; no cause given. Conshohocken, Pa.—2 deaths. No cause given.

June 8, Wilmington, N. C.—4 deaths. Flamingo all-metal cabin plane; "nose dived." No cause given. Cumberland, Md. —2 deaths. Army attack plane flying low in fog struck tree. Passengers burned to death. Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Waco biplane flown by unlicensed pilot crashed into fence on forced landing and passengers burned to death. Chicago.—1 death. Eaglerock powered with Curtiss OX5 flown by novice side slipped on sharp turn and pilot lost control.

June 9, Elyria, O.—1 death. "Tail-spin," no cause given. Chicago.—1 death. Inexperienced pilot flying Swallow with Curtiss OX5 motor flew from field covered with fog and lost flying speed. Poughkeepsie, N. Y. —1 death. No cause given.

June 13, San Antonio, Tex.—1 death. Two army planes locked wings during maneuver. Des Moines, Ia.—1 death. Old reconditioned "Jenny," turned over while landing.

Nose Dive Kills 2.

June 20, White Bear, Minn.—2 deaths. Plane, flown by unlicensed pilot, "nose dived." Seal Beach, Cal.—1 death. Unlicensed "homemade" experimental plane, built by pilot, crashed. Sacramento, Cal.—2 deaths. Unlicensed plane fell from 800 feet.

June 21, South Bend, Ind.—1 death. American Eagle powered with OX5 motor side slipped from vertical bank.

June 23, Harrison, O.—3 deaths. Pilot, stunting, crashed when maneuvering to land.

June 24, Creston, Ia.—1 death. "Tail spin," no cause given.

June 26, Minneapolis, Minn.—1 death. Ford of Northwest Airways fell from 700 feet. Reported that all three engines died at once. Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—1 death. Pilot burned when safety belt held him in plane after it turned over on landing. Indianapolis, Ind. —1 death. Plane flown by student pilot fell in "nose dive."

June 27, Beach Haven, N. J.—3 deaths. Motor failed on flying boat and plane dived into water. Reported salt water mixed with gasoline. South Bend, Ind.—1 death. Plane failed to come out of flat spin. No cause given.

June 28, Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—1 death. Plane ran out of fuel trying endurance record and crashed in fog. Riverside, Cal.—2 deaths. Two planes collided on takeoff.

Pilot Reported Drunk.

July 1, Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—3 deaths. Pilot reported drunk and stunting at low altitude.

July 4, Marshall, Mo.—1 death. Plane fell; pilot burned to death. No cause given. Decatur, Ill.—1 death. Stunting in new plane.

July 6, Kansas City.—1 death. Wing crumpled.

July 7, Los Angeles.—2 deaths. Stunting an old Curtiss "Jenny." New Preston, Conn. —2 deaths. Waco biplane "tail spun" from 200 feet. No cause given.

July 9, Quincy, Mass.—2 deaths. Marine flyers drowned when plane fell in harbor. No cause given.

July 10, Rochelle Park, N. Y.—2 deaths. Wing collapsed.

July 11, Salina, Kas.—2 deaths. Lincoln-Paige powered with Curtiss OX5 motor fell. No cause given.

July 12, Woodbridge, N. J.—2 deaths. Spartan biplane burst in flames and crashed. No cause given.

July 17, Van Nuy, Cal.—2 deaths. Pilot collapsed at controls. Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Wing torn off in first flight of experimental ship.

July 20, Toledo, O.—3 deaths. Swallow biplane powered with Hispano-Suiza motor, crashed while flying low. No cause given. Minot, S. D.—1 death. Plane piloted by student went into tail spin.

Plane Hits Tree.

July 22, Chicago.—2 deaths. Swallow powered with OX5, an old plane with old motor, flown by unlicensed pilot, went into tail spin when motor failed. Groton, S. D.—2 deaths. "Tail spin." No cause given. Santa Barbara, Cal.—2 deaths. Plane struck a tree in landing.

July 26, Binghamton, N. Y.—1 death. Struck light wires on landing field.

July 29, St. Louis, Mo.—2 deaths. Training plane crashed on emergency landing after motor failed. Minneapolis, Minn.—2 deaths. Motor failed after 154 hours service in refueling endurance flight.

July 31, East St. Louis, Ill.—1 death. Plane flown by student instructor crashed. No cause given.

Aug. 1, Greenville, O.—1 death. Plane piloted by student fell after having trouble in takeoff.

Aug. 2, Armonk, N. Y.—3 deaths. Wing collapsed while pilot was looping plane. DeWitt, Ia.—2 deaths. No cause given.

Aug. 3, Hemit, Cal.—2 deaths. Two unlicensed pilots flying condemned plane.

Two Killed Stunting.

Aug. 4, Burlington, Ia.—2 deaths. Pilot stunting Velie monocoupe fell into spin while looping. San Bernardino, Cal.—1 death. Fuel tank exploded.

Aug. 8, Casper, Wyo.—3 deaths. Plane burst into flames and fell. No cause given.

Aug. 11, Clovis, N. M.—3 deaths. Lockheed Vega side-slipped on sharp banking turn.

Aug. 18, Atlanta, Ga.—1 death. Student fell from plane learning to fly. Scottsbluff, Neb.—3 deaths. Plane fell into nose dive when landing. No cause given. Sioux Falls, S. D.—1 death. Pilot put ship into climbing turn on takeoff.

Aug. 25, Detroit, Mich.—1 death. No cause given.

Sept. 3, Grants, N. M.—8 deaths. This was the greatest single death toll of the summer. The department of commerce has not made public their detailed findings. The pilot of the Ford transport ship of The Transcontinental Air Transport Line attemped to go around a storm, became enveloped in storm and fog, apparently unable to see the ground, and crashed into side of mountain.

Sept. 5, Lemmon, S. D.—1 death. Curtiss pursuit plane crashed on takeoff. No cause given. Pittsburgh, Pa.—2 deaths. Army plane "tail spun." No cause given.

Sept. 12, Carroll, Ia.—2 deaths. Plane struck pole taking off. San Francisco, Cal. —3 deaths. Plane burst into flames and fell. No cause given. Hadley Field, N. J.—1 death. No cause given.

Planes Collide in Air.

Sept. 14, Chicago—4 deaths. Unlicensed pilot flying a Standard biplane powered with Curtiss OX5 motor, collided in mid-air with Stearman powered with Wright J5, piloted by experienced pilot. Oakland, Cal. —2 deaths. Student pilot attempted to loop at low altitude. Minneapolis, Minn.—1 death. Pilot lost control of ship and died in attempted parachute jump. No cause given.

Sept. 22, Chicago.—2 deaths. Student pilot flying Waco biplane frose stick while landing and fell 100 feet.

Last year's report of the department of commerce showed that 384 persons were killed during 1928 and 708 injured.

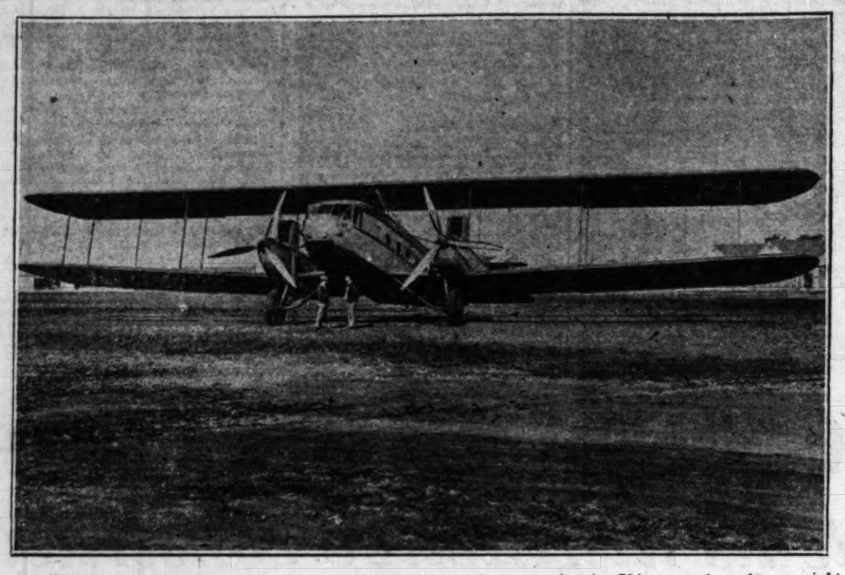
Cleveland-Detroit Air Record Cut to 40 Minutes

This is the season when all aviation records are challenged. One that has been broken four times this summer is that for passenger planes between Detroit and Cleveland, and there is no telling when it will be smashed again. The first record was 55 minutes for time consumed in flight between the two cities. This mark stood less than a week when Lester F. Bishop, flying a Loening amphibian on the Thompson Aeronautical corporation's Detroit-Cleveland passenger run, brought it down to 50. But Bishop's time was soon lowered to 47 minutes. And last week, with the mind at his back, Bishop flew the 100 miles from Detroit to Cleveland in 40 minutes flat, thus setting a new record.

NEW RADIO BEACON.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The department of commerce has rented an acre of ground at the municipal airport for a fee of $1 a year, upon which it will erect an $85,000 radio beacon.

HERE FOR CARNIVAL



This eight ton transport, the Curtiss "Condor," was due to arrive in Chicago today after a night flight from New York to take part in the aerial carnival which will mark the opening of the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview today. The Condor carries 18 passengers.

$3,000,000 FIRM.

BALTIMORE, Md.—Incorporation of a $3,000,000 airplane manufacturing concern, the Aero-Plane corporation, headed by James F. Milton, widely known race track starter, has been made public here. According to the charter of the new company it will take over patent rights of Howard Tebbs of this city. The other official named is Herbert C. Craft.

I. C. INAUGURATES RAILROAD-PLANE SERVICE OCT. 28

Leave Chicago 6:15 P.M.; In New Orleans 2 P.M.

Plans for air-rail connections between Chicago and New Orleans have been announced by J. V. Lannigan, general passenger agent for the Illinois Central system, following the completion of an agreement between the Illinois Central and the Continental Air Serves, Inc.

Under terms of the agreement, schedules of Continental's planes on the first lake-to-gulf air line will be coordinated with existing Illinois Central train schedules, so that an over night train trip and a short plane journey will put a traveler in either Chicago or New Orleans by mid-afternoon, with three before dinner hours left for transacting business.

Change at Memphis.

A Chicago passenger would leave at 6:15 p. m. on the New Orleans limited, arriving in Memphis in the morning, where he would change to a Keystone Loening amphibian plane. Following the course of the Mississippi river, the plane would stop at Vicksburg and fly on to New Orleans, landing there shortly after 2 p. m.

On the north bound journey, the passenger would leave New Orleans at 8:40 p. m. on the fast mail, arriving at Memphis in the morning. There he would take off in a Travelair cabin plane, land at St. Louis before noon, and at the Chicago municipal airport before 3 p. m.

A Chicagoan could make the round trip in forty-five hours, and still have six and a half hours to transact business in the gulf coast city. To facilitate the working arrangement between the railroad and Continental Air Services, Inc., the Illinois Central system will be represented on the board of directors of Continental Air Services, Inc. Arrangements provide that a single ticket, sold by either the railroad or the air line, will suffice for the entire journey.

Service Starts Oct. 28.

Service will be inaugurated on Oct. 28, when a fleet of five Continental planes will hop off from the municipal airport and visit St. Louis, Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans. Officials of the air line and the railroad and a number of others will be passengers on the first trip.

"Increasing industrial importance of the south has demanded more rapid transportation between Chicago, the industrial capital of the middle west, and New Orleans, the major city of the south," said Maj. M. D. Mann, president of Continental Air Services, Inc. "We feel that we are helping to bring about a closer connection which should aid the greatest development of both these sections. On the southern section of our route we will travel over and land on the same stream which has borne packet boats carrying the commerce of the midwest and the south for generations. We decided on flying boats for the southern part of the route as offering the maximum of safety and allowing us to give a trip of unusual scenic beauty. We feel that the Mississippi will have an important bearing on aviation development in the south and believe that our efforts in developing air transportation throughout the Mississippi valley are filling a genuine need."

ARMY ORDERS 70 PLANES.

Work was started recently by the Thomas-Morse Aircraft corporation, a division of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, on initial production of the United States army air corps order for 70 all metal corps observation planes involving approximately one million dollars.

AVIATION QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world's altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—Is there any way I can get information concerning the Air Service Technical school, Rantoul, Ill., and the Aviation Mechanics school, Great Lakes, Ill.? I have heard from the other schools but not from these two. Do you know if they send out catalogs?—R. M. R., Lockport, Ill.

A.—Write headquarters, Sixth corps area, to the air officer, 1819 W. Pershing road. See your nearest naval recruiting office for information on Great Lakes naval training station.

Q.—I have several questions which I would like answered. 1. Please tell me the wing span of the Chance Vought Corsair, Curtiss Hawk, and the Keystone bomber. 2. How many planes are there in a squadron? 3. Please tell me what N, X, or C in the license numbers on planes mean? —L. P., Waukegan, Ill.

A.—1. As to dimensions on planes you will have to write the respective manufacturers. 2. A squadron may be made up of any number of planes for tactical purposes, but usually consists of about fifteen planes in the various countries. 3. N means international, X means experimental, and C limits license to United States.

Q.—I am a school boy in high school and I like to build airplane models. Will you please tell me how I can get the working or technical drawings of the late plans? I merely wish a small copy, not a big one nor a blue print.—S. W., Chicago.

A.—We suggest your joining the Illinois Model Aero club if not already a member. W. L. Brock and Joe Lucas will be glad to help you on scale models.

Q.—I hear that the government operates a flying school where for $600 one may receive training as a pilot, providing that at the completion of the training he works for the government flying mail and pays a percentage of his salary the first year until he has paid for the complete cost of his training, which I think was $5,000. I would be obliged if you could tell me whether there is such a course or not.—M. R., Chicago.

A.—To our knowledge none of this is true, and we ask that you write the air officer, headquarters of Sixth corps area at 1819 W. Pershing road, Chicago, for information on the cadet corps.

Q.—Can you tell me who transport pilot No. 8 was and where he was from?—J. M. C., Michigan City, Ind.

A.—You will have to write department of commerce, Washington, D. C., as to transport pilot No. 8.

Q.—What are some of the best transport pilot's flying schools in the United States? Is the Boeing School of Aeronautics considered one of the best? Would the transport pilot course offered by one of these schools really give you the necessary experience and time so that the department of commerce would consider you for a transport pilot's license? Taking for granted that one has fair ability and education, is the 150 hours solo and 50 hours dual really enough? I always understood 200 hours solo was minimum. Would you consider it a bad policy to borrow the money for one of these courses, depending on that you could pay it back when you are through and have your license? Is there a very big demand for pilots in foreign countries?—A. W., Chicago.

A.—The school you mention should be one of the best. We suggest you write to various schools. In addition you may then inquire of the Better Business bureau, 111 W. Washington street, Chicago, Ill., and to the department of commerce as to the rating and then make your own decision. After 200 hours airwork in a competent school a flyer should be qualified to fly. There is quite a demand for pilots in South America as well as other countries.

FLY at sky harbor

No flying field like Sky Harbor in the United States—the realization of the aviator's dream. Learn to fly here from our own field in the same ship the Army uses for training—the Fleet with radial air cooled motors. Complete ground and mechanic's courses at our big downtown school—six floors of the finest equipment, including the latest development in motors, radio and parachutes. Now is the time to get into this fascinating industry—we will show you how.

Advanced training given on Cabin Monoplanes and Tri-Motored Ford. We operate the Gray Goose Air Lines.

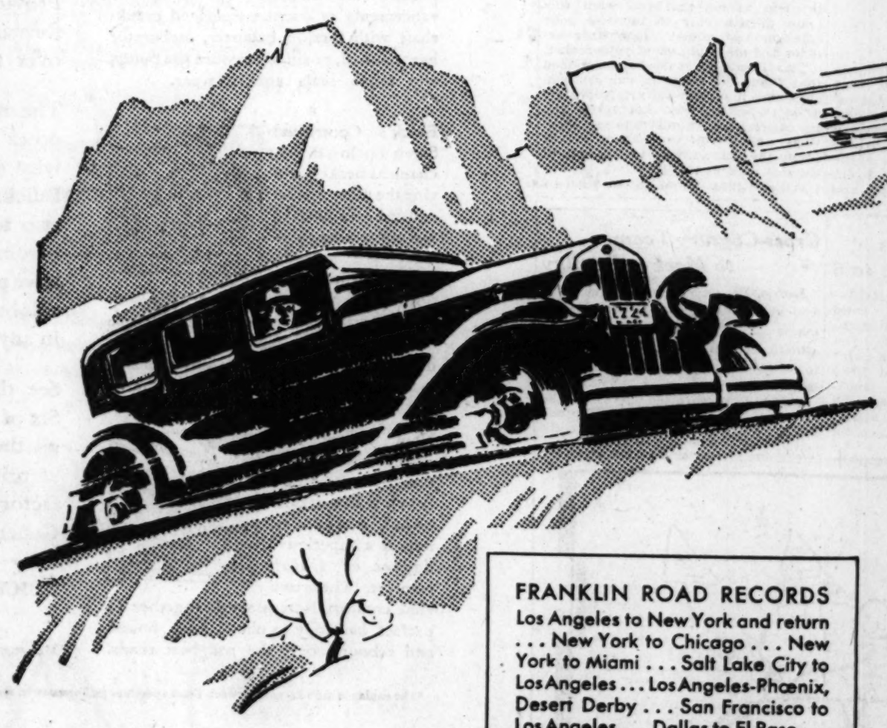
The Air-cooled engine won't freeze— won't overheat— holds all major road records— gives the airplane feel



THE man who drives behind the air-cooled engine has greater peace of mind than any other motorist. No matter how many things other motorists are worrying about or how cold the weather, the Franklin driver knows there is nothing in the air-cooling system to fill, drain, mix, tighten, lubricate, replace or repair—there is no water to freeze, boil or leak. He knows, too, that he can travel indefinitely at top speed without fear of overheating, loss of power, or injury to the engine.

Besides fearing no petty annoyances, the Franklin driver is constantly delighted with brilliant performance. Pickup of the zooming airplane. Power that never lets you even think of shifting gears on a steep hill. Every new motoring emergency is met and conquered with effortless ease and greater confidence—leaving only a satisfied feeling of unusual performance.

You want this kind of performance—why not call us for a demonstration?

YEAR PROGRAM F STREET WORK RECOMMENDED

w Plans for Spending icago's Gas Tax Cash

BY HAL FOUST.

three year program for the ex- ure of $4,800,000 on Chicago s south of Madison street has drafted by the Chicago Motor . The work was undertaken at request of a joint Chicago Asso- n of Commerce and Chicago Re- l Plan association committee, h was appointed to advise Cook y on how to spend its 1 cent of the gasoline tax revenue. e county board has decided to all of its portion of the fuel s an Chicago streets. The con- ervative estimate of this revenue is ,000 a year. The board has mised itself to appropriate $2,800,- of this money when, and if, it is ded to complete the Austin-Kinzie ional highway after $20,000,000 d park bonds are spent.

Thirteen Routes Considered.

ly the through routes are being idered for use of the gasoline ey. Although $2,500,000 a year is an impressive sum in view of mileage involved, it is expected o a long way toward improving ide conditions.

present, there are long stretches ood pavement in Chicago that are ally fine to motorists because l connections are missing. There places where a few blocks of ing will connect miles of smooth ace. A similar condition exists the heavily traveled routes; few without sections of bad pave- t.

The motor club's recommendations south side streets follow:

ison avenue—Between Cicero and 22d et under city contract. 22d street to ern street brick pavement, asphalt resur- d good condition. Between Polk and ington, pavement brick, condition fair ough. Recommend 40 foot concrete pave- .

enty-fifth street—Between State and ry avenue, pavement brick bad condi- . Recommend 40 foot concrete pave- .

enue O—Avenue L to 138th street, no ting pavement. Recommend 20 foot con- te pavement.

enue L—Between 95th street and 100th , pavement asphalt, bad condition. Rec- mend 20 foot concrete pavement. Between th and 112th streets pavement under truction. Between 112th and 116th pavement in good condition. Between th street and Avenue O no pavement. mmend 20 foot concrete.

Forty Foot Roosevelt Road.

sevelt road—Between Austin and Ken- avenue, brick pavement, fair to bad. mmend paving the north half of the 20 feet of concrete. Between Kenton Crawford avenues, pavement brick, fair bad. Recommend new 40 foot concrete ement.

land street—Little Calumet river to 87th t, pavement under contract.

enty-seventh street—Between Morgan and land streets, asphalt pavement in good ition. Morgan street, between 87th and streets, asphalt pavement in fair con- n. Recommend 20 foot concrete pave- t. Pavement between 77th and 73d ets is in good condition. Between 73d and streets pavement asphalt, condition . Recommend 20 foot concrete pave- t. Between 69th and 57th streets, street ement in good condition. Fifty-seventh h street, pavement asphalt, in bad ition. Recommend 20 foot concrete pave- t.

rquette boulevard—Between Western and ue avenues, pavement in good condition. een Kedzie and Central Park avenue, ment macadam, in bad condition. Recom- 20 foot concrete pavement. Central avenue to Crawford avenue, pavement d. Between Crawford and Cicero avenues, r stellar pavement. Recommend 20 foot ete.

uth Chicago avenue—Between Ewing ave- and 95th street, there is no right-of-way. is to be obtained by the City of Chi- through condemnation. Recommend 40 concrete pavement. Bridge is necessary be built by the city.

Paving in 1931.

ison avenue—Between 95th street and h Park avenue the street has not been ed through; city of Chicago should con- this property for right-of-way. Recom- 20 foot concrete pavement. Ninety-fifth h streets, pavement is macadam, in condition. Ninety-ninth to 104th street ot paved. Recommend 40 foot concrete ement. Between 104th and 111th street ement is macadam, in bad condition. Rec- end new 40 foot concrete pavement. ndred and Eleventh to 115th streets ement is in good condition. Between th and 116th streets, the city to con- property for right-of-way. Recommend ot concrete pavement. [The pavement 116th street and the I. C. R. R. is d condition. Underpass is necessary to this street through. Between I. C. R. the proposed cut-off the street is paved. Recommend 40 foot concrete ent.] A cut-off is proposed between street and Indiana avenue. This will 600 feet north of the 130th street northwest, under the proposed under- and meet Indiana avenue at 128th which is to be extended. This pro- street [Indiana avenue] is on railroad ey and will require condemning. Be- 130th and 134th street the existing ent is bad. Recommend new 40 foot ete.

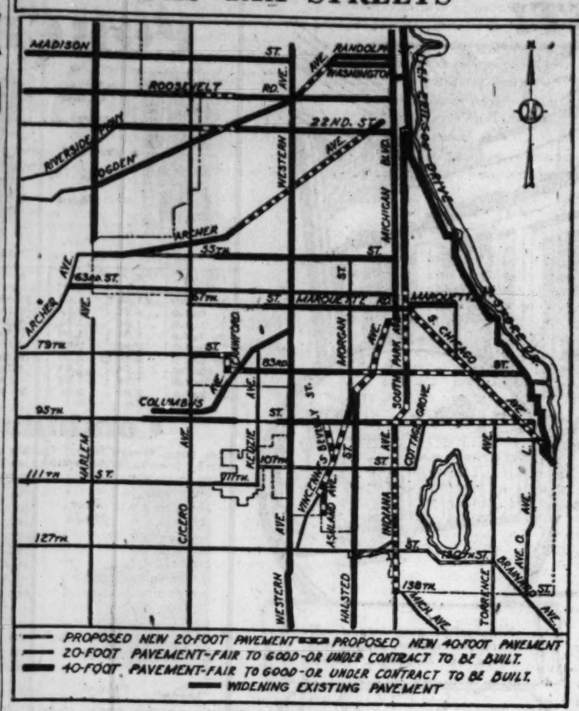
Cottage Grove avenue, 127th to 130th streets, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. One Hundred and Thirtieth street, between Cottage Grove avenue and Saginaw avenue, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Saginaw avenue, between 130th and Brainard, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Brainard avenue, between Saginaw and 138th street, recommend 20 foot pavement.

The Association of Commerce and the regional planners will complete their program for the entire city by the first of the year. Cook county will not receive any of its share of the gasoline tax revenue until after Jan. 1, and then only if the Chicago Motor Coach company's injunction suit is adjudicated by that time and the legality of the excise is sustained.

GAS TAX STREETS



Recommendations of the Chicago Motor club for the expenditure of Chicago's share of the gasoline tax for the next three years.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

AGAINST SUPER BOULEVARD.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Having the best interests of our community at heart and believing that those of us who reside and pay taxes on the west side of Chicago are now carrying as great a burden of taxation as we can bear, I am unconditionally opposed to the so-called superhighway proposed by the west park board.

An elevated highway, or any kind of an elevation, instead of increasing property values soon becomes an eyesore and lessens values. Such a structure will be a Chinese wall and there is a danger of either side of it becoming a slum.

Instead of this monument to political idiocy, which would probably terminate at Halsted street until additional funds were forthcoming, if we are to spend any money, let us have more one-way through streets on this great west side of ours and no elevations anywhere, be it Kinzie, Monroe, Congress or Polk streets, and let us pay our taxes for the west park system and complete the widening projects which have been in process some eight years.

If we are to afford relief to the western suburbs, who undoubtedly will benefit by the superhighway, why should they not bear their share of the cost? Or why not build it with the gasoline tax?

E. M. NAGLE, JR.

FAVORS SUPER BOULEVARD.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—As an old resident of Chicago, I am interested in all that pertains to the betterment of our city. I have therefore read with careful attention your articles outlining the plan for an elevated boulevard on the west side to carry traffic and thus relieve the congestion on our surface streets and boulevards.

This is a splendid conception. Something of the kind must be done in the near future. Dr. Robertson's program seems to be concrete and definite and should be supported by press and public. It will immeasurably add to the comfort and safety of our citizens and will please motorists from other points who are passing through Chicago—and whose good opinion Chicago needs.

F. G. BROWNE.

ATTENTION, DR. ROBERTSON.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Since the time will soon be here when the voters of the west side are to show their attitude towards the super highway project, would it not be advisable to have published in the daily papers a plane view of the highway, showing the arrangement of the ramps at street intersections. The schematics and futuristic sketches published so far do not, in my opinion, illustrate sufficiently the importance of this part of the project. Although meetings have been held and are being planned for the purpose of discussing the work, it is likely that only a small percentage of the voters will be able to attend.

LARS NORMAN.

JUNK THE JUNKS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—We have had our safety days, weeks, and various campaigns. We are talking about a driver's license and costly double decked streets and what not.

Why hasn't any one thought of licensing the automobile in the same manner as the airplane. These out of date crates with two wheel brakes, heavy front posts that obscure vision; old ignition systems that stutter so badly that the driver's attention is all on the car to keep it running. Pull the junks off the street. No one will suffer and maybe some suffering will be prevented. Some New England states license the car and are doing a nice job of it.

J. M. B.

HORNLESS DRIVING.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Recently I had the misfortune of being deprived of the use of the horn on my car and I was surprised to find myself driving as carefully as if I had been suddenly thrown into a land where every one was deaf.

I was forced to approach corners with definite care, I was forced to pass children in the street carefully and meekly, and if some pedestrian heedlessly decided to cross the street while I attempted to make a right hand turn I was compelled to halt my car respectfully behind them until they had passed.

Then, I had my horn fixed and I blasted and roared my way along merrily again, not asking, but firmly demanding my right of way. Slow drivers, new drivers, pedestrians and all were again constantly being reminded that they were blocking and irritating me.

However, it has occurred to me that the world would be less hectic and more easy moving if the former method was practiced more and I have decided to use my horn only in extreme emergencies. I have completed my third day of hornless driving and while it is a bit slower I find it easier on my nerves. I pass 'em up when I can do so without blowing my horn and when I can't, I don't. I invite your readers to try some hornless days.

AN ANSWER TO HOOSIER.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 14.—I am astounded by Hoosier's (South Bend) confirmation of our Wisconsin contemporary in his comments on Chicago drivers.

I earn my pay in South Bend and live week-ends in Chicago, my home. I am in a position to criticize South Bend Hoosier's driving and that of Chicagoans. I see much of South Bend's metropolitan as well as suburban driving and can truthfully say that the drivers are almost there, but not quite—just like that long incompleted I. O. O. F. building.

Has Hoosier ever considered the large number of serious accidents on U. S. 20, east of Lincoln highway, compared to those in and about Chicago?

PAUL A. ENKE.

A DANGEROUS CORNER.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—In driving around town one sees many joke stop signs, but how those who are responsible for it ever missed putting a stop light system at 18th and Ashland avenue is certainly strange.

This is one of the most dangerous corners on the south side. I'm sure, if the appropriations fund has dropped to the bottom, the property owners and business men in the immediate vicinity would be glad to advance the money.

JOSEPH A. BRABEC.

WANTS DIAGONAL BUMPS.

Berwyn, Ill., Oct. 16.—Why wouldn't it be a good idea to have the expansion joints in concrete paving run slantingly instead of straight across the street? The modern hurryup paving job makes a decided bump at each joint and, as for me, I'd rather have these bumps hit my front wheels at different times.

E. E. JOHNSON.

BUSINESS MEN ASK ROOSEVELT ROAD WIDENING

Want 56 Foot Street in Suburbs.

The Roosevelt Road Business Men's association has petitioned the municipalities of Oak Park, Cicero and Berwyn to start special assessment and condemnation proceedings immediately, preparatory to the widening and paving of the thoroughfare early next year by the state from the gasoline tax funds.

The association, at a recent meeting attended by officials of the suburbs, went on record approving a width of 56 feet from curb to curb and a width of 100 from building line to building line. At present Roosevelt road is broken and worn out pavement through the three villages is 46 feet wide. With 16 feet occupied by street car tracks, there is not room for an automobile to pass an electric carrier where there is parking.

No Dissenting Votes.

The plans, approved by the business men's organization without a dissenting vote, call for the state to lay 20 feet of concrete an each side of the street car tracks and for the utility to pave its 16 foot right of way.

The villages are to move the curbs, gutters and lights on both sides of the street 5 feet further from the center. The cost of this operation is to be borne by special assessment against the abutting property.

The building lines at present are 66 feet apart. The pavement widening can be carried out without moving the buildings, but the sidewalks will be cut from 10 to 5 feet wide. This will be a temporary arrangement. When the buildings are moved back for the 100 foot right of way—100 feet from building line to building line—there will be room for 22½ feet of sidewalk on each side of the street.

Condemnation Necessary.

Condemnation proceedings are necessary for the acquisition of 17 feet from the front of the private property. The Roosevelt Road Business Men's association is asking the villages to institute the litigation promptly. Because some of the lawsuits may take months or possibly years to adjudicate, the business men want to start on the 56 feet available without waiting for the 100 foot right of way between building lines.

In this rough and narrow stretch of Roosevelt road through the suburbs, Oak Park has jurisdiction of the north side of the street between Austin boulevard and Harlem avenue; Berwyn, on the south side, between Lombard and Harlem avenues; and Cicero, on the south side, between Lombard and Kenton avenues.

The north side of Roosevelt road, from Austin to Kenton, is within Chicago, as are both sides of the thoroughfare east of Kenton. Cook county, with its 1 cent share of the gasoline tax, plans to improve Roosevelt road within Chicago.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Hudson and Essex prices have ben reduced $150 to $500 a car in this city only.

R. J. Histed, president of the Hudson Motor Co. of Illinois, advises this reduction is in anticipation of new models.

Chevrolet test cars on proving grounds have been driven more than five million miles, according to James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the company. He said that use of this vast outdoor laboratory has been one of the principal reasons for the car's consistent success.

General Motors announce a new nine foot panel body for its T-19 truck chassis with a 133½ inch wheel base. The light duty vehicle affords an extra space for bulky loads.

Custom bodies that are replicas of the private equipages of the prince of Wales, the duke of York, and other members of European royalty feature the new Chateau series of Weymann flexible bodies announced by Stutz for fall delivery. These new Weymanns, four in number, are strikingly different in design from any American car, reflecting as they do the last word in overseas styling.

Fisher Body is starting the erection of two new buildings which will bring its total floor area at the Oldsmobile-Viking factories to approximately 530,000 square feet and, at the same time, will release additional space for Oldsmobile-Viking activities.

Pierce-Arrow announces the adoption of stainless steel in the manufacture of its motor cars as a means of preventing rust and prolonging the life of the car.

A novel set of machines has been installed in Studebaker's South Bend plant for checking the static and dynamic balance of crankshafts.

Automotive Engineers to Discuss Buses and Trucks

Design, use, operation, and maintenance of motor coaches and motor trucks will be considered from many angles at the 1929 transportation meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers, which will be held at Toronto Nov. 12 to 15. Sessions on Nov. 13 will be held jointly with the motor transport division of the American Railway association.

First Aid Stations to Care for Injured Autoists

In an effort to cope with the increase in automobile fatalities, the southeastern chapter of the American Red Cross plans to establish a circle of first aid stations around Philadelphia, Pa.

LIQUOR DRAWS AUTO DRIVERS TO CANADIAN CITIES

With the passing of the summer months, the heavy tourist travel from the Chicago metropolitan area to the lakes and woods of northern Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota has dropped off, but the popularity of Canada as a destination for motor trips remains.

"Liquor," reads a footnote on a standard road map of Ontario, "may be purchased only at government liquor stores which may be found in all the larger cities. Tourist's permit, good for one month, costs $2. Any amount up to twelve bottles may be purchased at one time."

At THE TRIBUNE'S touring bureau in the public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets, which handles about 5,800 inquiries a week, about forty per cent of the requests for maps and other road information relate to Canadian trips.

"Nine out of ten motorists going to New York," said Joseph Schullen Jr., head of the touring bureau, "map their routes to use Canadian roads from Detroit to Niagara Falls. After each killing by quick trigger dry agents on the border, we always get a lot of questions about whether it is dangerous for a respectable, law abiding citizen to drive across the border."

The "wild west," which once held the strongest attraction for tourists, has lost much of its popularity in the last couple of years while the travel to Canada has doubled in this time.

About eighty per cent of Chicago's vacation motorists during the season just ending went to the states north of the city or to the oases north of the international boundary, judging from inquiries received at the touring bureau. This same source of information shows a negligible travel from the metropolitan area to downstate Cook county pays for one-half and gets one twenty-fifth of the state's highways.

With the change of seasons, tourists' eyes are beginning to turn toward the south. Motorists are asking for maps to the scenic mountains of Arkansas, West Virginia and the Carolinas. Questions are being asked about routes to sections of Dixie made historically famous by the civil war. And there are some seeking knowledge of highways to Florida, the gulf coast and California.

CREATE MORE LAW TO DEFEAT ACTIVITY OF GAS TAX DODGER

Illinois will not face the gasoline tax dodger until after Aug. 1, when the tax goes into effect. In Minnesota, Wisconsin, and other farming states the practice of including in the application for refund all gasoline used on the farm, even that used to propel the farmer to the movies and picnics, has become almost a panic and the Minnesota law makers added a preventive clause this year. The state thus notifies farmers:

"Any person who shall make any false statement in any claim for a refund of gasoline taxes, or in any invoice presented with such claim, or who shall knowingly present any claim or invoice containing a false statement, or who shall collect or cause to be paid to him or to any other person any such refund without being entitled thereto, shall forfeit the full amount of such claim, according to an amendment to the gas tax law passed by the recent legislature.

"In the past the state oil inspector frequently discovered claims and invoices which had been changed so as to give the claimant a larger sum than he was entitled to. After the errors or alterations were corrected, the claimant was still entitled to the balance. The new law is expected to discourage this form of fraud.

"The clause in the old law making it a misdemeanor to make a false claim is retained in the new law."

IT'S HAPPENING EVERYWHERE

BUSY STREET Crowded traffic—cars, cars, cars, all straining for an opening—stopping and starting, bunching up at every signal light, losing time—along comes a new Multi-Range Chrysler—the driver flicks into acceleration gear, steps on the gas and is out in front like a puff of wind—no effort—no noise—what marvelous acceleration!

OPEN ROAD A new Multi-Range Chrysler in the distance—here it comes! A swish—There it goes!—the smoothest thing you can imagine on four wheels—so smooth that it actually seems to be coasting. The Synchronized Power System, giving higher car speeds at lower engine speeds, accounts for its unapproached performance on the open road.

STEEP HILL A long severe climb—some cars laboriously trying to "pull" it in high—some lugging and grinding slowly up the incline in "second"—But look! around everything on the hill steps a new Multi-Range Chrysler—flashing up and over the top with incredible ease—and quietly all the way—in its marvelous new acceleration range.

MATCHLESS UNDER ALL DRIVING CONDITIONS

There is no matching the supremacy of these new Multi-Range Chryslers under any and all driving conditions. They have turned performance standards topsy-turvy. They introduce not only the most revolutionary developments in Chrysler engineering but undoubtedly the most sensational advances which the automobile industry has ever known.

What these new Multi-Range Chryslers achieve in power, in acceleration, in smoothness and riding ease, is actually beyond the power of words to describe. You must drive one—you must FEEL this performance to realize how completely Chrysler has transformed the standards of motoring. Come have that drive.

Farm Board Working for United Marketing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Far reaching benefits to the live stock producers who sell their hogs and cattle at Chicago and other markets of the central states were foreseen today by C. B. Denman as a result of a conference to be held in Chicago next Wednesday. Mr. Denman represents live stock on the federal farm board.

Officials of each of the twenty-eight existing live stock coöperatives have been invited to the meeting, at which the board expects to set machinery in motion for a giant coöperative sales corporation, similar to that now being perfected to handle grain. Aided by loans from the board's 500 million dollar revolving fund, it is hoped that the corporation will gain control of the live stock market and eventually stabilize prices.

"Better marketing will mean a tremendous advantage to the producers, and I am convinced that it will not raise the price to the consumer," said Mr. Denman. "Our plan, if successful, will help both the farmer and the housewife by reducing the profits now diverted to the middlemen.

"We do not promise miracles to the live stock growers any more than to the grain or cotton growers, but we do believe that by enabling them to gain control of the live stock business we will be laying the groundwork for their prosperity."

23 Per Cent of the Farm.

Live stock marketing comprises twenty-three per cent of the agricultural commodity business in this country, and the farm board members consider the first step toward helping it of great importance. Chairman Alexander Legge will attend the conference Wednesday. Others who plan to be there are Mr. Denman, James C. Stone, Charles C. Teague, Samuel R. McKelvin and William F. Schilling. There is a possibility that Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde may be present.

Discussing the live stock market at present, Mr. Denman said that 75 per cent of the live stock in America is produced west of the Mississippi river, while 75 per cent is consumed east of the Mississippi.

"This shipping situation has produced a problem which can be solved only by a nation-wide agency," he explained.

Chicago Co-ops Weaken.

According to the farm board's figures the coöperatives on the Chicago market are comparatively weaker than those operating on the other large markets.

While 80,000 producers belong to the Chicago coöperatives, 211,000 belong to those in St. Paul, 190,000 to those in St. Louis, 35,000 to those in Sioux City, and 21,000 to those in Kansas City.

TAYLORVILLE'S BANK SCARE TURNS TO BOOM

Taylorville, Ill. Oct. 19.—(AP)—National bank examiners arrived from Chicago today to audit the books of the First National and Taylorville National banks.

Meanwhile word came from the 12 banks in Christian county which have remaied open through yesterday's money scare that depositors were fast re-depositing their money.

It was learned for the first time today that the state bank at Kincaid suffered a small run yesterday, which was checked when the Peabody Coal company deposited $91,000 and announced it would back up the bank with all its resources.

The Farmers National bank of Taylorville, which yesterday was saved from a serious run by the spectacular arrival of an airplane bearing money from Chicago, today was reported in good shape with nearly every depositor's money back in its vaults.

CHAS. F. WORTHEN mailed this coupon; got my free book, used my successful system, and made $8,500 in 17 weeks.

Mrs. Evalynn Balster, a widowed Chicago school teacher, did the same, and she made $5,500 on her very first deal.

A. Fogreon ran a candy store in a small New York State town. He got my book and cleaned up $8,000 in 90 days.

J. M. Patterson, a Texas man, with a sick wife, a baby and only $10 in cash, got my free book and is now a $20,000-a-year man.

But, if these people had failed to mail the coupon—failed to get my free book—they might still be chained to a small-pay job.

So don't fail to mail the coupon. Get the free book. Follow its instructions. Do what they did. Get into Real Estate. Make more money than you ever made before.

10 Million Opportunities

Real estate is the biggest thing on earth. Sixty-five per cent of the nation's wealth is already invested in it. It is the most solid business there is—as solid as the earth itself. And it gives you unlimited opportunities. There are 10 million properties on the market at all times for rent, sale or exchange. And it gives you big money prizes. Users of my successful system have made $1,000—$5,000—$10,000—on single deals—more money than most men get for months and years of hard work.

LIBERALITY IS ON THE UPGRADE IN REPUBLICS

Balances Setbacks of Dictatorships.

BY WILLIAM WISNER.

1783-1825

When, on the third of September, [illegible] peace between the United States of America and Great Britain was concluded, a new form of government was in the making, and with the adoption of its constitution five years later the first federation of its kind took a place among the nations of the earth: a modern republic based upon the will and consent of the governed, its servants responsible to the people.

This democracy had as little in common with the republics of antiquity as with its pseudo-republican contemporaries.

It differed from the ancient republics in that the latter restricted the privilege to small minorities who elected the lawgivers and executives ruling the majorities of politically impotent citizens.

The new American government was unlike the Swiss confederation in that its amalgamation was merely an alliance of several separate states, differing group from group, in their internal political forms.

In 1783 there were four small republics in Italy (Venice, Genoa, Lucca, and San Marino), and a fifth, Andorra, in the Franco-Spanish frontier. Of these only the last two survive. The Polish republic had ceased to exist in 1795, when the stadtholdership became hereditary.

The Europe of 1783.

Central Europe was dominated by the Hapsburgs in the south and by the Hohenzollerns, Wettins, Wittelsbachs and Oldenburgs in the north. In northern Italy the house of Savoy was ascendant, central Italy contained the papal states, while the south of the peninsula formed part of the Spanish kingdom of the two Sicilies. Finland by 1795 the victim of three partitions, was to cease existence as a nation.

In the new world France held Louisiana and French Guiana; the Portuguese, Brazil; England owned Canada and the Oregon country; Russia possessed Alaska; and the Spanish dominions extended through North, Central, and South America to the wastes of Patagonia.

Such were the governments of the world in 1783.

Trouble Brews in France.

Six years later the king of France convoked the states general to their first assembly in 175 years. The harvest had failed and the specter of starvation stalked through the land; the government was weak and debased. Followed the French revolution.

This ten year period saw the downfall not only of the monarchy but of the moderates who first seized the reins of government. The extremists under the despot Robespierre instituted a reign of terror, and the country was plunged into ruin. Finally his head fell victim to that guillotine to whose early administrations Robespierre had consigned alike royalty, nobility, clergy and commons. The armies of the neighboring states would have overwhelmed France but for the dissensions among themselves and the military genius of some of the French generals. Notable among these was Napoleon Bonaparte. On Nov. 9, 1799, he engineered a coup d'état which led to the imperial throne of France. The American and French revolutions were almost completely dissimilar. In America there was a rebellion without a policy; in France there was the upheaval of the entire political system; the American colonists built upon existing foundations; the French revolutionaries tore down the old only to establish a succession of long stacks.

Imitators of Napoleon.

The government in the United States and the French revolution had tremendous repercussion in South America, while many republican beginnings there may be ascribed to the ambitions of Napoleon and to the lust of South American adventurers to ape the Liberator, Bolivar, Venezuela, Colombia, and Ecuador threw off the Spanish yoke and in 1823 were recognized as a republic. Argentina, Chile, Peru, and Paraguay also became republics. Bolivia revolted from Spain in 1825 and was plunged into guerrilla warfare. Uruguay rebelled, but was annexed by Brazil, in which colony the Portuguese fleeing from Napoleon had established their government, and in 1822 Brazil became an independent empire.

Mexico in 1821 became independent of Spain; Iturbide was made emperor in 1822 but deposed a year later, and the country was in the throes of civil war.

The Central American provinces followed Iturbide's empire and in 1823 united together as the United States of Central America.

1825-1871

During this second period the Brazilian empire gave way to a monarchy, and that form to a short lived republic.

The Truth About Prohibition Killings: No. 5 in the Series

Pirate Law Figures in the Hanson Case

(Last Sunday's Tribune told of the killing of Jacob Hanson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., by Glenn Jennings, a 22 year old farmer in the service of the United States coast guard, and how the state prosecuted Jennings on a charge of manslaughter. This, the concluding installment of the recital, reveals how the federal authorities defended the coast guardsman and eventually brought about his acquittal.)

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Lieut. Clifford D. Feak of the coast guard service, with headquarters at Washington, was the first defense witness. He is assistant to the chief intelligence officer. He testified that the cap with the device is the identification of the coast guard and that under the conditions in this case Jennings had the right to stop the car by firing his pistol into it.

"I think this is for the court to determine in instructions to the jury," said Judge Hazel. "The coast guard has no right to operate differently from the method prescribed by law."

Lieut. Feak explained that the law goes back to an old high seas law. He said Jennings had on the regulation cap, sweater, dungarees, belt, and pistol.

The Agents' Defense.

In arguing his motion for the freedom of Beck at this point, Mr. Templeton said:

"And may I add that the reports that go out from this courtroom by men here who write stories should state the facts for the first time in the history of this case, should state the facts that an officer of the United States government, in full uniform from top to toe, stood there, the government of the United States standing there, and risked his life to do what? To any advantage to himself? Standing there to see that men smuggling stuff into this country were apprehended.

"When they see a high powered motor car going along at 30 miles an hour through that cut at 4 in the morning, where all sorts of bootleggers carry their goods, they have a right to do just what they did. Indeed, they have a right to shoot without any warning shots. When that man tried to knock him down and he jumped out of the way, he had a right to shoot into that car just as sure as you are in this courtroom. The newspapers were filled with a lot of lies at the early part of this fuss, saying these men looked like everything.

"Dew was the defense. Dew's record is the record upon which we stand. Dew is the only man who saw."

Lieut. Feak was cross examined closely by Mr. Knowles. He said Jennings did right in shooting. He balked, however, at answering this question:

"If Jennings had not been able to stop that car by shooting into the car, under your translation of the law would he have been justified in shooting Hanson?"

Mr. Templeton objected to this.

The Court—Before the witness answers that, perhaps I ought to remark that it is the state of mind of the officer, whether he considers himself in jeopardy, that must be considered, and it seems to me that such a question is unfair unless it embodies a situation of that character.

"Most Unfortunate."

The witness, however, was permitted to answer, and his answer finally was given in this way:

"It is better that one hundred guilty men escape than one innocent man should suffer."

Admonished that this was not an answer, the witness replied "No" to the question.

The question arose as to whether the men could separate and the warning of Dew become sufficient reason for Jennings to fire.

"In this case," said the witness, "the car was the automobile of a felon, escaping a federal officer, and the mere presence of Jennings in the road constituted a second warning to stop, which the car evidently did not do."

Lieut. Feak characterized the death of Hanson as "most unfortunate."

Roscoe S. Learned, the guardsman who was in command of the group May 6, said he had told Jennings and Dew to stop all cars coming up the hill. Orders from Beck were, he said, to shoot into tires or engine if the cars did not stop. He said he was with Jennings and the other guardsmen at the Florida café from between 12 and 1 in the morning until between 2:30 and 3 o'clock. He had nothing but coffee to drink, he said.

Mr. Rasmussen, recalled, testified that bullet holes in the car—with the exception of the one in the windshield—showed that Jennings' aim was downward.

JENNINGS' STORY

At this point the defense injected into the courtroom a measure of sympathy for Jennings.

Jennings is a good looking guardsman. He was in court in full uniform. His wife and baby were there. Now his aged father and trembling mother were put on the witness stand by Mr. Templeton to testify that their son's reputation for veracity was good, that the neighbors spoke well of him, how he had worked hard on the farm, walked miles to school every day, and other homely details. Mr. Knowles objected to all this, just as Mr. Templeton had objected to the effort of the prosecution to wring tears from the jury by description of Hanson's suffering.

Jennings was then called to the stand. He described the shooting as follows:

"We had taken our position on the first curve of the hill, and saw the lights of the Hanson car. [Nothing here about recognizing the car, as stated in his affidavit.]

"I told Dew to go down to the next curve, because he was in full uniform, and to signal the car that came through the cut. I saw his flashlight after it was turned on and then the lights of the car showed Dew standing there, his hands in the air, waving the car to stop, and the car did not slacken speed and Dew had to jump back. I heard gunshots after the car passed him, but could not tell whether they came from within or without the car. The car gained speed. I stood in the glare of the headlights and waved my arms. When I was 50 feet away I fired the first shot. I aimed low, intending to hit the motor. I jumped to one side, fired twice as I jumped. The car struck the curb 20 or 30 feet on. I opened the door and ordered the man out. He said, 'Just a minute—give me time.' He was nearly out when he asked if I was William Tierney. I left Dew with the man while I went for a car."

"Fleeing from What?"

Jennings put on the clothes he wore that night. He said he had unbuttoned his coat so the pistol could be seen. His cap was on, his belt in sight.

He told Mr. Knowles he had nothing to drink but ginger ale at the Florida.

The Court—You have several times stated that you regarded this car, because it did not stop in answer to the signals of Dew, whom you could see, as fleeing. Now, fleeing from what? What was your state of mind with relation to that?

A.—Why, fleeing because he had contraband. That is the only thing I could think.

The Court—Just why was it that came into your mind when this car approached? [The court may have had in mind the reason given in the affidavit which had been presented to him months before and which he had granted.]

A.—Because it failed to stop when Dew signaled it and when it came on at increased speed.

Nothing here of the statement in his affidavit that he recognized this car as one that had escaped him and one that had carried contraband.

Ordered to Shoot Low.

Beck, boatswain in charge of the Fort Niagara station, was the next witness. He has been with the coast guard 21 years.

"My instructions to the men were that after a car had been properly signaled to stop and they had made every effort to stop it and the car continued on, then in my opinion they were authorized to shoot at the car to disable it. The men were ordered to shoot low and avoid hitting any one."

He said it was a breach of duty for the men to have been in the Florida café that night. Nothing, however, had been done about it.

The shooting of the Stearns car was put into the case on rebuttal, over Mr. Templeton's objection that it had nothing to do with the Hanson case. Stearns and his companions had been at a party and were trying out a new car on the hill.

They had not been drinking and there was no liquor in the car.

As they came over the hill the last time a man stepped into the road and began shooting into the car. Later they saw two men. They had a flat tire and there were five bullet holes in the car. They became frightened and one man said, "Step on the gas or we will get killed." Stearns did and they went on, flat tire and all.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

This closed the testimony. In his instructions to the jury Judge Hazel said in part:

"If an officer seeks to arrest without a warrant a person suspected of a misdemeanor he must use great caution not to injure the person. He has no right to shoot a person for trying to get away or evade arrest, when the charge is a misdemeanor, or when one fails to stop his car on request by an officer where the occupant is merely suspected of a misdemeanor. Violations of the national prohibition act by transportation, sale, or possession of intoxicating liquor are misdemeanors, not felonies.

"In this case we are dealing with asserted claims of defendant that reasonable grounds existed warranting suspicion and belief that a felony was being committed, namely, violation of the tariff law. I instruct you that before firing shots at the auto to stop it Jennings was required to have reasonable cause to suspect that the tariff law was being violated. His suspicion must be based on facts and circumstances, not mere guesswork or surmise.

"If circumstances show to your satisfaction that Hanson knew or had reason to know that an officer had signaled him to stop and instead of stopping he hastened on, giving the reasonable idea that he would not stop or that he was fleeing from the vigilance of Officer Dew, and there were no other means available for stopping the car to enable Jennings to perform his duty, then I instruct you that firing into the auto—not to shoot Hanson, for he was not detected committing a crime but to cripple the car—was excusable.

"If you believe the testimony of Dew and Jennings you may conclude that Jennings had reasonable grounds to suspect that Hanson was engaged in violation of the tariff law.

"The deceased Hanson was not a wrongdoer. No smuggled goods or intoxicating liquor were found in his car or in his possession, and it is hard to account for his omission to comply with the hailing and signal of shots fired in the air by Dew, and seemingly increasing his speed—if you believe Dew and Jennings on this point—and also failing to see Jennings with outstretched arms—if you believe him.

The Jury Deliberates.

"It impresses itself strongly on the mind that it must have been an omission to look and listen with reasonable care, else he must have seen the light ahead of him, he must have heard the signals. He is dead. If you believe that Jennings became excited as the car approached, or after

LOWER RATES TO AID TRADE AND BOND MART

Selling in Stocks Ends Pinch.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Every indication points to a condition of easy money for the balance of the year. The change from a period of stringency to one of comparative ease has been a rapid one, somewhat mysterious, too, and in most quarters entirely unexpected.

There have been two main factors in the sharp decline in the money rates. First, the liquidation of securities in the stock markets of the country and their present low levels as compared with the highs of early September. Second, the purchase of acceptances on a large scale by the federal reserve banks, a total expected to reach $500,000,000 before the end of the year. This operation, an annual one, automatically puts banks of the system on a comfortable basis and permits their extensive operation in the field of commercial loans.

Three Results Expected.

Three immediate results may be foreseen from the revelopment of easy money. First, the financing of the business of the country at rates materially below those of a month ago; second, the possible loss of gold by New York to London, clearly forecast last week by the exceptional strength in sterling; third, the stimulation of the investment market, meaning by that first grade bonds of all sorts in general and Liberty bonds and other government descriptions in particular.

There is no doubt that members of the federal reserve board and leading bankers and industrialists welcome the change which has taken place, rather drastically, too, in the money situation during the last two weeks. Possibly a step would have been taken in this direction sooner but for the fact that fears were expressed that it would prove a further goad to stock market prices and a heavy drain of speculative funds into the market.

Now that the market has experienced a severe shakeout [although brokers' loans continue at an extremely high level, in fact within $3,000,000 of the year's peak] money rates no longer are a factor in the securities market. In fact, the markets last week paid no attention to the decline in funds at all.

Change May Aid Business.

The change in the money situation is especially welcome, since complaints has commenced to drift in from many quarters that business was being affected. These complaints were heard most frequently from real estate men and builders, a market for money practically deserted when call funds commanded 7 to 10 per cent in Wall street. This industry evidently had cause for complaint, too, as a sharp decline in new construction work has extended through practically the entire period of high and tight money.

That there will be an outward movement of gold from New York to London before the end of the year now appears likely. Sterling is about 1½ cents from the point at which gold shipments would prove profitable. Foreign funds, loaned in this market all summer, are now going home in large blocks. Commercial difficulties abroad and the decline of money rates here have hurried this movement, and, naturally, the repatriation of these funds to foreigners entails the sale of dollars, which are depressed, and the purchase of the foreign currencies, not less than nine of which established new high records for the year in the foreign exchange markets last week.

Bond Market Also Helped.

Possibly the most welcome effect of the decline in money rates, to the financial district at least, has been the tonic effect it has had on the bond market. Fixed return securities have been in the doldrums for more than a year, while stocks were the center of countrywide interest. At the moment there is a strong drift back to bonds. The market is strong, active and about as broad as it has been at any time this year, a condition which may be directly traced to the change in money conditions.

The course of the return on call any time funds this year has been an extremely interesting one. In March, call funds loaned at 20 per cent; in April at 16 per cent., Funds have loaned on call on the stock exchange at 5 per cent during the last week, with many loans "outside" at 4½. In October, 1928, the range for call loans was 6 to 10 per cent, the latter figure only 2 per cent below the high for the year. In the same month of 1927, the range was between 3½ and 4½ per cent.

Question of Corporation Funds.

The current recession in time money rates has not ben equaled this year. Rates for loans for stated periods were 9 to 9¼ per cent for all maturities. With an influx of funds, five separate recessions in rates were made, and on Oct. 17 the range was 7¼ to 7½ for sixty and 90 days loans and 7½ to 7¾ per cent for six months obligations.

Time rates are now back to the levels established in the first two months of the year and approximately the same as in October, a year ago, when the range was 6¾ to 7½ per cent. Two years ago, 4½ per cent for 60 and 90 day loans and 4¾ per cent for six months loans were the ruling quotations.

Probably the most interesting question which now bobs up is that of how long corporations and individuals, heavy landers in the stock market in the "for others" account, will allow their funds to remain in the call market. Of the total of $6,801,000,000 in loans to brokers, $3,975,000,000 is loaned in the market by "others," this representing a wide variety of sources, but mainly represented by the cash surplus of corporations, which have discovered the call money market as a safe, liquid, and remunerative vehicle for their short term loans. The figure represents a gain of $1,834,000,000 in this account as compared with a year ago.

It remains to be seen just how attractive a 6 per cent or even a 5 per cent rate will appear to owners of these funds. Possibly a considerable withdrawal is to be anticipated, particularly if the down trend in money is a sustained one.

BOND MARKET RALLIES

"The action of the bond market in registering an almost perpendicular advance in the last two weeks adds additional evidence in support of the opinion that the statistical position of bonds is now the strongest since 1921," said E. M. Zimmerman, economist of A. C. Allyn & Co., investment bankers, in discussing the present position of the bond market.

"The recognized bond averages have shown a very decided advance since early in the month, the extent of which is not at all appreciated by the public or even Wall street itself. The Dow Jones average of forty bonds in 12 days made up nearly 20% of the decline from the top in 1928.

"The sharpness of the up move and the rapidity of the advance is additional proof of the scarcity which has existed in high grade issues over the last three months. In general, it may be said that high grade corporation bonds have been absorbed by insurance companies and other shrewd, far seeing investors to such an extent that the floating supply has been practically negligible for some time.

"There are several factors which serve to place the bond market in a very strong statistical position. The outstanding one is the falling off from a normal increase in the supply. At the close of 1926 bonds outstanding totaled approximately forty and one-quarter billion dollars. At the end of 1927 this had increased to over $44,000,000,000 and in 1928 roce to an excess of $47,000,000,000.

Drop in New Issues.

"New bonds issued since the first of the year up to Sept. 27 aggregated slightly over $2,550,000,000, comparing with about $3,690,000,000 in the same period in 1928 and $4,680,000,00 in the period ended Sept. 30, 1927.

"From the first of the year maturities aggregated $717,288,990 up to Sept. 30. Bonds called to Oct. 31 amount to $656,506,750, or a total of $1,373,795,740. Subtracting this figure from the total of new issues since the first of the year indicates an increase in supply of slightly over $1,200,000,000. Comparing this figure with the new issues offered in the first nine months of 1927 and 1928 gives an indication of the big falling off from the normal figure.

"Another factor making for an exceedingly strong technical position in the bond market is that many banks have greatly reduced their portfolios in order to meet the loan requirements of their customers or have sold in order to place funds in the call money market, which has been so alluring the last few months."

SELLING DRIVES CURB PRICES TO LOWER LEVELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—What the trade classifies as "necessitous" selling growing out of previous declines of the week drove curb market prices to substantially lower levels today. The customary week-end run of liquidation helped to undermine the main list.

Many stocks, especially the utilities, were forced to new low levels on the movement or for the year.

A heavy accumulation of offerings at the opening indicated the extent of distress selling and closing out speculative holdings by disappointed bulls. Electric Bond and Share, on an opening block of 15,000 shares, dropped more than a point to a new low on its decline of recent weeks, rallied a point or two, then sold off again to 123, a net decline of 12 points on the day.

Losses of 1 to 20 points or more also were registered by such favorites among the utilities as Central States Electric, American Superpower, Electric Investors, United Light and Power A, and Brazilian Light and Traction. Niagara Hudson Power touched 19¼, a new low.

Oils investment trust, aviation and miscellaneous industrials, all retreated before the selling and in absence of any strong support. Cities Service continued to receive the best support of any of the leaders, dropping only a fraction.

ALLEGHENY CORP. ACQUIRES BLOCK OF M. K. T. STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—The Allegheny corporation, investment company of O. P. and M. J. Van Swearingen, has acquired a large interest in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, according to a survey by E. E. Laufer, statistician for Harriss & Vose. The report says that in addition to a substantial amount of Missouri Pacific convertible bonds the corporation holds stocks as follows:

Company and class—	No. of shares.
Chesapeake Corp., common	1,080,000
Erie common	212,400
Nickel Plate common	75,000
Chesapeake & Ohio common	37,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie common	112,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie 7% pfd	75,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie 6% pfd	7,587
Missouri Pacific common	200,000
Missouri Pacific pfd	75,000

The corporation shows in its balance sheet that it owns about $53,000,000 of undisclosed securities which may include additional holdings of the stocks listed. The market value of securities owned on Sept. 30 was about $250,000,000, compared with a cost of about $183,000,000.

Unsettled Market Delays Millions of New Financing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Unsettled market conditions have forced the withdrawal of nearly $100,000,000 new financing, it is reported in Wall street. Huge stocks of "undigested securities" are in the hands of investment dealers as the result of the large volume of September financing. Repurchases of recent offerings will probably be distributed a second time before the glutted market will be capable of absorbing further offerings, it is said.

TRUTH ABOUT KILLINGS BY DRY AGENTS

How Slayer of Hanson Was Acquitted.

he had fired the first shot, and in the immediate emergency he sent a bullet higher than the first shot, and was at the same instant forced aside by the car, and there was no intention to injure Hanson, but the purpose only to disable the car, then you may conclude that the shot through the windshield, the bullet entering Hanson's head, was an accident and he was not guilty of the crime charged."

The jurors were all merchants and farmers of Elmira and vicinity. They retired at 1:45 p. m. on Jan. 29.

They returned at 11:15 the same night. The foreman asked this question:

"Assuming that Jennings regarded this Hanson's car as a felon's and escaping a fellow officer, and he fired to disable the car, and one shot that went wild did the damage, how would we be instructed as to determining him guilty or not guilty?"

The Court—These are circumstances from which I should say you could reasonably determine that it was a misadventure, and that the accused is not guilty of offense.

An hour later the jurors again returned to the courtroom. The foreman announced that they had been unable to reach an agreement, and doubted if they could. They had balloted eight times. On one ballot they were 10 to 2 for conviction. On another ballot four favored acquittal.

Juror No. 11 asked the court to reread his instructions about a man escaping from an officer, defining the crime of manslaughter, and excusable homicide.

The Foreman—Would Jennings have the right to assume that this fellow was a felon and escaping a fellow officer?

The Court—I instructed you that if Jennings had reasonable cause to believe that the driver of this car had evaded inspection, then he had a right also to assume that it was transporting contraband.

The Foreman—And under those conditions he then had the right in performing his duty to shoot to disable that car?

The Court—I instructed you that under those circumstances, having that belief in mind, he did have a right to cripple, to disable that car.

Disagree; Discharged.

Instructions along this line were repeated, and Juror No. 11 said the jury should reconsider the case.

The court recalled the jurors an hour later to say that the testimony of Dew, given as a witness for the people, must be accepted by them, and that they could take it as a fact that Hanson was properly hailed.

The jurors retired again, but came back in the morning to report a hopeless disagreement. They were then discharged.

The twelfth juror asked the court after it was all over if he had not done right in deciding that Jennings could not be found guilty unless it was shown that he had intended to shoot Hanson.

He was one who for this reason had refused to go over to the majority and convict Jennings.

Mr. Lowman There?

There is one incident which took place outside the courtroom toward the close of this trial and which may be worthy of record here.

Elmira is the home town of Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of enforcement of prohibition. He is the Republican boss of the county and had found it convenient to go home during this trial. It was reported in dispatches from Elmira at that time that he had aided Mr. Templeton in scanning the jury list, as his knowledge of men in the county was great. It is not known whether this is true or not, or whether Mr. Lowman was in the courtroom or displayed any interest in the trial, but Mr. Knowles, the Niagara prosecutor, who felt himself somewhat handicapped in the case, due to his ignorance of county conditions and the general atmosphere of the courtroom in favor of the government defense, relates this experience:

"The evening the jurors were out on their deliberations in this case I sat at a table in the hotel dining room alone. I noticed at another table, one close to the long table where the jurors sat, a group consisting of Judge Hazel, Mr. Templeton, and Seymour Lowman. I thought it peculiar, to say the least."

This first trial of Jennings was a close call for the government defense. In arranging for the new trial it was decided to try a new strategy. There was a suggestion in the first case that the bullet which struck Hanson was a wild bullet, but it was only one angle of the defense, tossed in for what it was worth. The whole defense in the second trial was based on this. Mr. Templeton, at the close of the first case, took the bullet which had been extracted from Hanson's head and had it examined by experts, with results that will be apparent.

THE SECOND TRIAL

The state sought to have the second trial held in Buffalo, but the government opposed this and moved for a change of venue on the plea that much prejudice existed against the defendant in Buffalo and vicinity. Judge Hazel denied this motion, but set the trial for the next term of court, which was to be held in Rochester. This in effect was a change of venue.

The trial began May 21, 1929, more than a year after the shooting. Mr. Templeton and Mr. Morgan appeared for the defense, with Mr. Johnson, the private attorney. Mr. Knowles was aided by William F. Love, district attorney of Rochester. As in the first case, 20 peremptory challenges were given to each side by state law. The state had only one left and the defense three when the jury panel was exhausted. The court ordered the box filled with men taken from the streets. Questions put to jurors by Mr. Templeton related to membership in the Elks, whether the prospective juror had contributed to any association opposed to the eighteenth amendment, whether he had read newspaper articles on the case, ever had been in the liquor business, or had listened to protests over the radio from Buffalo about this case. Mr. Knowles questioned as to the venireman's knowledge of auto driving, whether he believed officers of the law should obey the law, whether he had any connection with federal service, was a radical wet or dry, whether he was prejudiced because the defendant wore a full uniform in court and that the United States attorney was defense counsel. He also put this question:

A Dry on the Jury.

"If you detected any attempt at trickery by either side during this trial, would you penalize the side making it in your decision?"

"What do you mean?" asked the court.

"Funny business—chicanery," was the reply.

One of the men taken from among the bystanders to fill the box was Charles E. Ogden, a publicity man, former private secretary to Mayor O'Neill of Rochester and former city assessor. He is a gray haired, dignified looking man. In answer to Mr. Knowles he said he was "radically dry." Mr. Knowles ordinarily would have dropped him quickly, but after a conference with Mr. Love he accepted the man and the government, of course, took him gladly. He became the foreman of the jury and an acquittal advocate.

In opening the case Mr. Templeton stressed the new point of the defense that the first shot of Hanson was a ricochet bullet, which hit the pavement or some part of the car and was deflected through the windshield.

The evidence of this was the shape of the bullet itself. If true, it took intent out of the case, and this had a profound effect upon the jurors, regardless of the indictment. It was a point against which the prosecution fought in vain.

An Indirect Hit.

The state put on all its witnesses, as in the first trial, but the defense, instead of twelve witnesses used at Elmira, offered only Capt. James L. Hatcher of the ordnance department of the United States army, an expert in ballistics. He testified that the bullet which struck Hanson did not pass through the windshield without first having struck some other object. He told the jury all about his experiments in firing bullets through windshields and why a bullet which has been deflected from its course turns over and over and usually leaves a long impression. He said the tire and other holes in the Hanson car were made by direct hits. It was impressive testimony.

"In my opinion as an expert," he said, "and I have had twelve years on pistol ballistics—in my opinion this bullet, exhibit 30, struck some object before it penetrated the windshield."

Mr. Templeton told the jury that the witness did not see this bullet until he took the witness stand.

Thirteen experimental bullets were presented to the jury. They were ricochets that went into glass. They were deformed as the bullet that went into Hanson.

Evidence of the Stearns car shooting was kept out of this case. It was offered by Mr. Knowles. Mr. Templeton objected. There was no place for it in rebuttal. The story of the visit to the Florida café was not in the case. Jennings was not placed on the stand, nor Dew. There was no chance for cross-examination.

"Turn on the Light."

"What is the defense afraid of?" asked Mr. Knowles in his summation. "If they have a defense worthy of the name here, why not put the witnesses on and throw a little light on it? Why has the defense, all through this case, done everything they could to hide and shield and cover up this situation? Why have their made all these objections? Why the hesitancy to keep out of the record that Hanson was stone blind from the time he was shot until his death? Why all the excusals of the jury from the courtroom?

"The defense that has been put in has been a defense to a charge of murder in the first degree. The only defense that has been put in is that Jennings did not deliberately and intentionally shoot to kill Jacob Hanson. The people of the state of New York do not charge this. The people tell you that he did not have any right to fire any bullets, ricochet or in the air or wheels or in the skull of Jacob Hanson. It does not make the least difference to us that this was a ricochet bullet. There is no defense here as to why Jennings is not guilty of manslaughter in the second degree for causing the death of Jacob Hanson through his culpable negligence. The law does not contemplate that innocent, decent men shall be sacrificed in any such fashion as this. That was not the act of the United States government on that hill. Jennings was not the United States government then. He was what the people of the state of New York claim he was, foolish, reckless, willful, culpably negligent, and he had no more business to run and hide behind the skirts of the United States government than any other thug."

Again the Instructions.

The court's instructions were much the same as in the first case.

"If you believe, gentlemen," said Judge Hazel to the jury, "that Jennings did not send the bullet at the windshield, that there was no active, culpable negligence on his part in attempting to cripple the car by firing the shots, and that there was no other way of enforcing compliance with the statute authorizing him in the discharge of his duties to stop the car on Dew's signal to stop, and that the bullet strayed from the lower level or aim at the car and was deflected into the windshield, giving Hanson a mortal wound, then I think you may justly determine that the shooting of Hanson was accidental and a misfortune for which Jennings should not be found guilty. On the other hand, if you believe from the evidence that in firing the shot or shots there was a lack of care, prudence, and precaution—in short, culpable negligence—then the defendant should be convicted."

Mr. Knowles asked the court to charge the jury as a matter of law that absence of deliberate intent to kill is not, in and of itself, a defense to the charge of manslaughter in the second degree. This was done. Mr. Templeton took exception to this part of the charge. The court, however, added that "the element of intent to kill is not an element of the offense as charged in the indictment."

Acquitted.

The jurors retired at 12:15 on the afternoon of May 23. The first ballot was 6 to 5 for conviction. Those who voted for conviction, however, were not moved strongly to send Jennings to prison. They were registering their convictions that the federal officers had been too free with the use of guns in this and other cases. Nine ballots were taken. Those who stood for conviction finally came down to two. The jurors came into court and asked if they could find a conviction for any lesser offense than manslaughter in the second degree and wanted to know what the penalty was. The court told them that the penalty was not for them to consider, but that if they saw fit to bring in a verdict of guilty with a recommendation for leniency the court would not be slow to follow it.

At 10:50 that evening the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Attached to it was a recommendation that government agents be more careful in the future in the use of firearms. This had been written by Mr. Ogden and was the suggestion that won over the last two jurors to free Jennings.

How the Verdict Was Reached.

"The wet and dry question was never raised in the jury room," said Mr. Ogden. "This was a jury of fine men, anxious to do the right thing.

"The court told us that these agents had the right to stand in the road, that it was their duty to stop the car and that they had the right to shoot into the car. The whole question was whether Jennings had used good judgment. If I had been in his shoes on that dark cold night on that lonely road with the short time he had in which to act, I would also have tried to stop the car. The evidence was that he fired low. The bullet which killed Hanson had struck the pavement and had rebounded through the windshield. He did not know whether Dew was shot or not. There was silence down there after the shots were fired.

"One thing that influenced us was that one of the jurors was a war veteran who knew a lot about bullets. He told us that Hatcher's testimony was true, that this was a ricochet bullet. This was what determined the verdict. The two men who held out for conviction were perfectly satisfied when the recommendation was suggested."

So that ended the Hanson case. It stands as a beacon light in prohibition enforcement, showing the United States government in a new light towards its citizens.

ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

The jury in the first trial of Glenn Jennings, charged with slaying Hanson, was unable to reach an agreement. In the second trial, held in federal court at Rochester, N. Y., he was found not guilty. He is in the center of this picture, with his mother beside him, in the courtroom at Rochester.

UNITED CIGAR'S DIVIDEND ACTION IS UNDER FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—On the basis of the statement issued by the directors of the United Cigar Stores company explaining why dividends on the preferred stock of the company had not been declared on Friday, the bureau of securities of the state's attorney general's office today announced that an investigation would be made as to the method by which such dividends had been previously paid.

Legal representatives of the company after a conference with Watson Washburn, the assistant attorney general in charge of the bureau of securities, expressed the belief that the statement made by the directors had been misinterpreted, and declared that the investigation would probably be determined Monday.

The new board of directors, which was elected last August when management of the company passed from the Whelan interests, said an audit of the books resulted in omitting the dividend. It also was stated that the "so-called cigaret price war had a very material effect on earnings for the year and its termination would greatly improve the company's prospects."

LIBERALISM ON THE CLIMB IN REPUBLICS

World Tendency Is Toward Autonomy.

lic, which in 1852 was superseded by the second empire.

The end of the first French empire marked the welding of the German states into an empire under the king of Prussia.

In Italy the various states were unified by Garibaldi as a kingdom.

England Spreads Her Colonies.

In Asia, Africa, and Oceania the powers had increased their territorial holdings.

In Africa the Boers set up republics, and a like government was instituted in Liberia, founded by liberated American slaves.

The United States acquired all of its present continental territory, including Alaska. In Mexico anarchy and dictatorships prevailed. In 1839 the Central American union broke up into the republics of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, and Salvador, ruled by a succession of despots.

Bolivia and Peru were in a state of civil war. Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador separated in 1830 and gave themselves over to civil strife and despotism. Paraguay settled down in 1870 to a greater stability.

Chile and Argentina maintained the republican form. Brazil was still an empire, but Uruguay revolted and set up a republic.

Thus we have in this period in South America a manifestation of the growing pains of republicanism.

1870-1914

This era opened with the end of the Franco-Prussian war and the establishment of the French republic; it ended with the first year of the world war.

The year 1898 saw a free Cuba and the Philippines under the American flag. Panama in 1903 became independent of Colombia. Haiti and San Domingo were aided by the United States in setting their republican houses in order.

Mexico, in 1884, emerged from chaos under Diaz, but returned to anarchy in the Madero, Huerta, and Carranza régimes. In Central America during this period conditions remained unsettled.

Brazil in 1889 deposed the emperor and set up a republic, and in the rest of South America the forces of liberalism gathered strength.

In 1910 the liberals of Portugal deposed and exiled King Manuel and set up a republic.

In China the westernized liberals rebelled against the Manchu rulers. The emperor abdicated and in 1912 a republic was proclaimed, the scene of strife between the governing conservatives and the liberals.

Canada became a dominion, Australia a commonwealth; the Union of South Africa was formed.

1914-1929

In this period liberalism, the principle of self-determination, and, at the other extreme, a new despotism growing out of the misapplication to unenlightened and agricultural peoples of a visionary doctrine designed for a highly civilized industrial state, and the consequent defensive intensification of nationalism—all contributed to sweeping changes in world polity.

In Russia under the reactionary imperial bureaucracy corruption and treachery brought about the collapse of the armies.

Enter Lenin and Trotzky.

In March, 1917, the czar abdicated and the duma set up a provisional government, following the rule of Kerensky, a vacillating political spellbinder, whose authority was ended by the bolshevists Lenin and Trotzky.

After negotiating the humiliating peace of Brest-Litovsk and suppressing revolts against their despotism they promulgated a constitution which, promising freedom, did not even grant democracy.

This anomaly of nihilistic dictatorship attempts to justify its existence on the ground that the operation of nihilism can begin only when the entire population has arrived at uniform equality, and that until this happy bourne is reached the government must be centralized and absolute.

Not only did they destroy liberty and inaugurate a reign of terror, but they attempted a world-wide extension of their doctrine.

In the last ten years one oligarchy has been succeeded by another committed to bigger and better oppression, autocracy, internationalism, and repudiation.

New Republics Appear.

Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Poland set up separate republics. While in the first three constitutional government endures, Poland and Lithuania are run by dictators.

In Germany the kaiser abdicated, and there were frequent radical uprisings. In August, 1919, a republican constitution was adopted and Ebert elected president.

In 1925 Von Hindenburg was elected. His monarchism was feared, but as president he has upheld the constitution to the letter.

In Austria-Hungary arose the republics of Czecho-Slovakia and Austria. In Hungary, following the abdication of the king and a radical revolution, the people restored the monarchical constitution.

In Italy the communists [illegible] ready to take over the government, but a huge nationalist organization headed by a former radical—Mussolini—and known as the Fascisti, rose to power and established a dictatorial ministry.

Serbia, Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Montenegro were formed into the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia, under the Serbian crown, and recent internal difficulties gave rise to a dictatorship.

In Spain a military coup and a directory were followed by the dictatorship of De Rivera.

Greece in 1924 established a republic.

In Portugal internal troubles and royalist and military revolts led to the dictatorship of Gen. Carmona.

The nationalists in Turkey set up a revolutionary government at Angora. Mustapha Kemal Pasha was elected president, and though he assumed dictatorial powers he has adopted a progressive attitude.

Status of British Dependencies.

Within the British empire is a tendency toward virtual independence.

In 1922 southern Ireland set up a Free State under the British crown, a democratic republic managing its own internal affairs.

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa achieved a like measure of autonomy, while in the United Kingdom itself liberalism is the order of the day.

In China the southern liberals ousted the northern war lords and took over the government.

Iceland in 1918 established its autonomy under the king of Denmark.

In South America the natural ebullience of the liberals was heightened by the injection of the communistic virus and bolshevistic uprisings frequently caused the assumption of dictatorial powers by the authorities. However, everywhere the forces of stability have been successful, and in Peru alone is there an obvious dictatorship.

In Central America constitutional government has proceeded along calmer and more stable paths.

Mexico, stabilized under Obregon, Calles, and Gil, enjoys a period of peace and prosperity hitherto unknown.

The Trend of the Times.

This is the situation of republican governments today. The dictatorships in Russia on the one hand and Italy on the other are manifestations of the extreme products of present day communism. The setbacks suffered by the creation of semi-autocracies, born to combat bolshevistic anarchy, are more than balanced by the increasing tendencies toward national unity and the stability of popular government.

The trend of the times is nowhere more forcibly presented than in the British empire, where the structure is bound together by a commonalty of imperial interest.

A dictatorship, by its very nature, may be limited to the political life of the dictator, and in any event the step thence to stable popular government is shorter than that from a dynastic monarchy.

SHADOW HANGS HEAVILY OVER LONDON MARTS

Inclination to Sell Is Widespread.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The wet blanket of liquidation still hangs heavily over the London stock market, making the stock exchange one of the dullest and most discouraging spots in the metropolis.

The city sages are unable to answer the question of how long this black shadow will last. Liquidation seems to attack all classes of securities, although the weakness is most conspicuous in quarters where a financial stringency is revealed through the recent developments.

With the general inclination being to sell everything good, bad and indifferent, high class stock as well as speculative shares are being thrown indiscriminately on the market.

This week's renewal of selling pressure clearly indicates that apart from the sources of trouble definitely located there is considerable danger in other quarters concerning which unfavorable rumors have been flying round for some time, who find it increasingly difficult to keep their heads above water. The consequent state of suspense or suspicion brought almost an entire absence of public support.

American Shake Out.

The severe shake out in American specialties emphasizes that the fall of Wall street this time is different in character from its predecessors, which have been invariably followed by sharp recoveries. A distinct feeling of uneasiness prevails at the close of the week, with prices showing a general decline all along the line from the liquidation on a considerable scale both in home and colonial accounts.

Before confidence can be restored observers fear a further serious weeding out of those elements which are largely responsible for the present state of affairs. After that the city may be a healthier spot, but the recuperative process certainly will take time.

The monetary situation is apparently developing according to plan and the increased bank rate has become thoroughly effective in correcting adverse exchanges and consequently checking the outflow of gold. The Bank of England secured the bulk of this week's consignment of gold from the Cape amounting to $5,000,000, there being no foreign demand whatever.

Two points feature the foreign exchange market this week. The first is the movement of sterling in New York beyond the gold export point to London, and the second is the removal of government control over the peseta exchange. The sterling dollar rate rose Thursday to $4.87, the highest since July, 1928, in which year for a prolonged period sterling commanded a premium over American dollars.

Transfer of Funds.

Two factors of importance in the rise have been the break in the New York markets causing British money to flow back to London and the transfer of French funds from New York to London. The former is naturally regarded as a healthy movement so far as London is concerned, but the latter suggests fresh difficulties may arise in the near future regarding the French exchange.

There is reason for assuming that London's increased bank rate has less connection with the movement of exchange than the movements of New York and the cessation of the tourist demand for French francs, which the French authorities estimate to have reached about $400,000,000 in the last season.

The money market is still regarding the unstable condition of the French exchange as the chief unsatisfactory feature of the situation, with the probability of further export of gold to Paris from London.

The movement of the French rate is puzzling authorities here, and the financial situation existing between Great Britain and France, in view of the recent rise in the London bank rate, is producing much comment on the part of financial experts.

One of the leading citizens, whose nom de plume, Arthurian, cloaks one of the most important city figures, writes: "France has amassed $1,550,000,000 in gold. It has further gold claims upon us said to amount to $600,000,000. It could, if it liked, take nearly every ounce of gold the Bank of England holds. It has acquired claims to gold in the United States also. It is strange that a debtor country—in debt to us and in debt to the United States—could wield so much power over us and over the United States also.

Inspires French Fight.

"It could shake the stock exchanges of the world to their foundations. This is entirely due to the wisdom and skill of Raymond Poincare, doubtless inspired by the Rothschilds, who would fall if France fell and who do not mean that France shall.

"This fact should be noted at the busy Franco-Italian frontiers. When the gauntlet there is thrown down the lack of credit held by France at home and in various countries will probably have reached $3,500,000,000 in actual gold or claims to gold, enabling France and its banking representatives to create credit to be used in payment for supplies on French account to the extent of eight thousand four hundred million pounds with a minimum of difficulty."

The same writer suggests that Baron Edmond de Rothschild, head of the famous Paris financial house, has inspired the French fight for economic and financial inviolability.

Chicago Bank of Commerce Announces Appointments

Organizers of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, which will open in December, yesterday announced selections of additional officers and directors. Adolph Lindstrom will be vice president in charge of the real estate loan department and E. A. Schroeder will be vice president and cashier. B. J. Grigsby, Thomas M. Pletcher and J. P. Seeburg have been added to the directorate.

Domination of Farm Bureaus Seen Problem

BY SCRUTATOR.

It is a question, little thought of, whether the farmers of the United States can afford to allow the government to run their business for them. Can they permit bureaus piled on bureaus to dominate every part of their activities except the actual production of crops and live stock; and even if it pays in money, can they afford it in loss of independence?

The American agriculturist's complaint over decades has been that the buyers of his products have overmatched him. The solution always advanced has been that the government, benevolent as it is, would be a better farmer than the farmers are themselves.

In this respect other business men have differed with the tiller of the soil. The railroads in the beginning and even to the present day dislike to be managed by a commission at Washington. The utilities don't want regulation on a national scale. It is doubtful if any such industries would care to have a commission at the capital telling them how much money they may borrow and at the same time dictating how it shall be spent.

Inconsistency Cited.

The benevolence may be taken now as granted. We have the odd spectacle of the government financing a farmers' grain co-operative for millions of dollars, with the avowed intention of making the price of wheat higher, while other agents of the same government have been striving in New York to convict eighty-seven men charged with trying to make the price of poultry higher.

One wonders whether the prosecution would even have been considered if the eighty-seven New York individuals had been 87,000 farmers trying to do the same thing.

Governments in other days have conducted agriculture on a scale nation-wide. The perfect example, perhaps, was the Peru of the Incas. Regulations were strict and unbreakable. Each spring the sovereign and his agents decided how much ground each man in the kingdom should have and dictated what the crop should be and when it should be planted.

There were requirements that plots be set aside for the government, for the local poor and for the aristocracy, and these had to be tended before the individual could work for himself.

The Incas, not totally devoid of wisdom, stored the surplus away in public granaries in lush years, thus making provision for the lean ones. According to Prescott, the handful of Spaniards who conquered this great country found a year's supply of food for the whole population, as well as bountiful lots of cloth, in storage.

Similar System.

Some similar system seems to have prevailed in Egypt. In no country of the ancient world was the farmer an independent agent. In many cases he was a serf. Within limits, the systems worked well enough for him. He had enough, after the managers took what they needed, to keep himself alive. In the middle ages the villein was beholden to the noble, who exercised a like supervision and taxing power, besides the dictatorship of his planting.

The early American farmer carved his own way into the wilderness. He took land that belonged to no one but the Indians who had been driven out. He was different from the farmers that had preceded him in that he managed his own business. His reliance on government and his hopes to get management from it came later.

What Might Happen.

Agriculture can never be taken back to old evils. But an elaborate machinery is being built up to finance, to manage and to succor the farmers. Agency is being piled on agency. None is ever abolished for a new one. The new is simply added.

It is conceivable that a time may come when the bureau managers will be interested in some other element of the population; in making prices of farm products low rather than high. If that occurs, we may have farmers battling to get rid of regulation, as other business has been battling.

CHICAGO TRADE LIGHTER, DUE TO WARM WEATHER

Chicago's unusually warm weather during the last week had a marked effect upon purchases for fall and winter merchandise, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Retail and wholesale concerns reported light sales, with buyers inclined to delay orders until the mercury shows a tendency to drop. This is in marked conflict to buying in the east, where snow flurries and other signs of winter were followed by good purchases of cold weather needs.

The silver lining in the temporary cloud on the Chicago market came in the building materials field, where the same late summer, adversely affecting merchandise sales, found builders taking advantage of the weather to rush completion of several big projects, and making purchases in proportion.

Furniture dealers report a good response to the style show now being staged by local distributors. The leather and shoe houses appear optimistic despite present conditions, anticipating good demands for heavy footwear as soon as the weather changes.

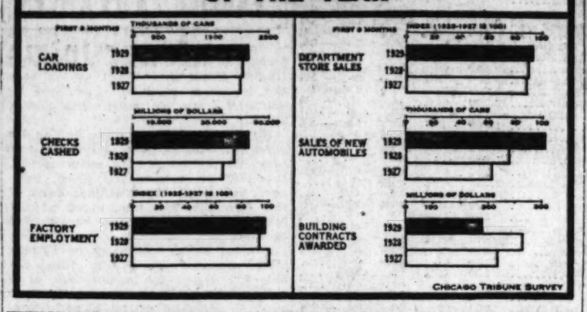
Business Failures Fewer; Liabilities Also Decline

New York, Oct. 19.—The insolvency record, compiled by R. G. Dun & Co. shows a decided improvement this week over the returns for a year ago. Thus, failures numbering 359 compare with 480 in the corresponding week of 1928, reductions occurring in all geographical sections. The decreases range from 12 in the west to 62 in the east. With the smaller aggregate of defaults, those involving more than $5,000 of liabilities in each case fell to 212 this week, from 278 a year ago.

Weekly Debits in Decline; Reserve Bank Reports

Debits to individual deposit account reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the week ended Oct. 16, 1929, by 260 banks in thirty-eight leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregate $1,734,421,000, a decrease of 3.5 per cent compared with a week ago [$1,797,654,000]. Compared with the corresponding week of last year [$1,639,219,000], an increase of 5.8 per cent was shown.

RECORD OF CHICAGO BUSINESS IN THE FIRST NINE MONTHS OF THE YEAR



News and Gossip of Stock Markets

Seek Support for Market.

There was considerable talk in Wall street brokerage offices and banking parlors yesterday of the possibility of a getting together over Sunday and offering the market some definite sort of support tomorrow. Many people believe the decline has been too sharp and drastic and that if it goes much further at the present rate it is likely to prove an important factor in winter business consideration. Whether or not these people will be willing to go into the market and aid in its support, however, is another question. What most people in Wall street would like to see develop now is a long period of market inactivity in which the losses may be consolidated and an opportunity given for the present financial hysteria to pass away.

Position of Utilities.

Anent the repeated attacks on public utility stocks, which have been recently about the most vulnerable issues on the market despite the favoritism for such issues displayed by investment trusts for many months, there were many who failed to see where the glittering future for utility securities talked of last month and the month before is any the less true at the present time. The facts in the case are undoubtedly that speculative enthusiasm can put the prices of stocks up to, say, fifty times their earnings, but cannot be counted on to hold them there. With buying of utilities at a halt, it was therefore comparatively easy to sell them, with the drastic results that have made market history in recent sessions.

Paramount Earnings.

Paramount Famous Lasky earnings, according to Adolph Zukor, president, are running fully 50 per cent ahead of a year ago. Although definite estimate cannot be made at this time, net for 1929 should approximate somewhere between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000. Negotiations with Warner Brothers, he stated, were still in the offing and no one could predict when the merger of the two corporations would be consummated.

Record Rail Orders.

What the railroads are providing in the way of business for the steel companies was shown last week by the placing of the record order for 310,000 tons of steel rails by the Pennsylvania. This brought the Pennsylvania's purchase of rails in the last three years to 870,000 tons. These were the greatest consecutive purchases of rails ever made. The N. Y. C. came through with a substantial order and yesterday the Erie announced 1930 orders for 46,460 tons.

Discredit Bond Buying.

There were some very reliable indications that a series of important developments are pending in nearly all of the larger natural gas companies, such as Columbia Gas, Cities Service, United Gas and the Union Utilities group, and that bankers are working on projects which will be soon made public. That expansion of these companies is to be expected is accepted without question in utility circles and certain interconnections are looked for as well.

Plan New Projects.

Reports that investment trusts were buying bonds heavily, owing to the uncertain future for stock prices, were discredited by one Wall street bond house, which sent its salesmen out to approach the trust executives. The salesmen returned without a single order. In nearly every case they said the investment trusts declared that they believed the stock market still had a "kick" left in it and that they did not want to bother about the small change which the bond market might have in store for patient investors.

U. S. EXPORTS FOR NINE MONTHS SHOW INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The commerce department has announced total value of exports of the United States for the nine months ending September, 1929, at $3,849,218,000 as compared with $3,557,586,000 for the corresponding nine months of 1928. Imports for the nine months ending with September, 1929, were $3,361,883,000 as compared with $3,070,113,000 for the corresponding nine months of 1928.

Exports for September, 1929, were $442,000,000 as compared with $421,607,000 in September, 1928, and imports $353,000,000 as compared with $319,618,000 for September, 1928.

Gold and silver imports for the nine months ending September, 1929, were $255,195,000, as compared with $100,026,000 for the same period of 1928. Exports of gold and silver for the nine months ending September, 1929, were $9,942,000 as compared with $535,216,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Cotton Institute Vetoes Plan to Curb Production

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., at its annual meeting today defeated, 450 to 145, a proposal to permit participation by the institute in legislative and political questions. The institute's action means that members may continue to operate as in the past, with no agreement or legislation to curb overproduction.

PRICES IN LISTED BOND MARKET CLIMB HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Trading of listed bonds listed on the New York exchange continued the upward trend which has distinguished every session this week. Although activity was curtailed by the usual Saturday dullness, prices were firm in nearly all departments with the exception of the convertibles which suffered in sympathy with the decline on the share markets.

Traders in bonds have received encouragement from the persistence of lower money rates and the continued good prospects for easy credit throughout the remainder of the year. In addition funds realized from the sale of common stock, have to some extent been seeking employment in the bond market and evidence is not lacking that leading bankers are taking a more hopeful view of the future of bonds.

LIVERMORE SEEN ACTIVE IN SHORT MARKET SELLING

Makes Spectacular Comeback, Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Jesse L. Livermore, one of the most adroit and spectacular stock market speculators this country has ever produced, and who has been in eclipse, so far as market operations are concerned, for several years, has made a smashing comeback.

If Wall street reports be true, he has been heavily short of stocks for more than a month, and the hammering tactics against the leaders, ending in today's violent reaction in the market, was attributed, to some extent at least, to Livermore's brilliantly executed drives.

Of course, the decline cannot be laid at Mr. Livermore's door, but he had with him an exceptionally favorable opportunity. Many desperately driven longs have been obliged to liquidate, and a legion of bears throughout the country who do not "like" the market have aided in kicking it down. His profits, if these stories be true, run into the millions.

Discredit Reports of Struggle.

Another Wall street story that cropped out today was that Livermore on the short side and Arthur W. Cutten on the long side are locked in a titanic struggle in the stock market. This, it was learned, is not true. Livermore is heavily short of stocks and Cutten, if the stories are true, is heavily long. But there is no action by either against the other, for the market is peculiarly impersonal. Mr. Cutten has issued three statements in the last three weeks [or at least has been so quoted on the financial news tickers] to the effect that he continues bullish on stocks and has enumerated the stocks which be believed had tremendous possibilities and would sell much higher. Among these were Montgomery Ward and Simmons company, both of which were particularly weak today.

Cutten was one of the bull market leaders, among whom are William C. Durant, the Fisher brothers of Detroit and other large speculators in pivotal cities throughout the country, who were expected by many people to loan organized support to their stocks.

What appears to have happened is that they have found a set of circumstances strongly against them at this time. These include the nervousness of thousands of stockholders throughout the country about their holdings, the continued inflation of brokers' loans, the development of thousands of traders who feel more comfortable on the short than on the long side of the market and, finally, moderately drooping business.

Hand Picked Situation.

With stocks having been driven up higher during the last few months, with each reaction followed by a strong rebound to higher levels, the situation was a ready made and hand picked one for such a plunging speculator as is Livermore.

The street stories are that he got short of a large line of such issues as United States Steel common, Montgomery Ward, Simmons company, General Electric, American and Foreign Power and half a dozen other of the market's pivotal issues and then started the familiar hammering tactics.

Cutten, Durant, the Fishers and others of what is known in Wall street as "the big ten" merely were large holders of these particular stocks and have seen their plans and pools wrecked by what were natural developments, coupled with considerable shrewd short selling whenever these particular stocks showed signs of weakness.

Stocks Here Yield Slowly to Pressure

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Liquidation continued in the week's final two hour session on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday. The most serious losses, however, were confined to a few issues while the rest of the market gave way grudgingly.

Short interests staged a spectacular raid on Auburn Automobile and knocked that issue down 48½ points to a low of 356½, only to be forced to turn tail and buy in to make good their commitments, whereupon the price was run up 13½ points from the low to 370 when the closing gong rang. The net loss on the day was 35 points.

Cord, which holds considerable Auburn stock, eased a couple of points in early dealings but the loss was reduced to one point for the day. Bendix Aviation slid off three points and Houdaille-Hershey "A" was down 1¾.

Grigsby-Grunow Off 6⅝.

Grigsby-Grunow featured the radio group with a decline of 6⅝ points when it became known that a lack of buying orders existed in the New York market where the stock finished 7½ lower. National Union Radio was off 2½ and Zenith declined 3¾.

Wextark Radio Stores was off a fraction. The company reported September sales of $1,138,000, a gain of more than 95 per cent over the same period of 1928. The total for September last year was $582,000.

The acquisition of the City Radio Stores and Davega, Inc., by Atlas Stores was declared operative. The new corporation will have a chain of sixty radio stores.

Corporation Securities allotment certificates featured the investment trust group by opening at 100 and closed a major fraction higher in spite of the trend of the market. This stock is the new Insull investment trust issue which was privately placed at $75 a unit. Losses of from 1¼ to 2⅝ points each were felt by Burnham Trading, Continental-Chicago, Chicago Investors, Insull Utility Investment and Utility and Industrial.

Loses Six Point Gain.

Commonwealth-Edison lost its six point gain of the preceding day and Middle West Utilities new was off 1⅛. Associated Telephone Utilities closed two points lower.

The stock exchange announced that starting tomorrow the ticker quotation wire service will be extended to Madison, Wis. Madison is the twenty-seventh city to receive direct ticker quotations from the floor of the exchange since June 1, 1928, when New York was the only city outside of Chicago to receive the service.

Meat Demand Fairly Good, Armour & Co. Says

Armour & Co. in its review of general packing house trade conditions says: "Demand for meats again was generally good last week, with movement into consumptive channels fairly active and broad. Fresh pork showed a noticeably improved demand. Smoked meats continued to give a good account of themselves.

"There was a fair demand for beef, with some further improvement in prices. Sheep and lamb trade was generally on a basis about steady with the previous week. Foreign business was broad and quite active. Collections continued good."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Bearish trading forces, operating under covering of a smoke screen of pessimistic rumors, made a smashing attack on the stock market today.

Widespread gossip of the formation of a gigantic bear pool and of difficulties supposed to have been met by a prominent bull operator were factors operating in behalf of the bear drive. Altogether this has been one of the most discouraging weeks in the stock market experienced in several years, another setback this week, following the recovery from the sharp break over two weeks ago, was not unexpected.

Prices were beaten down 5 to 10 points in all the more active groups, with specialty losses running as high as 40 points.

Huge blocks of stocks were dumped into the trading hopper, evidence of considerable forced selling from speculative sources weakened by recent declines and frightened liquidation.

Heavy Selling; Vast Losses.

All told, it was one of the most disastrous sessions in market history. Estimates of the aggregate market loss—in paper values—ran as high as $1,000,000,000. The turnover of 3,484,100 shares was exceeded by only one previous Saturday, that of Dec. 8, 1928, when a three day break ended the boom that followed the election of President Hoover. The ticker ran nearly 1¼ hours after the close of the market, the longest delay that has ever occurred on a Saturday.

Liquidation hit a tremendous scale at the very outset, prices running off one to three points as bunching

BANKERS OUTLINE STAND ON STOCK INVESTMENTS

Oppose "Unwise" Extension of Gov't Regulation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Oct. 19.—From the discussions which took place at the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America at Quebec this week, two outstanding conclusions can be drawn.

One is that the investmest bankers of the United States have been convinced that they must admit good stocks to investment ratings virtually as high as have been given good bonds in the past. Careful qualification was given this point, but the tenor of all reports bearing on stocks indicated that the duty of the investment banker in future would be to equip himself to give his customers full information on partnership as distinguished from creditor securities, with the emphasis to be placed on the stocks' value for income holding, rather than for speculative possibilities.

The second general matter on which a definite position was taken by the investment bankers was regulation by governmental bodies. Specifically, it was held that federal regulation of electrical utilities doing interstate business would be unwise, also that no official censorship to the extent of further legislation is necessary to control investment trusts.

Ask Free Development.

Concerning holding companies, the association was rather emphatic in its recommendation that they be given as free an opportunity to develop unhampered by laws as they have been in the past.

From the federal government little was asked except reduction of taxes. It was asserted in the report of the committee on federal taxation that the reduction of the national debt by almost ten billions in ten years, forty per cent of the cut coming out of annual surpluses, was a great accomplishment but that a continuation of a tax schedule creating such surpluses was an unnecessary burden on the present generation.

Reduction of the corporate income tax from the present twelve per cent was requested. Members were urged to work for the repeal of any tax on profits in security sales. The federal inheritance tax was declared unfair and the federal government requested to give up this source of revenue to the states exclusively.

Duplicate Collections

Attention was called to progress made in having the states themselves give up the practice of collecting duplicate taxes on intangible personal property in estates. Ninety-one million Americans, it was stated, cannot prepare for death with confidence that there will be no effort by two states to collect an inheritance tax for each.

It was generally agreed at the convention that the outstanding report was an outline of the duties of the investment banker in recommending to his clients the income or dividend possibilities of stocks. Suggestions were made as to the manner in which the bankers could go about this.

Investment bankers a few years ago were almost exclusively bond dealers. The trend in finance today is clearly indicated in their frank admission that they must cease to make any real distinction between stocks and bonds as investment, that the criterion is the sound income possibility of any security.

Chicago Curb Market Stocks

Liquidating pressure was evident on the Chicago curb yesterday and resulted in lower levels for most issues. General Realty fell five points and Greenebaum slipped nearly four on small sales. Curtiss Flying, Transformer, and Central and Southwest new had two point drops. Wizard ran against the downward trend in a fractional advance to a new top quotation at 17¾ and Dubilier recorded a good gain.

LARD MARKET IRREGULAR

Higher prices for hogs and good buying against cash sales of lard for shipment advanced prices early yesterday, while the break in grains and stocks brought increased offerings and a decline and close 2½c to 7½c net lower for the day. Liverpool lard was 6d higher, exports were 3,387,490 lbs. Bellies advanced 15c early but reached and closed a shade lower on October and 2½c higher on January and May. Exports of bacon were 40,000 lbs. Shipments of lard and meats for the week were larger than the previous week and last year. Prices follow:

Speculating on Tips.

The inquiries which come to the Investors' Guide indicate that many persons of moderate means are still trying to get rich by speculating on tips.

Tips are gossip. Sometimes it is possible to trace their origin, but more often, like Topsy, they "just grow."

Tips are strange monsters. Usually they embody just enough truth to make them plausible. They are conglomerations of facts and untruths, hunches and hopes. The amount of misinformation peddled in the form of tips by intelligent people who should know better is appalling.

Besides the tips which are born nobody knows where and which are passed along by egoists who attempt to cover up their own lack of knowledge in financial matters by giving out rumors and pretending that they are facts based upon reliable information there is a more sinister form of tip.

Professional Tipsters.

This sort of tip is given by someone who has an ax to grind, a person or firm that stands to profit by getting the public to buy something.

Last spring two so-called financial services flooded the country with literature and telegrams urging the recipients to buy a certain stock for a rise. There was no reason to expect a rise in this stock. Officers of the company itself stated that prospects were not good.

The stock did rise for a very brief period as a result of this campaign, long enough for the tipsters to sell their holdings at a profit, but not long enough for their "customers" to profit. The latter held the sack.

Not all those who disseminate tips do so with the idea of defrauding the public. The seller of stock is naturally influenced by his desire for gain and his sales talk may be embroidered with predictions concerning the future of the stock.

Then, too, speculation is very profitable to the brokerage business, and a broker's judgment may be affected by his hope for a commission.

No Game for Amateurs.

The small speculator should keep two things in mind at all times. First, no one is out to make him rich. No one is losing sleep figuring out ways to fatten another's pocketbook. Second, nobody knows what the market is going to do. The future market price of a stock cannot be accurately predicted.

The professional speculator makes money. Yes, and loses it, too. He does not always guess aright. And this man is an expert. His operations are not based upon rumors.

The little fellow is in over his depth. He's trying to best the professional at his own game. And his only weapon usually is a tip. This tip is probably old. The person who first circulated it very likely has already acted on it. The predicted appreciation in market price of the stock may already have come and a reaction may be due.

Even if he is lucky enough to be right half the time the small speculator is a loser. He has to pay interest on his money if he trades on a margin, and with every turnover he must pay the broker a commission.

Don't play the other man's game.

COTTON TRADE SMALL

There was little interest in cotton yesterday and despite the unsettled condition of the grain and stock markets prices held well. The range of prices was only 15 points at the extreme and the close was 5 points higher to 2 points lower for the day, which covered all markets. Spots were unchanged with middlings in New York 18c, sales 700 bales. New Orleans, 17.70c; sales, 11,504 bales. Galveston, 18c; sales, 150 bales. Houston, 17.80c; sales, 11,742 bales. Liverpool closed 1 point higher to 4 points lower with spot sales 3,000 bales. Weather conditions were generally favorable and hedge sales reflected a continued heavy marketing movement from the country. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago Monday, 28,000 cattle, 41,000 hogs, and 25,000 sheep.

The $10.00 quotation was again reinstated in the hog market on the week-end session, in spite of the fact that arrivals at 7,000 equaled the second largest for Saturday since last June. Prices ruled strong to 10c higher under brisk competition between local and outside buyers, and only 2,000 pen holders remained at the close.

Both the extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $10.00 and $9.60, respectively, but compare with a top of $10.20 and average of $9.75 last Monday. Although supplies were liberal yesterday, traders hope that the favorable condition of the weather will hold receipts moderate during the first half of next week.

Active Demand on Break.

The largest hog receipts since the last week of August brought the general average price down to $9.55 last week, lowest since February and below any corresponding week since 1923. Demand was unusually active on the break, indicating that hogs are well worth the money at $10.00 and slightly below.

The top passed this price on Monday's market only and best on Thursday and Friday were at $9.80 and $9.95, respectively. Shipping orders were largest since last March, taking 22 per cent of total arrivals, against 20 per cent the preceding week and 15 per cent a year ago.

Fresh pork has been in good demand, but supplies exceeded requirements and prices lowered 1@2c per pound on the wholesale market.

Young Hogs Moving.

Young hogs from the spring pig crop comprise approximately 60 per cent of total receipts lately, which accounts for the gradual lowering of the average weight. Weights during the last two weeks have been running lightest since March and 4@6 lbs below a year ago, but slightly heavier than at this time in 1927. Quality continues to hold up well, in spite of the fact that corn has been selling above a year ago and hogs lower, for several months.

Cattle salesmen scored a victory over buyers last week, carrying the general average price of beef steers to $13.95, highest since week ending Aug. 31. With the exception of an erratic finish, the market held firm to higher on most sessions, in spite of the second largest receipts of the year.

A mild upturn in the wholesale market for beef added zest to local demand in midweek. Medium weights took their position at the head of the price list again, prime 1,134@1,271 lb averages reaching this mark, while top yearlings sold at $16.40. Yearlings during the preceding week were outselling heavy cattle by 25@50c.

Native Lambs Arrive.

The marketward movement of native lambs reached full swing last week, resulting in a 25@75c break in prices and some of the hardest sorting of the year. However, this increase was partly offset by smaller supplies from the range, and signs of strength appeared near the close.

The week's general average price moved down only 10c, but was lower than any corresponding week since 1923 and 95c under the five year average. Packers are carrying on their yearly campaign against buck lambs, discounting extreme weights as much as $2.00@2.75. With the season for western range lambs coming to a close earlier than in 1928, feeders were outselling fat westerns by 25@50c at the close.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 28,000 cattle, 41,000 hogs, and 25,000 sheep, against 23,156 cattle, 36,423 hogs, and 28,291 sheep a week ago, and 26,352 cattle, 42,759 hogs, and 24,279 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 60,000 cattle, 150,000 hogs, and 80,000 sheep, against 62,849 cattle, 162,730 hogs, and 81,733 sheep a year ago.

VALUES SINK IN GRAIN MARKETS; WHEAT OFF 2C

Hold Longs Responsible for Heavy Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Drastic liquidation was on in the grain markets yesterday with selling accelerated by disquieting reports from New York and values crashed to the lowest figures on the crop for the March deliveries, and to the lowest figures since late in July or early in July for the December futures. Stop loss orders were uncovered in consequence of the way down, with stocks and holders of daily and weekly bids the best buyers.

At the inside figure wheat was off around 2c from Friday's finish with December off 10½c from the high of the previous week, with the close 2½@4½c lower. Corn lost ⅝@⅞c and oats ⅜@⅝c, while rye declined 1⅝@1¾c.

Those in a position to know said there was absolutely nothing in the New York reports to cause uneasiness, and claimed the decline in values was due to heavy selling by discouraged and scared longs, and saw evidence of the culmination of the decline in all grains as the result of the drastic liquidation which has been under way the greater part of the week. Winnipeg wheat was 2¾@1¾c lower for the day, while Liverpool lost 1¼@1½d.

Grains Lower for Week.

Failure of outside buying to develop on bullish wheat crop comments from Argentina and on the better export demand led to heavy liquidation by holders the greater part of the week, and at the last net losses were 3¾@4½c, as compared with a week ago. Corn was 3¾@4c; oats, 2@2¼c, and rye 2¾@4¼c lower for the week. Previsions averaged lower with lard at 1¼@7½c; ribs, 22½c, and bellies, 58@4c, as compared with a week ago.

The bull position in wheat was undermined by reports of general rains in Argentina, which may materially improve the outlook for the new crop, although there was a private cable intimating that considerable hail also fell, and it was noticeable that the Buenos Aires market was off only ½c for the day. The trade have been under the impression that a large line of long wheat has been coming out for several days, and the weakness in the stock market in New York has not improved the confidence of holders. It is understood, however, that there are no concentrated holdings of wheat, although may traders have been under this impression.

A favorable development in the wheat situation was the reports of a better foreign demand with bids for hard winter at the gulf on a working basis, the first time this has been claimed for some time. With February wheat in Buenos Aires closing at $1.21, the discount under American prices is the smallest in some time, although the November delivery in that market finished at $1.16½.

Hedging Pressure in Corn.

There was a big trade on in wheat futures, with considerable business under way on both sides against daily and weekly bids. Large lines of the latter were said to have been bought around $1.29@1.30 for the December, and holders were taking profits on the decline.

Hedging pressure in corn is gradually increasing, and with pressure from commission houses and local bears on the continued good weather for field work, prices dropped to the lowest level since late in June for the December delivery, which was down to 90½c, and 14c under the recent high point. Support came mainly from shorts and holders of bids. Shipping demand was less active, with sales of 40,000 bu.

Cash interests were on the buying side of oats and held prices within narrow limits. The northwest was a seller, and locals also sold on the weakness in other grains. Weakness in wheat led to scattered selling of rye, but there was commission house buying on the way down.

LEGALITY OF ILL. BOND LICENSE ACT IS DENIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—The Supreme court today held unconstitutional section 23 of the Illinois security act. This section has to do with requiring a bond for the registration of bond brokers. Its legality was attacked in suits affecting the license of Gettelman & Co., which came to the supreme court from the Municipal court of Chicago.

"Without the law," said the opinion, "Gettelman & Co. had the right to engage in the business of dealer and broker in securities. It needed no license or permission to do so. The legislature in the passage of the Illinois securities law required that such dealers and brokers should secure licenses. "In the exercise of the police power it has the authority to impose such a requirement, but in attempting to require a bond as a condition precedent to the license the legislature failed to do so because of its attempted unconstitutional delegation of legislative power in regard to the bond to the secretary of state."

New York Bank Clearings Increase; Fall Elsewhere

New York, Oct. 19.—Irregularity is more marked in the record of bank clearings, particularly at some of the western and southern centers. Total bank clearings this week at all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, are $13,853,068,000, this amount exceeding the clearings of a year ago by 21.0 per cent. The gain is mainly at New York City, where clearings of $9,839,000,000 are larger than those of last year by 32.9 per cent, while the total for the principal centers outside of New York of $4,014,068,000, is 0.7 per cent less than that of a year ago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat prices are down to the lowest level since early last July, with a break of nearly 32c on December from the extreme high of the season. There has been heavy liquidation on for two weeks, both here and in Winnipeg, with the largest holders credited as leading the selling. The sentiment at the close was bearish, despite the decline and the weeding out of weak holders. The market has paid no attention to bullish news but was regarded as weak enough to have a natural recovery.

Cash corn interests were on the selling side of December yesterday and the relative cash prices were lower as compared with the December. It was rather difficult to find any one with a pronounced bullish opinion for the immediate future. New corn is coming in faster than usual because of the dry season, placing it in marketable condition.

"Liquidation in wheat has been on in full force and while we recognize at this level prices represent a reasonable basis," says Thomson & McKinnon, "we must not ignore the possibility of this driving impulse to carry prices even lower."

Broomhall reported that stocks of wheat are accumulating in the United Kingdom and continental ports, and said there was improvement in the foreign demand, but the latter failed to help the market.

"The grain situation in the northwest and other parts of the country shows signs of an increased demand," says a report from Minneapolis. One firm there sold corn to points in Washington, Montana, Canada, and Michigan on overnight offers. Oats were sold into Louisiana.

Broomhall's Argentine agent estimates the remaining surplus of old wheat at 46,000,000 bu, which if cleared before the end of this year will make total exports of 272,000,000 bu, which are understood to be a record. Australia has shipped 98,040,000 bu since Jan. 1 out of an estimated surplus of 110,000,000 bu for the season.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

A moderate amount of Manitobas and hard winter wheat was reported at the seaboard, but quantities were not given. Local handlers sold 3,000 bu wheat, 53,000 bu corn and 40,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 36,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

An easier undertone prevailed in the local cash wheat market with No. 2 red, 2¼@2¾c under December; No. 2 hard, 5@5¼c under, and No. 1 northern, 4⅛@5½c under December. Cash corn basis was steady to ¼c lower, No. 2 mixed being 1⅛@1¾c over; yellow, 2@2¼c over, and white, 2½@2¾c over December, with No. 3 mixed 1@1¼c over; yellow, 1⅛@1⅜c over, and white, 1⅛@2c over the future. Basis on cash oats was steady to ¼c lower with No. 2 white, 3@3¼c under and No. 3 white, 3⅜@5c under December.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 26 cars; corn, 187 cars; oats, 37 cars; rye, 12 cars; barley, 6 cars.

FARM and GARDEN

TRACTORS AND TEAMS WORK SIDE BY SIDE

Money Is Saved by the Combination.

BY PAUL POTTER.

HIGH priced land and a faltering labor supply are the interlocking factors which have made the modern farmer who wants to make a profit speed up his operations.

There are a hundred and one major tasks on the farm where machinery has been called upon to compete with these two burdensome realisms. Propagandists of the power age have led many to rate a farmer hastily on how completely he has transformed his labor from human and animal power to mechanization. But farmers themselves, with long hours at the task during which to think through their problems, are deciding wisely that they can scarcely afford to abandon all the established practices of their forefathers.

Forethought Is Repaid.

Recently I had occasion to visit a series of progressive farms in Chicagoland, where accurate bookkeeping told the owners they were on the right side of the ledger. These farms were all well above the average, and two of them were comparable with the best in the middle west.

The first impression gained in each visit was that the owners had planned carefully the barnyard layout, so that buildings were logically located. These buildings also indicated ample capacity for expansion in the future, if found advisable. And they were not only substantially built but were receiving good care—not as "show places," either.

Silo filling was in progress. The hum of the ensilage cutter and the clatter of sliced corn stalks made a lively tune that kept all hands in quick step. Acres of corn that in earlier years took weeks to harvest disappeared into this mammoth stomach in as many days.

Animal and Motor Power.

In the field both teams and tractors were pulling the binders and wagons. I thought as I watched them, while waiting an opening to talk with the owners, that those who considered these motive forces in competition might be nettled at the comradeship of human, animal, and motor activity on these up to date farms.

What one farmer finds is a necessary, labor saving piece of equipment on his food factory is frequently an unwise expenditure for another. The successful operator today is the man who can secure the maximum use of production machinery with the least expenditure.

Just this year we are seeing in the great plains areas one of the transformations that make the romance back of the nation's loaf of bread. Grain growers have found in the combination of mower, binder, and thresher, all in one machine, a new force to eliminate the mounting costs of human labor. Gone are the days of bundles and shocks.

Several Operations in One.

Once over the field of grain and the job is done. Where large acreages of wheat have been handled by this means this year, many farmers have loaded the grain right into trucks and sent them over good roads to the local elevator on grain car on track. If the trucks were delayed the grain was sacked, eliminating storage and multiple handling problems for those who wished to get the crop into marketing channels quickly.

Only with the good care being shown farm machinery that has been shown the horses, cattle, and other live stock, each item of which represents a considerable investment, can the modern farmer realize the most years of profitable, dependable service from his equipment.

Caring for Roses in Fall and Spring

When setting dormant roses in the fall, remove one-half or more of the wood. Then, in the spring cut back these roses more, leaving only two or three stems with four or five eyes on each.

Winter protection consists in cutting back all lengthy shoots to a height of a foot or more. Tie the shoots together so the earth may be hilled up about each bush. This is to keep the plant from whirling about in the wind, which frequently causes a hole in the earth about the stem.

This hole fills with water and necessarily in extreme cold weather will freeze, then thaw, all of which is decidedly injurious to the plant.

Belgian Prince at Waterloo

THRONGS AT THE RECENT WATERLOO, IOWA, Dairy Cattle congress paused to admire two noble representatives appearing at the National Belgian Horse show, held in conjunction with the dairy display. Prince Albert de Ligne, Belgian ambassador to the United States, representing the king, presented His Majesty's cup to Earle Browne of Minneapolis, owner of the show's grand champion mare, Range Line Marie. The prince is shown holding Marie's halter rope and the cup.

CHICKENS' SLEEP IS SHORTENED BY LIGHTED HOUSES

At first thought you might want to pity the modern flapper type, egg laying record hen.

Not contend with a busy summer about the poultry yard and fields, she is now being expected to stay up nights in order to meet the rigorous demands of society.

Yet she is looking for no sympathetic interest in her new environment, poultry specialists tell us. Her grandmother, who had to spend all of six hours on a winter day scratching diligently for a meager living really had much less to show in the way of results for the months of confinement.

Nowadays, since tests made at agricultural colleges have proven that proper use of electric lights in the poultry house will increase winter egg production from 30 to 40 per cent, the plucky flock of layers have every convenience to compare with the city bride in her kitchenette apartment.

Since the primary purpose of using artificial lights in the laying house is to lengthen the hen's working day and in that way give her a chance to eat more feed, it is important to have feed and water available for her when the lights are on. If lights are turned on automatically with an alarm clock at four or five a. m., it will be necessary to scatter feed in the litter the evening before and to arrange for holding water over night above freezing temperatures.

Users of artificial lights are finding that it is desirable to place the lamps in such a way that the roosts will not be dark. The general plan is to use one 40 watt lamp for every 200 square feet of floor space, or two of them in a 20x20 foot house. Lamps are placed about 6½ feet from the floor and about 10 feet apart in this width of house. Reflectors 16 inches in diameter at the base and four inches high are recommended.

The four months from November to February, inclusive, are "electric light" months in the laying house. A common system of lighting it is to turn the lights on with an alarm clock about 4:30 a. m., and leave them on until daylight. Another plan is to turn the lights on for a while in the evening, or these two systems may be combined.

Still another practice is to serve the hens evening lunch by turning the lights on for an hour about eight or nine in the evening. Each of the evening methods necessitates use of a dimming device to enable the hens to tell when it is time to roost. Any of the four plans should be started gradually.

Trees and Their Soil.

One of the controlling factors in tree planting is the soil in which the tree must grow. There are a few trees, such as the American elm, which are adaptable to a wide range of soils, says the American Tree association. There are others, such as the tulip tree, to which a deep rich soil is absolutely essential. The location or situation of the tree may determine its selection as well as soil and climate.

Agricultural Questions and Answers

FALL BULBS.

We moved into a suburb too late this last spring to enjoy flowers grown from bulbs. Will you tell us, please, what kind to plant this fall? Any suggestions that may add to the beauty of our grounds will be appreciated, as we have never before had a garden. J. H. A.

REPLY.

If you still anticipate the joy of watching for the first bit of green to break through the ground in the spring from planting by your own hands, then by all means get started with some bulbs right now, for narcissi, daffodils and tulips often make their appearance before the first robin.

September and October are the bulb planting months. One must get the bulbs which bloom in early spring into the ground sufficiently early to enable them to send out roots and make necessary development before the leaves and blossoms appear. You should not wait any longer to secure a supply of bulbs.

A few of the following are varieties of the more commonly grown bulbs: (Narcissi or daffodils)—Sir Watkins, Albatross, King Alfred, Emperor, Elvira. (Tulips)—Keizerskroon, Chrysolora, Coleur Cardinal, Panorama, Clara Butt, Rev. H. Ewbank, Pride of Haarlem, Cardinal Manning. (Hyacinths)—Queen of the Pinks, Queen of the Blues, Queen of the Whites, City of Haarlem, L'Innocence, Madonna lily, Tiger lily, Regal lily, and Gold Banded lily.

Iowa State Grads Win Architecture Awards

Two scholarships for study of early American architecture and landscape architecture, each $1,250 value, offered by the Lake Forest foundation for post-graduate study, were won by Iowa State college graduates of the class of 1929, according to information received by Prof. A. H. Kimball, head of the architectural engineering department.

The Lake Forest scholarships are offered by the foundation for architecture and landscape architecture at Lake Forest, Ill., to special post-graduate students selected from Iowa State college, Armour Institute, University of Illinois, Ohio State university, and University of Michigan, who spend three months at Lake Forest in advanced study and competition for the scholarship awards.

Christian County Swaps Corn for Dairy Cows

A former Illinois corn and hog county has gone "dairy." At least, twenty-six progressive farmers and dairymen in Christian county have banded together to organize the most recent dairy herd improvement association in the state, according to J. H. Brock, assistant in dairy extension at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

This makes fifty-five groups of dairymen in the state who are testing their cows for efficiency of production under the supervision of the college extension service.

Drainage for Roses.

Importance of good drainage cannot be too greatly stressed, as roses refuse to grow where water stands about their roots. In heavy soils, where water is liable to stand, artificial drainage is the only solution to the problem.

ANNOUNCE TRIO OF APARTMENTS FOR 95TH PLACE

Beverly Hills Project Will Cost $330,000.

Another important development for Beverly Hills is revealed in the announcement of plans for the immediate construction of three apartment buildings at the northwest corner of Vanderpoel avenue and 95th place. The buildings will occupy a site fronting 225 feet on Vanderpoel avenue and 125 feet on 95th place.

John L. Brill is erecting the trio of apartment houses which, it is stated, will cost approximately $330,000, exclusive of the value of the land.

Of English Design.

The first of the three buildings will be put up at the corner. It will contain twenty-five flats. Then will follow the other two, which will each contain sixteen flats. These structures will adjoin th corner building and will face on 95th place. They will form a court with the first edifice.

All three buildings, which were designed by B. Albert Comm, will be three stories and English basement high. They will be of English Tudor architecture. Front elevations will be of face brick with ornamentation in cut stone. Some half timber work will be employed to give the proper English effect.

Four and Five Rooms.

A majority of the apartments in the three buildings will be of four rooms, though those at the corner will contain five rooms with two baths. All apartments will have mechanical refrigeration and other conveniences.

The development is a half block from 95th street—a south side shopping center—and is close to the forest preserve. It is served by the Rock Island.

GUSTAV CLAUSEN TO GIVE LECTURE ON SURVEYING

Gustav L. Clausen will address the first of a series of meetings to be held under the auspices of the Illinois Registered Land Surveyors' association, at which surveying will be the subject of discussion. This meeting will be held at 8 p. m., Friday, Oct. 25, in suite 100 of the Great Northern hotel. Mr. Clausen, who has had about fifty years' experience in surveying in and around Chicago, will take for his subject "Government Surveying." Those interested in surveying are invited by the association to attend the meetings.

Winnetka Man Erecting $50,000 Home in Glencoe

McGuire & Orr have sold 196 feet of frontage on Bluff road, Skokie Heights, Glencoe, to Samuel Browne of Winnetka. Mr. Browne is erecting a home of English design from plans by Architect William T. Braun, to cost about $50,000.

BUILDING FOR 95TH PLACE AND VANDERPOEL

B. Albert Comm designed the above building, one of three apartment houses which John L. Brill plans to erect at the northwest corner of 95th place and Vanderpoel avenue. This building will contain twenty-five flats and the other two will each have sixteen apartments. Lawrence Monberg made this rendering.

MORTUARY AND FLATS

A. J. Bourne & Son have let contracts for the construction of the building pictured above at 2322-24 West 111th street. A mortuary establishment will be housed on the first floor and the two upper stories will be divided into flats. Z. Erol Smith is architect.

PLAN 4 STORY HOTEL ON NORTH CRAWFORD AVE.

Plans have been completed and bids are now being taken for a four story and basement hotel building at 4028 North Crawford avenue, to be owned by the Shugman Realty company. Harry Dalsey is architect. The building will be of brick, stone and concrete and will oclupy a site 50x170. The cost, it is reported, will be $300,000. The building will contain two large stores and fifty-six kitchenette apartments.

COLORED MASONS BUILD TEMPLE IN EVANSTON

Work is well under way on a two story building for the Mount Moriah Masonic lodge, No. 28, a colored organization, just west of the northwest corner of Ridge and Emerson, in Evanston. Walter T. Bailey of Chicago is architect. The building will cost a reported $65,000 and will be 52x100. It will contain stores and shops on the first floor and offices and a lodge hall on the second floor. Completion is set for Dec. 15.

Some Leases

The Juvenile Bootery has leased the store at 2304 Devon avenue from Elizabeth Berman for a five year term. Arnold T. Linder & Co. were brokers.

The Coros beauty shop has leased 2,500 square feet at 7915 Cottage Grove avenue for ten years at a term rental reported to be $37,500. Martin J. McNally is lessor. This will be the lessee's third shop on the south side. James E. Loye was broker.

Ritter's Brunswick shops have leased a store at 1719 West Chicago avenue for five years at a reported $4,800 annually. Baskind Bros. and David O. Jordan were brokers.

The Katz Exclusive Millinery company has leased a store in the building at the southwest corner of Sheridan road and Leland avenue from Wise Shoes, Inc., for a term of years, through Cerf & Ehrenhalt.

The Charles Drug company has leased the southeast corner of West 86th street and South Ashland avenue, through McKey & Poague's West Highland office. The same firm reports having leased the store at 7920 South Ashland avenue, in the Lauerman building, to the Economy Radio Stores, Inc.

The entire fifth floor of the Stebbins building, at 62 East Lake street, has been leased to the Chicago Hat Manufacturing and Bleaching company for five years at a reported term rental of $22,500. Gordon Strong & Co. are agents of the building. Alfred Cahn represented the lessee.

PLAN HOSPITAL AT FRANKLIN-SAWYER CORNER

The Franklin Boulevard Hospital and Training School for Nurses has purchased from Lydia and Spencer R. Griffith the old residence at the northeast corner of Franklin boulevard and Sawyer avenue which it has been using as a nurses' home. The Franklin Boulevard hospital now proposes to raze this structure and replace it with a modern home. Plans will be formulated upon the return shortly of Dr. John H. Evans, president of the hospital, from a trip to Europe. Arthur A. Maina is attorney for the hospital association.

BUYERS OF FLATS IN NEW "CO-OP" ON NORTH STATE

Sudler & Co. and L. T. Kelly, Inc., organizers of the cooperative apartment building announced sometime ago in this department for 1530 North State street, advises that the following have purchased flats in their enterprise; James M. Hopkins, Charles Garfield King, Lawrence Viles, Stanley Rickcords, W. Edwin Stanley, Paul Gardner, Harold Foreman, Albert Wedelstaedt and Mrs. Catherine Benello. Granger & Bollenbacher designed the structure and the Ralph Sollitt & Sons Construction company has the general contract.

MORTUARY FIRM PLANS $250,000 EDIFICE ON 111TH

Building to Rise Just East of Western Avenue.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a combination undertaking establishment and apartment building at 2322-24 West 111th street—just west of Western avenue—which, it is estimated, will represent an investment of $250,000 in building and land.

The improvement is being carried out by A. J. Bourne & Son, morticians or undertakers, as you prefer, who for years have had an establishment at 63d and Troy streets. They will operate the 111th street place in connection with their old establishment.

Z. Erol Smith designed the building, which will be of English architecture. The first floor will be given over to a chapel accommodating 400 people, four rest rooms, a large reception room, offices, and the working rooms. The decorative scheme of the chapel and reception room will be old English.

The upper two floors of the two story building will be divided into fifteen apartments ranging in size from two to six rooms. The lot, 50x170 feet, was purchased through Wilson C. Groebe & Co. Financing is through a bond issue of $125,000 underwritten by the Chicago Lawn bank. Wilson MacAskill has the general contract.

This development is said to be the first of a series of projects for the territory immediately adjacent to 111th street and Western avenue planned by various interests associated with John Bain, prominent southside banker.

EDISON ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO. BUYS ON TAYLOR

The Edison Electric Appliance company, a subsidiary of the General Electric company, has completed the purchase of the property at the northwest corner of South Central avenue and West Taylor street from the Chicago Trust company, trustee for W. B. Templeton and J. W. Page. The property fronts 309 feet on Taylor and 78 feet on Central and is improved with a two story building erected five years ago, occupied by the buyer under lease. This purchase gives the Appliance company approximately twenty-five acres in the vicinity. Ednyfed H. Williams acted for the buyer and Rupert Barry of Barry & Crowley was attorney for the sellers.

NEW LOOP MART ENLARGES SCOPE TO DISPLAY FOOD

The scope of the Chicago Loop Merchandise Mart, located in the new L shaped building erected around the southwest corner of State and Washington streets, has been enlarged to include a food products mart, according to Swigart & Co., managing directors. Displays of food concerns will be found in booths. The mart displays various products of manufacturers and food companies for wholesale buyers.

Carleton Plaza Hotel Is Sold by Miles A. Feurst

The Lake View State bank has taken title as trustee for an undisclosed buyer to the Carleton Plaza hotel, a seven story structure, at 616 Gary place. Miles A. Feurst was the seller. It contains sixty-two furnished apartments. The reported price was $350,000, subject to a first mortgage of $250,000. The seller took in part payment the fifteen flats at the southwest corner of Gidding and Virginia. John J. Ready Jr. was broker.

George W. Prassas to Build Two Stores at 1531 Devon

George W. Prassas has purchased 50x112 feet at 1531-33 Devon avenue, east of Clark, from Leo H. Weisfeld for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Prassas will erect a one story building to contain two shops for lease to chain organizations. Jens J. Jensen is architect.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

HOUSE 50 YEARS OLD, UGLY MADE CHARMING ABODE

Modernizing Gives Home New Lease on Life.

(Next week will appear an article on "Heating the Home with Gas.")

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

Can you realize the imagination it takes—and the courage—to recall the lost beauty of a house more than half a century old and restore not only its submerged individuality and charm but equip it with all the improvements of an ultra modern age?

LOUISE BARGELT. [Bachrach Photo.]

Yet this is what Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. D. Bradley dared to do when, for reasons of sentiment, they wished to spend part of the year in De Kalb, Ill., and purchased this frame dwelling, sturdily constructed after the manner of its time, but obsolete and unprepossessing in appearance.

Benjamin Franklin Olson, architect, 19 South La Salle street, Chicago, was given the task of recalling its former individuality and usefulness, and he undertook the work with enthusiasm and interest.

House Is Transformed.

Amid the sentimental values and natural beauty of the locality, Mr. Olson enlarged, modernized, and virtually transformed the home.

All gingerbread detail was stripped from the exterior and the side walls covered with wide, white shingles laid 10 inches to the weather. The roof was covered with rough texture asbestos shingles in varying shades, and the chimneys painted white with black tops.

The front entrance with its quaint benches on either side of the door, suggests the warmth and friendliness of the interior. Green shutters and flower boxes at the windows complete the color scheme of a charming home and give to the community an attractive dwelling where for more than one-half a century stood one that added nothing in beauty to the neighborhood.

In the process of planning, the house was enlarged by the addition of a wing containing the dining room, study, master bedroom and bath and the two car garage. Two small rooms on the first floor were combined, making one good sized living room; the old dining room was converted into a modern kitchen using electricity for cooking and kitchen appliances.

In Early American Manner.

A simply detailed colonial stairway in white and mahogany leads from the reception hall to the second story, where there are four bedrooms and three tile wainscoted bathrooms, in addition to Mr. Bradley's study.

The doors, trim, mantel, hardware, lighting fixtures and bedroom wall papers were kept in strict conformity with the early American period; all of which, with the judicious treatment of drapery fabrics and furnishings selected by Mrs. Bradley and M. Edith Bennett, interior decorator of Chicago, lends an atmosphere that makes a house a home.

The house is heated by warmed air, using an oil burner; the system being amplified by the use of an air conditioning cabinet that supplies moisture to the air in winter and filters the air that recirculates through the rooms continually. This cabinet permits the washing and cooling of the air drawn from the outside in summer.

The problem of the oil supply tank was solved by placing it on end above grade at the rear corner of the property and enclosing it with a covering of shingles to match the house, with a conical roof giving the appearance of a dove cote and wren house. Placing the oil tank above grade obviates the necessity of an electrically operated pressure pump to supply the oil to the oil burner.

RESIDENCE RESTORED TO LIFE

One sees here a house "recalled," its gingerbread details stripped from the exterior, and the side walls covered with wide white shingles. The chimneys are painted white with black tops, the roof has been covered with asbestos shingles. Enlarged to include several new rooms and two car garage, the interior decorations have been kept in comformity with the early American period. The furnace is oil fueled and moisture given to the air in winter by air conditioning cabinet.

USEFULNESS APPARENTLY OUTLIVED

For over fifty years this house had stood, of sturdy construction after the manner of its time, but with individuality submerged and general appearance unprepossessing to the point of ugliness. For reasons of sentiment Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. D. Bradley chose to spend a part of the year in DeKalb and purchased this house. Benjamin Franklin Olson, architect, 19 South La Salle, Chicago, was given the task of reclaiming the dwelling, giving to it quiet beauty and all modern improvements.

WINTER AHEAD, SO MAKE HOUSE WEATHER TIGHT

Next month we can count on a surprise storm or two. How about your weather stripping? If the rubber is old and dried it should be replaced with new. You can get weather stripping of many kinds ready to tack to the base of doors. You can use a lighter strip around the windows. All this helps in saving fuel and adding to interior comfort.

This is the time to paint your storm doors—if you use them. Oil the hinges and locks. Weather stripping at top and bottom will help.

As for your screens—this is the month when you will take them off. Clean them before putting them away by brushing off dust and wiping them with kerosine on both sides. This kerosine will not only clean but reduce the rust—if they are not of the nonrusting sort. Then if you want to be sure that the frames will not warp during the winter, stand them up straight and cover the whole group of them with old carpet or heavy paper.

Awnings need to be brushed and cleaned before they are put away. A good washing will help, but see that they are perfectly dry before they are rolled. Rust and corrosion may be prevented by putting a drop of oil on the hinges or rollers.

Hearth Minus Equipment Loses Much of Interest

These are the days when the fireplace achieves especial importance in the home. But in considering possibilities for its beauty and comfort these months ahead we should not forget its equipment—for without it the hearth would lose much of its interest.

WHY NOT INSTALL SHOE CABINET AS AN AID TO ORDER?

The season of muddy feet approaches. And after that months of rain and sleet covered shoes. A modern extra in the form of a shoe cabinet, built into the wall or attached to the wall of a bathroom or a kitchen or a hallway, furnishes a time saving and clean accessory. This cabinet when open contains the necessary paraphernalia for shining shoes and also a firm substantial foot rest just the proper height from the floor. When it is no longer needed it can be folded back out of the way.

COLORFUL ROOFS MAY BE HAD IN MANY MATERIALS

Delightful Effects Are Easy to Secure.

BY HOMER GRANT.

A variety of colors is obtainable in practically all modern roofings; indeed one's choice of color in roofing materials, as in many materials which go into the building and equipping of the home, is nearly as broad as the spectrum.

One manufacturer of composition asphalt shingles announces the introduction of new and interesting colors and combinations of colors in their roofing product.

These asphalt singles are being manufactured at the present time in two types—the 12x32 inch three-tab strip, and the 12x16 inch individual, giant size.

By the mixing of various softly colored slates a soft velvety surfacing results in combinations which, it is said, can harmonize with any exterior decorative scheme. In solid colors there is also a wide range possible, including delft blue, chocolate brown, jade green, golden brown, and so on.

Simple to Apply.

There is another feature to these asphalt shingles which contributes to their economical application. This is that the 3 tab strip shingle is surfaced with the essential colors of the combination or blend, thus eliminating the necessity of sorting the shingles on the roof to achieve the proper coloring.

Briefly, each tab is colored differently. For instance, in the combination called the blue-green tone, one tab is surfaced in delft blue, the other jade green, and the third tab is surfaced with the mixture of harmonizing slates. The giant size types are handled with equal ease, each shingle having two colors, and the color combination is obtained by merely reversing the shingle.

Clay tiles formerly ranging through the yellows, oranges, reds, rich greens and browns, now have added shades in mottled tones and many shades of green and gray, black and Burgundy.

Have Natural Colors.

Slate roofs derive their colors from natural sources, with various soft tones, gray and green and dull red, but mottled effects are also secured from slate beds which produce a combination of colors.

Asbestos shingle roofs are manufactured in shades that closely resemble burned clay tile and quarried slate and in other tones as well.

As for wood shingles, every one knows how colorful they can be, not only in weathered effects but in many different stained shades.

Times have changed from the days of past centuries when materials were not transported very far and whole towns had roofs similar in character and color from the local roofing sources.

ENGINEER UNION TROUBLES ARE SMOOTHED OVER

Builders See Action as Step Toward Peace.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Two important developments involving Chicago engineers occurred last week. Peace was declared between the Chicago local of the hoisting engineers and its international organization, which is ruled by Artie Huddell, the president. Chicago building contractors hail the peace treaty as a step toward unified tranquillity in the local construction as well as the national construction industry.

EDWARD F. MOORE.

"Builders throughout the country had no direct interest in the battle between the Chicago engineers and Mr. Huddell," said Edward M. Craig, the executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago.

"But their interests were being drawn into the picture through circumstances over which they had no control. Hiring of one set of engineers incurred the displeasure of the international union of engineers, and many builders operating on a national basis experienced trouble on this account."

A Dual Union.

Development No. 2 embodies an announcement in the Searchlight that plans are being perfected in Chicago for establishment of a new dual international union of engineers. This announcement says the membership of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers is composed of twenty-five per cent hoisting and portable and seventy-five per cent stationary engineers.

It points out the conditions and wages of the hoisting and portable engineers are protected through affiliation with building trades, while the stationary men enjoy no such protection. The pronouncement also declares the funds of the international are used for the welfare of the hoisters, the portable and shovel engineers, while the stationary men are left adrift of any financial assistance.

It is proposed to have one international union of hoisting, portable, and shovel engineers and one of regular stationary men.

Makes One Man Union.

Artie Huddell's dictum to abolish elective offices in all unions of engineers throughout the country brought to a climax the controversy between the Chicago hoisting engineers and the international. Artie demanded the privilege of ousting all duly elected officers and, it is said, replacing them with his own lieutenants. This, as Julius Brodsky says, tended to make the organization a one man union.

Credit is given to Patriek Sullivan, head of the Building Trades council, for ironing out the differences between the hoisters and Artie Huddell. A few of the outstanding features of the peace treaty are:

Edward F. Moore, for years one of the stalwarts for the engineers, resigns the presidency of local No. 569 and becomes a private in the ranks. Local No. 569 fades from the picture and becomes identified with No. 150, the organization established by Huddell after No. 569 refused to accept his ukase.

Maloney Assumes Control.

William E. Maloney assumes control over the new local, and some provision is made to find employment for the shovel men that remained in the fold of the new local No. 150.

Huddell said he desired his union delegates to be called supervisors instead of business agents. Supervisors appointed by him remain in office as long as he does.

Who made your faucets

A question of vital importance to every building owner

WHEN you have faucet trouble, to whom do you turn for service? When ordering repair parts or repair service, can you tell your plumber whose faucets you have?

Many people think that a faucet is just a faucet, but when it comes to obtaining the proper parts they soon discover that each faucet has its own peculiarities. Oft-times people are put to a great deal of bother and unnecessary expense because neither they nor anyone else knows who made their faucets or where the necessary repair parts are obtainable.

How a faucet looks is not important. The owner is faced with the vital question, "Where can I go for adequate and prompt service?"

These difficulties are never experienced by users of Chicago Faucets. They are made, sold and serviced right in Chicago. Every good plumbing shop—hundreds of them in Chicago and vicinity—sell genuine Chicago Faucets and repair parts. Look for this sales and service sign.

Sales & Service
CHICAGO FAUCETS
They last as long as the Building

Even Chicago Faucets do wear insofar as two small parts are concerned—the seat and washer—never the faucet itself. Either are replaceable at the cost of a few cents and can be changed as easily as renewing a light bulb.

Should you have trouble in getting Chicago Faucets or repair parts, phone our factory, Belmont 0301 for the name of the nearest plumber who can serve you.

A Monel metal seat and a hard rubber washer are the only two parts that ever need replacing in a Chicago Faucet. There is no wear on the body of the faucet—it lasts as long as the building.

A New Faucet for Modern Sinks

This beautiful combination sink fixture was designed especially to harmonize with the new modern 8-inch sinks. It's the lowest, neatest, most compact model ever made—only 3¼" high, and looks equally well on old-style sinks, too. Ask your plumber—consult your architect.

UNTANGLING OF TRANSIT MAZE TO AID REALTY

Nixon Tells of Gains Due to Elevated.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With Chicago's transportation problem once more in a position where a well directed hit might bring it home after the many years it has verged on a settlement, some recent remarks of George F. Nixon, president of George F. Nixon & Co. and former head of the Chicago Real Estate board, may be timely.

Mr. Nixon holds that if Chicago and its suburbs are given adequate transportation real estate values in the Chicago district will be enhanced by $1,333,000,000. George C. Olcott, publisher of Olcott's Land Values Blue Book of Chicago, in his 1928 estimate gave the city a real estate valuation of $3,538,750,000. Mr. Nixon's figure approximates that of Oscar Hewitt in his able story in this department last May on the subject of real estate and transportation.

So if the estimates are accurate one can get some idea of what real transportation, with subway and elevated trains, street cars and buses all working to their best advantage, would mean to owners of Chicago realty.

Elevated Boosts Values.

Incidentally, our lack of satisfactory transportation brought forth this remark in the new edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica in the chapter on this city: "Chicago's conspicuous failure as a city has been in the lack of providing adequate transit facilities."

But to return to Mr. Nixon:

"Prior to the extension of the elevated road to Howard street land in the region affected was worth $20 to $40 a foot, while today the same property is priced at $1,000 to $2,000 a foot. In the territory bounded by Montrose, Western, Foster and Central avenues the full taxable value was $1,975,400 before the opening of the Ravenswood branch of the elevated in May, 1907, whereas in 1928 it had risen to $27,649,071—a fourteen fold increase in sixteen years.

Realty Owners to Gain.

"To only one major factor can these and most other great gains in real estate values be ascribed. That factor is the improvement in transit facilities. And now that further improvements and extensions are proposed, they will, if carried out as they should be, add about $1,333,000,000 to the present value of Chicago realty. In other words, this sum will be put in the pockets of the people who own Chicago real estate. The program, if properly carried through, will be the biggest thing since the elevated railroad started here in 1892.

Cites Other Benefits.

"There are other phases to the benefits that will accrue from the vast transit expansion program. Aside from the added value to the city's real estate, the money required for carrying out the construction work will circulate in the interest of greater prosperity for the city. A new field for labor employment will be opened up, more homes will be built, more building construction materials sold, and business merchants, manufacturers, and bankers will be vastly stimulated.

"Digressing a moment from the dollars and cents side, the fact is outstanding that Chicago cannot progress toward the goal of supremacy among the cities of the world until relief from present congestion is afforded. The city must constantly expand. It has been spreading, with new sections being populated, until today it has become an absolute necessity that residents in these sections be given more adequate transportation. The age of even comparative isolation is over.

"In Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Boston it has been proved consistently that large population growth follows the development of what we call rapid transit. This fact is now accepted as a fundamental, and of course we know that population growth brings higher real estate values. The beauty of it all is that the three factors—rapid transit, population growth, and real estate's increased valuation—are all interlocked.

Rapid Transit to Rescue.

"Each benefits the other and in turn is benefited by the other. In the past, the factor known as rapid transit has done the pioneering. Today, in addition to the call for pioneering in new sections, rapid transit must meet the demands for better service through extensions in the sections now built up.

"To show specifically what subway construction—the only way out—has done for New York, George McAneny, chairman of the transit commission, declared as far back as 1923 that two-thirds of the three billion dollars increased real estate valuation on the tax assessors' books was 'directly attributable to the subway construction under these contracts.'

"In Chicago's case it is estimated that every dollar spent in the street by the transportation company will produce about $3.75 added value to the land within easy access to the transit line."

CHICAGO HOME OF OHIO TIRE CONCERN

L. G. Hallberg & Co. designed the above building, which is being erected on the south side of East 25th street, just east of South Park way, by Newton C. Farr and associates, for lease to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron. This structure will house the Chicago activities of the concern. Lawrence Monberg drew this picture.

TO GROW MUSCLE FOR NORTH SHORE FOLK

Picture of the new home for the North Shore School of Physical Development to be erected at the southwest corner of Central street and Eastwood avenue, Evanston. Henry J. Szymanski, a West Point man, is head of the school. The school will be a block from Dyche stadium and will cost about $250,000, it is stated. Meyer S. Sturm is architect.

FORGING CONCERN ACQUIRES PLANT ON NATCHEZ AV.

Gears and Forgings, Inc., have acquired from the Austin company a plant consisting of two units located at 2108-20 North Natchez avenue, a block from the Galewood station of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. The consideration was not disclosed. The two units contain in the neighborhood of 40,000 square feet. The firm recently acquired the interests of the William Ganschow company and also firms engaged in similar lines in other cities. All Chicago interests of the organization will be concentrated on Natchez avenue, the factory at Washington and Morgan being slated for abandonment.

F. J. Petru to Talk Before Real Property Institute

Frank J. Petru, active in building and loan circles, is to address the Real Property Institute of the Cook County Real Estate board, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 8 o'clock, on the subject of "The Success of the Building and Loan Associations of Illinois." The meeting will be held in the board rooms at 100 North La Salle street. At 7 o'clock M. M. Oshe will talk on the "Homestead Exemption Act of Illinois—How the Exemption May Be Waived or Released."

Boston Architect to Be Small House Service Guest

The architects' small house service bureau, Central Division, Inc., is to hold a luncheon at the University club, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at which William Stanley Parker, Boston architect, will be the principal speaker. The luncheon is to be attended by real estate men, architects, builders, mortgage bankers and developers. It is held for the purpose of bringing about a better understanding of the community value of well designed and well built homes.

OLD FIELD WAREHOUSE AT ADAMS AND WELLS TO BE PUT ON MARKET

The noted old wholesale building of Marshall Field & Co., constructed of huge stone blocks and located at Quincy and Wells, is to be put on the market, for sale or rent. This was announced yesterday when the time for moving from the old quarters to the Merchandise Mart — the world's largest building in point of floor area —was placed at about April 1.

In discussing the removal, old timers with the Field organization recalled the early days of the warehouse. William Dieterle, who has completed a half century of service with the firm, says that when the building was being inspected by the late Marshall Field some one scoffed at the idea of such a huge structure ever being entirely utilized by one firm. But Mr. Dieterle lived to see it outgrown.

Mr. Dieterle watched the placing of the massive Missouri granite cap stone, weighing twenty-two tons, over the main entrance of the building, which was designed by H. H. Richardson of Boston. Mr. Richardson was one of the outstanding architects of his day—being particularly noted for his Romanesque designs, of which the old Field building is a fine example.

W. C. Miller, who has been with Marshall Field & Co. for fifty-five years, recalls the site of the old wholesale building as a lot where the boys of the neighborhood played baseball.

Two Apartment Buildings on 90th Street Are Sold

Lester J. Norris reports the sale of the eight flat building at the northeast corner of 90th and Elizabeth streets by Augustine F. McCarthy to Jacques Tchelbian for a reported $60,000, and the six flat building at the northeast corner of 90th and Throop streets, by Stephen and Jay Funsten to Benjamin F. Wright for a reported $50,000.

New Firm to Specialize in Building Location Work

Leland L. Neff has organized the Mortgage Survey corporation to specialize in building location work for bank and mortgage house loans. Offices of the company are located at 127 North Dearborn street. A. W. Hartge, formerly with the Torrens offices, is the chief surveyor for the firm.

New Health School for Evanston Site

Construction of a new home for the North Shore School of Physical Development is scheduled to start at once at the southwest corner of Central street and Eastwood avenue, Evanston —a block from Northwestern university's Dyche stadium.

Designed by Meyer J. Sturm, the structure will resemble slightly the Patten gymnasium and will cost about $250,000. It will occupy a lot approximately 150x150 feet.

The schol specializes in individual physical development work, its enrollment being taken from the district between Rogers Park and Lake Forest. It was organized in November, 1924, at 821 Church street, and in the spring of 1928 it moved to 1854 Sherman street. Its new building is expected to be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Henry I. Szymanski, a graduate of West Point and of Northwestern university, is head of the school. Besides being a coach at Northwestern, Mr. Szymanski was a member of the American Olympic team at Antwerp in 1920 and he has been a physical director at various army camps.

The new building will contain a regulation size swimming pool, hand ball, squash and volley ball courts and other facilities for exercise. The building site was leased for twenty years at a reported term rental of approximately $400,000 from an undisclosed lessor. The O. W. Rosenthal-Cornell company has the general contract. William D. Alcott represented the lessees and W. M. Mitchell acted for the lessor.

SOME MIDDLE WESTERN CITIES GAIN IN BUILDING

Despite losses generally throughout the country, many middle western cities indicate substantial gains, an indication, according to S. W. Straus & Co., of the soundness of business conditions in this central territory.

Among these middle western cities showing gains were the following: Kenosha, Wis., 154 per cent; Gary, Ind., 126 per cent; Dearborn, Mich., 124 per cent; St. Paul, 74 per cent; Wichita, 60 per cent; Cincinnati, 59 per cent; Flint, Mich., 28 per cent; Kansas City, 27 per cent; Cleveland, 3 per cent; Columbus, 3 per cent, and Dayton, 3 per cent.

According to the building survey department of S. W. Straus & Co., the twelve middle western states last month did a volume of $71,740,474 in building construction, according to permits issued. This figure represents 93 per cent of the entire volume in the United States as reported for last month.

Sells Stores and Flats at Birchwood and Ashland

The store and apartment building at the southeast corner of Birchwood and Ashland avenues, lot 50x150 feet, has been purchased by Robert L. Schutter for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $74,200. James J. Fairweather was seller.

NILES CENTER APARTMENT

One of a group of ten three flat buildings for which the Metropolitan District Realty Trust is now breaking ground in the Elm-Lee street district of Niles Center. The apartments, located a block north of Main street and a block west of Cicero avenue, will be of five and six rooms. This unit is the second of a group of ten three flat buildings erected by the realty trust this year. The first ten have been sold and rented. C. W. Lampe & Co. are architects. Lawrence Monberg drew this picture.

FRANK C. WELLS GIVEN NEW POST BY S. W. STRAUS

Frank C. Wells, real estate specialist for S. W. Straus & Co., has been appointed head of the property service department of the company, replacing Laurence Greenebaum. Mr. Greenebaum recently resigned from the Straus organization to become treasurer of Mandel Brothers. Prior to joining the Straus company two years ago, Mr. Well was a member of the real estate firm of Lindheimer & Wells. He was for three years editor of the Chicago Realtor. He was born in Chicago and was educated at the University of Chicago and Chicago Law school.

Edgar N. Greenebaum Will Address Future Realtors

"How Real Estate Transactions Are Financed" will be the subject of a talk to be given Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, by Edgar N. Greenebaum of Greenebaum Sons Investment company before the Chicago Real Estate Board's class in real estate education. The course is given in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. Louis A. Dumont will address the class in land economics Thursday evening, Oct. 24, on "Chicago—the City of Destiny."

Brokers' Notes

The Frank De Lugach Real Estate company recently opened a branch office on Columbus highway, commonly known as Columbus avenue, at the corner of Kolmar.

E. J. Perlberg has moved his offices from 134 North La Salle street to Suite 1030, 29 South La Salle street.

The Herbert E. Graves Real Estate Improvement corporation announces the appointment of J. Lebrecht as secretary and treasurer. Mr. Lebrecht has been with the International Harvester company for the last quarter of a century. He will direct an organization in the sale of a new tract development at Gary.

Howard J. Hager, who has been with Baird & Warner for several years in the renting and sales field in Rogers Park, has been elected a vice president of that organization, in charge of the Rogers Park office.

William G. Crimp announces that he has opened his own office at 140 South Dearborn street where he will deal in business and industrial properties. He formerly was with the H. H. Harper & Co. Mr. Crimp's phone is Central 8022.

Arthur D. Kallas, formerly with the real estate firm of Robert L. Gear & Co., is now in business for himself, operating from his home at 6540 Minerva avenue.

Robert E. Humphrey, formerly with Humphrey & Grubb, has become associated with the Lake Park Securities company as manager of the firm's real estate department.

ERECT $600,000 STRUCTURE ON NEAR SOUTH SIDE

To Be Leased for 15 Yrs. to Tire Company.

A $600,000 building development is announced by Newton C. Farr and associates for the near south side in a four story and tower structure to be erected on the south side of East 25th street, just east of South Park way.

The building will be leased for fifteen years to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company to house the Ohio concern's Chicago activities. The lease calls for a reported term rental of $594,000.

L. G. Hallberg & Co. designed the structure, which will be of reinforced concrete construction. The walls likewise will be of concrete, with ornamentation of cut stone. Foundations are being installed for an additional two stories if more space is required.

All water tanks and other roof paraphernalia will be concealed in the tower. The building is to be heated by fuel oil. There will be 104,000 square feet of floor area. The interior is to be finished under the direction of the tire company, and the offices are to be unusually elaborate. The reported investment of $600,000 includes the land.

The Henry B. Ryan company has the general contract. Completion is scheduled for Jan. 1. Brokers in the transaction were N. Ray Miller of Chandler & Montague and W. R. Samuels of the Central Manufacturing District bank. Vent & Warfield represented the lessors.

Jacques Lease Space in Building on East Ohio

Jacques, importers and designers of women's clothes at 545 North Michigan avenue, have found it necessary to lease space in the Seymour building at 149-55 East Ohio street as a result of overcrowding in their newly completed him on the Boul Mich. T. Emmett Polk of Earle A. Shilton's office consummated the lease.

ERIN ROLLS ITS SLEEVES; FIGHTS TO GET AHEAD

Digs In to Correct 700 Years of Evil.

This is the first of a series of articles on the Irish Free State by James O'Donnell Bennett, who recently returned from a visit of several weeks in the new Ireland.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—To be for two months a close observation of the work and ways of young men who are building a new state is a great experience.

Once I spent two and a half years in observation of the work and ways of men who were engaged in the systematic destruction called war. That was thrilling tragedy. The present experience has been sober instruction. The inhabitants of the Irish Free State have now had six years of peace for their work of state building. The principal lesson they have learned is that not everything that needs to be done to correct evils, growing out of seven centuries of foreign misrule and native unrest, can be done in six years. The three principal boons vouchsafed by the six years of self-discipline are the prizing of order, the requirement of a considerable degree of patience, and some development of initiative.

National Taxation Lower.

The administration of the country has been economical. National taxation has decreased but in many places local rates have increased, although in Dublin and nearby towns they have decreased. The decrease evokes grudging praise and the increase much groaning. When I told a shrewd administrator in the city of Galway about the abundant groaning that had been poured into my ears, he said:

"Clean streets and enlarged social services cost money. The people are paying higher local rates, but they are getting more service and they know it. Here, as everywhere, social legislation is increasing, and social legislation costs money."

National politics has not been disgraced by scandal or jobbery under the new régime.

"Politics in this country has no plums in it," said Desmond Fitzgerald, Free State minister for defense.

Cosgrave, the hard worked chief of state, whose title is president of the executive council, receives a salary of $12,500 a year and is exempted from the payment of income tax on a very small part of his salary. No executive mansion and no entertainment fund are provided for him. In the United States a man of his conspicuous sense, ability and prestige would be paid ten times as much by some great corporation.

Only One Minister Non-Catholic.

The eight ministers of state, appointed by him, receive $8,500 a year each and are exempted from income tax. [Supertax is levied only on incomes above $10,000.] I hear all of the ministers spoken of by the people as men of signal ability. Five out of the eight are men of university training. All save one, Mr. Blythe, minister for finance, are Roman Catholics. He is a Presbyterian.

Their offices are simple to the point of meagerness and they live on the scale of a well to do Irish business man: nothing luxurious. A servant, newly come into the household of one of the ministers, asked one of the old servants:

"Who valets the master?"

"O, drop your codology," replied the veteran. "He valets himself."

"Codology," I may add, is an Irish coinage, meaning pompous foolishness or foolish pomposity.

Mrs. O'Sullivan, wife of the minister of education, asked me what was my outstanding impression of the builders of the new state.

Builders Are Unassuming.

"First of all," said I, "the impression of their unassumingness."

"Yes," said she, "I don't see any of them swanking about."

"Though none of our ministers," said a journalist, "were born to the purple, they have done the state credit on ceremonial occasions. They have been able to mount the tall hat and bring it off." ("Bring it off," I learned, is the equivalent of our "get away with it.")

In every phase of their work these men face enormous difficulties. For example, seventy-five per cent of the producing capital of the Irish Free State is in the hands of a Protestant minority, who do not number more than ten per cent of the population of the country, while seventy-five per

WOMAN MOURNS HUSBAND AND SON, VICTIMS OF RUM

Bootleg booze of the prohibition vintage which crazed its victims yesterday had robbed Mrs. Thomas Fearon, 5504 Dorchester avenue, of a member of her family for the second time in five months.

"This liquor, first my son—and now my husband," she sobbed as she told a coroner's jury how booze had claimed the life of Jerome Boyd, her 12 year old son by a former marriage, last May, and how it led her husband, a 55 year old steamfitter, to commit suicide on Friday night.

Jerome was one of three boys who were struck and killed by an automobile driven by a booze crazed driver. Her husband ended his life by hanging himself in a cell at the Hyde Park police station after he had been arrested for drunkenness and threatening his wife. He hanged himself from the bars of the same cell which held the slayers of his stepson five months ago.

"He never drank much, only once in a while," Mrs. Fearon testified, "and then he went crazy. My son and now my husband."

The coroner's jury decided that Fearon committed suicide while temporarily insane from the effects of bootleg booze.

Loop Parking Ban Invalid, Court Rules

For two years aldermen and other city officials considered the advisability of not permitting the parking of automobiles in the loop and after a series of hearings and debates a test was made and then an ordinance was passed which has been in effect for nearly two years, but yesterday the Supreme court said the law was invalid. The highest authority in the state said the city council had used more than a reasonable exercise of power in ordering the restriction on parking.

The decision was a victory for downtown business interests which had opposed the law. It was a defeat for the rest of the city as represented by aldermen who voted 37 to 4 to keep the downtown streets wide open for traffic.

City to Ask Rehearing.

First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen said undoubtedly the city would ask the Supreme court for a rehearing on the issue. But on the problem of whether loop parking will be illegal or legal tomorrow, and what the police will do about it, he hesitated to say. A conference will be called tomorrow morning to decide these points, Breen said.

Ordinarily a Supreme court decision is not binding until a motion for a rehearing has been denied, but as the ordinance has a penal clause its status in the interim is doubtful, Mr. Breen declared. The police may still have the power to prevent motorists from leaving their cars alongside the curb in the heart of the downtown district, but whether the courts would punish disobedience of the police order is another matter, he explained.

Claim 25 Per Cent Trade Loss.

The ordinance became effective Jan. 10, 1928, after a year of investigation by the Association of Commerce and the expenditure of $50,000 in making checks and tests. Within two weeks spokesmen for 250 business men were before Bowler's committee demanding its repeal and claiming they had lost trade amounting to from 5 to 25 per cent.

Ald. John Coughlin [1st] had opposed the ordinance from the first moment of its proposal. An attempt to obtain an injunction against enforcement of the ordinance failed when Judge Oscar Hebel held the law to be valid. Arthur Haggenjos, 17 North La Salle street, secretary to Ald. Coughlin, then had himself arrested for violating the law and he appealed to the Supreme court after he was fined $5.

The Supreme court said the city council has the right to prescribe regulations to relieve congestion and provide for freer movement of traffic, but that in this instance the ordinance is unreasonable.

The ordinance prohibited parking in the loop between 7 a. m. and 6:30 p. m., except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. On Saturadys the closed hours were from 2 to 3 o'clock.

SELLING AVALANCHE CAUSES BIG LOSSES ON STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special]—Reactionary forces took control of the New York stock market today and with a devastating sweep reduced the value of listed securities to the lowest levels reached on the current decline. In the two hours of trading active issues passed through one of the widest breaks in history. Final quotations revealed net losses ranging from 5 to 20 points and the aggregate depreciation in open market values was estimated at $1,000,000,000 or more. A loss of $357,119,407 was revealed in the stocks of 10 leading corporations alone.

Stocks of all groups were driven down under the avalanche of selling, but it was the high priced issues—the pivotal stocks—that caught the full impact of the movement. The "bear party", the largest and most impressive that Wall street has known in recent years, rode roughshod over the bull faction.

OGLESBY AND MRS. CARROLL WED TOMORROW

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The marriage of John Oglesby, 52, former lieutenant governor of Illinois, and Mrs. Augusta Carroll, Springfield social leader, is to take place Monday at Peoria, it was announced tonight.

The ceremony will be at the home of Mrs. Henry M. Pindell, sister of Mrs. Carroll. Only immediate relatives will attend.

Mr. Oglesby is son of the late Gov. Richard Oglesby.

Mrs. Carroll is the widow of Charles B. V. Carrol of Springfield.

Fires at French Deputy for Voting to Quit Rhine

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Ernest Grapin fired a shot at Paul Dumaine, deputy of the department of the Haute Marne, tonight. M. Grapin, when arrested, told the police he is opposed to the evacuation of the Rhineland and Premier Briand's foreign policies and he attempted to kill the deputy who had voted for it, as a protest.

TEARS DIM EYES AS EDISON SEES OLD WORKSHOP

He Finds Worn Tools in Their Places.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison today revisited the scenes of his first labors and triumphs. The eighty-two year old inventor inspected the workshop where 50 years ago he evolved the first incandescent light.

Tears showed in Edison's eyes as he went slowly about the workshop in which he labored in 1879. Everything—benches, stools, and tools—was in the same ordered disorder that they were in in 1879 when Edison labored that there might be lights in the homes and factories of the world. A look of reminiscence came into his deep eyes as he fondly picked up, one after the other, the old tools.

At Old Boarding House.

Later he visited Mrs. Jordan's boarding house, where he lived those fifty years ago, and which was the first house ever lighted by electricity.

Everything was just as it was a half century ago—all but the location. Fifty years ago the workshop and boarding house were in Menlo Park, N. J.; now they are in Dearborn, Mich. They were moved and rebuilt by Henry Ford, Edison's close friend.

On Monday there will be the real anniversary. The President of the United States, Herbert Hoover, will make the principal address. He, with Mrs. Hoover, and a number of American and foreign notables, will arrive Monday morning.

Rides on Ford's Car.

Mr. Edison arrived here this morning from East Orange aboard Mr. Ford's private railway coach "Fairline."

When Edison arrived this morning in Ford's private car from his East Orange home he disembarked at Smith's Creek depot. This was the place where Edison was thrown off the train by an angered conductor in pre-civil war days, when Edison was a "news butcher" on the mixed train running between Detroit and Port Huron.

The conductor gave the boy Edison the air when some of his chemicals, with which he was making experiments in spare moments, exploded and set a box car on fire.

There were eight in the Edison party, including Mrs. Edison, their son, Charles, and his wife. Mr. Ford greeted them, and a moment later Mrs. Ford appeared.

Thereafter, the inventor and the manufacturer strolled about the village, which still is in process of construction.

Inventor Is Touched.

As Mr. Edison entered his one time headquarters, reminiscent of the struggles and associations of another century, and which William Jehl, one of his first assistants, had put in its original order, his lips trembled as he turned to Mr. Ford and thanked him.

"It is almost unbelievably faithful," he said.

In the laboratory all was so restored that Edison sometimes carried himself back over the fifty years that are gone.

He spoke of an old carpenter friend in Menlo Park.

"Yes, he lived over there," he commented, pointing from a window.

As he looked over Ford's Institute of Technology, constructed and named in his honor, he picked up one of the mercury vacuum pumps.

"There's something I've been look-

Two hundred and fifty aliens, who abused the privileges of freedom which America offered to them, left Chicago last night in four coaches on the Nickel Plate railroad, under a heavy armed guard, on their way to Ellis island and thence to their native lands. Among the 250 deportees were 45 from Chicago, including Giuseppi Accardi, Genna gangster known as "Il Spia" [the spy].

The Chicago deportees filled two coaches, while the other two coaches came in from the west, bringing undesirable aliens from St. Louis, Kansas City and other cities as far west as Seattle where the deportation special started. They were joined here by fifteen men from Iowa and Wisconsin.

Chicagoans in Group.

Many of the Chicago group had been under arrest and in jail awaiting the deportation train and were taken to the La Salle street station by officers of the immigration service here. According to immigration officials, most of the others had been at liberty under bond to appear at the train, while a few had been at liberty on their own recognizance. According to officials at the station, all of the men who were not in custody at the time appeared in time to board the train, which left at 11:20 p. m.

The windows of the four coaches were heavily barred and guards were stationed on each car. The train was to make several stops between here and Buffalo to pick up a few eastern aliens. Among those who left from Chicago were a number of convicts whose sentences had been commuted to permit the federal government to send them out of the country. Others included insane persons, gunmen and keepers of vice resorts. Two women who came to Chicago after entering the country illegally also were with those deported from here.

Attached to Gennas.

Accardi is one of the first important gangsters to be sent out of Chicago. Sought for almost three years, he was arrested several days ago on a prohibition charge, and turned over to immigration agents. He admitted being in the country illegally, saying he had deserted an Italian ship, on which he was a sailor, when it touched at New York several years ago.

Picked up by police in 1926, Accardi was found to have been a collector for the defense fund of John Scalisi and Albert Anselmi, Genna gunmen then awaiting trial for the murder of two policemen. Both were murdered last spring. Accardi was released on bond pending a hearing, forfeited his bail, and was a fugitive until last week. He will be sent back to Italy.

CHINA ORDERS ITS FREAK DRESSERS FINED OR JAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Oct. 19.—China's reformers have decided that something must be done about the spread of freakish dress among men and women in this country, and have prevailed upon the government at Nanking to make the wearing of "queer dress" a criminal offense, punishable by fines or jail sentences.

The mandate issued by Nanking says all Chinese know what they ought to wear, and it is not necessary to tell them in detail what is improper.

"People with a bent for the novel and queer have gone so far as to adopt strange styles and don curious looking costumes," says the mandate. "Their example has been widely emulated, with the result that the entire nation is crazy over novel clothes. If this state of affairs is allowed to continue, not only will the morale of the people be reduced, but China will become a laughing stock of the world in things sartorial."

RADICALS TAG DEBENTURES ON NEW TARIFF BILL

Revive Farm Fight with Hoover.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—For the third time during the special session, the senate today went counter to President Hoover's wishes on the export debenture farm relief scheme.

By a vote of 42 to 34 the senate adopted an amendment to the tariff bill incorporating the proposition as an optional plan for the use of the federal farm board in dealing with crop surpluses.

The margin in favor of the proposal was greater than last spring when the senate twice went on record for it. On the first occasion, on May 8, the senate by a vote of 44 to 47 rejected a motion to eliminate the debenture provision from the farm relief bill. A few weeks later the senate by a vote of 46 to 43 sent the farm bill back to conference because the conferees had eliminated the senate export debenture provision.

Yields on Showdown.

Finally the senate, by a vote of 74 to 8, accepted the conference report minus the export debenture section, after the house, by a vote of 250 to 113, had instructed its conferees to stand pat against the proposition.

While today's action further complicates the already tangled tariff situation, administration leaders were hopeful tonight of eliminating the debenture provision in conference, as was done in the case of the farm relief bill. President Hoover, it is surmised, would be strongly inclined to veto the tariff bill if the provision is left in.

The opposition to the debenture scheme in the house, however, shows no signs of weakening, and the administration forces are confident of being able to eliminate it before the tariff bill gets to a final vote.

Victory for Radicals.

Today's vote represented another victory for the Democratic-radical coalition. Voting for the amendment were 14 Republicans and 28 Democrats, while against it were 31 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The fourteen Republicans who joined in the Democratic-radical coalition were Senators W. E. Borah and John Thomas [Idaho], S. W. Brookhart [Iowa], Bronson Cutting [N. Mex.], L. J. Frazier and G. P. Nye [N. D.], G. W. Norris and R. B. Howell [Neb.], Hiram Johnson [Cal.], R. M. La Follette [Wis.], Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMaster [S. D.], W. P. Pine [Okla.], and Thomas D. Schall [Minn.]. One additional Republican, Senator John J. Blaine [Wis.] was paired in favor of the amendment.

The three Democrats who voted against the amendment were Senators J. B. Kendrick [Wyo.], Robert F. Wagner [N. Y.], and David I. Walsh [Mass.]. One Democrat, Senator W. H. King [Utah] was paired against it.

Four Senators Switch.

Only four senators have changed their positions on the debenture proposition since the previous votes, the differences otherwise in the totals being accounted for by absentees who were paired on one side or the other.

Senators Cutting and Thomas voted against the debenture before, but switched over to it today. Senator Kendrick, who voted against it today, was paired in favor of it previously, Senator J. E. Ransdell [Dem., La.], who was paired in favor of the amendment today, voted against it before.

Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] were both absent today, but were paired against the amendment.

Administration Republicans knew they were beaten in advance of this vote and made no real fight against the amendment. The three hour debate which preceded the roll call was occupied chiefly by senators favoring the debenture plan. The speakers included Senators Borah, Norris, Brookhart, and others.

Called Aid to Tariff Bill.

The excuse for attaching the debenture provision to the tariff bill was that the scheme is designed to make the tariff effective on farm products. Under its operation revenues derived from customs duties would be diverted for the payment of a bounty on exports of such farm products as might be temporarily made subject to the plan at the discretion of the farm board.

The amendment, which was sponsored by Senator Norris, was substantially the same as was voted for in connection with the farm bill. It provides that the farm board, whenever it finds it available, shall issue through the secretary of the treasury, debentures to any farmer, cooperative association, stabilization corporation or other person exporting the commodity to be benefited. The debenture shall be at the rate of one-half of the tariff duty, except that in the case of cotton, which is on the free list, the rate shall be two cents per pound.

The wheat debenture, for example, would amount to 21 cents per bushel, one-half of the 42 cents duty. The exporter of wheat presumably would obtain 21 cents more than the world market price for his wheat, and the theory is that the price of wheat sold in the domestic market would be forced up to the same level.

The export debentures would be receivable at face value in payment of customs duties on any commodity. The exporter of a farm product could also sell his debentures to an importer, probably at a slight discount.

In order to prevent any undue speculation in the handling of the debentures, the secretary of the treasury would be authorized to provide for the redemption of debentures at a rate of not less than 98 per cent of the face value.

As a means of checking possible overproduction which would follow the use of the export debenture scheme the amendment includes a plan for a gradual reduction in the debenture rate as production of a particular commodity increases.

Cost is Ticklish Point.

Cost of the scheme to the treasury would, of course, depend upon the extent to which its use would be invoked by the farm board. President Hoover in his letter to Senator Charles L. McNary, [Rep., Ore.] last April asserted that it would mean a direct subsidy from the treasury amounting to more than 200 million dollars annually if generally applied.

Other objections advanced against it by the President were that speculators would receive a gigantic gift from the government; that it would stimulate overproduction which eventually would defeat the purpose of the plan; that stimulation of production of certain commodities would nullify the movement toward diversification of farm crops; that it would afford opportunity for manipulation in the export market to the disadvantage of the farmer; that the payment of an export bounty would lead to action by other nations to protect their own agriculturists, and that the plan would require a substantial increase in taxes.

What Proponents Say.

Against the President's objections the radical Republicans and the Democrats have contended that the government should grant a subsidy to agriculture if necessary, inasmuch as the railroads, shipping companies and other industrial groups have had what amounted to subsidies; that the scheme provides a sure way of making the tariff as effective on farm products as it is on industrial commodities, and that the price stabilization plans which the farm board may develop under the new agricultural marketing act may prove to be ineffective.

With action on the debenture amendment the senate virtually completed consideration of the administrative sections of the tariff bill. On Monday the senate is expected to vote on the motion of Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] to recommit the bill to the finance committee with instructions to confine the revision to agricultural commodities. This motion seems certain to be rejected. The senate then will proceed to the consideration of the rate schedules.

Einstein to Phone Speech to U. S. for Edison Jubilee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POTSDAM, Germany, Oct. 19.—Prof. Einstein has promised to emerge from his retirement at Caputh, near Potsdam, in honor of the Edison lights golden jubilee. On Monday night he will telephone a 15 minute speech to America, which will be picked up by all broadcasting stations in Germany.

EDISON LAMP'S JUBILEE BEGINS HERE TOMORROW

Fountain Light Display to Mark Observance.

"Light's Golden Jubilee"—the 50th anniversary of Edison's discovery of the incandescent electric light—will be celebrated tomorrow night and the rest of this week with spectacular display of lights around Buckingham fountain in Grant park.

Messages of congratulation to Edison will be written on the clouds tomorrow night through the medium of a new sky writing gun which will shoot the messages from the ground.

Story of Discovery.

Edison perfected the incandescent light on Oct. 21, 1879, and THE TRIBUNE for Dec. 31, 1879, under the heading "Edison's Carbon Horseshoe Light," says:

"The following correspondence has passed between THE TRIBUNE and the Menlo Park wizard:

"'Tribune Office, Chicago, Dec. 30, 11 a. m.—To Prof. Thomas A. Edison, Menlo Park, N. J.: How long have your first lighted carbon horseshoe electric lamps given continuous light? —Editor, Tribune.'

"'Menlo Park, N. J., Dec. 30, 4 p. m.—To J. Medill, Editor CHICAGO TRIBUNE: One week today, and still burning.—Edison.'"

Discusses New Light.

To this exchange of messages, Mr. Medill added these deductions:

"One week is 168 hours. The time that gas is burned in families, stores, and shops, averaging the seasons, summer, fall, spring and winter, will not exceed four and one-half hours per day. A week's continuous burning is, therefore, rather more than thirty-seven days, or five weeks of ordinary use of gaslight. If the duration of the carbon horseshoe burned did not exceed 168 hours it would still be the light of the future and substitute gas to an enormous extent, as a new burner could well be put in once every five or six weeks, but the chances now are that it will last much longer. Perhaps it will burn continuously for months."

The principal celebration of Edison's discovery will take place tomorow evening in Dearborn, Mich., a suburb of Detroit, where Edison will reenact his construction of the first light before a group of distinguished men, including President Hoover, at a party given by Henry Ford. Edison is past 82.

DOCTOR FREED OF WOMAN'S CHARGE.

Dr. Joseph A. Khamis, 100 West Chicago avenue, was discharged yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in the Felony court when the complaining witness failed to appear to press an abortion charge. Mrs. Margaret Rose, 616 Gary place, had charged that the operation was performed on July 26.

Gun to Write Edison Greetings on Sky Tomorrow

New sky writing gun developed in testing laboratories of Commonwealth Edison company, which will be used tomorrow night to flash greeting on the sky in connection with the Edison celebration. If there are no clouds the operators make them with smoke bombs. Carl Zersen (left) and Walter A. Meares are handling the gun, which uses metal slides and projects letters fifty feet high 1,000 feet away by means of a 3,000,000 candle power searchlight reflector.

ing for," he said. "I had it 50 years ago, but since then had forgotten it entirely and have been looking for it recently to use in my work. Here it is, and so I say I'm your first pupil in the Edison Institute of Technology."

Shortly after noon, Mr. Edison retired to the Ford residence. He said he was tired and expected to rest the remainder of the day and Sunday, in preparation for the arduous schedule Monday.

The public and most parochial schools of Detroit and suburban cities will close to permit the children to see the procession in which the President will be the central figure. The procession will wind to the city hall from Dearborn. Courts and city offices will be closed.

HOOVER STARTS TODAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover will leave Washington late tomorrow for his first trip to the central and Mississippi valley states since his inauguration last March.

Before Mr. Hoover returns to Washington next Thursday he will have delivered three set speeches, the first in Detroit, the second in Cincinnati, and the third in Louisville, Ky. The itinerary calls for stops in four states, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

The presidential party will include Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of War James W. Good, George Akerson, the President's secretary; naval and military aids, secret service men, and a large group of newspaper men.

Speaker Longworth [Rep., O.], will accompany the party from Cincinnati to Louisville, traveling with the President.

OHIO CANALIZATION IS MARKED BY BOAT TRIPS DOWN STREAM

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—[U. P.]—Guided by the flagship, City of Cincinnati, the 925 mile trip to Cairo, Ill., marking the canalization of the Ohio river, was started today. The Greater Pittsburgh and the Queen City followed, bearing Allegheny county authorities and guests.

On board the Queen City were Mayor Charles H. Kline, the mayors of three Allegheny county cities, burgesses, politicians and other guests. They chose the county boat in preference to the packet chartered by official Pittsburgh.

Only one stop has been scheduled en route to Cincinnati. City officials and river enthusiasts at Huntington, W. Va., will be at the wharf tomorrow to greet the cruising party. A three hour halt will be made there for appropriate ceremonies. The boats were scheduled to arrive in Cincinnati some time Monday.

TALKS FROM HIGH IN AIR TO PHONE MEN BY RADIO

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Talking from an airplane 4,000 feet in the air and 1,300 miles away, Capt. A. R. Brooks today addressed the annual convention of the telephone pioneers of America in Minneapolis.

A combination of radio and land telephone lines, which connected New York, Minneapolis and the airplane into a single circuit, thus added another milestone to the progress of communication. It was the first time and airplane was "bridged" into a connection between two distant points.

The Bell Telephone laboratories radio station at Whippany, N. J., was the link between the plane, which was flying over New Brunswick, N. J., at a speed of 95 miles an hour, and the land telephone lines leading to a listening post in New York and to the convention in Minneapolis. There loud speakers made the aviator's voice audible to the thousand assembled pioneers.

Incidentally, Capt. Brooks notified J. S. McCulloh, president of the New York Telephone company, of his election as president of the pioneers. Mr. McCulloh accepted.

JESSE JAMES WOULD BLUSH!

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A man who said he was a cousin of the notorious Jesse James was the victim of a holdup at a laundry here today. He was tied to a chair with a towel gag for more than an hour.

PRINCESS ALICE SCORES VICTORY IN HER OWN TOWN

Washington Feud Goes to Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Score one for Princess Alice Roosevelt in her gentle spat with Dolly Gann. This time fate, or the strategic place she holds as a resident of Cincinnati has played into her hands.

When President and Mrs. Hoover came here on Tuesday to dedicate the canalized Ohio river they will pay their respects to Speaker Nicholas Longworth by a visit to his home in Walnut Hills.

Announcement a Surprise.

This announcement was unexpected. It came late this afternoon along with a flock of last minute advices and instructions from Washington relative to arrangements for the President's address Tuesday morning.

The public had been led to believe the President would make as little ceremony about the visit as possible, in view of the crowded program of river activity Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some believed that the chief executive feared to shatter the Longworth-Gann truce by showing an interest in Walnut Hills. But Mrs. Gann does not live here and Mrs. Longworth does. So what's a truce in the face of such heaven sent opportunity.

Mrs. Longworth in Capital.

It appears that this latest strategy was put over by Mrs. Longworth herself, as she still is in Washington, where the announcement was made. Speaker Longworth is in Cincinnati, but Mrs. Longworth is expected here before Tuesday.

Municipal Court Bailiff Victim of Mystery Shot

Joseph Weisbaum, 30 years old, 1236 South Springfield avenue, a Municipal court bailiff, was shot in the right thigh early this morning in the vicinity of Washtenaw avenue and Hirsch street. Police were unable to determine whether he had accidentally shot himself or had been the victim of another's gun. Miss Bertha Falk, 629 Deming place, said that she, Weisbaum, and other friends were in an automobile when they heard shots fired near by. Weisbaum jumped out of the car, she said, and ran in the direction of the shooting. A few moments later the others found him lying on the sidewalk. One shot had been fired from his pistol.

TRY TO PLACE OIL SCANDAL UPON HARDING

Letter President Wrote Quoted at Trial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Evidence in the Fall $100,000 bribery case closed today. The defense in an eleventh hour made an effort to place full responsibility for the former secretary of the interior's naval oil reserve leasing policies on the late President Harding. Theretofore the defense had thrown sole responsibility on another dead man—the late secretary of the navy, Denby—and the former President's name had been only casually mentioned.

Fall, apparently recovered from a recent attack of pneumonia since the trial got under way two weeks ago, declined to testify in his own behalf, and what the government considers the strongest case made out against any of the defendants in the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair oil scandal litigation will go to the jury late Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Argument on Monday.

Briefs of instructions to the jury, submitted by opposing counsel, were ruled on this afternoon by Justice William Hitz in anticipation of six hours of final arguments to the jury beginning Monday morning, with the time, it was agreed this afternoon, to be equally divided between the prosecution and the defense.

At the last minute today the defense, over the vigorous objections of Special Prosecutors Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, succeeded in getting before the jury President Harding's letter of June 7, 1922, transmitting to the senate Fall's accounting of his stewardship of the navy's emergency oil reserves.

Prior to introduction of the letter and throughout the trial the defense contended that the Elk Hills, Cal., reserve lease awarded to E. L. Doheny, from whom Fall is charged with having accepted a $100,000 bribe, was executed in accordance with a policy formulated by the late Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby and after negotiations in which Fall played little or no part. The only prior mention of Harding's name during the trial was in connection with the identification of his executive orders transferring control of naval oil reserves from the navy department to the interior department.

Harding Writes Approval.

Fall's report was submitted in response to the now famous La Follette resolution of April 29, 1922, which ultimately exposed the oil scandals, and in the letter of transmission to the senate, effectively read to the jury this morning, the late President said in part:

"I think it is only fair to say in this connection that the policy which has been adopted by the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior in dealing with these matters was submitted to me prior to the adoption thereof and the policy decided upon and the subsequent acts have at all times had my entire approval."

Introduction of the Harding letter was no more of a surprise than the failure of the defense to make any attempt to controvert the highly important evidence offered by the government tending to link Fall's financial dealings with Doheny and the transaction out of which he secured $304,600 from H. F. Sinclair, whose Mammoth Oil company was given a lease on the navy's Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

For the first time in any of the oil scandal prosecutions a single jury has heard the whole story of the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair deals and how Fall was reported to be taking money at the same time from two oil men who were seeking valuable concessions from the government. One jury, not allowed to know of the deal with Doheny, acquitted Sinclair of conspiracy to defraud the government. Another, ignorant of the Sinclair transaction, acquitted Fall and Doheny of conspiracy.

War Scare Ignored.

As in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial, the case will go to the jury without the production of facts about the Japanese war scare of 1921 which Doheny, a chief defense witness, insisted inspired him to seek drilling rights in the Elk Hills reserve and to undertake construction of fuel oil storage for the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a patriotic measure.

Chief Defense Counsel Frank J. Hogan succeeded, however, in getting over to the jury the impression that such a scare actually existed by calling upon Capt. H. A. Stuart, U. S. N., to testify that Secretary of the Navy Adams refused to allow production of a report of Rear Admiral A. R. Gleaves, chief of the Asiatic squadron in 1921, on the ground that "it would be incompatible with the public interest."

Wife's Testimony Barred.

Another last minute decision of the defense to use Fall's wife and his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chase, in an effort to clinch its contention that the $100,000 paid Fall by Doheny was merely an "innocent loan" to tide the ex-cabinet member over a temporary financial difficulties, was frustrated by the government.

Objections halted Mrs. Fall before she could tell the jury what Fall said and did when the late E. L. Doheny Jr. brought him $100,000 in cash in the "little black bag". Mrs. Chase was not allowed to finish what promised to be a pathetic recollection of her father's joy at the prospect, with Doheny's money in hand, of wiping out troublesome debts and enlarging the New Mexico homestead.

J. C. Anderson, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, of which Doheny, his brother-in-law, was formerly the chairman, occupied the stand for nearly an hour with his story of the negotiations which resulted in his company's acceptance of a contract to build oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor in return for preferential drilling right in Elk Hills reserve.

Robison Finally Yields.

He told how the then Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, formerly chief of the navy bureau of engineering, nearly broke up the negotiations with a demand for much higher royalties for the government than Doheny was willing to concede. Robison finally yielded after a row with Doheny, who insisted in standing upon a schedule of royalties submitted by H. Foster Bain, then chief of the interior department bureau of mines, who represented Fall in the negotiations. Robison, when he was cross-examined by government counsel, admitted his understanding that the Bain schedule had been agreed upon by Fall and Doheny in some as yet undisclosed conference.

Pilots Gather

Pilots from many air centers in the middle west flew into Chicago yesterday and last evening were grooming their planes for participation in the air pageant to be presented this afternoon at the dedication of the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. The dedicatory program will start at 1 o'clock and continue until 6.

The new Curtiss Condor, 18 passenger transport ship, was scheduled to leave New York late last night for an overnight flight to the airport here, carrying officials of the Curtiss organization. While no word had been received last night from Col. Lindbergh, who had been invited to attend the opening, it was considered likely that, following his usual policy of silence regarding his plans, he would arrive in time for the festivities.

Fifty of the country's best known pilots are expected to take part in the show this afternoon. Many of them will arrive in the planes they are flying in the national reliability tour. The 26 planes in the tour are due to fly into Curtiss field at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

PLAN TO REVISE 5 YEAR PROGRAM OF U. S. DEFENSE

Air Will Be Given a Special Effort.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An investigation of the administration and effectiveness of the national defense act of 1920 will be undertaken by the house military affairs committee this winter, it was disclosed today by Representative Frank James [Rep., Mich.], its prospective chairman. The purpose of the inquiry is to bring the act, upon which the land defenses of the nation are based, up to date by new legislation, if necessary.

The army's five year building program, together with the army housing situation, is also slated to be investigated by the committee, Mr. James revealed.

Will Study Air Program.

Special attention, Mr. James said, would be devoted to the adequacy of the army's air building program when considered in the light of recent developments which have shown that both the Atlantic and Pacific can be spanned by aircraft. Panama canal air defenses will also be looked into.

"When we take up the national defense act," Representative James said, "we will study its provisions and their application with a view to determining whether or not its provisions are being carried out properly and whether or not it will be necessary to abolish any of its provisions or add new ones to bring it up to date in view of the present and future needs and the experience thus far gained in its administration."

Discussing the air end of the projected inquiry, Mr. James said that attention would be given to the possibility of adding to the present five year program.

No Longer an Island.

"We will first see if the program is up to date," Mr. James said. "Then we will endeavor to find out if the five year program went far enough. At the time we were considering the program, war department experts told us that we were on an air island and immune from air attack from across either ocean. Now we know planes can fly across the ocean. Lindbergh and many others have flown the Atlantic. The flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Japan across the Pacific has shown the possibilities of lighter-than-air craft and that they can carry airplanes is a demonstrated fact."

Representative James believes more planes should be provided for defense of the Panama canal.

HERO OF OFFENSIVE ON HAMEL DIES AS RESULT OF SERVICE

Lieut. Frank A. Koijane died yesterday in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital from illness traceable to his service in the world war. He was a hero of the battle of Hamel, the first offensive on European soil by Illinois troops. It was there that Americans from the Prairie state won the admiration of the Australians for their dash and their courage.

Lieut. Koijane went to France a "top kick" in the 132d infantry, 33d division. He was sent into the Hamel salient on March 21, 1918, and on July 4, during furious fighting in which 1,000 Americans went into the line with the Australians, he assisted Lieut. Harry Yagle and two of the Anzacs in capturing a machine gun nest which was doing heavy damage.

For his valor, Lieut. Koijane was given the distinguished service cross and King George V. personally decorated him at Molliens Au Bois.

Lieut. Koijone was past commander of the Combat Medal Men's association and a member of Forges post of the American Legion. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 2326 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

AIR TOUR FLYERS AT MILWAUKEE; DUE HERE TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The 25 contestants in the national reliability air tour landed here for an overnight stop today, with John Livingston the theoretical winner.

Livingston made a perfect score in the flight from St. Paul today and unless some unforeseen incident eliminates him he will be declared the victor. Art Davis is his closest competitor. Both are flying Waco planes. A crowd of 5,000 witnessed the arrival of the contestants and accompanying planes.

The planes left St. Paul at 10 a. m. stopped at Wausau, Wis., for luncheon. A heavy fog forced six planes to land near Chippewa Falls, Wis. All arrived at Wausau without further incident.

The next leg of the itinerary will take the flyers to Moline, Ill., and Chicago. They will leave Milwaukee at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

BOARD REVOKES CLYDE H. TENNIS' REALTY LICENSE

The real estate license of Clyde H. Tennis, Detroit and Chicago realty promoter with offices at 1800 Washington boulevard, was revoked yesterday following a hearing by the real estate committee of the Illinois board of education and registration. The action was taken on complaint of Miss Ellen Elgar, 40 years old, 6240 Ingleside avenue, who charged she gave Tennis $2,200 last February for the purchase of land in Texas. She said Tennis refused to supply a deed or refund the money.

Tennis, with Mrs. Florence Shaver, secretary of the Clyde Tennis Land company, was held up on Sept. 26 in Mrs. Shaver's apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive by two men who tied them up with sheets and took jewelry which Mrs. Shaver valued at $32,000.

DEATH PURSUES YOUNG BROTHERS AND TAKES BOTH

One Slain as He Grieves Over Loss of Other.

His younger brother, Sammy, 14 years old, had been killed on Thursday in an automobile accident, and John Fiore, a moody youth of 16 years, was a pallbearer at the funeral yesterday.

John was melancholy in his home at 2807 Arthington street last evening and refused his supper. About 8 o'clock he took his hat and coat, informing the family he intended revisiting the neighborhood at Taylor and Sangamon streets where the Fiores were born and reared.

His parents, believing a visit with his boyhood companions might soothe his sorrow, let him go. Fifteen minutes later John was dead.

Meets Old School Rival.

The first acquaintance he met was Thomas Moretti, 16 years old, a senior student at McKinley High school. They had been antagonists in the parochial school years before and the old resentment flared anew on Moretti's part.

They squared away for fisticuffs and fought five minutes until Moretti, having exhausted himself in battering Fiore's face, fled to his home at 926 Taylor street. Fiore was standing on the front steps, challenging Joseph Moretti to send his son out to finish the combat, when the younger Moretti appeared with a pistol.

Boy Shot Three Times.

The first shot pierced Fiore's chest. He was turning to flee when two more bullets struck him in the back. He died a few minutes later in the Mother Cabrini hospital.

While the Maxwell police were hunting the slayer his mother, Mrs. Camilla Moretti, brought him into the station. Moretti declared he used the pistol only after Fiore and three others attacked him, but his father contradicted the tale. Moretti was locked up on a murder charge and his victim's body was taken home.

POLICE ACT AS ANTI-ITALY RIOTS GROW IN SERBIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Oct. 18.—[Delayed.]—Anti-Italian demonstrations throughout Jugo-Slavia because of the execution of a Slovene student at Pola, Italy, have spread to such an extent that police are taking most stringent measures to restore calm. All further demonstrations are forbidden and tonight the police seized every newspaper in Zagreb because they contained the story of the execution.

Despite these precautions, photographs of Wladimir Gortan, the executed student, are appearing in the windows of hundreds of stores framed in black. It was announced tonight that high mass will be said tomorrow in the Belgrade cathedral "for the student who died as a martyr to Jugo-Slavian ideals."

Fascists in the Italian town of Zera, on the Dalmatian coast, are holding anti-Jugo-Slavian demonstrations and smashed up dozens of stores belonging to Jugo-Slavians.

Spreckels Heiress Wed to New York Architect

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Miss Jean Ferris, granddaughter of the late Claus Spreckels, sugar magnate, was married today to Irving D. Harris, 31, New York architect, at the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Miss Ferris, now 19, inherited $4,000,000 from the estate of her grandfather five years ago. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ferris.

7 BANKS USED BY RUM RING MUST PRODUCE BOOKS

May Shed Light on Capone Check.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special]—Government agents will go before a federal grand jury at Trenton, N. J., on Tuesday bearing documentary evidence of the part played by seven banks in the operation of the so-called north Atlantic rum ring.

William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, today announced that the records of the seven banks had been subpoenaed, naming two of the banks. One is the Bank of America, in New York City. The other is the Federal Trust company of Newark. Officers of the financial institutions will be required to bring the records to Trenton to aid the grand jury.

Seek Light on Capone Check.

It is expected that this baring of records will throw light on the mysterious check Al Capone, notorious Chicago gangster, is said to have issued from his cell in a Philadelphia ja" apone stopped payment on the check, but the name of the rum chief to whom it was made out will be of interest to the investigating body.

Imminent arrests of several new figures among the "higher ups" in the rum ring were promised today by Mr. Calhoun. He announced that the three leaders of the syndicate named in the indictment but not yet arrested were expected to surrender at any moment. Four of the seven chief members of the ring among the thirty-four indicted have already been arrested. William and Al Lilien, brothers, and James Murphy, are the three still at large.

Prosecutor James M. Dunn of Passaic county, went to Newark to confer with Mr. Calhoun over the possibility of a link between the present liquor syndicate and the kidnaping of Willard H. Elliott, Passaic banker, last June. Elliott was missing six days and on his return he said he had been held captive by Chicago gunmen. This, together with the Capone check, suggested the possibility of Chicago underworld connections with both the syndicate and the kidnaping.

TWO $10,000 YACHTS LADEN WITH LIQUOR SEIZED AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Two 36 foot yachts, a lugger, and approximately 300 cases of beer and 475 cases of whisky were seized in the Detroit river last night by coast guards and customs inspectors. The officers said the yachts were valued at $10,000 each.

Two men giving the names of Don Anright and Ray Hotch of Ecorse were arrested on the yachts.

Harry E. Dickinson, Trenton police chief, reported today that he was fired upon last night while searching the Detroit river for a duck hunter reported missing. The shots, according to the chief were fired by the crews of two unidentified boats.

The shooting was reported to coast guards at the Trenton base. George Parker, acting chief of the base, said today that coast guards reported firing to stop a boat in the river last night but he could not determine whether they shot at Chief Dickinson.

HOT DOG! HERE'S A FRANKFURTER FASHION REVIEW

Condiments and cosmetics for stylish hog dogs constitute one of the principal displays installed at the Drake hotel for the annual meeting of the American Institute of Meat Packers which opens for a two-day session tomorrow. Pre-convention sectional meetings were held yesterday and Friday.

The "cosmetic" display consists of bottles of coloring which determine the complexion of the frankfurter. There are seven shades of skin suggested, with innumerable color combinations. Attendants at the exhibit said the color line is clearly drawn on hot dogs in different sections of the country, the south preferring them more highly colored and more highly seasoned than the north.

Among the exhibits is a $2,500 machine, perfected at a cost of $250,000, which gives a twist to a long string of meat and transforms it into small individual sausages.

NEW YORK IS FORMING ARMY OF WET VOTERS

New York, Oct. 19.—Mobilization of a wet army to do legislative battle every day in the year is well under way in New York state, it was disclosed today. A nonpartisan organization, with former Senator James W. Wadsworth as its general, is being assembled to carry on active warfare against the state drys. The army is arrayed against no party, but it will follow political dividing lines with the assembly district as the unit. Prominent Democrats as well as Republicans form the commanding staff of the forces.

The first step of the aggressive wet crusade, according to the present plan, will be a statewide attempt to reduce the dry strength in the legislature and increase the wet strength there.

GERMANY BUYS MOVIE COMPANY FOR PROPAGANDA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—In order to show the nation pictures favorable to the republic, the German government has bought control of 61 per cent of the Emelka company, the second biggest movies company in Germany. It is reported the price was about $750,000.

The republic's arch enemy, Alfred Hugenberg, who controls the country's biggest film company, Ufa, endeavored to secure control of the Emelka company.

Although the latter has not been a moneymaker for the last year, the cabinet at a conference decided it better to buy up the Emelka company and its theaters at a stiff price than to let Dr. Hugenberg acquire it.

TRANS-ATLANTIC ZEPPELIN LINE IS INCORPORATED

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune tomorrow will say the day of regular transoceanic Zeppelin service, carrying passengers, mail, and possibly small freight, has been brought nearer by the incorporation in Delaware yesterday of the International Zeppelin Transport company, backed by the National City bank interests.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, has been in Europe conferring with German bankers, the Herald-Tribune will say, and it is believed German capital will participate in the development of the service.

STAR WITNESS UPSETS STATE IN DOODY TRIAL

Mack Refuses to Identify His Pal as Slayer.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Willie Maciejewski, alias Eddie Mack, sprang a sizzling surprise yesterday on the prosecuting attorneys in the trial of "Babyface" William Doody in the Criminal court building. Produced as a state's witness to identify Doody as his companion at the slaying of Police Chief Charles Levy of Berwyn, Mack upset the judicial tranquil machinery of the trial by doing exactly the opposite. Positive identification of the midget gunman had just previously been made by Sergt. Robert Soldat, Levy's partner in the attempted capture of the two men.

Sergeant Identifies Doody.

Soldat had risen in the witness box when asked to point out the second man he saw in the stolen car the night of last May 25, and stretching a long arm and a positive index finger toward the defendant, had asserted: "That's the man right there."

Eddie Mack had then been brought into the court room for the second time. On his first trip he had been identified by Capt. James Mikes as the prisoner captured by Soldat that night. This time he stood as before, in a neat dark blue suit and black shoes, twisting the palms of his hands together nervously.

"Is that the man you captured at the stolen car?" Soldat was asked.

"Yes, that's the fellow," Soldat answered, and Mack was led out of the court room.

Mack Takes the Stand.

He was back almost directly, for it proved that his identification by his captor had all but concluded the sergeant's testimony. A rumor had been circulated that Mack had agreed to turn state's evidence, and his appearance in the rôle of a witness seemed to confirm the report. He took the witness stand, and the clerk administered the oath. Hitching up the knees of his trousers, Mack sat down.

"What is your name?" began Prosecutor Ditchburne.

"Eddie Maciejewski."

"Where do you live?"

"At 4857 Justine street."

The courtroom was quiet, the spectators intent. Prosecutor Ditchburne rose and walked toward the bench.

"Have you been advised of your rights by a lawyer?" he asked the witness.

Asked to Speak Louder.

"I have," repl'ed Mack, whose voice was pitched even lower than Soldat's had been. It hardly reached the ears of Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, who requested him to speak louder. Judge Otto Kerner leaned one arm on the bench beside the witness box and, looking down at the man in the chair, added:

"Yes. Please keep your voice up so that the last two gentlemen in the jury box can hear you."

The admonition did little or no good. Mack's voice was barely audible as he answered the next two queries, each of which carried its load of dynamite for the state case.

"Were you arrested in Berwyn the night of May 25 in a stolen car?"

"I was."

"Who was your companion that night?"

"A man whose name I believe is Doody."

Reply Jolts Prosecution.

For the space of half a minute there was utter silence in the courtroom. Ditchburne stood as though petrified, his hands in his pockets. State and defense lawyers were motionless. None of the spectators, apparently, caught by the tenseness of the drama they could barely perceive was taking place, due to the difficulty of distinguishing Mack's words, moved or spoke.

Cautiously, as though conscious of disaster but yet half disinclined to believe that the reply had been deliberate, Ditchburne took a couple of steps forward, bringing him directly in front of the rail of the witness box. His face was hardly two feet from that of Mack as he put his final question, deliberately.

"Do you see him anywhere in this courtroom?"

Mack did not hesitate, raise his voice, or turn his head. His eyes roved across that half of the courtroom in which Doody sat, but did not turn in the direction of the defendant, across the lawyer's table in the center of the courtroom.

Refuses to Identify Doody.

"I don't see him anywhere," the even, expressionless voice replied. The last few jurors knew what he had said more from the motion of his lips than from any sounds that came from them.

"That will be all," announced Ditchburne in a normal voice. On that dramatic note the day's proceedings ended. Judge Kerner adjourned court until tomorrow morning.

"The double-crossing rat," ejaculated Prosecutor Butler to reporters a moment later, as Mack was led through the swinging door near the witness box, back to his cell again. "He can't get away with a story like that. We have his statement, made the night he was arrested, naming Doody as the man who escaped, and we have the same statement which he made to us here yesterday."

Veteran Criminal court attachés pointed out that the prosecutors should have had sufficient warning that Mack intended to double cross them by his attitude when he was approached about his testimony ten minutes before he was taken to the witness stand.

"My lawyer has advised me to testify only if you put me on the stand as a state's witness," he told the prosecutors. "If you use me as a court's witness I will refuse to answer."

It was pointed out that some one had advised Mack that if he was called as a state's witness the prosecution would be legally bound by his testimony. As a witness called by the court he would be subject to vigorous cross-examination by the prosecutors in the event his testimony weakened their case. The state, however, will attempt by some method to cross-examine the witness tomorrow.

Attorney Frank A. McDonnell is Mack's lawyer and it was through him that the prosecution carried on the negotiations for the testimony.

Next in importance to the appearance of Mack on the stand was the description by Sergt. Soldat of the conditions under which he had seen a man he claims was Doody in the coupe as he stepped up to one side and Levy to the other.

"Describe the light at that time in that vicinity," he was directed by Butler.

"There was a street light at the corner of Clarence and 21st street, half a block ahead of the coupe," was the reply. "There was another light on the east corner, half a block back of us. There was a lighted vestibule in the apartment building where the car was parked, and it was almost directly in front of the door. Outside the door there were two lights on the wall of the apartment building.

"And as these two fellows stepped into the hot car, we went on either side, and opened the doors, and as we did that two lights in the back of the coupe flashed on. I saw these two men sitting in the front seat."

LAWYERS WILL START FIGHT TO CURB LOBBYISTS

Washington, D. C. Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—A move designed for "eliminating the lobbyist" will be made before the American Bar association in Memphis Monday by lawyers of the District of Columbia who will ask legislation restricting the designations "lawyer" and "counsellor-at-law" to bona fide practicing attorneys.

Major Julius I. Peyser, president of the district association, said there are large numbers of lobbyists who term themselves "lawyers" and obtain hearings they would not receive in any other way.

IRISH FREE STATE ROLLS SLEEVES TO BATTLE WAY UP

Digs In to Correct Evils of 700 Years.

cent of the poorer classes are Catholics. The rancors that could arise from the governing of such a minority by the representatives of such a majority are obvious. But to the honor of the Cosgrave administration, it can be said that no desperate rancor has developed and the Protestant government of northern Ireland thinks and speaks respectfully of the Free State administration.

Army of Liberators.

Another inheritance of the Free State administration, which might have wrecked it, was the army of liberators, who had fought for Irish freedom against England and who later had helped to save the new government when it was putting down civil war. A large number of these men were of the type of patriot that expects to be taken care of in office when peace is restored. It was a difficult thing—nay, it was a cruel ordeal—for statesmen, newly come into great power to refuse appointments to men with whom they had at one time or another during "the troubles" been in prison, in internment camps, or in hiding in the hills, or alongside whom they had been fighting.

One minister—Mr. Fitzgerald—told me that morning after morning his mail would contain an average of seventy letters from former comrades in arms, who besought jobs and beyond doubt desperately needed them. But if the state service was not to be enfeebled at the outset, the department chief must set his jaws hard and say to the applicant—who frequently appeared in person:

"Tim, Mike, Terry—it can't be. I haven't the places to give. You must take the civil service examination."

All Earn Their Salaries.

Such refusal demanded fortitude of a kind, which the tender hearted and clannish Irishman least likes to display—the fortitude that can be interpreted as ingratitude. But the exercise of it has saved the state from scandal, with the result that the journalist, Hugh Curran, a far from partisan observer, could confidently tell me this:

"There is not a man in the civil service of the Free State who is not earning his salary."

And E. P. McCarron, an official in the ministry for local government, said:

"Every reform and retrenchment that an experienced civil servant has suggested to the Cosgrave administration has been promptly put into effect by the administration, irrespective of the effect upon its popularity. Only young men would have dared do that. The experienced politician would have told you that it was madness."

All along its way the administration has been balked by temperamental attributes of a people newly come into statehood. A morbid conservatism, especially in personal finance, is one of those attributes. Everybody in the Free State knows that what the Free State most needs is the development of industries, large and small, to take up unemployment and thus stem the tide of emigration. But how can you expect industrial initiative from a west coast peasant, who is so fiscally benighted and timid that, although he has a little store of savings in the bank at 3 per cent he will borrow money at 6 per cent when he intends to make a considerable purchase. This is because he has a superstitious horror of disturbing his bank account.

$1,000,000,000 Invested Abroad.

Dr. Timothy Smiddy, who was the Free State's first minister to the United States and is now Irish high commissioner in London, tells me that citizens of the Free State have invested abroad one billion dollars, from which they derive sixty millions a year.

That was his answer to my question as to whether it is lack of capital which delays industrial development here.

"The American," he added, "or the Englishman, bringing a reputation and technique to Ireland needn't bring a dollar. His project will be eagerly supported by the people. There is, for example, a fine opportunity for boot factories, for thirteen out of fifteen pairs of boots are imported. There is also an extraordinary opportunity for furniture factories and an English firm in Bristol is about to take advantage of it."

But there is another side to the picture and here again we encounter the whimsical factor in human affairs. The Galway lad, wishful to make a fine figure on a holiday, would rather be wearing what he thinks is a stylishly cut London suit costing $40 than a well designed, honestly tailored suit costing $25 and made from the beautiful tweeds manufactured in his own town. His preference was my gain, for it left a Galway tailor free to make me a handsome Galway suit in three days.

Many Sides to Irish Picture.

In fact there are so many "other sides to the Irish picture," so many whims, "so many jogs and jags in the outline of every Irish question"—as the Rev. Canon Moran of Galway put it—that the cautious traveller soon becomes fearful of dealing in easy outlines: the "jogs and jags" lessen and sometimes destroy their impressiveness.

Conversation and criticism remain the principal indoor and outdoor sports of the Irish people. It was not an unfriendly foreigner, but a candid, jovial Irishman, who gave me this assurance:

"An Irishman will talk to you any time, anywhere, on any subject, for any length of time."

That is a fact, and it makes the collection of notes easy. But the further fact that as the traveler extends his investigations he hears at least three different opinions on every question makes the sorting and weeding and verifying of the notes the most distracting assignment I ever undertook.

Three times now I have crossed this island from the Atlantic ocean to the Irish sea and I have interviewed poets, politicians, priests, actors, grocers, rebel patriots, who are still unreconciled, constructive patriots, wardens and provosts of universities, chauffeurs, American consuls, ministers of state, boarding-house keepers, barristers, harbor masters, engineers, and journalists.

"No Longer Irishmen."

Some of these kindly informants, the sincerity of none of whom I question, have called the government of Northern Ireland "England's spearhead in Ireland's side." Waxing lyric, these unreconciled rebels, who fought with tongue and with firearms for an absolutely independent and unpartitioned republic of Ireland, would say:

"Sad are the songs we sing but, saddest of all, the songs we dare not sing."

One elderly man buried his face in his hands and almost wept when he uttered those words. He was terribly in earnest. Others said:

"We are no longer Irishmen. We are Free Staters and Ulstermen. We are partitioned, and 'tis all futile!"

But when I would submit such a view of the state of the country to a man of business his reply would not infrequently be so abrupt as "Tosh!" a word, I take it, equivalent to our word "bosh."

One day Richard Wallace, chairman of the Cork Harbor commission, who is more intent upon extending the city's wharves than upon grief, enlarged that reply of "tosh" as follows:

"We of the Free State are, as I figure it, ninety-five per cent free. And what do we get for the lacking five per cent? We get the British market, and in the event of another world war, which God forbid, we get the protection of the British fleet."

IRELAND FIGHTING WAY TO TOP

Open air masses, attended by vast multitudes and celebrated in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of Catholic emancipation, have been a spectacular feature of recent weeks in the Irish Free State. Here is pictured the celebration of high mass amid the ruins of Mellifont abbey, near Drogheda, where mass had not been sung since the suppression of the abbey in the reign of Henry VIII., four centuries ago.

Erin Prospers, Free State Minister Tells Hosts Here

Ireland today is more prosperous than she has been in many years. There is less crime in Ireland than in any other country in Europe, and the consumption of alcohol, although it is plentiful and there are no prohibitions, has dropped 33 1-3 per cent in the last six years.

Desmond Fitzgerald, minister of defense for the Irish Free State, yesterday made those statements before 1,000 members and guests of the Irish Fellowship club at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel. He said he had come here to tell Ireland's American friends of the country's good fortune under the latest government.

On Good Will Mission.

Mr. Fitzgerald and Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, member of the Irish Free State parliament, and Liam Burke, chief executive of the government party, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning as members of a good will mission to the United States. They will remain at the Palmer house until next Friday and will be guests of some of the city's notables. Various functions have been arranged for them.

Mr. Fitzgerald was introduced to his audience by Robert E. Crowe, president of the Irish Fellowship club. He gave many figures to show the present prosperity of Ireland, said crime is at a low ebb there, and gave figures to show how the consumption of liquor has fallen off.

"We promote temperance in Ireland by putting a high tax on liquor," he said. "A man can get all he wants, but he has to pay pretty high for it. Our plan is working; the drinking of alcohol is steadily decreasing."

He said consumption of alcohol has dropped one-third from that of the fiscal year 1922-23.

"This is shown by the decrease in revenue," he continued. "In the former year the revenue was almost $50,000,000. This last year it was approximately $30,000,000.

"There was much crime existing in 1922 from the effects of the revolution. When we took over the government there were no courts functioning, the country was in a state of anarchy, there was no government functioning. Yet today there is less crime in Ireland than in any European country and our people are living better than ever before, and the price of living has dropped appreciably."

The Irish statesman told how former tenant farmers had been transformed into owner farmers, and continued:

"The cooperative movement is rapidly growing among the farmers. We have put in certain protective tariffs to bring about a balance between industry and agriculture. As a result of these tariffs there are now 100 new manufactories in Ireland.

Spend $16,000,000 on Roads.

"Our exports have increased $900,000; we have reduced our adverse trade balance $30,000,000. We have spent $16,000,000 in building roads.

"We have built more houses in the last five years than were built in Ireland in 50 years before. We spend one-fourth of our national income on education. We have reduced taxes."

The Irish visitors went from the luncheon to Soldiers' field, where they were guests of Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, at the football game.

Visitors at the Pageant of Aerial Progress at the New Curtiss-Reynolds Airport are Cordially Invited to Inspect

The Great Monarch Food Ship of the Air INDEPENDENCE

THIS great Ford tri-motor airplane—the first and only flying grocery in the world—is returning to help Chicago dedicate its magnificent three-million-dollar Curtiss-Reynolds Airport.

Since April 25, the "Independence," its crew and cargo of Monarch pure food products have visited 160 cities in the interest of the independent grocers of the United States.

It will be at the new Airport today—open to the public.

Come and Bring the Children

NO exhibit at the Pageant of Progress will be of greater interest. The "Independence" is a sister ship of Commander Byrd's Antarctic monoplane. It is powered by the identical type of engine that carried Col. Lindbergh from New York to Paris in 33½ hours; and won for the Angelene its endurance record.

Be sure and bring the children with you and let them have their first close-up inspection of this, the pioneer flying food-ship of the air!

Everybody Welcome. No Ticket Required

REID, MURDOCH & Co., for 76 years manufacturers of the famous Monarch Pure Foods—owners of the "Independence"—are happy to have it return to Chicago as an added attraction to the Pageant of Aerial Progress. Everybody who visits the new airport during the opening day is cordially invited to inspect the "Independence."

HOTEL MAGNATE FOUND IN BATH NEARLY DROWNED

Is Revived by Pulmotor After Nine Hours.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Harry S. Black, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Realty and Improvement company, operators of the Hotel Plaza and other properties, today was recovering in his apartment at the Plaza after being found unconscious in his bathtub in his suite, his head under water.

His life was saved by a pulmotor crew which worked over him for nearly nine hours, ending their efforts early this morning. The accident was due, it is said, to an attack of acute indigestion, which caused a fainting spell.

While Mr. Black is confined to his bed, weakened by his narrow escape from death, Dr. George Bolling Lee, the hotel physician, said he was out of danger.

Identity Is Ascertained.

It was not until early today that Mr. Black's identity was ascertained. The police first were informed that it was J. M. Black, 65 years, who had been found unconscious in an overflowing bathtub in his suite on the eighteenth floor of the hotel.

Instead of telephoning to the hospital for an ambulance or to the police, an employé telephoned to the Consolidated Gas company, saying that the services of the pulmotor crew were required at the hotel immediately.

A patrolman who saw the truck of the Consolidated pulmotor crew outside the hotel for a long time, entered the hotel and made inquiries at the desk.

In Care of Nurse.

Mr. Black had not been in good health for some weeks, hotel attachés said, and although not confined to his apartment was in the care of a nurse.

He was in the habit of taking a bath between 6 and 7 o'clock, and when he went into his bathroom Friday evening he told his valet he would go out for dinner. Mr. Black occupies a penthouse apartment, one of the largest and most luxurious in New York.

LOOT TAILOR SHOP OF FURS, $200.

Two armed bandits entered the tailor shop of Albert Vertal at 1547 North Austin boulevard yesterday, locked him in a rear room and looted the shop of $200 and five fur coats valued at $500. They drove away with a confederate, waiting for them in a green sedan.

PROTECT FOREST PRESERVE FROM 'NATURE LOVERS'

Nature lovers who admire the brilliant hues of autumn foliage in the forest preserve will have to confine their admiration to mere looking in the future. Chief August Loula of the forest preserve police announced last night that he would station twenty men in the preserve today to prevent gatherers of autumn leaves from cutting limbs from the trees. Every Sunday, sees a horde of nature spoilers chopping off entire limbs to obtain leaves, in many cases ruining the trees. In the future, he said, persons who cut trees will be arrested on a charge of malicious mischief, which carries a jail sentence as a penalty.

6 YEAR OLD BOY KILLED BY TRUCK; DRIVER IS HELD

Charles Devine, 6 years old, 415 South Campbell avenue, was fatally hurt yesterday afternoon when a truck struck him while he was crossing Van Buren street at Campbell avenue. He died at the county hospital. George Berndt, 2246 Lewis street, driver of the truck, was held.

This death and two others yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 743. The other victims:

John Ahohm, 64 years old, 1758 West 22d street, died at St. Anthony's hospital last night of injuries received Thursday when he was struck by a motorcycle in front of his home.

JOSEPH MEGA, 27 years old, 1147 North Winchester avenue, died in the Keystone hospital of injuries suffered on Oct. 12 when his automobile collided with a street car at Laramie and Fullerton avenues.

Mrs. Anna Seger, 75 years old, of Anna, Ill., was fatally injured yesterday and three women companions were injured seriously when the auto in which they were riding overturned eight miles south of Chicago Heights. She was riding with her daughter, Miss Ione Seger, and Mrs. T. P. Sifford and Mrs. M. A. Walker, all of Anna. Mrs. Seger died in a Chicago Heights hospital.

SPEAKERS TELL EDUCATION NEED FOR GROWNUPS

Schools Neglect Elders, Conference Told.

If there is any leisure class in this country it is in the thousands of college and university undergraduates, Everett Dean Martin, director of the People's Institute of New York, declared at the one day session of the public conference on adult education yesterday at the Palmer house. There has never been so great a desire among the masses for an education as there is now, Mr. Martin said, pointing out that there are twice as many adults taking some kind of night school work as there are students in the colleges and universities of the United States.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, warned of the possibility of cutting down the annual $700,000 budget for adult education here, because of the stringency of school board funds.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago praised the movement for adult education.

This country has been systematically educating only its youth and neglecting the education of aged persons and those in middle life, declared Dr. A. Caswell Ellis, director of the Cleveland college of Western Reserve university.

Family life in America has been changing because of the new liberalism towards women, commercialized amusements and the exaggerated psychology of utter self-expression, Dr. Frank Slutz, founder of the Moraine park school, Dayton, O., said. An outside education is being provided by the theater, the movies and the modern novel which is giving youth a lack of faith in home life, he asserted. Adult education, he said, would influence character education of the child through its parents.

PIANOS,

like people, are judged by their associates. At Cable's, every instrument, regardless of price, must be worthy of the high quality standards set by its leaders—the Bechstein, most famous of European Pianos, and the Conover, one of the few really great Pianos of today.

The Artistic

CONOVER

So carefully is it constructed that it retains its original beauty and mellowness of tone after years of usage. Time is the most convincing proof of Conover worth.

The Celebrated

BECHSTEIN

On a Bechstein, Wagner composed his famous "Ring" music... Franz Liszt described it as a "perfect" instrument... it is the preferred Piano of the great Music Masters of the past seventy-five years.

MRS. RITA LYDIG OF SOCIAL FAME IS DEAD AT 50

Later Years of Her Life Marked by Tragedy.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special]—Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig, long prominent socially, although her later years were crowded with tragedies and difficulties, died today in her apartment at the Hotel Gotham.

The cause of death was not stated tonight by members of the family. Her death came unexpectedly. She had been in ill health for years past and had undergone several operations. She had sought relief in Europe as well as here. Last June she suffered a nervous breakdown. She became ill again about three weeks ago, but her condition was not considered serious.

She was 50 years old. With her at the end were her sisters, Mrs. Henry Breckenridge and Miss Mercedes De Acosta.

Of Spanish Ancestry.

Mrs. Lydig's full name at the time of her death was Rita Hernandez De Alba de Acosta Lydig. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo De Acosta, a prominent New York family of Spanish ancestry.

She was noted throughout her earlier years for her beauty, of the dark Spanish type. Many of the greatest artists of the time have painted her portrait, among them Sargent, Boldoni, Madrazo and Zuloaga. With her beauty she possessed rare charm and intellectual brilliance as well.

In 1895, when she was only 16 years old she was married to the wealthy W. E. D. Stokes. They had one son, W. E. D. Stokes Jr. The marriage was not happy, however, and they were divorced. Subsequently, in 1902, she married Maj. Philip M. Lydig, wealthy and socially prominent. They were divorced in 1918.

Aided Suffrage Movement.

She was an early worker in the woman suffrage movement and was active in campaigns against the drug evil and a leader in the Woman's Conservation movement. During the war she was chairman of the Social Welfare committee of the mayor's women's committee on national defense and did war work abroad also.

Mrs. Lydig again came prominently before the public in August, 1921, with her announcement of her engagement to the late Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, one of the most important pulpits in the city. Dr. Grant at that time was 61 years old. Mrs. Lydig was a leading member of his church. The engagement attracted nation wide attention, an attention which was intensified when Bishop William Manning refused to sanction the marriage because Mrs. Lydig had been divorced.

The bishop's position was based on canon 42 of the constitution and canons of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Break Their Engagement.

At length, on May 26, 1924, Dr. Grant and Mrs. Lydig publicly announced the breaking of their engagement. Only a month later Dr. Grant resigned his rectorship, giving ill health as the reason. It was expected by many then that this would be followed by a renewal of the engagement with Mrs. Lydig, but she immediately put these rumors at rest with a denial.

In November of that same year Dr. Grant was taken gravely ill and remained an invalid until his death in February, 1927.

Fights Bankruptcy Petition.

Mrs. Lydig's health also became increasingly frail, and she was afflicted also with grave financial difficulties. These came to a crisis in April, 1927, with her filing a petition of bankruptcy listing her liabilities at $94,352. The efforts to straighten out this difficulty were attended by lengthy and acrimonious litigation.

In May of that year Mrs. Lydig sold at auction the magnificent furnishings of her home in East 55th street, and thereafter lived in hotels. The sale netted $50,111. In the meantime Mrs. Lydig had published a book, "Tragic Mansions," telling of the tragedies which are hidden behind the doors of the wealthy, and it was understood that the proceeds of this also would apply on her debts.

WHY NOT A GOOD UNITED STATES P. A. AT LONDON?

Your Uncle Samuel Lags in Press Agenting.

BY JOHN STEELE.

One of the problems in connection with the five power naval conference in London next year which America must face if she is not to suffer from inadequate publicity for her policies as she has suffered at other conferences, is the creation of some efficient and intelligent method of dealing with the press.

It has been stated frequently that European nations, and especially Britain, with Machiavellian duplicity succeeded in putting things over on the American press. With that I do not agree. What they have succeeded in doing is by sensible and above-board organization getting their point of view placed before the world, while America has suffered from the total lack of any such organization.

That of Great Britain, with which I am most familiar, is also the best, although the German governmental publicity organization modeled on that of Britain is not far behind. France and Italy also have efficient press organizations, while the little states of Europe rely more on personal contact between their statesmen and the correspondents. This latter method for reasons which I propose to state, is less satisfactory.

Britain's News Department.

The news department of the foreign office, as the British organization is called, is an outgrowth of the great war. Before that time contact with the various government departments, and especially with the foreign office, was almost impossible. Foreign correspondents and representatives of the British press had to be content with surreptitious contacts with junior secretaries, clerks and so forth. Proprietors of great newspapers had their personal contacts with ministers, but seldom used them for news purposes, although they had much to do with shaping editorial policy.

When the war came the British soon realized that they must place their case before the world. The late Lord Northcliffe was the first to realize this and with the help of Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the London Daily Express, he secured the foundation of the ministry of information, which functioned throughout the war. There every effort was made to facilitate the work of journalists of all nationalities—of course never forgetting to put the British case in the most favorable light.

Becomes a Fixture.

When the war ended the department of information died with the other war babies, but when the era of conferences began, starting with Versailles, the work of dealing with the press was undertaken as a labor of love by Lord Riddell, a great newspaper proprietor and a close personal friend of Lloyd George, then prime minister, and at Versailles and many other conferences, ending with Washington, Lord Riddell functioned most efficiently as the conduit of news from the British delegations to the press of the world.

At the same time it was realized that between conferences something was needed to maintain the pleasant and useful contacts which had been established by the ministry of information. Sir Arthur Willert, then Mr. Arthur Willert, for many years chief correspondent of the London Times at Washington, was brought home and appointed chief of the newly organized news department of the foreign office. He brought together an able staff, some of them diplomatic career men, some of them newspaper men, and all day and every day they are available to answer questions, give information and offer guidance to any journalist, British or foreign, who asks for it.

The German system is much the same, except that the chief is usually a foreign office man, but he has able newspaper men on his staff. The French also usually have a man from the Quai D'Orsay in charge, but as the distinction between journalism and diplomacy in France is very slender if not nonexistent, that does not weaken the organization. The Italians also have an efficient news organization in charge of a journalist diplomat.

The American system, if it can be called a system at all, ignores the value of accurate presentation of American views to the world. If a "press officer" is appointed, which seldom happens, he is a junior diplomat, who is either inclined to "high hat" the correspondents or to be subservient. He sometimes knows what the conference is about, but seldom knows how to present it in news form and to prepare facts and figures for correspondents who are far too busy to dig them out for themselves even when they have access to the sources of information, which seldom happens.

Contact is sometimes established with an American delegate, but as a rule the delegates are far too busy to receive streams of reporters, and even if they do make the time at the expense of their other work they have no training in the proper presentation of news and little idea of what is interesting news and what is not. Little wonder, then, that correspondents often come to rely on the accurate if not always complete information handed out in predigested form by the British and other press departments.

Soviets Accept Nadir Khan as New Afghanistan King

HUTCHINS TO BE INSTALLED AT U. OF C. NOV. 19

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will be inducted into office at ceremonies in the university chapel on Nov. 19. The board of trustees tomorrow will mail invitations to 4,000 prominent citizens and educators and to 12,500 alumni in the Chicago region. The alumni will attend a reception on Nov. 20, the final event of a two day investiture program.

Among the speakers for the five major events on the program will be President James R. Angell of Yale, President Harry W. Chase of the University of North Carolina, President David Kinley of Illinois, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern, President George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

The installation ceremonies will open on the morning of Nov. 19, with academic delegates, members of the faculty and trustees marching to the chapel from Ida Noyes hall. Dr. Hutchins will be installed as the fifth president of the university.

Those invited to the inauguration include President and Mrs. Hoover, Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes and Dwight Morrow, W. L. Mackenzie King, premier of Canada; Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, who is a former trustee of the university, and Thomas Edison and John D. Rockefeller, and all persons who have received honorary degrees from the university.

5 POWERS PLAN TO TALK NAVIES BEFORE PARLEY

United States and Japan to Exchange Views.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A new series of diplomatic exchanges which may have a great effect on the outcome of the forthcoming naval reduction conference to be held in London next January will be opened soon by the five powers which have accepted invitiations to the parley.

Success having attended Great Britain and the United States in their efforts to reach an understanding on the controversial cruiser question, separate attempts are now to be made to patch up the differences between other nations who will attend the parley. Three "twosomes" are expected to engage in the conversations.

France, Italy to Confer.

The United States and Japan will exchange views on some of their problems; Great Britain and France will discuss submarine and other points of particular interest to them, while French and Italian statesmen will engage in separate exchanges regarding their naval needs in the Mediterranean.

There were the strongest indications today that Great Britain and the United States will bend every effort to persuade the other three powers to abandon the submarine as an offensive weapon.

Great Britain and this country are on record as favoring the abolition of the submarines if other powers would agree, but it is not believed that the time has arrived when these craft can be wholly abandoned.

Subs Lose Value.

Great Britain and the United States will argue that the value of the submarine as an offensive weapon has been reduced by the invention of depth bombs carried by destroyers and the development since the war of better and more effective methods of locating the underwater craft.

Strong opposition to the abolition of the submarine is certain to come from France and Japan. Submarine warfare was condemned by the Washington conference, but the French would not accede to their abolition. The United States did not favor abolition of the submarine at that conference.

Italy Wants Parity.

France, having accepted the Italian invitation to undertake mutual exchanges on their problems, Washington and London hope the two powers will reach some sort of an understanding which will make possible a five power agreement. At present Italy insists that no continental power must have greater naval strength than Italy, especialy in the Mediterranean. France, on the other hand, had opposed parity with Italy.

While negotiations are going on in London to reduce the naval establishments, American naval authorities will be engaged in a hard fight to obtain sufficient personnel from congress to man the new American cruisers now nearing completion. The navy now has 84,500 enlisted men and will inform congress that about 10,000 more are needed. Whether the budget will carry funds for more than 84,500 is unlikely.

More Sailors Needed.

The first of the new cruisers will be manned by men taken from obsolete cruisers which have been placed on the disposal list. By July 1, 1930, when the next budget goes into effect, all these men will have been used up and it will be necessary either to recruit additional strength or take the needed crews from ships already in commission.

PRESIDENT WORKS ON DELEGATION; MAY OMIT DAWES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover today continued to devote attention to the task of naming the complete personnel of the American delegation which will represent the United States at the five power naval reduction conference to be held in London next January.

Five delegates to work with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who will be chairman, remain to be selected.

Although it has been generally assumed that Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to London, now on vacation in Chicago, and Ambassador Hugh Gibson, the American envoy at Brussels, would be selected as delegates, there were indications today that the delegation would all come from the United States. In some quarters it was said it is unlikely that Mr. Dawes will sit in the conference as a delegate.

There were indications today that two civilians may be chosen. The names of Charles Evans Hughes and Elihu Root, both former secretaries of state, have been mentioned.

U. S. WARSHIP ORDERED TO WAR ZONE IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The United States gunboat Panay was ordered to Wuhu today from Hankow in view of the emergency created by mutiny of Chinese soldiers there.

Standard Oil company officials sent a wireless message to their headquarters here that they had abandoned the town. The Japanese are reported to have sent a ship to Wuhu to bring away the entire Japanese colony.

Earlier Reuter dispatches from Shanghai said loyal Nationalist troops rushed Wuhu and quelled the mutiny, which was confined to 500 dissatisfied soldiers. British women and children were said to have returned to their homes.

CANADIANS ASK FULL VOICE OVER BASE AT HALIFAX

Insist Great Britain Has No Jurisdiction.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 19.—Canada has been brought directly into the sphere of British-American disarmament discussions between the premier, J. Ramsay MacDonald, and President Herbert Hoover by the suggestion that the demilitarization of the Canadian naval base at Halifax may constitute one of Britain's diarmament moves.

With Canada, and not the imperial government, rests the decision as to what shall or shall not be done at Halifax. And while there is no disposition at the Canadian capital to say an offhand "nay," there is an apparent feeling that Canada must be represented at London, or elsewhere, when the fate of anything affecting Canada is being determined.

Canada Will Have Voice.

Mr. MacDonald in a speech here last Thursday said Canada and the other British dominions would be fully represented at the January conference, not in a consultative capacity only, but in an active way.

The British government in London has no authority whatever over Canada's military or naval activities, it is pointed out by official sources at the Canadian capital. And all naval and military property which was once under imperial jurisdiction has long since passed into Canada's hands. The last imperial troops to garrison Halifax left the Nova Scotian capital as far back as 1906. Since then the dominion has had complete control.

Canada regards her military and naval establishment in Halifax as so extremely modest as to constitute neither an immediate nor a potential menace to the United States. There is one destroyer, the Champlain, on loan to this country from the British admiralty, which has Halifax as its base of operations, and two mine sweepers, the Ypres and the Armentieres. There is also a shore training school and a dockyard. Halifax is garrisoned by a small company of the Royal Canadian regiment, some coast artillery and a few engineers, army service troops, ordnance and other administrative personnel.

Halifax, however, was the scene of great and useful activities during the war, when liberal use of the port was made by the United States government in the transportation overseas of American troops. Since then it has been visited by American warships conveying the midshipmen of the Annapolis naval academy on their summer cruise. Halifax, in peace times, is the scene of practically all of eastern Canada's naval cadet training activities.

Butt of Jokes.

As a naval base it has been the butt of many political jests, made by Conservative members of the house of commons, and, according to Thomas L. Church, Toronto Conservative member of the commons, its principal claim to fame as a naval base is that it is the sea coast point at which "the rusty little Canadian navy is housed in a garage."

In any case it is not likely to be the Canadian prime minster who will journey to London early next year to represent Canada at the big powers' disarmament parley. Canadian parliament opens in January. It is an election session of parliament—a session to be immediately followed by an election—which is approaching. The biggest tariff revision of this generation is on the schedule of parliamentary activities. Upon what happens in parliament this session largely will depend the fate of the government at the polls in the late summer of 1930.

Severe Quake Rocks Chile; Girl, 7, Killed; Many Hurt

ANTOFOGASTA, Chile, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A 7 year old girl was killed and several persons slightly injured when this city was shaken by a violent earthquake at 6:15 a. m. today. Many homes were destroyed and considerable other material damage resulted.

MacDONALD HAS A REST; OFF FOR MONTREAL TODAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(AP)—An easy program today gave Prime Minister MacDonald a day of vacation in his strenuous peace mission to America.

The British prime minister has completed his public appearances in Ottawa and will be free from official engagements until he entrains tomorrow night for Montreal en route back to England.

Luncheon with Sir William Clark, British high commissioner, and dinner with Premier MacKenzie King at Laurier house were the only appointments for MacDonald today. Neither of these functions were public.

In addition to being with her father at the luncheon and the dinner, Miss Ethel MacDonald had a tea engagement with the Women's Canadian club at the Chateau Laurier.

ITALIAN PRINCE TO DO WOOING IN CIRCLE OF STEEL

Belgium Will Guard Her Royal Guest.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 19.—The nine foot high basket of pure white roses which the Italian Ambassador, Marquis Carlo Durazzo, sent to Princess Marie-José of Belgium today convinced court circles here that the engagement of the princess and the heir to the Italian throne, Crown Prince Humbert, is now an accomplished fact.

Attacks on the Italian embassy, such as occurred last night when adolescents voiced their anti-Italian feelings by throwing stones into the ambassador's dining room windows and firing shots at the embassy gate, cannot prevent the fact that Prince Humbert is scheduled to arrive here next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The engagement will be announced on Thursday, Oct. 24, which happens to be the wedding anniversary of Prince Humbert's father and mother, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy.

Apologize for Riot.

Silk top hat in hand, Paul Hymans, Belgian minister for foreign affairs, today called on Marquis Durazzo to apologize on behalf of the Belgian government for last night's assault on the embassy. The riot might have ended tragically for the ambassador's family if the Brussels police had not acted speedily and dispersed the aggressors by revolver shots.

No trace of the rowdies has been found as yet except for a felt hat lost in front of the embassy and the huge pole with which the aggressors rammed the embassy door. Armed with this battering ram the mob tried to break into the building armed with revolvers. The police, however, suspect that Italian emigrants and Polish communists led the group of Belgian hotheads with anti-Italian feelings into this disastrous move of protest against the royal engagement.

Embassy Heavily Guarded.

The Belgium authorities are much annoyed and the police are busy investigating. The ambassador's parlor is ruined and the entrance door damaged, and a heavy force of police is watching both the Italian embassy and consulate.

An unusual number of private detectives, secret service men and police will guard the Belgian king's palace here and the Italian embassy throughout Prince Humbert's visit to his fiancée. There will be no public ceremonies except perhaps a visit to Brussell's city hall. Prince Humbert will only meet his fiancée, her family, and the diplomatic corps. After his departure Princess Marie-José will devote her time to picking out a vast trousseau here and in Paris.

Cook County Reassessment Upheld by Supreme Court

The Cook county realty reassessment was upheld by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday in the affirming of a decision of the Circuit court against a taxpayer's suit to block the assessment under the state tax commission's orders. The suit was brought by Elmer E. Heidenway, through his attorney, William F. Struckmann, on the declaration that the reassessment was unfair and unconstitutional.

Attorney Struckmann argued that the original assessment, the 1927 quadrennial, could not be changed and that the reassessment is taking property without due process of law. The suit was brought against County Treasurer Harding and other county officials. Hayden Bell, attorney for the county, held that the original assessment was voided and that the state commission's orders were binding.

In passing on the authority of the legislature to enact statutes in question, the decision reads: "The constitution provides that the value of property for taxation shall be ascertained by some person or persons to be elected or appointed in such manner as the general assembly shall direct and not otherwise. This vests in the legislature power and control over the assessment of taxes, except as limited by the constitution or by inherent limitations restricting the power to public purposes. Courts have no power to fix the valuation of property for taxation.

"Every official act and function involved in the entire process of making a valuation for assessment purposes must be performed by some persons or persons elected or appointed in the manner provided by the general assembly. In the performance of their duties.

STORES OPEN EVENINGS

"WHITE WINGS" TO GO OUT ON STRIKE TODAY

Garbage Collectors Also Leave Work.

Street sweeping and garbage collection in Chicago were scheduled to languish from today on at the orders of Michael Carrozzo, president of the Street Laborers' union, who called off approximately 2,500 "white wings," garbage handlers and street repair workers last midnight. The strike follows a dispute at a city asphalt plant where 200 men have already been called off their jobs.

Carrozzo, who has had difficulties with the police for carrying a gun and with the state's attorney when indicted for complicity in the murder of Maurice Enright, a labor leader, threatened a similar strike last spring. This was averted when the council finance committee voted to raise the salaries of his men; some from $6 to $7.20 a day and others from $5.20 to $6 a day.

Cost $56 to Join Union.

City officials claim that this strike arose from the replacement of temporary workers in a city asphalt plant with civil service employés. Carrozzo, they said, asked the new men to enter his union at $56 a head and to pay $5 a week while thinking the proposition over. When several refused to join the union men left.

With the supply of asphalt cut into a number of city repair gangs, approximately 800 men had to laid off, the city officials said. Other repair gangs working on brick and creosote block repairs now are threatening to walk out also. As the vehicle tax repair season is nearly finished, the city officials expressed little concern over the matter. The walkout of the sweepers, however, presented them with another problem.

Complains of 4 Day Week.

Carrozzo told another story. His contention was that the city has drifted into the habit of allowing his men to work only three or four days a week while asking the civil service commission to certify additional laborers which are not needed. Instead of asking for more laborers the street department, he said, should cut the present number to give those that work a full pay check.

"We are willing to have the force cut to come within the revenues available," said Carrozzo, "but it is no more than right that when a man is certified by the civil service commission that he be given steady employment instead of working only three or four days a week."

The city officials, however, pointed out that Carrozzo is interfering with the ruling of Judge Friend, which states that civil service employés must be given preference to temporary workers by resisting the replacement of the temporary asphalt workers by civil service men.

Adams, Barnes, Chace Are Reviewed.

This is the first installment of sketches of the candidates in the Cook county judicial election of Nov. 5. Following the precedent of the Chicago Bar association The Tribune presents the candidates in alphabetical order, first those for the Superior court and, at the conclusion of the series, those for the vacancies in the Circuit court.

Samuel Adams, the man whose name heads the alphabetical list of the Chicago Bar association, is one of the nominees by petition on the "People's Ticket Against Coalition," which was sponsored by a group of citizens headed by Edward J. Brundage.

Attorney Adams has not been in the newspapers frequently during the last decade, but for several years prior to that time he was well known to readers of the press. During the mayoralty of Edward F. Dunne, 1905-'07, the city's special traction counsel was Walter L. Fisher, and Fisher chose as his associate an old friend, Attorney Adams. And when, in 1911, Mr. Fisher became secretary of the interior under President Taft, Mr. Adams was made his first assistant, a post that he retained until 1913.

In 1917 Mr. Adams became president of the Municipal Voters' league, a place he was holding when Mayor Thompson declared war on the organization and sought to smash it. Mr. Adams resigned from the presidency late in 1919 and since that time has concentrated on the practice of law.

He lives at 1255 North State street and is 57 years old. He was born in Syracuse, N. Y., was graduated from Harvard college, attended Harvard law school, and in 1893 was graduated from Northwestern University Law school. The Chicago Bar association reports that "because of his character, education, training, and experience he is exceptionally well qualified for the office."

In the bar primary Attorney Adams not only was the top man among the candidates who have had no bench experience whatever, but he broke the slate of the sitting judges. With 1,865 votes he landed in sixteenth place ahead of four men now on the Superior bench.

BARNES A VETERAN

Judge Albert C. Barnes, second on the Bar association's alphabetical list, is a Republican and was nominated by the Republican convention, but he was one of that group of eight that chose to run in the same column with their Democratic associates rather than to run with only a factional sponsorship from their own party.

ALBERT C. BARNES. [Kellogg Photo.]

Judge Barnes has served twenty-four years in the Superior court, eighteen of which have been spent on the Appellate bench, that branch of the state legal machinery created for the relief of the Supreme court by the provision of a body to review the records in cases in which appeals are taken. While it conducts its business in the quiet of the upper heights of an office building without the public notice that comes to the courts of original hearing, the Appellate court is declared by lawyers a remarkable field for judicial experience.

Born in Vermont.

The judge was born in Vermont, of revolutionary ancestry, 76 years ago. He was graduated from the University of Vermont and the Albany Law school. To the degrees he received from these institutions was added the honorary LL. D. of the University of Vermont in 1914.

He was admitted to practice in the state of New York. From 1879 to 1883 he was in the General Land office in Washington, D. C., writing opinions in contested federal land cases. Then he was appointed to organize one of the counties of the territory of Dakota and was elected its district attorney.

He began practice at the Chicago bar in 1885. In 1896 Charles S. Deneen, now United States senator, appointed him an assistant state's attorney. He held that position during Mr. Deneen's eight years in office and in that period prosecuted a number of cases that engaged wide public attention.

Judge Barnes has been elected four times to the Superior court, bringing his record of experience in public service up to a total of thirty-six years. His successive assignments to the Appellate court have been made by the state Supreme court.

"He is exceptionally well qualified," says the Chicago Bar association.

Judge Barnes ran seventh in the primary of this organization which closed last Friday. He received 2,416 votes out of the total of 3,065 cast.

CHACE WITH G. O. P.

Henry T. Chace, number three on the alphabetical list, is one of the three nominees for the Superior court left in the Republican column following the withdrawal of the seventeen sitting judges to the Democratic column.

HENRY T. CHACE. [Wallinger Photo.]

This is the third time that Attorney Chace has been an aspirant for the bench. He was the Thompson-Lundin entry for chief justice of the Municipal court in 1918 and was defeated by Harry Olson by 86,606 to 28,755. He also was on the city hall slate for the Circuit court in 1921 when the original coalition ticket defeated it by more than 100,000.

Of Mr. Chace the Bar association report said: "He has a good background of education and experience, is courteous and even tempered, and is qualified for the office."

The results of the bar primary last week showed Attorney Chace in twenty-ninth place with only twenty to be elected. He received 951 votes.

He is 56 years old, was born in Chicago, was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1896, and received his professional degree from the Chicago College of Law in 1900. He has served as an assistant in the city law department, the state's attorney's office, and the attorney general's office. He served in the First Illinois cavalry through the Spanish war, and has had over fifteen years' service with the National Guard.

HOLD CITY'S LAW TO TAX RADIO SETS IS NOT ENFORCEABLE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—A move by the city government of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to license radio sets was described at the offices of the federal radio commission today as legally unenforcible.

The ordinance, which provides for collection of an annual license fee of $1 a set and employment of a city radio inspector, recently has been declared effective and was brought unofficially to the attention of the commission. So far as is known here no formal protest against it has been initiated.

If it is attacked, however, the opinion here is that it cannot be sustained.

Boy, 7, Improves After Treatment for Dog Bite

Earl Kraemer, 7 years old, 841 Gilpin place, who was taken to the University hospital on Friday after Dr. Amante Rongetti, once under life sentence for murder by abortion, had treated him for a dog bite, was reported as improving yesterday. A malignant scalp infection developed after Dr. Rongetti had sewn three stitches in the boy's head.

Young Kraemer was bitten on Oct. 12 by a dog owned by Mrs. Florence Palumbo, 825 Gilpin place. Mrs. Palumbo took the dog to a dog and cat hospital at 1514 Van Buren street, and, according to Dr. A. M. Ehle, a veterinary there, the hospital reported the case to the health authorities. The dog has shown no symptoms of rabies so far, Dr. Ehle said.

Enters $705,671 Judgment Against County for Loan

Superior Judge Pam yesterday entered a judgment against Cook county for $705,671, the amount of the principal and interest borrowed last month from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company to meet county pay rolls. Attorney Hayden Bell and Assistant State's Attorney Lewis H. Geiman, representing the county, confessed judgment under the terms of the plan by which the county borrowed from the bank.

Prisoners Go Fishing; Sheriff Jailed for It

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Because he permitted federal prisoners in his charge to go fishing and leave the county jail at will, James A. Frederickson, sheriff of Fremont county, Idaho, has been sentenced to serve three months in jail and fined $500 for contempt of court by Federal Judge C. C. Cavanah.

Frederickson said he had continued customs formerly in vogue in the management of the jail.

BAR'S JUDICIAL VOTE REJOICES ALL BUT G. O. P.

Brundage Camp Jubilant; Cermak Sees Victory.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Cries of exultation arose from the Democrat-Deneen and the Brundage People's camps yesterday over the results of the Chicago Bar association primaries on judicial candidates. Meanwhile the Republican organization sat in somewhat of a cavern of gloom as it contemplated the failure of any of its five candidates to land among the bar winners.

Now that the lawyers have registered their sentiment on the various candidates, the campaign is all set to be thrown wide open this week. The seventeen sitting judges, fifteen of whom got the bar indorsement—Judges William N. Gemmill, Republican, and Joseph B. David, Democrat, falling on the wrong side of the wire by a small margin—are to resume their platform appearances. They will tour the city in squads, and twelve to fifteen meetings a night will be held.

Judges Brush Up Anecdotes.

Now that the ice has been broken, all seventeen of the sitting jurists appear to be enjoying themselves, and, politics being barred from their discourse, many of them are furbishing up their best bench anecdotes. Judging from the speeches of the last few days, every judge has a couple of pet stories. These are interspersed in the argument that politics is unknown in the courts and hence has no place in a judicial election, making party titles meaningless.

The People's Ticket Against Coalition, the Brundage group, which lasted four of its twelve candidates among the leaders in the bar poll, yesterday prepared to redouble its activities. Its managers declare the bar poll is an augury that the ticket will crack in among the winners on Nov. 5.

Cermak Predicts Victory

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, interpreted the bar poll figures as indicating that more Republican votes will be cast for the Democratic "sitting judges" ticket than for either the Republican or People's candidates.

"No politics is involved in this election," said Mr. Cermak. "It is recognized that the Chicago Bar association is overwhelmingly Republican, by at least three to one. Yet eighteen of the twenty-two candidates on the Democratic ticket were among the winners in the bar primary, and three others fell behind the victors by only a few votes. A Democrat, Judge John McGoorty, topped the list.

"The vote of the bar is indicative of the way the Republican voters will express themselves at the coming election.

"One result, I hope, will be to end the campaign of buncombe and hot air in which the supporters of the Republican factional tickets have been indulging. They have sought to conceal the real issue, which is whether the sitting judges should be replaced by inexperienced and unknown men, handpicked by political bosses."

Ask Straight Ticket Voting.

The Democrats held a meeting of country town precinct workers at the Sherman, and the theme of the speeches was "Vote the Democratic ticket straight."

A ruling from the state Supreme court held that the two vacancies on the Circuit bench are to be filled separately instead of as a group. It was construed as meaning that Philip J. Finnegan, Democrat, is running against George A. Curran for the Arnold vacancy, and Daniel P. Trude, Republican on the Democratic ticket, is contesting with Edgar A. Jonas, Republican, for the Swanson vacancy.

From the People's ticket camp Edward J. Brundage put out a comment on the bar primaries. He said:

"The Bar association vote dents the bi-partisan claim that sitting judges are infallible. Some of them fell by the wayside notwithstanding the advantage of having names familiar to all the Bar association members because of being sitting judges.

"The vote itself is a justification for the People's Ticket Against Coalition. The lawyers who selected the candidates on the People's ticket must feel proud of the vote.

"Now having met and overcome the first hurdle, the movement for the People's ticket against the Cermak-Deneen bipartisan wet and dry Democratic ticket will be given added momentum during the remaining two weeks. We will rely on the people asserting their right to vote for judges of their own choice."

B. W. Snow, acting Republican chairman, again dwelt on "bipartisan alliances."

"Republican leaders have been dealing under cover for years with Democratic bosses upon the basis of spoils division," he said. "The present control of the Republican party is determined to put an end to these bipartisan under cover deals. It refused to concede demands made for certain judicial nominations, and it is bitterly opposed to the consequent Cermak-Deneen attempt to divide the places on the bench under an agreement, the terms of which have never been made public."

The board of managers of the bar association last night issued a statement dwelling upon certain billboard advertisement which might lead the public to believe the association had "indorsed" all the candidates of one of the tickets. "None of the candidates whose names appear on the billboard advertisements has, in fact, been indorsed for election by the Chicago Bar association," the statement said.

FINGERNAILS PAINTED A VIVID SCARLET ARE THE LATEST PARIS FAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Fingernails enameled a vivid scarlet are the latest craze sweeping over Paris. Many American women, both in the local colony and tourists, are among the devotees. Exclusive beauty parlors charge $20 to apply a vermillion shade, which is guaranteed not to wear off for a fortnight and withstand hot or cold water.

"The prevailing styles of black and dark materials in dresses is responsible for the red fingernails," said Jean Patou, noted stylist, in explaining the fad. "Crimson nails emphasize the lily whiteness of the hands, which combine to give an exotic background against a black robe."

Psychologists assert that fingernails stained a blood red as though dipped in gore reveal the vampire inhabitations which the women unknowingly betray.

In Ciros last night nearly half the socially prominent women of all nationalities present had red fingernails.

PROSECUTION OF CRIME UNDER MR. SWANSON.

Observers of the state's attorney's office have been disposed to withhold judgment on the work of Mr. Swanson and his staff. The prosecutor, therefore, has enjoyed for nearly a year freedom from unfavorable criticism, a year in which to organize his office, introduce his own policies and practices, and justify the faith which the county has had in him. Since at this time it may be assumed that Mr. Swanson is fully responsible for the conduct of his department, comment on his record is not premature.

A number of recent occurrences in the criminal courts have indicated the grave delinquency of certain assistant state's attorneys. If these are isolated incidents the miscarriages of justice may be charged to the incompetency, indifference, or more sinister fault of the assistants and Mr. Swanson's responsibility may be in some degree mitigated. The compensation which the county offers its prosecutors is insufficient to attract much legal ability. That is a fundamental problem which Mr. Swanson has inherited, and if only an occasional assistant is singularly incompetent, or even vicious, the prosecutor cannot be condemned too severely. But if these incidents are not isolated, if they are an index to the character and ability of many members of the staff, if they indicate that the office is disorganized, the situation becomes a responsibility which the state's attorney cannot shirk.

The case of Max Berman and Louis Arnold is fresh in the public memory and it is one which prompts an appraisal of the law enforcement machinery of the county. This pair of felons have been practicing since 1919. Fourteen judges have dealt with them, but Max and Louis have escaped with only one prison sentence each. Notwithstanding the guaranty that, free, they would continue to plunder society, and notwithstanding that each had been arrested in the act of committing their latest burglaries, an assistant state's attorney, together with a police captain, recommended clemency for the defendants, suggested that the felony charges be waived. Judge Kerner, however, refused to approve the waiver. During the noon recess of the trial Max and Louis vanished from the Criminal courts building. They have not been found.

The assistant state's attorney recommended the felony waivers for Max and Louis either on his own judgment, at the advice of his superior, or because he was following the policy of the department. The practice of waiving felonies is often useful in expediting the work of the courts and the judicious use of the process does not demand an apology, but it is impossible to believe that the expedient was justified in the case of Max and Louis.

There has been no decline in the number of felony waivers and count waivers under the administration of Mr. Swanson; indeed the prosecutor has commended the practice, with reservations, to his assistants. If the assistants have not been instructed in the proper against the improper use of the waiver, Mr. Swanson's executive ability may legitimately be challenged. Has he permitted an abuse of the principles upon which he wants his office conducted?

George Baker is another criminal who has been released upon the community partially at least through the carelessness of an assistant state's attorney. Baker, while robbing a store, was shot by a policeman and taken to the house of correction hospital. Before trial he was released from the hospital on bond. When the case was called before Judge Trude a doctor's certificate was presented stating that Baker was too ill to appear. Judge Trude held Baker to the grand jury and issued a mittimus ordering that the defendant be taken to the county jail. The woman who had signed Baker's bond asked to be released and was relieved of all responsibility by an assistant state's attorney. Obviously the assistant state's attorney shares responsibility with other authorities in this miscarriage of justice, but the episode is not evidence of watchfulness and the full exercise of authority on the part of the prosecution.

It is not fair to say that Mr. Swanson's staff has been guilty of many such colossal blunders, but the number of indications of laxness, of weakness in the preparation of evidence, of indifference on the part of the staff is distressingly large. The suspicion, at least, is warranted that the principal peace officer of the county is not providing the measure of protection for the public which we expected from him.

Mr. Swanson has initiated a number of crusades, some of which were of first importance as attacking sources of major crime. His investigation of the bombers at one time promised to be successful. Until detectives for the state's attorney's office exposed the workings of a gang of bomb makers and distributors Mr. Swanson had apparently been conspicuously unconcerned with this crime. On that occasion faith in Mr. Swanson was reaffirmed. It seemed that he had proceeded with deliberation, but that at last he had started to exterminate the bombers, the necessity of which was impressed upon him when his home was bombed during the campaign. But even Mr. Swanson's firmest partisans were skeptical as the days and weeks passed without the prosecution of the bombers being pressed and without further police and detective action. The bombers have not yet been brought to trial.

Recently the weakness of Mr. Swanson's offensive against the bombers was indicated beyond question. The employers' association produced the record of bombings since Dec. 12, 1928. There were 97. On the day the report was published the ninety-eighth and ninety-ninth bombs were exploded. The record at this writing is 104. More alarming perhaps than the increased number of bombings was the change in the type of victims. Bombs are no longer exclusive instruments of extortion and recrimination against bootleggers, politicians, gamblers, and racketeers. They are being used to injure legitimate business. Forty-five of the ninety-seven bombings were directed against business men.

A few weeks ago the prosecutor proclaimed a campaign against real estate racketeers, a campaign which has progressed, apparently, no further than the original announcement. What was announced to be a wholesale investigation of city hall graft and pay roll irregularities has not materialized. The inquiry into sanitary district corruption is pending and, although few results have yet been obtained, it may be premature to judge Mr. Swanson's conduct of that investigation. But Mr. Swanson, it may be said, exhibits a tendency to start crusades which he is unable or does not propose to finish.

In the face of the crime situation, which is no less alarming than during the days of Mr. Swanson's predecessor, the small hope for relief which an examination of the record produces is particularly discouraging.

THE TRAGIC ERA.

Citizens of Republican persuasion who have read Claude Bowers' "Tragic Era" suspect him of having produced an intentionally partisan history of southern reconstruction for present day political uses. Mr. Bowers is indelibly a Democrat. He is a party orator and archivist, a party journalist and keynoter. In his "Jefferson and Hamilton" he revealed his belief in the manifest virtue of the party which still assumes to trace its origin to the great Virginian, although its southern section has repudiated ninety per cent of his doctrines.

Mr. Bowers, as such a Democrat, might try to make the Republican party of today wear the horns he thought he found on the radical Republicans of the north who got control of the reconstruction policies after the war and made the peace more terrifying to the white south than the war itself had been.

It is usually a bad thing to lose a war. It may be bad to start one, but it is worse to lose it. If it has been a hard and bitter war it will be still worse in defeat. The peace was not pleasant for the French after the Franco-Prussian war. The peace was not pleasant for the Germans after the late war. When military force has been dissolved by defeat, surrender, or submission the loser is helpless and the conditions imposed by the winner may be hard for the soul and body to bear.

Grant and Lee in their meeting at Appomattox Court House did not and could not indicate or decide the spirit in which the reunion of separated states should take place. Responsibility for the mistakes which were made and the troubles which they caused cannot be put on any one group of men. Many causes contributed and the radical Republicans who went to extremes of coercion could justify themselves by reference to many acts of many other men.

The Democratic leaders who controlled the Democratic national convention in Chicago in '64 and who conducted the campaign to defeat Lincoln declared, in their resolutions, that the war was a failure. Some of them came very close to sedition. They were disunionists. They gave their party the color of southern sympathies and of opposition to the federal cause.

With peace the Republicans faced the possibility of Democratic control by a reunion of the Democratic sections north and south, of southern Democrats who had fought for separation with a northern leadership which had given political support to that fight. The north was filled with alarm. The southerners presented themselves for their seats in congress. Southern states passed black laws for the regulation of the freedmen. In the apprehension of the Republicans, Democratic control of congress and of the administration could mean almost anything, even the recognition of the southern debt. Even the repudiation of the federal war debt did not seem fantastic as a fear. The north could be led to believe that the war had been won and then lost.

It became impossible for conservative Republicans to carry on with the patience and consideration Lincoln would have tried to exercise and which it was the ultimate judgment of Andrew Johnson to use. They were swept away by the radicals, such as Thaddeus Stevens, bitter men determined to crush Democratic power by obliterating white control in the south. They would not have had so much success if northern Democratic leadership had not given so vivid an impression of hostility to the cause of union in its most trying hours.

Editorial of the Day

FUMBLING THE FUMBLE.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

Intercollegiate football is played this autumn under a code of rules which contain this regulation regarding a fumble:

Rule VI. Section 13 (d):

"The ball is dead.

(d) "When a backward pass or fumble strikes the ground and is recovered by an opponent."

The rule was adopted to prevent the players from injury in the wild scramble usually following a fumble and also to prevent a superior team from suffering a severe penalty—sometimes defeat—because of a minor misplay. It is an absurd rule. Its practical application eliminates one of the game's best features—the element of chance. Officials and players are as bewildered as the spectators. We have no worries for the spectators, and we believe the players are prepared to take their chances in a scramble for a loose ball, but at least the officials might be saved from embarrassment. It is a travesty on football to see players and officials in a huddle after practically every play. Of course it is necessary to go through the present season under the present rules, but we hope for better things in 1930.

The following Bible reading begins with the first verse of the twenty-first chapter of Revelation and continues to the end of the twenty-second chapter. The American standard version is used. The only change is in paragraph form and punctuation method:

NEW HEAVEN AND EARTH

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth are passed away; and the sea is no more. And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, made ready as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of the throne saying, "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he shall dwell with them, and they shall be his peoples, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God; and he shall wipe away every tear from their eyes; and death shall be no more; neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain, any more; the first things are passed away."

And he that sitteth on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And he saith, "Write, for these words are faithful and true." And he said unto me, "They are come to pass. I am the alpha and the omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit these things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. But for the fearful, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and fornicators, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, their part shall be in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death."

And there came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls, who were laden with the seven last plagues; and he spake with me, saying, "Come hither, I will show thee the bride, the wife of the Lamb." And he carried me away in the spirit to a mountain great and high, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, having the glory of God; her light was like unto a stone most precious, as it were a jasper stone, clear as crystal; having a wall great and high; having twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels; and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel; on the east were three gates; and on the north three gates; and on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. And he that spake with me had for a measure a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof. And the city lieth foursquare, and the length thereof is as great as the breadth; and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs; the length and the breadth and the height thereof are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, a hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of an angel.

And the building of the wall thereof was jasper; and the city was pure gold, like unto pure glass. The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, chalcedony; the fourth, emerald; the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, topaz; the tenth, chrysoprase; the eleventh, jacinth; the twelfth, amethyst. And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; each one of the several gates was of one pearl; and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. And I saw no temple therein; for the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb, are the temple thereof.

And the city hath no need of sun, neither of the moon, to shine upon it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the lamp thereof is the Lamb. And the nations shall walk amidst the light thereof; and the kings of the earth bring their glory into it. And the gates thereof shall in no wise be shut by day (for there shall be no night there); and they shall bring the glory and the honor of the nations into it; and there shall in no wise enter into it anything unclean, or he that maketh an abomination and a lie; but only they that are written in the Lamb's book of life.

And he showed me a river of water of life, bright as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb, in the midst of the street thereof. And on this side of the river and on that was the tree of life, bearing twelve manner of fruits, yielding its fruit every month; and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. And there shall be no curse any more; and the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be therein; and his servants shall serve him; and they shall see his face; and his name shall be on their foreheads. And there shall be night no more; and they need no light of lamp, neither light of sun; for the Lord God shall give them light; and they shall reign for ever and ever.

And he said unto me, "These words are faithful and true; and the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, sent his angel to show unto his servants the things which must shortly come to pass. And behold, I come quickly. Blessed is he that keepeth the words of the prophecy of this book." And I John am he that heard and saw these things. And when I heard and saw, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel that showed me these things. And he saith unto me, "See thou do it not; I am a fellow-servant with thee and with thy brethren the prophets, and with them that keep the words of this book."

PATRIOTIC SONGS

ONCE TO EVERY MAN AND NATION.

James Russell Lowell (1845).

Once to every man and nation
Comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of truth with falsehood,
For the good or evil side;
Some great cause, God's new Messiah,
Offering each the bloom or blight,
And the choice goes by forever
'Twixt that darkness and that light.

Then to side with truth is noble,
When we share her wretched crust,
Ere her cause bring fame and profit,
And 'tis prosperous to be just;
Then it is the brave man chooses,
While the coward stands aside
Till the multitude make virtue
Of the faith they had denied.

By the light of burning martyrs
Jesus' bleeding feet I track,
Toiling up new Calvaries ever
With the cross that turns not back;
New occasions teach new duties,
Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still and onward,
Who would keep abreast of truth.

Though the cause of evil prosper,
Yet 'tis truth alone is strong;
Though her portion be the scaffold,
And upon the throne be wrong,
Yet that scaffold sways the future,
And, behind the dim unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow
Keeping watch above His own.

TO MAKE LIVER EDIBLE.

METHOD of making a palatable liver extract in the home:

Equipment: Meat chopper, rubber sealed, large mouth fruit jar, 1 quart; 2 enameled sauce pans; 1 wire strainer [mesh about 17. This is about the mesh of a good grade mosquito screening], unbleached straining cloth bag such as is used for jelly; 2 spoons, glasses; pitchers. Steps:

1. A little more than half a pound of beef liver should be ground through the chopper twice. Grind fine. This is done in the evening.

2. Put one glassful of this liver pulp and one and one-half glasses of cold water in the fruit jar. Cap. Shake vigorously for five minutes. Leave in ice box overnight.

3. The next morning shake the pulp-water mixture vigorously for five minutes. Strain through the wire strainer. The pulp on the strainer is returned to the jar. One and a half glasses of cold water are added and it is returned to the ice box.

4. The strained liquid is placed in a sauce pan and heated with constant stirring over a hot fire. It turns brown and curdles. At this stage the same pan is set in cold water. The extract must not be overcooked or undercooked. If it is red rather than yellow it has not been cooked enough. When it becomes cooled enough to handle it pound into the cloth bag and squeeze through as is done in making jelly.

5. The liquid is set aside in a pitcher for a few minutes. The dry pulp is returned to the sauce pan and three-quarters of a glass of milk-warm water is added to it. The pulp and water are thoroughly stirred. The mixture is then strained through the cloth jelly bag. The dry pulp left after this second extraction is thrown away.

6. The two extracts are mixed. They are now ready to serve. The extract can be flavored with salt or in any other way as desired and served slightly warm as a soup or tea, or cold as a drink.

The remaining procedure relates to getting all the value out of the liver and thus saving money and increasing the medicinal value of the product.

In step 3 the ground liver, after having been removed from the wire strainer, is put into a fruit jar mixed with one and a half glasses of cold water and set in the icebox.

7. In the evening this step 3 liver pulp is removed from the ice box, thoroughly shaken for five minutes and then strained through the wire screen. The pulp is now discarded. One and a half glasses of the strained liquor is added to the ground liver in place of cold water as described in step 2. All other steps of the procedure are followed exactly as described.

This is the method given by Drs. Castle and Bowie in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

USUALLY IT IS 24 OUNCES.

E. writes:

1. When a person is on a milk diet, how many quarts of milk should be taken daily?

2. What kind of milk should be used?

3. Is 3 months too long a period to remain on such a diet, excluding all other foods?

REPLY.

1. The accepted method calls for 8 ounces four times daily, or 24 ounces.

2. Whole sweet milk is generally used. Skim milk and buttermilk are sometimes used.

3. Yes, much too long.

EVEN BABIES HAVE DREAMS.

Mrs. N. P. writes: Is it natural for an infant three months old to cry and smile in his sleep? Lately my baby has been restless during sleep and when I investigated reason for this I find him crying, though fast asleep. He also indulges in chewing his hands, whether hungry or not. Can it be teething?

REPLY.

Babies dream and sometimes they act their dreams. Your child may be overdoing this, but probably not.

All babies chew and suck their hands.

WILL KEEP SOCIETY AWAY.

Mrs. A. Z. writes: What is your opinion of taking 5 grains asafetida to ward off the flu? Is it a builder? A preventive?

REPLY.

If you take asafetida you will ward off society but nothing else.

GIRL'S WORKING HOURS.

THREE LEAKS STOPPED.

Chicago Oct. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—On the south side of 79th street between Commercial avenue and Coles avenue there is a leak in a water pipe, causing water to run across the sidewalk and into the street continually. There is also an open sewer pipe which is very dangerous. H. E. B.

The south district, water pipe extension shut off at the roundway three service pipes, which were leaking on 79th street between Coles and Commercial avenues, they having formerly supplied buildings which have been torn down. B. W. CULDEN,
Superintendent, Water Pipe Extension.

DISTANTLY RELATED.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the relationship between a daughter and her father's first cousin? What is a first cousin "once removed"? D. B.

Some cases distinguish between the terms "second cousin" and "first cousin once removed," holding that the former applies to persons having a common great-grandparent and that the latter applies to the children of one's first cousin.

Thus, if A and B are ordinary first cousins (having a common grandparent), then A's children are second cousins of B's children, but they are first cousins once removed of B. Other cases recognized that the expressions are so loosely used that "second cousin" must often be interpreted as covering both types of relationship. The terms do not appear in the Illinois statute, and have no ordinarily no legal importance.

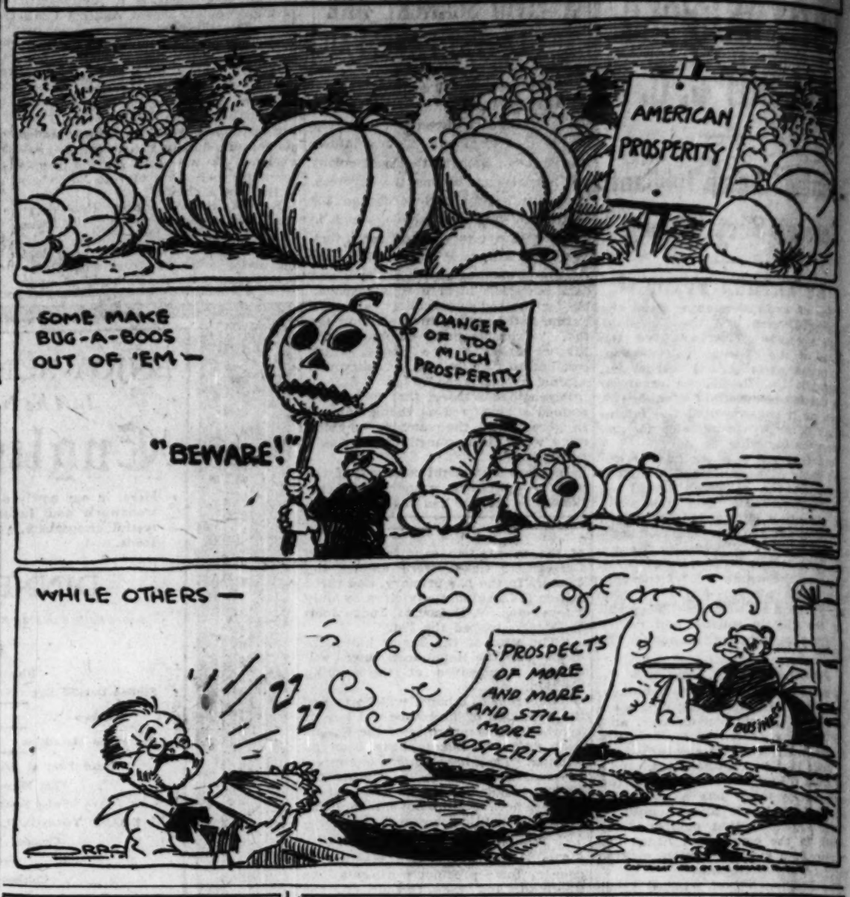
OUR PUMPKIN CROP



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1864.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Sons of Free Maryland paraded the streets this evening and then serenaded President Lincoln. His speech was carefully written out and read. He referred to Seward's unfortunate phrases about the "contingencies of Democratic successes," and intimated that "whatever might be the meaning of certain dark Democratic threats, he should continue to discharge the functions of the presidency until the 4th of March, and then see that whoever should have been elected in November should assume the duties of office." He closed with a touching reference to the devotion of our soldiers and sailors.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—At daylight on the 15th Glasgow, Howard county, a town of about 2,000, was surrounded by 5,000 rebels under Marmaduke and Clark, who opened a rapid fire from four pieces of artillery without a moment's warning. Col. Chester Harding with six companies of the 43d Missouri, a company of militia, and the Glasgow city guard, about 1,000 in all, fought the enemy desperately for five hours, when they were obliged to surrender. The rebels then burned the city hall and other buildings.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Gen. Douglass telegraphs from Macon City that Shelby has about 5,000 rebels in Howard, Randolph, and adjoining counties. Guerrillas plundered Ridgely, Platte county, on the 16th, and the next day burned Smithville, Clay county. Business has been suspended in St. Joseph. Leavenworth and Kansas City are being fortified.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1899.

LONDON.—The Daily News special from Cape Town says: "News has reached De Aar junction that the Boers attacked Mafeking and were repulsed. By a feint of the British the Boers were drawn back over Lyddite mines which had been laid for the defense of the town. The mines were then exploded and the invaders suffered terribly. It is reported 1,500 were killed." Skirmishing continued near Ladysmith, but the big battle expected yesterday has evidently been postponed until today. Three hundred wounded Boers have arrived at Johannesburg. Four thousand British troops between Glencoe and Dundee are cut off from Ladysmith and trapped by Gen. Joubert's forces.

CAPE TOWN.—Glencoe camp has been attacked by a great force of Boers, who posted guns on a hill overlooking the town and opened fire. The battle is now in progress. Gen. Joubert is in personal command of the Boer forces engaged in the attack.

NEW YORK.—William H. Appleton, head of the publishing firm of D. Appleton & Co., died in his 68th year.

CHICAGO.—John M. Roach, general manager of the Chicago Union Traction company, was elected president of the American Street Railway association at the close of its 18th annual convention here.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1919.

LONDON.—Viscount Astor of Hever castle died of heart disease, after a year's illness, at the age of 71. His body is at the home of his son, Waldorf Astor, member of parliament, and will be cremated. He renounced his American citizenship and became a British subject in 1899.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tonight's bulletin announced that President Wilson had had a slight digestive disturbance, but otherwise his condition is unchanged. Dr. Grayson throws out the hint that the President is unable to sign bills, and that for the time being they will be allowed to become laws by expiration of the constitutional ten days' time limit.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The fall of Petrograd and the occupation of Kronstadt fortress by the Russian anti-bolshevist forces has been reported officially by the general staff of the Finnish army, according to information reaching the state department.

CHICAGO.—White property owners in that portion of Hyde Park between Cottage Grove and Michigan avenues have organized to fight a further influx of Negroes into the south side residential districts.

TRAFFIC THOUGHTS

Elkhorn, Wis. Oct. 8.—Your editorial "Progress Toward Safety" is pertinent. Police Commissioner Russell's order to concentrate attention for two weeks on the enforcement of stop sign regulations is pure bunk and humbug. It is the old story of the three men who went to sea in a tub to see what would happen. The fact is the police should concentrate attention every day in the year to the enforcement of Chicago traffic laws. Chicago stop and go light signals at through streets and boulevards are as good as any city in the United States but there are not enough of them. Reckless motorists ignore these signals and the police let them get away with it.

Dr. Robertson proposes another careful analysis of the accidents which have occurred with a view to discovering what caused them. This is more humbug. Why theorize when the facts are plain? Enforce the present traffic laws; they are good as far as they go.

The practice of beating the red light in Chicago is an outrage to the outside motorists who are passing through or visiting the city, and no doubt has contributed materially to the motor toll in Chicago. If the city council of Chicago drafts an ordinance abolishing left hand turns throughout the entire city, they ought to be put in a tub and sent to sea. The prohibition against left hand turns is o. k. in congested parts of the city that are sufficiently policed.

Stop lights do prevent accidents in all cities where the police enforce the law. Accidents occur more frequently on street car streets, where they have no stop and go signs and no police. Chicago has more street car streets without police or stop signs than any other large city in the United States.

Reckless motorists and jay walkers do as they like. Take Lawrence avenue going west from Western avenue, Montrose the same. Western avenue, North and South Halsted, North and South Sheffield, North and South Clark, etc. They drive 30 to 40 miles an hour and ignore all side streets. You are taking your life in your hands when you try to walk or drive across a street car street in Chicago.

When I stop for the green light the motorists hoot and butt me from the rear. When I stop one length behind a street car the motorists cut in on me from both sides and stop alongside the street car. You cannot make a left turn on Lawrence avenue west of Western avenue when the police are off duty, without a battle. I find most all street car streets in Chicago no man's land, as police and signs are as scarce as hens' teeth. If the police will enforce all traffic laws they will soon see the light ahead and be able to improve on the present regulations.

Some provision should be made for all side streets off of street car streets. Milwaukee has stop signs on all residential and side streets. The penalty is so severe for breaking traffic laws that very few ever try it twice.

ARTHUR H. RACKETT.

NIGHTMARE.

ON BOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 9.—The Ocean edition of THE TRIBUNE has an article about the figure by Epstein on the new building for the underground, London.

As an architect, I may venture to claim a slightly higher rating as a critic than the taxi drivers whom Mr. Epstein quotes as traveled men of broad minds and therefore competent judge of art. As I, too, have traveled in several countries studying such matters, also I am an American, whom Mr. Epstein trusts to uphold him in general.

Mr. Epstein left the title unfinished, as he did the allegad work of art "Night." The subject is clear to all when the title is completed by adding the last syllable, making it "Nightmare," leaving no one in doubt as to the horror he was trying to get off his chest.

To solve the problem as to why any one could be so weak-minded as to spend good money to inflict such terrible stuff on this and future generations and the unoffending public requires an alienist. A. J. W.

DIPLOMATIC BOUQUETS.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 8.—I have had occasion to read several of your editorials relative to naval parity and foreign relations in general. I have about come to the conclusion that any action taken by our government is wrong unless it coincides with your views.

It seems to be your opinion that any attempt by any foreign power to enter into any agreement with this country has some ulterior motive and that our government is easily duped, which, besides announcing to the world our inferiority, gives the impression that there is nobody honest outside of this country. Ambassadors are appointed to help maintain good will between nations, which means when they attend functions of various kinds they occasionally praise the country to which they are appointed. Any ambassador going over with a flag pinned in his coat, having cut "Well, folks, here I am from good old U. S. A. I'm going to change this dump," would not only be persona non grata, he would be kicked out quick.

I have read many speeches made by members of foreign governments, and some of the statements they made in which they favored the United States would have reechoed from one end of the country to the other had a similar statement been made respecting another country by a prominent member of our government. Last week a Labor member deplored the announcement of taking trade away in Canada from the United States at a time when Premier MacDonald was trying to improve relations between Great Britain and the United States. Can you imagine what the reaction would be if the same statement were made by our secretary of state?

FAIR PLAY.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Why should the taxpayers of the people of Chicago be raised to give the schools more money when the parties who handle it use such poor judgment?

Several years ago a block of modern two flat buildings on Laramie avenue near Hirsch street were bought by the board of education and torn down to make room for a new schoolhouse, but it still lies idle. If the board was not ready to build why did they not wait until they were and in the meantime receive the rentals from the properties? If they had the money why isn't the school built? A TAXPAYER.

POLICEMAN AND COLORED GUNMAN SLAIN IN DUEL

Shoot It Out When Crazed Man Menaces Woman.

Duty called and Policeman George Giovannoni, answering, was killed yesterday. He took part in the chase of a crazed Negro, afterwards identified as Carey Love, 5024 Federal street, who had attempted to kill a woman, and though mortally wounded the policeman put a bullet through Love's head and the hero and the criminal fell dead side by side.

Giovannoni worked nights at the Wabash avenue station. He was 38 years old and married, but had no children. He lived at 6035 South California avenue. Yesterday morning he was shopping in the neighborhood where he traveled beat.

At 49th and Federal streets he chanced upon a scene that was to mean death for him a few moments later. Other policemen were running after a Negro who was firing back at them and they were firing at him.

Gets Warrant in Court.

Mrs. Irene Owens, colored, 5035 Federal street, had gone to the court at the Wabash avenue station, which is at the intersection of 48th street. There she procured a warrant for Love, who had attempted to kill her, she testified. On her return toward her home she again encountered Love. "Send police to 49th and Federal streets quick!" came a plea over the telephone to the station a few minutes later. "A man is trying to shoot a woman."

Policemen James Best and William Walsh jumped into an automobile and drove the two blocks to 49th and Federal in less than a minute. They saw Mrs. Owens fleeing from a man who had a gun in his hand and who was gaining on her.

They fired at Love and Love fired at them. Giovannoni heard the shots and took in the situation at a glance. He dropped his parcels and drew his gun, running to intercept Love. The Negro ran through an alley and into the back yard of 4821 Federal street. Giovannoni was right behind him; Policemen Best and Walsh were a shor: distance behind Giovannoni.

Shoot Each Other to Death.

At bay, the Negro fired four shots at Giovannoni, the bullets striking the policeman twice in the abdomen, once in the chest, and another in the jaw. Three shots went from the policeman's pistol and the duel to the death was over.

There was nothing for the other policemen—and Policeman Timothy Dwyer, who came rushing to help—to do but take their fallen comrade to a hospital in the hopes he was still living. But he wasn't.

Giovannoni's star will be added to the collection in Commissioner Russell's office, each representing a life given up in the protection of other people's lives and property.

ACTOR DIES

Ernest Stallard as he appeared in 1903 while playing the part of Mark Tapley in "Tom Pinch."

Ernest Stallard, an English actor, who played in "The Perfect Alibi" during its recent run at the Garrick theater, died of chronic myocarditis Friday night at the Garfield Park hospital.

Mr. Stallard was stricken a few days before "The Perfect Alibi" closed its engagement here on Oct. 12 and he had hoped to rejoin the company at Detroit, where it is now playing. Representatives of the Actors' Fund have cabled H. M. Trouncer and Cecil Trouncer, Mr. Stallard's brother and son, respectively, who are in London, and the body is being held pending word from his English relatives.

Mr. Stallard played the part of Arthur Ludgrove in "The Perfect Alibi." It was around the rôle of Ludgrove that the crime story was woven and Mr. Stallard, as Ludgrove, met death nightly in the play at the hands of murderers.

Mr. Stallard was 64 years of age and had played many important theatrical parts since his arrival in the United States years ago. He was a member of the Lambs' club of New York.

2 Sons, Daughter Inherit Bulk of Sargent Estate

The will of Mrs. Helen Durham Sargent, widow of George M. Sargent, founder of the American Brake Shoe company, was filed yesterday with Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The bulk of the estate is to be held in trust for two sons, William D. and George H. Sargent, and a daughter, Mrs. Anne Sargent Gilbert. Bequests of $1,000 each are left to the Methodist Episcopal Old People's home at Edgewater, the Northwestern University Settlement association, and the Chicago Training school for City, Home and Foreign Missions. Mrs. Sargent died at her home at 1502 Hinman street, Evanston, on Oct. 15.

Glider Record Broken by Former Mark Holder

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Remaining aloft a fraction more than 1 hour and 21 minutes, W. H. Bowlus of this city set a new American glider record. Bowlus bettered his previous mark by a wide margin, using the same sail plane in which the former mark was established.

PHILOSOPHIC WORLD HONORS DR. DEWEY AT 70

Praised as Pioneer of "New Reality."

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The pragmatic approach to philosophical and social problems, said to be a trait peculiar to America, was extolled in the person of its chief living exponent at today's double celebration of the seventieth birthday of Prof. John Dewey.

Several hundred teachers, students and admirers of the man who is termed America's foremost philosopher and the interpreter of its life, attended a celebration held in the forenoon at the Horace Mann auditorium. There two professors, George H. Mead and Herbert W. Schneider, expounded the meaning and future of Dewey's philosophy.

Luncheon Follows.

More than 3,000 persons attended a luncheon at the Astor, designed to climax the birthday exercises begun on Friday evening. President James R. Angell of Yale university, a former student of Prof. Dewey, presided.

In paying tribute to teachers and thinkers to whom he felt himself indebted, Dr. Dewey made a plea for "communication and transmission of thought and ideas without restrictions, intimidations or censorship — legal, political or extra legal.

"'Externalism,' he denounced as the chief American sin against the search of true, inward happiness.

Jane Addams Speaks.

Jane Addams of Hull House fame recalled Dr. Dewey's activities in Chicago. She stressed his fresh, practical, nonacademic attitude toward social problems. She referred to the many Dewey students in many countries who were grateful to their teacher for "helping them to get a foothold in reality."

The traditional, classical, philosophies had a hard day of it.

Mrs. Agnes Buerger, Wife of Police Sergeant, Dead

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Buerger, 84 North Lockwood avenue, wife of Police Sergeant Fred W. Buerger, veteran attaché of Commissioner Russell's office, will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Help of Christians Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Buerger, who was 47 years old and the mother of four sons and six daughters, died Friday at the West Suburban hospital, following a blood transfusion operation. Her husband will have served twenty years on the force on Oct. 29.

Catholic University Controller Is Dead

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Monsignor C. A. Dougherty, controller of the Catholic university and prominent prelate of the Roman Catholic church, died here last night of heart disease. He was 68 years old and was appointed prelate in 1921 by Pope Benedict XI.

ACTOR DIES, NINE STRICKEN, CARING FOR SICK PARROT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19.—Theatrical circles, stunned by the death Thursday of Humberto Zurlo, the well known actor, are now in consternation by the critical illness of the leading actress, Carmen Mas, and the less serious condition of eight other members of the same company. All contracted psittacosis from a pet parrot, which died first.

It was revealed that the parrot, which played a minor rôle in the theater, recently began to pine, and it was petted and taken care of by members of the cast.

Psittacosis is an infectious malady, contracted by parrots, similar to influenza, and communicable to humans.

KITTY SMITH, ONE TIME STAR OF BALLET, IS DEAD

Kitty Smith, former premiere danseuse of the Philadelphia ballet and dancer in vaudeville, for whom cigars and perfumes were named during the '80s and '90s, died yesterday at the age of 72 years in her apartment at 4410 Sheridan road. With her were her husband, James W. Thompson, one of the first black face monologists, who toured with his wife for the first 25 years of their married life, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fort Hanford.

KITTY SMITH.
[Kiel Photo.]

Kitty Smith was born in Philadelphia and brought up four younger sisters by her dancing, three of whom are dead. She was married in 1884 to Mr. Thompson, and toured with him, later carrying on the road their three children. In Chicago she appeared with him at the Chicago Opera house, the Lyceum and the Majestic theaters, appearing in many extravaganzas, including "Black Crook" and "French Spy." Their two girls, Catherine and Toots, now Mrs. Hanford, also became dancers, forming a team called the McConnell Sisters.

Services for Kitty Smith will be held Monday morning from the chapel at 4437 Broadway to Our Lady of the Lake church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery beside the grave of her son, James.

FALL FROM SILO KILLS R. R. WARD, U. OF I. TRUSTEE

Benton, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Robert R. Ward, a trustee of the University of Illinois, was killed this morning by a fall from a silo on his farm a few miles from Benton.

ROBERT R. WARD.

Mr. Ward was president of the Benton State bank and has served six years as a university trustee. He was elected to the board in 1916 for a full term of four years and in 1927 was appointed by Gov. Small to serve out the balance of the term of Fred L. Wham, an elected trustee appointed to the federal bench. Formerly he was a member of the board of state fair advisers.

He was born at Benton on Aug. 9, 1879, and was a graduate of the University of Illinois law school of the class of 1903.

Paris O.K.'s every Wyle Hat

There's a Smart Style for Every Smart Occasion

The Price is Always $1.88

From Maker to Wearer

Headsizes 20½ to 24 Inches

You see them on style-wise young heads everywhere—these chic Wyle Hats with their Parisian lines and details! At the football games—dashing across campus—arriving for afternoon bridge—in rumble roadsters—at the theater—and, of course, wherever there's dancing.

You can hardly believe they cost only $1.88—they are so cleverly designed—so really distinctive—so new in color—the identical styles you have been paying from $5 to $10 for. From maker to wearer—that is the reason for the remarkably low price.

Cunning felts—the bodies of which are imported from Italy—show the new forehead lines—with brims and without—featuring the new tailored details. Velvets, so chic this year, have bows, long backs, the new shirring—and each one of them is fashioned of genuine all-silk Lyons velvet. Tweeds favored by Paris for sports wear are here—Mi-fine metallic hats for evening, untarnishable and very flattering—tinsel trims for afternoon and dress wear.

As to colors—you will find a shade to match any frock or ensemble. And at this low price you can have a different hat for every costume! There is a Wyle Shop near you—you'll find the address below. Drop in and see the charming styles and the wide selections. And remember—all the Wyle Hats are $1.88.

NUN LENDS LIFE AND $2,000,000 TO UPLIFT WORK

Gives All to Educate Negroes and Indians.

A sprightly little woman with a flashing blue eye and a ready laugh, who 43 years ago gave up a fortune of more than $2,000,000 to enter religious work, will leave Chicago today after an unobtrusive visit here in the interest of uplift work among Negroes which she sponsors.

Mother Katharine Drexel, whose father was Francis Anthony Drexel, millionaire banker of Philadelphia, a member of the widely known Drexel family, has spent a week in visiting Catholic centers for Negro children. She has been visiting the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament at St. Elizabeth's parochial school for Negro children at 4117 South Michigan avenue.

Measures Wealth in Schools.

To Mother Katharine $2,000,000 means just so many boarding schools and day schools for Indians and Negroes.

Forty-three years ago she took the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, joining the Sisters of Mercy at Pittsburgh. Two years later she formed a sisterhood.

Her inheritance she gave to the sisterhood she founded. She told the story of how she became interested in Indians.

"Long before I had any intention of becoming a religious worker I realized the Indians' need of help. After Custer's last battle President Grant said that to any religious denomination which would found boarding schools among the Indians he would pay $100 for every child enrolled.

"I determined to found such a boarding school, and when I was 19 years old my two sisters, Elizabeth and Louise, and I went to Rosebud, S. D., to visit the St. Francis mission, which I had founded."

The 19 year old heiress continued to build Indian boarding schools for the Ogalalla Sioux Indians and the Yankton Sioux in South Dakota, the Chippewa Indians at White Earth, Minn., the Indians of Montana and the Winnebago Indians of Winnebago, Neb.

Order Active in 31 Schools.

She then entered upon the religious life and continued her work both among Indians and Negroes. At present the sisters of her order are working in thirty-one schools, and she has founded others in which other sisterhoods are working.

In Santa Fé, among the Pueblos; in Apache county, Arizona, among the Navajos; in Pawhuska, Okla., among the Osage Indians, and in St. Louis, Charleston, S. C., Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, O., New Orleans, Chicago and elsewhere among Negroes, her work is being continued and schools are in progress.

Keturah Reagan Becomes Bride

Mr. and Mrs. George Silverthorne Fourot after wedding ceremony yesterday in Riverside. The bride was Miss Keturah Reagan.

Wears Ivory Satin

The marriage of Miss Keturah Reagan, daughter of Mrs. Herbert E. Reagan of Riverside, and George Silverthorne Faurot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faurot, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's church in Riverside. An ivory satin gown with fitted bodice and three-tiered skirt forming a train, a veil of heirloom lace and a bouquet of Easter lilies and lilies of the valley composed the bride's costume.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Reagan, Mrs. Robert Grim, and Mrs. John Silverthorne, wore satin dresses, one in peach color, one in blue and one in lavender. The maid of honor, Miss Ethel Reagan, wore a gown in which the three shades of the bridesmaid's frocks were combined. All of the attendants carried old fashioned bouquets.

William Faurot acted as best man for his brother and the ushers included Henry Faurot, Allan Reed, Gustav Tolson, Lynn MacArthur and Thomas Merrit. After a wedding trip Mr. Faurot and his bride will reside at 70 East Elm street.

GANG QUARREL BLOCKS $16,000 PAY ROLL HOLDUP

Gunmen Admit Plan to Rob Armored Car.

There would have been a robbery or an attempted robbery at the stockyards yesterday when the Brink's Express armored car delivered a $16,000 pay roll, but there wasn't because Fred Brissa—one tough guy with emphasis on the tough—was in custody at the detective bureau.

Brissa and his gang had taken part in the robbery of the home of Stuart Logan, prominent stock broker, at 3344 Lincoln Park west, in August, and the robbery last month of Mrs. Florence Shaver, 1400 Lake Shore drive, according to their own admissions and Deputy Commissioner John Stege suspects they might have had a hand in the recent robbery of the home of Martin Insull in Highland Park.

Gangs Falls Out Over Loot.

But Brissa and the gang weren't on the best of terms recently, as Brissa himself admitted, and for this reason:

Six weeks ago Brissa and three assistant bandits held up a gambling house on the northwest side and had 75 patrons lined up against the wall. Brissa directed the others to do the searching and bring him the money. And he caught them holding out on him.

"I put the guns on them and took $1,400 off them, $400 of it being what they were trying to steal on me and the rest their own money," Brissa tells about himself. "Then I told them to get in the line with the other chumps and I left them there to get away the best they could. Later they wanted me to go with them on a house job but I was afraid one of them would shoot me in the back as I would be coming down the stairs, so I didn't go along."

Brissa then told of twelve robberies he had led his men into, and of others in which some of the gang were without his leadership, and of the robbery that was planned for yesterday. In jail with him were Carl Hammond, 221 West 59th street, and John Sisuly, who lived at Brissa's address, 451 Wrightwood avenue.

Paid Tipsters 10 Per Cent.

They specialized in robbing gold coast homes, Brissa and his companions in arms and in jail confessed, and they paid "tipsters" 10 per cent of the loot. It was a bootlegger that gave the tip on the Logan home, the trio admitted, but it was given to one of the gang not yet arrested.

They were caught Thursday night when Sergts. John Martin, Frank Furst and Martin Bingham heard that a lot of overcoats were in a closet in an apartment at 451 Wrightwood avenue. They gained entrance and found only a woman there—a divorcée from Freeport, Ill., who has shielded her identity, and a quantity of stolen goods and pawn tickets representing $20,000 of stolen jewelry.

Stege and Chief of Detectives John Egan waited in the apartment with the three policemen and the woman. When Brissa came home they took two pistols from him by force. Soon the two other men sought admission, and they too were doubly armed. They carried their shotgun in violin cases, the police ascertained. Five cases, the police ascertained. Five time previously were found in the apartment.

SPARKS TO TAKE ANDERSON PLACE IN U. S. COURT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The nomination of Judge Will M. Sparks of Rushville, Ind., as judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the Seventh circuit, with headquarters in Chicago, will be sent to the senate by President Hoover early next week.

Judge Sparks will be named to succeed Judge Albert B. Anderson of Indianapolis, who has reached the retirement age limit and recently requested that he be replaced.

BAYARD CLINCH OF CHICAGO IS WED IN EAST

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—One of the notable weddings of the weekend was that of Miss Virginia Lee Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brayton Campbell, to N. Bayard Clinch Jr. of Chicago at the Church of the Heavenly Rest today. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast.

The Rev. N. Bayard Clinch, pastor of the Church of the Messiah of Chicago, and father of the groom, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Miss Campbell's maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Neill of Mount Vernon, while Whitney Woods Bower of Chicago was best man. Some fourteen friends of the pair came on from Chicago for the wedding.

Following the ceremony the couple left on a honeymoon trip abroad. Upon their return they will make their home in Chicago.

THE FIRST MOTOR CAR EVER DESIGNED TO PRESENT A UNIT OF

Harmonized Beauty

THE · NEW 1930 HUPMOBILE · EIGHT

100 horsepower and 80 miles per hour sheathed in the smartness of an original decorative idea

Revolutionary in its lower price, its extreme comfort and spaciousness, its velvet-smooth performance . . . Yes . . . And revolutionary in body design as well.

For in this new and original motor car, a single modern style motif is used throughout the car.

Never before has one decorative design been used to create a perfect and harmonious ensemble, inside and out . . . For the first time, lamps match instrument board. Radiator cap matches door-handles. The triangular peak in the visor is repeated in the top and back of the body. And again and again in the bumper plates, the emblem, the tops of the lamps, and horn button. Even the little robe-carrier attachments, the ends of the foot-rests, and the face of the rear light carry the same motif. The inside lights chime with the cap to the gasoline tank. And the decoration on the window sills combines flawlessly with the vanity case! . . . Not a discordant note is struck. Not a single fitment is out of key. From radiator to gas tank, from top deck to tires . . . this new Hupmobile is planned to harmonize in a single chord of beauty . . . For power and speed that give an unparalleled performance, for notably luxurious riding, and for an ideal of harmonized beauty never seen before in any motor car . . . visit your Hupmobile dealer today.

CHEKA HUNTS FOR WOMAN BANDIT DRESSED AS NUN

Ex-Countess Blamed for Terrorism.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 19.—Special detachments of the Cheka have been sent from Kiev to capture a woman bandit leader, reported to be the former Countess Levitzski, who has been terrorizing communist officials.

According to the Kiev Pravda, the countess, a member of an old Ukrainian family, who has been living quietly in a convent since the revolution, suddenly appeared at her estate, which has been converted into a collective farming community by the government, burning buildings, killing officials and destroying grain.

Want Her Dead or Alive.

A number of tax collecting expeditions, which have been ambushed and murdered in this vicinity during the last month, are believed to have been victims of the countess' band, whom she personally leads, dressed as a nun. The Ukrainian government has ordered the Cheka to bring the countess to Kiev, dead or alive.

The Moscoe press is demanding that soviet officials effect sterner methods to complete the collection of grain from the peasants, who have thus far resisted the government's efforts to compel them to surrender their harvest.

During the last six weeks, 60 farming communities have been burned in central Russia, while in other districts the peasants are openly revolting against the grain collectors.

Peasants Murder Collectors.

The exact number of communists, who have lost their lives collecting the produce tax, is not mentioned in the soviet press but from the numerous attacks and murders reported daily, it is expected the figures will exceed the 400 killed last year. The newspaper Isvestia admits that 20 were killed last week. The most serious peasant uprising was reported to be in the Smolensk and Gomel districts.

Discussing the acute shortage of meat in the cities, the Moscow Economic Life admits that cattle raising in Russia is on the down grade. In 1926, the peasants owned 106,300,000 cattle and 97,600,000 hogs, while this year it has decreased to 96,000,000 cattle and 82,000,000 hogs. The Economic life blames reduction in livestock upon the unwillingness of the peasant to keep more than a single animal for fear of being taxed.

ROBBER, 17, GIVEN DEATH SENTENCE BY AN OKLAHOMA JUDGE

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—For committing robbery with fire arms Ted Cole, 17, has been sentenced to death Dec. 31 and Emmet Kelly, 29, has received a life term. Both defendants pleaded guilty, but no shots were fired in either case.

Judge Saul Yager, who was promoted to the district bench a year ago, imposed the death penalty yesterday and the life term today. The judge is 34 years old.

Cole was given the death penalty for holding up a bottling works. Cole and his two companions got $412.

Kelly pleaded guilty to robbing a filling station of a few gallons of gasoline. Kelly was a paroled convict. Cole confessed that he had been a robber since he was 11.

Y. M. C. A. TO OPEN NATIONAL MEET HERE TOMORROW

Fight Looms on Move to Alter Constitution.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 354 members of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. will open their sixth annual meeting tomorrow at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The sessions will continue through Thursday. The policies and programs for the nationwide work of the association will come up for review. W. Spencer Robertson of New York, secretary of the American Locomotive company, is president of the council, which is the legislative body of the Y. M. C. A. movement in the United States. He will preside at the sessions here.

Fred W. Ramsey, formerly of Cleveland, successor of Dr. John R. Mott as general secretary of the association, will cooperate with President Robertson as the chief officer of the sessions.

A far reaching change in the constitution will be considered. This plan proposes to place state and training agency budgets under the same scrutiny and control as the national budget. The movement has been sponsored by the Kansas delegation, Lyle O. Armel, general secretary of the Topeka, Kas., Y. M. C. A., will introduce the resolution in favor of the amendment.

Controversy Expected.

The Armel resolution is expected to produce a sharp skirmish on the floor of the council, in as much as it will curb the power of state committees. It charges the state committees have been running out of bounds in budget matters and arbitrary apportionments to local associations. The state committees, it is asserted, have increased their budgets in the face of an order by the national council for the reduction of expenses.

To Prevent Student Program.

The interest of more than 700 student associations in the colleges and universities of the country will be presented by Dean Thomas W. Graham of Oberlin college, chairman of the student division. The total budget of the association for work in the United States and throughout the world, which amounts to $2,500,000, will come up for review.

William E. Speers of New York, chairman of the home division, will report on the work of 1,422 city, railroad, industrial, rural, colored and army and navy associations with a membership which of nearly 1,000,000. These associations have more than 5,000 officers, and $225,000,000 worth of property.

SWANSON POLICE RAID GAMBLING AND VICE HOUSES

Smashing in a rear door with axes, 25 policemen of the state's attorney's office rushed into a basement room at 522 South Halsted street early this morning and found 50 men playing at dice. All were taken into custody and Thomas Pazopalo, 6025 Jackson boulevard, was booked as keeper of the place.

According to the raiders, Pazopalo said the basement establishment is owned by Dago Lawrence Mangano, who for several years has operated the Minerva gambling club at the same address.

The raiders, led by Chief Investigator Patrick Roche and Lieut. William Blaul, started work early last evening. They first invaded the Edwards hotel at 90 East 26th street, South Chicago Heights, arresting nine women and ten men. Another place raided was at 208 North Lincoln street, where 35 men and four women, all colored, were taken into custody.

AUSTRIA ON EVE OF FINISH FIGHT OVER BASIC LAW

Fascist Reform Program to Curb Socialist Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 19.—The fight to the finish between Austria's equally divided Fascists and Socialists starts early next week following Chancellor Johan Schober's initiative in presenting to parliament an outline of the proposed constitutional reforms.

Although the chancellor emphatically denied that the reforms were aimed against the Socialists, he ended up his long address yesterday with a bow to Count Ernst Starhemberg, leader of the Heinwehr and a direct descendant of the Starhemberg who saved Vienna from an attack by the Turks in 1683.

"I remember," Chancellor Schober said significantly, "what the government said in 1683. 'We must no longer stall. The time has come to act.'"

Under the proposed constitution voting will be obligatory, and the president will be elected by the direct vote of the people. The president's power is greatly increased, permitting him to dissolve parliament or call a special session. He will also have the right to declare emergency laws under extraordinary circumstances, although he must later secure the backing of parliament. He will likewise be commander-in-chief of the army.

Striking nearer home, the proposed constitution will create a special parliament for Vienna, which would be the direct capital of Austria but would not be a province as at present, nor the capital of any province. This new municipal parliament would be composed of government members and members of the Vienna city council, thus counterbalancing the present 100 per cent Socialist power with Fascist representation.

BAR ON POLITICS VOTED DOWN BY M. E. CHURCHMEN

Richmond, Va., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A memorial that would have prohibited Methodist ministers from participating in partisan politics, sponsored by Fred A. Abbot at Norfolk, was ruled out of order at the Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south today by the committee on memorials.

The conservative elements won a decisive victory. Four of the five members of the committee are not in favor of a strict prohibition against the ministers taking part in politics.

The lay delegates, it is reported, are opposed to politics in the church. They want to take politics out of the pulpit and prohibit Methodist ministers from active participation in partisan affairs.

Friends of Bishop Collins, presiding officer, may ask that the committee on memorials be discharged and seek to have the conference decide on the issue.

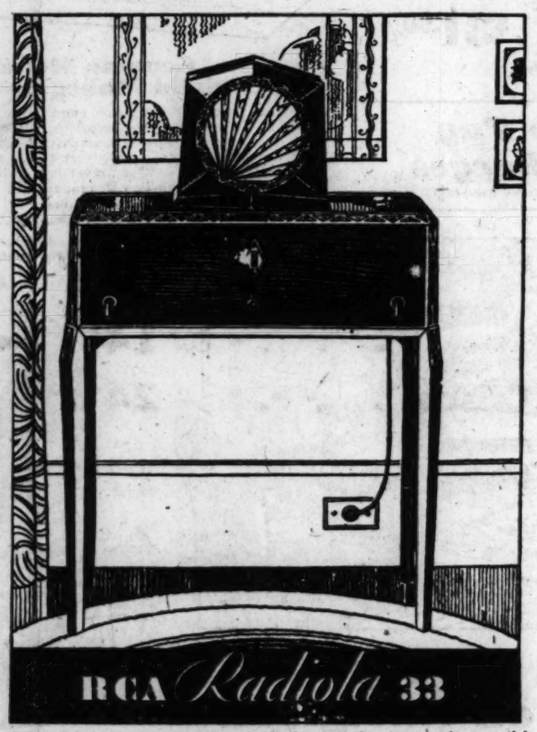
NOW... FREEDOM FROM ELECTRICAL HUM
But without any sacrifice of tone quality and fidelity!

ONLY $54.00 LESS RADIOTRONS

for the amazingly popular RCA RADIOLA 33



RCA Radiola 33, Consolette Type. All electric A.C. A magnificent model wrought in a strikingly beautiful, modern design. Embodies the most popular radio circuit. Amazing power and fidelity . . . yet freedom from electrical hum! By far the lowest priced high-quality radio instrument. . . . . Only $54.00 (less Radiotrons).

RCA Loudspeaker 100B—With the rich, mellow tone that has made RCA reproducers famous throughout the world . . . . . $17.50.

The BIGGEST RADIO BUY of the year

HERE is a radio that will outdistance and outperform many sets costing double... a strikingly handsome compact instrument that meets the most rigid broadcast demands . . . yet costs less than an ordinary table model!

Here is beauty of tone that startles you with its richness... realism that none but the most expensive sets can match... and more! Here at last is freedom from distorting noises and electrical hum without the costly sacrifice of loss in fidelity and tone range . . . without that weakening of power and dulling of low and high notes which owners of ordinary sets must suffer when hum is reduced in defiance of electrical research and experience!

But the greatest marvel of all is the amazingly low price . . . only $54 (less Radiotrons) . . . a striking tribute to the vast RCA resources and manufacturing skill!

See and hear this astounding instrument today . . . Compare it with far more expensive models and you'll understand at once why Radiola 33 is the fastest-selling radio in America!

In addition to Radiola 33, RCA presents the only complete line of high quality radio sets... ranging in price from $54 to $690. ... instruments designed to meet every known requirement of broadcast reception. The model you select may be purchased on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan.

WHAT CONSTITUTES AN UP-TO-DATE AUTOMOBILE?

PICTURE A $20,000 MADE-TO-ORDER CAR
THEN COMPARE IT WITH STUTZ OR BLACKHAWK

Check for yourself the fourteen vital questions listed below

PERFORMANCE WITH SAFETY

Suppose you were purchasing a made-to-order car at a cost of say, $20,000. You would have certain high standards in mind. By such standards we ask you to pass judgment on Stutz and Blackhawk. For your guidance in making such a test, we list the following questions:

1. Would you subject yourself and your family to the dangers of flying glass? Or would you equip your $20,000 automobile with safety glass all around?
I would have ☐ Ordinary glass ☐ Safety glass
Safety glass all around was pioneered by Stutz four years ago.

2. Would you be content with the ordinary three-speed transmission? Or would you prefer the more modern four-speed transmission?
I would have ☐ Ordinary three-speed transmission ☐ Transmission with four speeds forward
The Stutz transmission, with four speeds forward, provides superior performance and longer car life. The trend is toward four speeds.

3. Would you be satisfied with the conventional car which rolls backward on inclines when brakes are released? Or would you prefer Stutz Noback, which automatically prevents undesired back-rolling on inclines?
I would have ☐ Ordinary car without Noback ☐ The added protection of Noback
Noback is among the important safety devices pioneered by Stutz.

4. Would you select the conventional L-head type of engine? Or would you insist upon having the increased efficiency of the valve-in-head engine?
I would have ☐ Conventional type, L-head engine ☐ Advanced type, valve-in-head engine
The Stutz valve-in-head line-eight engine is not only more powerful, it is also quiet, smooth and economical.

5. Would you accept valves actuated by rocker arms, with their greater noise and greater area of wearing surfaces? Or would you insist upon having the overhead camshaft with its direct-acting, simple and quiet valve operation?
I would have ☐ Conventional push-rods and rocker arms ☐ Silent overhead camshaft
As compared with rocker-arm valve mechanism, the Stutz overhead camshaft eliminates 192 wearing surfaces.

6. Would you be content with the single ignition found in ordinary cars? Or would you prefer dual ignition with two spark plugs for each cylinder, insuring greater power and economy?
I would have ☐ Single ignition ☐ Dual ignition
Dual ignition is one of the many features of advanced engineering found on Stutz and Blackhawk.

7. Would you want your engine to have the less efficient single carburetion as originally designed for four-cylinder cars? Or would you prefer the greater engine efficiency made possible by dual carburetion?
I would have ☐ A single carburetor ☐ Dual carburetion
Dual carburetion and dual intake contribute to the outstanding performance of Stutz and Blackhawk cars.

8. Would you be willing to have an automobile equipped with ordinary oil and grease cups? Or would you like the latest, Stutz one-thrust chassis lubrication system which feeds oil to all moving parts of the chassis in one operation?
I would have ☐ Ordinary oil and grease cups ☐ One-thrust lubrication system
One-thrust chassis lubrication is among the many convenience features of the Stutz and Blackhawk.

9. Would you expect your $20,000 automobile to be equipped with ordinary headlights? Or would you prefer Ryan-Lites, which give long range without dangerous glare and which give side-illumination with added protection for night driving?
I would have ☐ Ordinary headlights ☐ New and improved Ryan-Lites
Ryan-Lites, standard equipment on Stutz and Blackhawk, are the only automobile lights that meet all legal requirements everywhere.

10. Would you be content with the conventional bevel gear drive? Or would you have the improved worm drive rear axle which permits the floorboards to be lowered 20 per cent and lowers the center of weight of the entire car?
I would have ☐ Conventional rear axle ☐ Worm drive rear axle
Worm drive is one of the fundamentals of Stutz-Blackhawk advanced engineering.

New Series SAFETY STUTZ AND BLACKHAWK CARS

11. Would your made-to-order car be of the conventional type, with a relatively high center of weight? Or would you build safety into your car by lowering the center of weight?
I would have ☐ Conventional car, relatively high ☐ Safety Stutz with low center of weight
Stutz low center of weight, made possible by worm drive, means better roadability, greater ease of control, improved riding, greater performance and greater safety.

12. Would you be content with the ordinary type of chassis frame, which yields to torsional strains? Or would you insist upon having a massive double-drop frame providing utmost safety?
I would have ☐ Ordinary chassis frame ☐ Massive double-drop frame
The Stutz double-drop frame has seven cross members, five of them tubular.

13. Would you have ordinary running boards suspended on brackets and hence easily collapsible in case of side-collision? Or would you feel safer with Stutz side-bumper steel running boards built integral with frame?
I would have ☐ Running boards suspended on brackets ☐ Side-bumper steel running boards integral with frame
Stutz side-bumper steel running boards integral with the frame protect the occupants of the car in case of side-collision.

14. Would you specify conventional brakes with just ordinary braking power? Or would you feel safer with Stutz Feathertouch Booster Brakes?
I would have ☐ Ordinary conventional brakes ☐ Feathertouch Booster Brakes
Stutz is safest because it can stop in three-fifths the distance required by conventional cars.

In a nation-wide investigation, conducted by an impartial research bureau, owners of four other cars selling at the price of the Stutz were asked to express their opinion concerning six of the Stutz features mentioned above:
97 per cent wanted Safety Glass
66.5 per cent wanted four-speed transmission
90.5 per cent wanted Noback
81.5 per cent wanted low-weighted safety
63 per cent wanted Feathertouch brakes
88 per cent wanted side-bumper steel running boards

Now remember it takes ten other cars to give you ten of the Stutz-Blackhawk features and Stutz still has many major features all its own.

Of course you would want all the advantages mentioned here if you purchased a $20,000 made-to-order car. But think how much easier it is to get them in a Stutz or Blackhawk.

And instead of paying $20,000, you may pay $2995 to $8500 for a Stutz or $1995 to $2735 for a Blackhawk. That's why we say come to our showroom and see for yourself these New Series Cars. You will find them the finest and most beautiful cars Stutz ever built.

JOHN O. CRANE WEDS DAUGHTER OF ROMAN COUNT

Bride Descendant of Two Old Royal Families.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 19.—In a pretty family ceremony in the chapel of Palazzo Ruspoli, John Oliver Crane of Chicago and Contessa Teresa Martini Marescotti, a descendant of two of Rome's oldest royal families, were married this morning. Mr. Crane is a son of Charles R. Crane of Chicago, former United States minister to China and wealthy manufacturer.

Although marriages of titled Italian males to American heiresses are a common occurrence, this is the first time that a daughter of one of the houses that constitute the inner circle of Roman aristocracy has taken an American husband.

Bride Wears Stunning Trousseau.

The bride, who is one of the most striking blond beauties in the capital, was stunning in a white satin wedding gown with a quaint Florentine head dress fitted under a bandeau of pearls and waxed orange blossoms. She wore a white satin veil covered with tulle, full twenty feet long. The train was carried by three pages, children of Donna Giacinta Marescotti del Drago, the bride's sister.

Cardinal Ragonesi, who was to have officiated, was ill and his place was taken by Chaplain Ruspoli, who is a member of the bride's mother's family. A stringed quartet played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mass followed the ceremony.

Groom's Family Present.

Witnesses for the bride were Prince Allessandro Ruspoli, her uncle; Marquis Benoni, the bridegroom's brother, Richard Crane, and his brother-in-law, Jan Masaryk.

Members of the bridegroom's family who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane, Mrs. Mary Russell of Lake Forest, Ill.; Mrs. Emily Chadbourne, Mrs. Louisa L. Uscombe, Richard Crane, Alice Masaryk, and Mr. Mrs. Jan Masaryk.

Following the old Roman custom, the couple drove to St. Peter's after the ceremony and knelt at the three traditional spots in the sacrament chapel, and then before St. Peter himself, where the bride kissed his toe.

Presents for Guests.

The wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents, the Conte and Contesse Allessandro Marescotti. All the guests were given handsome jewel boxes of painted wood with a picture of the famous Tor di Nona Via (half way tower), where the popes used to rest on their way from the Eternal City to the country seat of Castel Gandolfo. This property belongs to the Marescotti family. Inside the covers of the boxes are medallions containing the names of John and Teresa, interlaced, the handwork of the bride.

The couple left this afternoon for the Italian lakes. The Wedding journey will be confined to Italy.

C. S. DOUGHERTY QUITS STAFF OF STATE ATTORNEY

Attorney Charles S. Dougherty yesterday announced his resignation as an assistant state's attorney to take effect Nov. 1. Dougherty, a holdover from the Crowe régime, was rated as one of the best men on the prosecutor's staff, and Special First Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch expressed regret over his leaving.

C. S. DOUGHERTY. [Mabel Sykes Photo.]

Dougherty, who has been a prosecutor since June, 1925, refused to give any reason for his sudden resignation, but it is known that he thought he was gradually being pushed aside for the new Swanson appointees, and the inactivity caused him to return to private practice. He will join with former Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman under the firm name of Hoffman & Dougherty.

Since his appointment Dougherty has successfully prosecuted 425 cases in which penitentiary sentences resulted. Only two of his cases have been reversed by the Supreme court.

Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal of Maid's Slayer

The state Supreme court yesterday dismissed the appeal of Odo Puschell, 22 year old chauffeur, from a sentence of life imprisonment, imposed in the Lake county Circuit court two years ago for the murder if Miss Wilma Miller, a maid in the home of Thorne Donnelley at Lake Forest. Puschell was convicted largely on the testimony of James Hairston, a Negro janitor, who said Pus[illegible] was in the house at the time o[illegible] crime. Puschell contended he was on a train en route to Fort Sheridan.

SUBWAYS BEFORE EXTENSIONS, IS CAR LINES' EDICT

Loop Bores Indispensable, Franchise Parley Told.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The second discussion of the proposed franchise for a consolidated Chicago transit system brought the conferees to a realization yesterday that there will not be and cannot be substantial improvement in rapid transportation until Chicago has subways through the central business district.

The companies, through Attorneys Harry Weber, P. J. Lucey, W. J. Touhy, and Weymouth Kirkland, told the city's representatives that they will not undertake elevated lines extensions until there is certainty in the prospect of digging subways. They suggested that idea be placed in the ordinance in this form:

"All additions and extensions which depend for effective operation on the use of the city owned subways, provided for in section 8 of this ordinance, shall be completed by the time said subways are constructed and equipped for such operation."

Wording to Be Changed.

Because this provision was so bluntly worded, Attorney Walter L. Fisher, for Federal Judge Wilkinson, suggested that it be rewritten, but the same idea will be in the amended draft to be submitted tomorrow morning.

There are few, if any, proposed additions or extensions of the elevated roads which do not depend for effective operation on loop subways. The loop now is used to its capacity. The construction of added tracks or of extensions will attract more riders, which will mean more cars and more delay in getting them through the loop. There will not be so much speed as there is now.

The brief amendment submitted by the companies' attorneys would delay more than $130,000,000 worth of transportation until there is a strong probability of subways, it was pointed out.

Need Track for New Cars.

The report of the engineers on physical improvements, submitted last Thursday, recommended extensions and improvements of a total estimated cost of $168,260,000.

Of this sum, $32,450,000 was set aside for 1,100 new cars for the elevated lines. The effective operation of these cars is contingent on more track space through the loop.

Another large sum, $28,243,000, was estimated as the cost of laying additional track on branches of the elevated. The effective utilization of this track depends upon more trackage through the central business district, and that trackage is to be placed in bores below the surface of the streets.

New Lines, More Riders.

For extensions of the elevated lines the estimated cost is $62,952,000. Those new lines will create more passengers. With the possible exception of the proposed cross-town elevated on the west side, all these new lines will add to the burden of the loop structure and indirectly the cross-town "L" will likewise do so. It will have many passengers who will want to transfer to trains which will traverse the loop.

Another rapid transit improvement recommended is the extension of the elevated platforms at an estimated cost of $600,000. That is for the purpose of operating longer trains. Trains of the present length are delayed in getting through the loop during rush hours.

Of course, the equipment of the subways by the companies at an estimated cost of $5,340,000 must await the completion of the bores.

Those items total $129,585,000 out of an aggregate of $168,260,000 proposed for extensions and additions which mean additional transit facilities.

New "L" Coaches Urged.

But that is not all. The engineers recommended an aggregate expenditure by the companies of $200,000,000. The $31,740,000 difference between $168,260,000 and $200,000,000 is for "replacements and betterments."

Undoubtedly part of this sum is to be spent for steel elevated cars to take the place of wooden cars which, Col. A. A. Sprague, Joshua D'Esposito, and George Woodruff asserted, are not suitable for subway operation. Just how much of the sum would be used for this purpose the report of the engineers does not indicate, but Mr. D'Esposito estimated that more than $20,000,000 would be required. Whether these replacement cars will be bought for subway operation before the city gets well started on subways remains to be seen.

Preaches Today

The Rt. Rev. Frank T. Woods, lord bishop of Winchester, arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon to be the guest of the Rt. Rev. C. P. Anderson, bishop of the Chicago diocese of the Episcopal church. Bishop Woods is a member of the English committee for the exchange of ministers between England and America and is one of the leaders of the church unity movement in England.

He will speak this morning at St. James' cathedral, Cass and Huron streets, and this afternoon at St. Paul's church of Kenwood. Tonight he will address the Sunday Evening club and tomorrow night he will be guest of honor at a banquet of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago at the Hotel La Salle. He will leave for the east Tuesday to complete his tour of the United States and Canada.

ALL-AIR TRANS U. S. LINE TO BE DECIDED SOON

A final decision on a proposed transcontinental all-air passenger service from New York to Los Angeles, to be operated by the Universal Aviation corporation and the Western Air Express, is expected at a meeting of officials of the two companies at Kansas City within the next few days, according to a dispatch from Kansas City last night.

Under the proposed plans passengers would fly from New York to Kansas City and stop there overnight, proceeding to Los Angeles the next day. The first leg of the flight would be made in Universal planes and the second in planes of the Western Air Express. Thirty-two Fokker planes contracted for by Universal recently would be put into the service. From west to east the same dawn to dusk schedule would be maintained with an overnight stop at Kansas City.

Universal now operates an air-rail coast-to-coast service, with rail service between New York and Cleveland and between Garden City, Kas., and the west coast. The trip from Cleveland to Garden City is made by plane.

CHURCH IS NOT A ROTARY CLUB, BISHOP WARNS

The Christian church neither is a Rotary club nor a mutual benefit society, according to Bishop Irving Peak Johnson, Episcopal bishop of Colorado. Bishop Johnson spoke before a large number of Chicago business men at an Episcopal conference at Taylor hall, Racine. He stated that the church is a compass which points the way to the spiritual life.

The success or failure of the church, in Bishop Johnson's opinion, is not determined by any elaborate system of bookkeeping, but by its leavening effect upon society. The layman's conference closes today.

Confessed Slayer of Girl to Face Court This Week

John E. Preston, 30 years old, confessed slayer of Miss Agnes Johnston, 26, 7824 South Carpenter street, on a lonely road near West Chicago a week ago, will be arraigned before Circuit Judge William J. Fulton this week, probably on Wednesday, to enter pleas to three indictments charging murder, rape, and assault with intent to rape. Preston is being held without bail on the murder charge and a bond of $60,000 on the other two charges. Circuit Judge John K. Newhall has appointed Attorneys Edgar Elliott of Lombard and Herman Grotefeldt of Downers Grove to defend Preston.

Your car will be worth more next year if it's an Eight

You're out of date without an EIGHT!

On every hand you hear people talking Eights. And, what is more convincing, you see them buying Eights.

In 43 states,* for the first seven months of this year, new car registrations above $1000 showed a 94 per cent increase in Eights—an 18 per cent decrease in Sixes. (Five states do not compile registrations by engine types).

Every fine car in America is an Eight. In fact, 41 per cent of all makes of American cars are Eights.

Is it any wonder that thousands intending to buy new Sixes are hesitating?

What is a Six going to bring in next year's trade-in markets? How can it possibly measure up in value with an Eight? Those are the questions that every thinking motorist is asking himself.

Right now, at the price of a Six, you can buy a brilliant new Studebaker Eight. A champion Studebaker Eight with all the extra power, extra smoothness, extra flexibility and extra value that only an Eight can give.

. . . an Eight built by Studebaker, now enjoying its 77th successful year—now the largest producer of Eight cylinder cars in the world . . . an Eight by Studebaker, holder of 11 world records of speed and endurance and more American stock car records than all other cars combined.

Choose an Eight from the three great Studebaker lines of Eights now available at new low One-Profit prices. Your car will be worth more a year from now if it's an Eight.

In Illinois, Eights increased 110 per cent while Sixes declined 12 per cent.*

BRIDE OF 27, WED TO AGED HUSBAND, FACES CONTEMPT

False Testimony Charged in Annulment Case.

Mrs. Leontine Gerard-Gilbert Foley, 27 year old nurse, who married Patrick Foley, 76 years old, 849 North La Claire avenue, three days after she was granted an annulment of her marriage to Joseph Gilbert, reputed adventurer, was given thirty days to show why she should not be held in contempt of court for perjury yesterday by Superior Judge Kavanagh. Four children of her aged husband, all older than Mrs. Foley, charge through their attorney, Walter W. L. Meyer, that she gave false testimony to promote the second marriage.

Mrs. Foley was granted an annulment Aug. 13, 1929, by Judge Kavanagh. In her bill she avered that she was married to Gilbert Feb. 16, 1928, and that he deserted her five hours after the ceremony. She pictured Gilbert as a dashing adventurer, who swept her off her feet in a lightning courtship by promising her a life of ease as mistress of his almost limitless ranch in New Mexico.

Fled with Her Money.

They were married in the Municipal court and set out immediately to purchase furniture for their home, she testified. She entrusted him with her savings of $385 for this purpose. He was undecided after a shopping tour and begged her to put off selection until the next day, she said, and returned to his hotel. The next morning he disappeared with her money.

In her story to the judge she declared that she had never lived with Gilbert and later learned that his name was Gilbert Garmillo. The judge instructed her attorney, Leopold Saltiel, to draw up an order and signed it on the same day. On Aug. 16 she married Foley.

On Sept. 25 Attorney A. W. Main of the law firm of Meyer & Renter, asked to be appointed friend of the court to investigate her story. He produced affidavits to show that Mrs. Foley had lived with Gilbert at the home of Mrs. Esther Larson, 5845 West Lake street, from Feb. 16, 1928 to Feb. 20. He asked that the decree be set aside.

Demurrer Is Overruled.

Yesterday Attorney Saltiel presented a demurrer denying the charge of the affidavits. Judge Kavanagh overruled the demurrer and allowed him thirty days to present an answer. Attorney Saltiel announced that he will seek the first husband in New Mexico to testify for Mrs. Foley.

Attorney Meyer alleges that Mrs. Foley married Foley for his fortune of $9,000. He stated that she has never lived with Foley, but has kept her quarters at 5412 Iowa street and intends to leave for California on a honeymoon as soon as she can leave her nursing duties. He disclosed the fact that Mrs. Foley and her first husband were to buy the furniture, mentioned in her bill, from Foley and charges she attempted to deceive both men.

All attempts of the children to convince their father that Mrs. Foley is a designing adventuress have failed, the attorney said.

Ceremonies at Gary Today to Honor Pulaski Memory

The 150th anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot who was killed fighting in the American Revolutionary army, will be commemorated today at Gary with ceremonies in which all of Lake county will participate. The 123d engineers and the black horse troop of Culver Military academy will take part in the parade. Secretary of State Otto G. Pfaid and Col. Sergius Zahorski, chief of cavalry of the Polish army, will attend.

Dominion Envoys to Britian Ask For Diplomatic Status

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Before leaving for Washington, where he will arrive next week to take up his duties as first South African minister to the United States, Eric Louw launched a movement here for a better status for the dominion high commissioners in London. Mr. Louw retired as South African high commissioner here to assume his Washington post.

The high commissioner of dominion governments, which now enjoy equality with the government of Great Britain, is not in London on a level with the representatives of even the smallest of European states, and this handicaps them, declared Mr. Louw when he spoke before the South African Luncheon club here, which was giving him a farewell dinner.

Lord Passfield Replies.

His protest against his unsatisfactory position here was replied to by Lord Passfield, minister for the dominions, who said that there was difficulty in regard to what one might call diplomatic titles and domestic designations.

Mr. Louw later said that Lord Passfield had confused the issue to parry his protest. "In dealing with this matter I have been most careful to avoid mentioning titles or designations. Lord Passfield is avoiding the real issue. My remarks were made after several months of experience as high commissioner in London.

"Apart from any question of a particular title or designation, the status and privileges accorded to the high commissioner of any dominion in London by the British government, should be on the level with the status and privileges accorded to the representatives of any other countries."

Affects British in South Africa.

"My appeal indirectly affects the representative of the British government in South Africa," continued Mr. Louw, "because his position there will be just as difficult as mine was here in London as soon as the ministers of the United States, Holland, and Italy arrive in South Africa."

Mr. Louw's outspokenness, which has caused considerable commotion here, recalls the MacDonald-Mackenzie King discussion at Ottawa, as a result of which the phrase "royal spheres" will be used in proclamations instead of "our dominions."

WOMEN DISCUSS PLANS FOR NEXT FLOWER SHOW

Preparations for the fourth annual Chicago Garden and Flower show were begun yesterday by its executive committee and representatives of clubs affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs who met at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. The show will be held from March 28 to April 5, 1930, at the Sherman.

By their early start on plans leaders of the project hope to inspire amateur gardeners to prepare exhibits that will surpass those of other years. The women's clubs, as well as any other organized group interested in gardening, are to compete in twelve classes for amateurs. Ribbons, medals, and cash prizes totaling $800 are to be awarded.

The schedule of competitions adopted at the luncheon includes exhibits of table decorations, exterior window boxes, interior window boxes, sun parlor decoration, floral or fern arrangement for room decoration, miniature home grounds, flower arrangement in shadow boxes, and bud and bark effects, and garden or flower posters.

One of the most interesting of the competitions, Leonard H. Vaughan, chairman of the executive committee, said, is that of miniature home grounds.

"The exhibits are not to be shown merely as individual models," he said. "They will be assembled as a miniature suburb, representing the best modern ideas of suburban development."

James H. Burdett, secretary of the committee, explained that each club making five entries will be given a hundred tickets to be sold for expense money. Mrs. Charles E. Caldwell, state garden chairman of the Illinois federation, presided. Central committees organized by the federation are to manage club competitions, she said, but stressed the fact that all other clubs interested in gardening are eligible to compete.

ILLINOIS boy is Prize Winner . . .

"BILLY seemed to be out of sorts and fretful a lot," says Mrs. W. L. McClure, 7702 Cregier Avenue, Chicago. "He was sallow and bilious; didn't want to eat and couldn't digest his food right.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that, and made him a different boy. It regulated his bowels quickly; improved his appetite and digestion. He has had no trouble since; but has continued to gain until today friends say he's a regular prize winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise rich, fruity California Fig Syrup. Physicians have endorsed it for over fifty years. A pure vegetable product, it is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Appetite increases; digestion improves with its use! A youngster's entire system benefits. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see!

When buying, look for the name California that marks the genuine.

COLLEGE TO PAY HIGH HONORS TO MAJ. GEN. KNOX

Homecoming Celebration Centers About Him.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Henry Knox, right hand man to George Washington during the revolutionary war, will be given enough limelight at Galesburg next Friday and Saturday to compensate him in great part for the comparative obscurity he has suffered since his death. Extensive festivities attending the annual homecoming of Knox college will be centered about his memory.

Hundreds of Knox college alumni, many of whom live in Chicago, are expected to return here for the Gen. Knox celebration. The two day program will include an address on the life and works of Gen. Knox by one of his lineal descendants, Dr. Henry Thatcher Fowler of Brown university; a football game, dedication of a giant elm, a student parade, homecoming dinner, and other features.

Dr. Fowler Descendant.

Dr. Fowler, at one time a member of the faculty of Knox college, is the oldest living descendant of Gen. Knox. He will officiate at a chapel ceremony that will open the celebration. Dr. Fowler taught at the college from 1895 to 1901.

A procession will be formed after the chapel ceremony and the entire company, comprising the student reserve officers' training corps, the college band, representative faculty members and undergraduates and guests, will proceed across the campus to the Knox elm, which is to be dedicated.

Miss Kathryn Maher of Elmwood of the class of 1929 will have the leading role in the comedy, "The French Doll," which will be produced Friday evening.

Football Game on Program.

Saturday afternoon the Knox college team will tangle with the Illinois college eleven in the third of the main events on the homecoming calendar. Illinois college is out to avenge an 18 to 0 defeat on the same field last year.

The usual homecoming dinner will be staged after the game, in Lyman H. Seymour hall. The alumni-student dancing party will conclude the evening and the festivities.

Gen. Henry Knox, for whom Knox county was named, Knox college takes its title from the county rather than the man, was Washington's chief of artillery in the struggle of independence.

College to Honor Memory of Washington's Aid

Maj. Gen. Henry Knox, for whom Knox college at Galesburg, Ill., was named. His achievements as commander of the artillery in Washington's army and as the first secretary of war of the United States will be related at homecoming exercises this week.

Miss Kathryn Maher of Elmwood, who will play leading role in play to be produced Friday night.

BLAMES 90% OF CRUELTY DIVORCE CASES ON LIQUOR

Judge Scores Parents for Toleration.

Prohibition was blamed yesterday for nine-tenths of all divorces sought on grounds of cruelty and taxed with responsibility for the general increase in the divorce rate by Superior Judge Charles A. Williams, now sitting in the Divorce court. The judge held that present moonshine liquor excited outbursts of temper bordering on insanity.

"When cruelty is charged the acts mentioned sometimes border on the fantastic. There is a viciousness not explained by liquor as it was known before prohibition. A few drinks rouses an ordinarily even tempered man or woman to a state of fury.

"In the era before prohibition drunkenness was not an uncommon charge, but was by no means as frequent as it is now. A man of hasty temper often gave vent to fury under the stimulus of liquor, but he never men do now, if we are to believe the charges. It can only be explained by the fact that their is something in present day concoctions which brings on temporary insanity which has frequently resulted in murder.

"Prohibition also has brought on hasty marriages which too often find their way into the Divorce court in less than a year. Young people, carrying hip flasks, go to a party or on a joy ride, and suddenly develop an astounding affection for each other. They marry, still under the influence of the brain poison, and repent with the morning headache which follows."

The judge assailed the older generation for tolerating drinking by young people.

"The older generation was raised on moderate drinking, not the excess practiced today," he said. "The drunkard was scorned. But we find today that persons are socially qualified on their capacity, in most circles. The older generation does not discourage sons and daughters from drinking, as they were discouraged by their parents, because they have no sympathy with a law which makes no allowance for moderation.

"I have sympathy with the aim of the law, but in the hands of its proponents it is wrecking itself and playwent as far as even the most mild ing havoc with the institution of matrimony."

Actress Gets 10 Years for Killing Husband

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—[U. P.]—Mrs. Evelyn Helms, 29 year old actress, who took a turn at tap dancing with her husband, Frank, today was under a 10 year prison sentence for killing him. A quarrel over Helms' decision to sell a trick pony, because their funds were depleted, preceded the shooting.

TEN GIRLS GET $100 EACH FOR PERSONALITIES

First Winners Named in $22,000 Contest.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When a maid says, "My face is my fortune, sir," don't be skeptical. If she's one of the lucky ones in the Personality contest being conducted in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, she'll be out of Mother Goose and into the realm of reality.

In today's rotogravure section will be found pictures and character analyses of the first ten winners, each of whom is awarded $100. Every week, for fourteen weeks, ten girls, possessors of engaging personalities, will each be awarded that sum, and each will be eligible for the grand prizes to be distributed at the end of the contest.

$22,000 in Prizes!

Of the grand prizes the first will be $5,000; the second, $2,000; the third, $1,000. In all $22,000 will be awarded to girls all over the country whose personalities as expressed by their pictured faces are found to be interesting.

A beauty contest necessarily limits its entrants; so do any contests involving mental agility or skillful fingers, but every face, be it pretty, plain or beautiful, expresses personality. The general contour and the individual features of each face express traits or characteristics that are either inherent or developed.

Personality, Not Beauty.

In the current contest awards will not be made for beauty, or for artistic photography, but for the expressed attributes which constitute "personality," a quality almost as elusive and quite as desirable as "it."

The contest is open to all unmarried girls, excepting professional models or show girls. Pictures may be of any variety, portraits or snapshots, but the published coupon should be attached on the back of each picture, if possible.

The prize winning pictures, with the character analyses, are published every Sunday in the rotogravure section.

Russian Plane Makes Seattle-Oakland Hop

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Russian plane, Land of the Soviets, spiraled down to a perfect landing here at 3:10 p. m. today, completing the Seattle-Oakland leg of the good will flight from Moscow to New York. The flight was interrupted yesterday when oil line trouble forced the four airmen to return to Vancouver, Wash. The distance from Vancouver here is slightly more than 500 miles.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 508-M, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today!

OLD COLONY LIFE INSURANCE CO. FOUND SOLVENT

State Plea to Dissolve Concern Is Denied.

The Old Colony Life Insurance company, 205 West Jackson boulevard, was found solvent yesterday by Circuit Judge Feinberg in dismissing a petition for an injunction sought by the state to dissolve the company on the allegation that its assets were impaired. The judge upheld the recommendation of Master in Chancery Max Korshak and dismissed the state's bill for want of equity.

The company was founded in 1905 as the American Mutual Life Insurance company and changed its name in 1912. It has approximately 50,000 policy holders. On April 27, 1929, Attorney General Carlstrom sought the injunction on charges that the company's liabilities exceeded its assets by $500,000. The petition blamed the company's speculations in Florida real estate.

The suit was brought after Leo H. Howe, state director of trade and commerce, completed an examination which gave assets as $4,209,276 and set the liabilities at $4,568,078.

Company officials set the value of their building at $4,000,000 and fixed the price of the Florida land holdings at $385,000. With other accounts they contended that the assets were $2,000,000 above the liabilities. The Florida land has valuable phosphate deposits, which were not estimated by the state, the officials declared.

POCAHONTAS

MINE RUN

$7.05 Per Ton

Building owners are realizing that their earnings are less each year. This condition must be met by cutting the operating cost. It is not only necessary that you see the price per ton you pay for coal, but imperative that the costs for coal be reduced each month. This can only be accomplished by buying more heat units and paying less per ton.

United States Government and City of Chicago pay for heat units when they buy Pocahontas Coal. You can do the same.

We guarantee you 15,000 B. T. U., dry basis in our Pocahontas and agree to a deduction of 5c per ton for each 100 B. T. U. under the 15,000 B. T. U.

Weekly Hints to Building Owners

Business is where friendship ceases, except perhaps in the buying of retail coal. That is because the man who pays the bill lets someone else buy the coal for him and then there is the ever ready excuse that this is the price charged by the reputable dealers. Of course it is not always necessary to belong to an association to be reputable.

The Marine Coal Co. is owned by West Virginia mine operators to distribute their coal direct to the consumer, giving quality coal with the benefit of the rail and lake differential in the freight rate.

Storage capacity, 80,000 tons. Daily delivery capacity, 3,000 tons. 4 silos, holding 500 tons each, for dry coal.

2 steam cranes for quick loading. 16 Mack trucks for prompt service.

Efficient building managers take advantage of our savings. Among our valued customers are: Marshall Field & Co., Baird & Warner, Draper & Kramer, Willoughby & Co., and more than 2,000 homeowners.

PUT GREEN SOD ON SHOULDERS OF HARD ROADS

How Downstate Beautifies Route No. 2.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A few miles south of Vandalia, on Illinois route No. 2, a crew of highway workers is lifting sod from drainage ditches at the edge of the right of way and planting it on the dirt shoulders bordering the concrete.

The laborers engaged in this duty appeared like an exaggerated dramatization of a complaint frequently heard from Chicago motorists—that pavements beyond a Sunday's touring distance from the city are pampered at the expense of the highways in the metropolitan area.

Cook county pays approximately half of the state highway department's maintenance bill, as well as for half of the pavement.

Roads Joy to Driver.

The highways downstate here, which Chicago helped finance, are a joy to the automobile owner who likes to drive for the sake of driving as much as to get somewhere. There isn't the heavy traffic found within a radius of a hundred miles of Chicago. Curves are flattened, the concrete is smooth, and grades are gentle.

The occasional car whirrs up a wooded hill, tinted by frost, and swoops through cultivated valleys at any speed that may please the driver. There are even railroad grade separations in the downstate district known as "Little Egypt," where automobiles are few and trains are infrequent, a deep contrast with the metropolitan area.

Bridge Railroad Tracks.

State route No. 2 makes an overhead crossing of the Illinois Central tracks at two places between here and Duquoin, seventy-eight miles north.

For fifty miles north of the southern tip of the state there are scenic hills that have been called the Ozarks of Illinois. It is mountain driving under the most favorable conditions offered by highway engineers. Neatly painted white fences guard the outside shoulder of the roads at the turns. Extensive grading and filling have made it possible to maintain a 40 mile an hour pace. This was expensive construction, but Illinois has Chicago to pay half the bill while the Small administration was winning votes.

Few Dangerous Curves.

In fact, there are only three or four dangerous curves in the 399 miles from Chicago to Cairo. These are marked with large sign boards in red and white diagonal stripes bearing the legend "danger."

Strangely enough, these sharp curves are in prairie country where it would be a simple problem to moderate the angle. The expert highway engineering was reserved for the difficult tasks encountered in the hills. No highway engineer can make a reputation for himself designing a gentle turn in flat country.

A large portion of the cars on the roads hereabouts are carrying tourists' gear and headed southward. The majority of these machines would sell for less than $750 on the second hand market.

Laborers Going South.

There are no statistics on the subject, but it appeared that skilled laborers are to drive south for the winter in greater numbers than prosperous business and professional men.

The chamber of commerce here, in pointing out the benefits of the $3,100,000 bridge over the Mississippi dedicated yesterday, boasted that 500 cars a day are passing through the city.

SUPREME COURT REVERSES 1927 GAS TAXES CASE

Refund Not in Order, Says Opinion.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Illinois Supreme court today reversed and remanded the cases of the Richardson Lubricating company and Indiana Refining company against state officials in which the Sangamon Circuit court held that taxes collected under the illegal motor fuel act of 1927 and held by the department of finance be returned to the companies from which it collected the tax.

The decision, which was prepared by the late Justice Dietz, holds that the companies are not entitled to collect. The payments to the department of finance, it is held, were made under the impression that the law was valid, and not under duress.

Illegal Phase Overlooked.

"It does not appear," said the decision, "that the complaint here regarded the tax to be illegal or that it questions the validity of the act. Neither is it shown that the complainant objected to the operation of the act or to the payment of the tax thereby imposed. On the contrary, the bill avers that as soon as the act became effective the complainant applied for and took out a license there under, made all of the reports and payments thereby required and was operating under such license at the time the payment in question was made."

Payment Voluntary.

In summing up, Justice Dietz said: "The only fair conclusion that can be reached from the allegations of the bill and answer and the legitimate inferences to be drawn therefrom is that the payment was made voluntarily. It is well settled that in the absence of fraud taxes so paid cannot be recovered even though they are illegal because laid under an unconstitutional law where there is no statute authorizing such recovery. No fraud is charged in the bill, and the answer avers that the defendants were advised and believed that the act was invalid. It is not claimed that a recovery is authorized by statute."

DILL ADVOCATES TARIFF DEBATES BE BROADCAST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Broadcasting of the debates in congress was urged in a radio speech today by Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.].

Dill, speaking on a farm program, declared if "you farmers could listen in on some of the tariff debates now going on in the United States senate you might understand better how it happened that the farmers get very little out of a tariff bill."

WON'T DIG RENT UP, WON'T MOVE, SO SIEGE IS ON

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The siege of 429 West 23d street, with Mrs. Tillie Hart as the besieged, still was in progress today.

Last night, after her landlords had obtained a court order directing her to pay up $600 back rent or move within five days, Mrs. Hart said:

"There's one thing in the world I can't do, and that's raise $600. I'm going away from here."

But today, surveying the surrounding terrain, at present just a lot of big holes in the ground where there is going to be built a big apartment hotel as soon as she gets out of the way, she changed her mind.

She went back to her original determination to remain until her lease expires next June, let wrecking crews come as they will. She's looking for the $600.

"I am not going to move," she said doggedly. "It's a matter of principle."

The house she occupies once was owned by Clement Moore, who wrote "'T'was the night before Christmas."

end to CORNS between toes

Those terribly mean corns between the toes that seem to defy all treatment—they're as easily removable as any other with Freezone! A few drops of Freezone instantly put the corn to sleep. Pain is deadened at once, and soon the corn becomes so loose that you can actually lift it right out with your fingers. Hard corns or soft corns—all yield to Freezone. Why suffer when your druggist sells Freezone?

KEWANEE

When you build a costly building and install in it an inefficient heating boiler, you have a white elephant on your hands. Many modern buildings house from 5,000 to 10,000 workers. If the boiler breaks down during extremely cold weather, none of these folks would be able to work and thousands of dollars in time wasted.

How long would the tenants remain when you consider that with such a boiler, such a condition is apt to arise frequently during the Winter? That's why we advise you to Build from the Boiler Up.

The tenant is the building's asset. Its success depends on him and he won't stay if he isn't comfortable, and if he is often in danger of serious colds. This proves that the heating boiler is the most important feature in the buildings, and should have FIRST consideration in the plans.

The Kewanee All-Steel (riveted) Firebox Boiler has proved the salvation of many of the finest buildings in this country—office buildings, public buildings, apartment buildings, school houses, churches, mercantile marts, warehouses, depots and others, because it doesn't break down, or get out of order or crack or leak. It is always there when needed most. It is built to last an indefinite number of years. It is constructed of the same class of material and in the same manner, as the world's great steamships, locomotives, and bridges. It is an engineering and mechanical triumph.

Ask the manager of our branch office in your city. Ask the best architect you know—the best heating engineer.

GASTONIA MEN NOT GUILTY IN FLOGGING CASE

Jurors Deliberate Less than an Hour.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Concord, N. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Four Gastonia cotton mill men were found not guilty this afternoon in the Ben Wells flogging case by a jury in Cabarrus county Superior court. It took a shirt sleeved jury of farmers and merchants an hour and twenty-five minutes—an hour of which was taken up by lunch—to arrive at the conclusion that the Loray mill foreman had tried to save the communist organizers instead of spank them.

Ben Wells, the Britisher, was the only one of the trio to bear bruises on his body one morning last month when he wandered in from the woods with Cliff D. Saylors and C. M. Lell. Tulky he was too busy "speaking" in the north to appear, but sent word he would show up Monday. In Judge A. M. Stack's court time waits for neither tide nor man, so Wells' story was read into the records by Solicitor Sol Vance Long.

Jurors Take It Easy.

There was little ceremony in the old fashioned courtroom where the mill men were tried. A great American flag hung behind the judge's bench. Judge Stack sat in an easy chair and tugged at his short mustache as the lawyers questioned witnesses, and the jurors half reclined, the better to show their marksmanship in squirting at a sawdust filled box.

There was nothing of communism, God, religion, and politics that had marked the preliminary hearing before Judge Thomas J. Shaw in Charlotte, but all the old and young familiar faces were there. The Aderholt trial in Charlotte had been put over until Monday, and among those in the courtroom was Solicitor John G. Carpenter of Gastonia. Solicitor Carpenter, with a fresh flower in his buttonhole—he had worn out two the day before in his histronic and historic address to the jury—had come to defend his name from the witness stand, for he had been accused of "leading the mob that flogged Wells." Mr. Carpenter, however, did not tell his tale.

Judge Vindicates Him.

"We know you had nothing to do with this flogging," said Judge Stack as the solicitor climbed into the floor level witness chair and hunched his knees under his chin. "I consider it prevalent that you appear in this case. Step down."

There were fifty-two witnesses for the defense and five for the state. There were five full blooming oratorical explanations of the case made to the jury by lawyers, and there was a charge by the court, but tonight the mystery of who spanked Ben Wells has taken its place in history along with that of who struck Billy Patterson.

Kidnaping Case Next.

Next week, in Gaston county, another jury will consider the matter of who kidnaped the three unionists from their boarding house gallery and took them for a ride the night the juror went crazy and broke up the first Aderholt murder trial in Charlotte.

The men freed today were O. G. Rowland, superintendent of Loray mill at Gastonia; Carl Holloway, Henry Carver, and Horace Lane, employes of the mill. Each man had half a dozen air-tight alibis and used them all.

PANTAGES TO ENTER WITNESS BOX TOMORROW

Los Angeles, Cal. Oct. 18.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages will take the witness stand in his own defense Monday at the resumption of his trial on a charge of assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, attorneys for the theatrical magnate announced today.

They said the defendant, who considers the accusation against him is the outgrowth of a blackmail attempt, would undergo two hours of direct examination. District Attorney Buron has said he expected the case to reach the jury some time next week. He intends to conduct the cross-examination of Pantages.

Los Angeles, Cal. Oct. 19.—(AP)—Booker T. Washington, Jr., son of the noted Negro educator, today filed for divorce from Nettie H. Washington, charging she had been guilty of infidelity.

NEW ALIEN ACT FAVORS LAWLESS, GLENN ASSERTS

Raps Law in Talk to German Club.

Lawless peoples are welcomed and industrious peoples turned away under the national origins law which went into effect last July, it was declared by United States Senator Otis F. Glenn at a luncheon yesterday of the German club of Chicago.

"The law," said Senator Glenn, "has decreased the quotas of immigrants entering the United States from the northern areas of Europe and increased the quotas from southern Europe. Some of these southern European races are those whose people have brought crime and national disgrace to Chicago, and yet we have changed our laws to bring more of them to America, and less of the law-abiding, law-loving German and Scandinavian peoples."

Germany's Quota Cut.

The senator presented figures showing that Germany's quota had been reduced from 51,227 per year under the old act to 25,957 under the new. England's quota is increased from 34,007 to 65,721. The aim of the law was to base the number of immigrants from each country on the ratio of the ancestral nationalities of the present citizens of the United States.

"I dispute the wisdom of going back into colonial days to establish what peoples are desirable today," Senator Glenn asserted. "Can a colonial dame throw hay on a haystack? No!

"Go into New England today, the land where the first Americans settled, and what do we see? Deserted farms, empty villages, abandoned mines. The land has become barren through use. Here in the great central United States, and in the virile west, may be found the real types of citizens whose usefulness to their country should determine whether more of their kind should be admitted to this land."

Sees Tariff Bill Doom.

Senator Glenn asserted that the tariff bill now under consideration in congress is doomed not to pass. There are too many unwise provisions in the bill, having no connection with the original purpose of the session, which was to give relief to agriculture, the senator asserted.

LAY BOMBING TO POLITICAL FUSS IN 50TH WARD

The factional fight in the 50th ward is believed by the police to be the cause of a stench bomb explosion early yesterday at the home of Michael Kelly, 6157 North Richmond street, a building contractor and a former policeman. The rival Republican factions in the north side ward have been fighting over a period of several years and not long ago a meeting broke up in a riot.

Kelly was complaining witness against Michael Maloney, also a contractor, who was sentenced to six months in the bridewell two years ago. Maloney through some procedure escaped serving the sentence until the matter was recently called to the attention of the state's attorney's office. Maloney was then arrested and after two weeks of dispute between the authorities he was lodged in the bridewell Thursday.

The bitter feeling caused by politics in the ward had caused charges and counter charges to be made against various minor political figures in the ward. Several fights have also occurred.

GETS 10 YEARS ON GIRL'S PLEA.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Dan Blackwell, a Negro, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary when found guilty of attacking a girl of 13 years.

RUPTURE

Don't submit to avoidable operations or the use of antiquated trusses with or without undershirts, as they all get where the lump is and not where the opening is. The opening is seldom larger than a dime [no matter the size of the rupture], and all cases can be retained with the end of a lead pencil.

"The Spermatic Shield-Complex in combination with the Retainer-Simplex [Patent No. 747247 and other patents pending]—a scientific achievement in a highly specialized art. It will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures [following operations] specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions, with distinguished personal patrons of all nations."

"If you want done what the rest cannot do—see Seeley."

Will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired.

Tune in on "Mr. and Mrs." . . Cartoonist Briggs' "comic section of the air"! Graybar Hour, 8 to 8:30, every Saturday night. Columbia Broadcasting System.

For the center of any family circle . . .

GRAYBAR SCREEN GRID RADIO

THE whole family loves to gather around the radio now . . . And what a radio it is, this new Graybar Screen Grid!

Just listen to it!

Listen to music that fairly sweeps you away . . . music warm and vibrant! Rich with gorgeous "tone-color"! Vivid!

It's the new Screen Grid tube that does it. With these wonderful new tubes, reproduction is so faithful that radio performers seem to come to life right in the room.

Another thing. How this Graybar Screen Grid Radio does bring in the distant stations! They come in, clear and true, in no time! And what selectivity! (Again, it's done by the marvelous Graybar Screen Grid Circuit with the Screen Grid tube—virtually "two tubes in one"!)

Nor is that all. The Graybar Radio is housed in an unusually distinctive cabinet . . . trim, artistic lines . . . exquisitely grained wood . . . lovely tapestry covering. A beauty! The kind that "grows" on you.

And remember, its through-and-through quality is backed by Graybar, the oldest electrical distributor, and outfitter-complete to practically all of the leading broadcasting stations in this country.

Nowhere in all radio tube-dom are there better tubes than RCA Radiotrons, Graybar believes. That's why Graybar distributes them.

One would certainly never suspect for a moment that this marvelous Screen Grid Cabinet Model No. 550 costs (less radiotrons) only . . $179

(And this price includes—believe it or not—an improved electro-dynamic loudspeaker!)

The Graybar Screen Grid Table Model No. 500, is also surprisingly moderate in price at (less radiotrons) . . . $110

(For details, see coupon below.)

The 24-hour sun bath!

Here's an indoor sun that shines in any weather . . . in the winter . . . at night . . . on gloomy days . . . anytime! At the snap of a switch, the Graybar Sunshine Health Lamp duplicates real sunshine—safely—and brings it where it's wanted. It's a health necessity for indoor people . . . for children . . . for "shut-ins".

Compact, too. Only 20 inches high. Weighs 24 pounds. But the big surprise is the price. Only . . $49.50

Have poise—instead of avoirdupois!

Many a woman is keeping the trim, slim figure demanded by Dame Fashion today—thanks to the Graybar Stimulator. This compact little health motor does marvels in taking off surplus flesh—pleasantly!

But it does more than that. It peps one up. Chases fatigue. Renews youthful vigor. Brings the healthy glow that adds so much to one's personality!

Varying gradations of massage, to suit every need. Simple construction. Easy operation.

Tip: It's good for husbands, too. A practical way to get that necessary exercise. And it's also a splendid value! The price is only . . . . . $59.50 Table free

(And remember . . . you get a table free!)

A "whole handful" of vacuum cleaner. The Graybar Cleanerette weighs only four pounds—but it's a little giant for cleaning curtains, mattresses, upholstery,—and the inside of your car. It's just made to get at difficult corners! $13.50

Ask your dealer about the Vaporette Set

For husbands who can't sew . . . Here's a washer that won't take off buttons! The Graybar Two-Speed Clothes Washer's soft rubber wringer rolls see to that! This washer has a special slow speed . . . safe for dainty things. It also has a fast speed . . . to wash every-day things quickly and thoroughly. $165.00

No "cold spells" here

Banish that "shivery" feeling! When cold Fall winds blow—sit back and bask in the cheery warmth of a Graybar Reflector Heater. It's dependable . . . portable . . . good-looking. Indispensable, these brisk mornings and chilly evenings! And convenient for Baby's bath, too. $7.50

Fish's Are Chicago's Headquarters for the Famous COLONIAL Radio.

COLONIAL Clears the Air!

Featuring Exclusively Dr. Fulton Cutting's Famous Invention . . . the Built-In CUTTING DYNAMIC SPEAKER with Cutting Sound Radiation

Now—for the first time—these Colonial features are available to you at a new low price . . .

Now—a Flood of Rich, Pure Glorious Sound That Fills the Air with Melody . . . as Sweet and Clear as a Bell!

AT LAST—a new principle in radio that brings you the true beauty of each instrument—the soft inflections of the voice . . . that gives true personality and character to the various sounds from the loud speaker, so that you get a real thrill when you select your station, or your entertainer, because they are different from the rest! Noises, distortion, static and all the old bugaboos of radio are unknown in the Colonial. Nor do you need to sit directly in front of the cabinet, as with other radios, to get the fullness and beauty of its tone. Not a "spotlight BEAM," but a FLOOD of music, swelling in waves of glorious sound to every corner of the room, and through the house. To hear it is to marvel that the human quality has been so faithfully reproduced.

What Stradivarius Is to the Violin—COLONIAL Is to Radio!

The NEW COLONIAL Radio

$175.00 Less Tubes

Only $20 Cash Delivers It!

(Note! No Additional Down Payment Required on the Tubes.)

AT THIS new low price the Colonial is now available to everyone! Now even the home of modest income can enjoy the best in radio. The superb quality of its voice is well matched by the beauty of its exterior—a cabinet admirably fitted to hold so fine an instrument. A masterpiece of grace and elegance that will enhance the beauty of the finest room. There are no sliding or swinging doors to open. The secret cameo door cleverly conceals the control panel and may be kept closed while the set is playing, without muffling the sound. Shown also in two other exclusive designs—at Fish's seven large stores. Bring your family in during the day or evening and hear "Radio's Clearest Voice." We know that once you've heard it, you'll never be satisfied until you own a Colonial!

BY DON MAXWELL.

Powerful Minnesota was forced to call on its reserves both in the line and in the back field yesterday to overcome a Northwestern eleven whose spirit was greater than its strength. Minnesota's reserves were equal to the task and when the final whistle was blown in a colorful Dads' day game at Dyche stadium the score was recorded Minnesota, 26; Northwestern, 14.

For three quarters the battle thrilled the 40,000 onlookers. Minnesota was in the lead at the end of the first quarter. Northwestern was in the lead at the end of the half. Minnesota forged ahead again in the third quarter, and Northwestern again showed the Gophers back. But in the fourth and final period, Coach Spears called for that reserve division. The Purple tried to match the new power with fresh strength and couldn't. Northwestern's line weakened under the determined thrusts of hardier foes and its back field faltered and failed to rally.

If the game had ended at the close of the third quarter the records would have shown Northwestern, 14; Minnesota, 0. The fact that the Norsemen garnered 17 points in the fourth quarter testifies to the power of those reserves.

Good Start for Gophers.

It was Minnesota's first conference victory of the fall. The Gophers are now started on the path they hope will lead to a Big Ten title. If they continue to play as they did yesterday it will take a mighty good team to stop them. Their line is strong and their back field has power and versatility.

Just as the victory set Minnesota's feet on the trail to a title, so Northwestern's defeat dimmed Purple titular hopes. Coach Hanley's team won a costly triumph over Wisconsin a week ago. Hank Bruder, great punter, great runner, and great defensive back, suffered a broken leg. Northwestern missed him yesterday. No member of Northwestern's back field could take his place. None of them played better than a mediocre game.

Minnesota's back field in contrast had three stellar performers in Pharmer, Nagurski and Brockmeyer. Pharmer place kicked unerringly for eight points and dash through the line for two touchdowns. Nagurski plunged for yardage and made it; Brockmeyer scored a touchdown, ran the ends brilliantly, and punted fairly well.

The Norsemen mixed a fine end running attack with short, hard jabs at the opposing tackles. Oliphant, who played right end for Northwestern, served the Minnesota flank movement better than did Baker, his colleague on the other end. It was Gonya, substituting for Oliphant, who failed most disastrously to stop a Gopher sortie with Brockmeyer carrying the ball, which was turned into a scoring chance.

Northwestern's best gains were

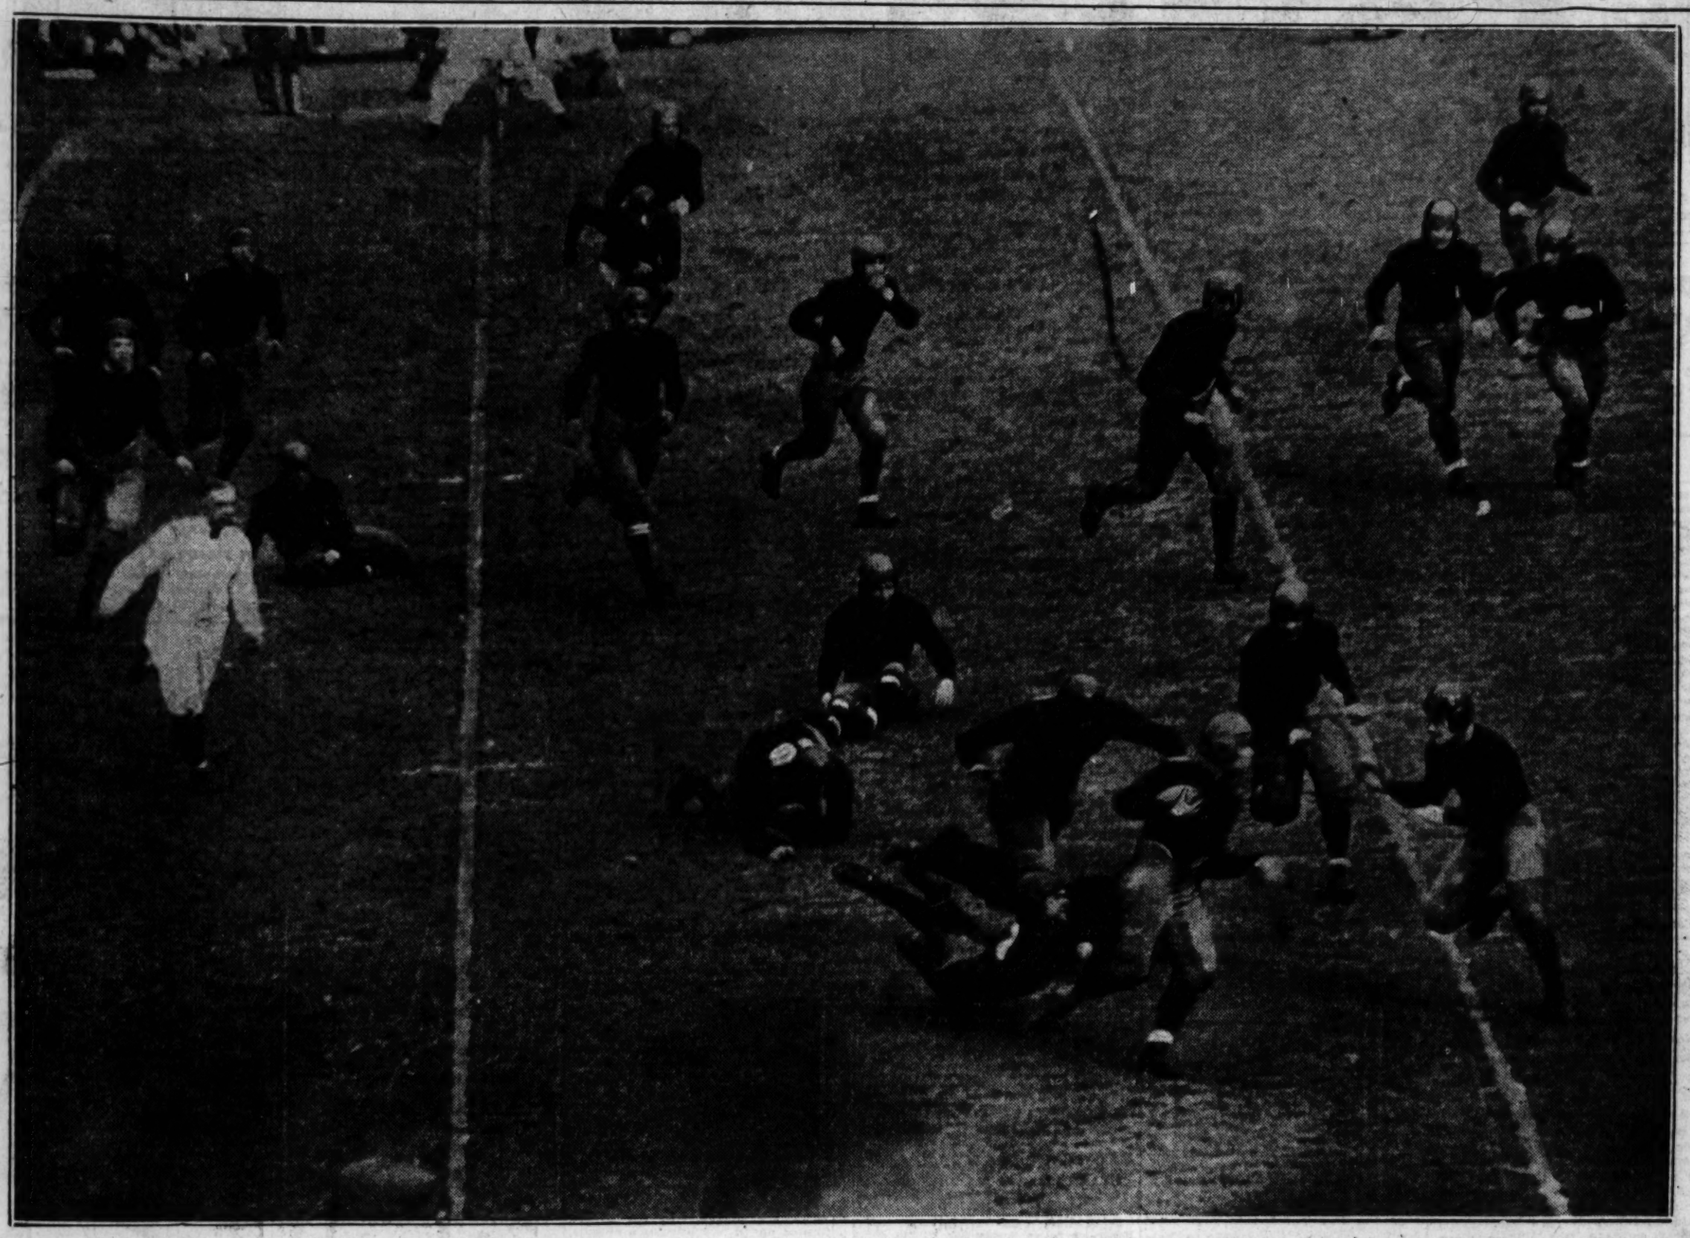
Tribune Pictures Eight Conference Teams in Action

THE TRIBUNE this morning presents pictures of eight of the Big Ten football teams in yesterday's games. Pictures of the Ohio-Michigan game at Ann Arbor, of Northwestern's battle with Minnesota at Dyche stadium, Chicago's victory over Ripon and a panorama of the crowd at the Notre Dame-Wisconsin game on Soldiers' field will be found on page 3 of this section. The pictures of the Iowa-Illinois game, which dedicated the Hawkeye stadium at Iowa City, will be found on page 2.

When the Shock Troops Won for Notre Dame



Schwartz, who started at right half for Notre Dame against Wisconsin, circles the end of the Badger scrimmage line in the first quarter. Schwartz was one of the headliners in the shock troops that Notre Dame sent on the field to take the edge off the Wisconsin offense. Savoldi, full back, was the only regular to start. This combination held a 6 to 0 lead at the end of the period when the regulars took the field. Two more touchdowns in the third quarter completed the final score, 19 to 0. Tom Lieb directed Notre Dame in the absence of Coach Rockne. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Savoldi, a pudgy lad from a place called Three Oaks, Mich., probably will become famous as the Wandering Italian or some such thing.

Mr. Joe wandered around Soldiers' field yesterday like one who came to see all the sights. He saw them, and in seeing, let 90,000 spectators have a glimpse of a powerful Notre Dame grid army, which marched over, around and through the best resistance that a University of Wisconsin eleven could offer. It wasn't enough by the distance of the moon, and when the final pistol barked in the haze of an Indian summer dusk, Mr. Joe and his cosmopolitan squad were out in front by 19 to 0.

The stocky, speedy Wandering Italian and the others came to avenge what a Badger team had done to Notre Dame's satellites a year ago. They did it in the rough, driving, relentless manner you might expect from a Knute Rockne team. No more could be asked of them.

Scores on Long Runs.

Savoldi, a sophomore, wasn't alone in his sightseeing, but at least he was the leader. There was a back named Jack Elder, better known to fame, who conducted one goal seeking expedition. There was a large number of other backs who did things. There was an endless string of linesmen who opened large holes through which the backs could gallop. But the Wandering Italian from Three Oaks stood out as a bellwether, because he not only crossed the Cardinal goal line once, but twice, the first on a forty yard dash and the second on a sizzling 71 yard sprint.

What Wisconsin did against this persistent attack of the Rockne army was nothing. At the start the Badgers made a threat and fumbled when a touchdown against Notre Dame's second string starting eleven seemed imminent. The break probably was disheartening. At any rate, the Badgers sagged down. Their line couldn't hold, especially at the tackles. Their backs could make no appreciable headway. In the third period they were actually weary. In the fourth they picked up a bit and threatened, but the threat faded. At best it was only a bid for a consolation touchdown.

Lusby Punts Well.

With a better line Wisconsin's backs might have gone places and seen things as did the Wandering Italian and the dancing Elder. There were times when a youth named Oman, who started and finished for the Badgers, was able to carry on by himself. The energetic Lusby was no loafer as a ground gainer or a punter. H. Rebholtz occasionally kicked holes in Notre Dame's wall. His brother, Russell, in a few spots ran and outkicked the best Notre Dame had. But none of this was sustained. The South Benders always were able to stop it after a flurry. This ability to stop things accounted for the fact that the victors had twelve first downs against nine for the Cardinal clad.

Notre Dame contributed its first bit to the day's damage in the middle of the first quarter. This was when the Wandering Italian, who is supposed to be a mere second stringer, shot out of a hole and toured 40 yards to Wisconsin's goal. The next came early in the third quarter, when Elder did as Savoldi had done. Elder ripped off 43 yards before he quit. Then a few minutes later Savoldi exceeded even himself. He raced 71 yards before failing exhausted over his opponents' goal. Only one extra point was picked up on these three chances.

It was a beautiful punt and run back by Oman that made possible Wisconsin's threat early in the game. The fight was only a few minutes old when the Wisconsin back hoisted a perfect punt from his own 25 yard line and sent it thumping out of bounds one yard from the Notre Dame goal.

Schwartz, one of Rockne's numerous backs, booted it in the opposite direc-

Ohio Defeats Michigan, 7-0, on Pass, Holman to Fesler

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich. Oct. 19.—A perfectly executed forward pass, Holman to Fesler, gave Ohio State a victory over Michigan this afternoon, 7 to 0, before a capacity crowd of 87,000 who came by train, auto, and electric cars from all sections of Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and Indiana.

WESLEY FESLER.

Weather conditions were perfect for the spectators but a trifle warm for the players, who repeatedly called for time to rest. A fairly strong wind blew from the south and the team which defended the south goal had the advantage in the punting. Both were equipped with powerful formations, most of which gained ground when executed properly.

Although Michigan was defeated it was not outplayed. Statistics show that the Wolverines made 207 yards by rushing against 59 for Ohio State. The Buckeyes completed 6 forward passes for a gain of 68 yards. The Maize and Blue made 58 yards by completing 3 forward passes. Each tried 11. The punting was about even, but Holman always ran back the kicks from 5 to 15 yards, which gave Ohio the advantage.

Bucks Hold on Foot Line.

Although Ohio scored early in the second period, Michigan was trying until the final whistle. At one time the Wolverines lost the ball on downs on the Buckeyes' one foot line. On other occasions they took the oval inside the visitors' five yard line, but they were not able to cross the scoring mark. The punch was not there, although the backs drove hard and picked their holes nicely.

Michigan had a strong attack which was mixed nicely. There were double and triple passes back of the line and cut backs off the tackles, not to mention swinging end runs and delayed bucks through the line. At one time

Michigan—Heston for Hudson, Poorman for Hayden.

Captain Truskowski tossed a lateral pass to Heston who made a gain of 12 yards.

For the most part Ohio State employed an unbalanced line. The plays were generally sent off the strong side or between the center and guard. There was plenty of power in front of the ball carrier. Allen Holman, acting captain of the team, handled his team nicely and seldom placed it in a hole by calling the wrong play. His catching and running back of punts was faultless and he looks like one of the best football players in the Western conference.

Heston Looks Good.

It was a hard fought but clean game. It was the second conference victory for the Buckeyes and the second defeat for Michigan. It was a hard blow for Harry Kipke, who is coaching his first year at his alma mater, and a boost in the stock for Sam Willaman, who is also teaching football for the first time at Ohio State.

An encouraging feature of the game from a Michigan standpoint was the ball carrying of Heston, son of the greatest back who ever wore the Maize and Blue of Michigan. Heston was sent into the game near the close of the second quarter. He performed

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—Harvard and the Army fought a 20 to 20 battle, scoring three touchdowns and two extra points apiece this afternoon, and there were times down below on the grassy plain when it looked as if the lads were growing just a mite peevish in the rough impacts of skull against skull.

There were numerous penalties for excessive vigor as Harvard's new found virility and might expressed itself on the durable structures of the cadets from up river. At one point the gray bank of West Pointers sitting together opposite the Harvard side of the stadium broke into a dark growl of indignation. This occurred as Josiah Potter, the ponderous 19 year old full back of the second string Harvard back field squatted on or about Chris Cagle, thumping him spiritedly.

This was one of the incidents for which Harvard was penalized 15 yards, and the officials pointed the finger of shame at the erring young man as the affronted Mr. Cagle, from a reclining position, hollored for retributive justice.

Expected Emphatic Treatment.

However, there was no scandal, and when the two troupes finally dragged themselves off through the tunnels leading to the dressing rooms, panting, and smeared with soil and the application of soot which had been dabbed on their cheekbones to dull the glare of the sun, nobody tarried to exchange recriminations. The Army had heard that Harvard would greet them with a committee of the hardiest athletes who have played the game at Cambridge in many years, and they must have been expecting very emphatic treatment.

They seemed to adjust themselves to the way of the game and to take the challenge in the rough, reckless spirit in which it was intended. There was only one point of disadvantage for the Army in this and that was that their team operates around one great

Iowa Dedicates Stadium; Ties Illinois, 7-7, in Rain

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 19.—Capt. Bill Glassgow of Iowa ran 77 yards from the first scrimmage of the game with Illinois this afternoon and forthwith kicked a point. Inasmuch as Bill was not scheduled to even be in the lineup, on account of a triple fracture of his cheekbone, his precipitate act caused great consternation among the Illini warriors.

BILL GLASSGOW.

The proud Zuppke cohorts recovered sufficiently in the second quarter to match the Iowa tally and the game ended 7 to 7. But it unquestionably was one of those things the experts call a moral victory—a moral victory for the much harassed Hawkeys.

After the first great thrust of the crippled Iowa captain the Illinois boys were in such a panic that Iowa almost made a second touchdown in the first five minutes of play. But the Illinois stalwarts held on their 5 yard line, took a few deep breaths and proceeded about the business of saving their hides. It is doubtful if the 1927-1928 Big Ten conference champions feel that the 7 to 7 count did salvage their said hides.

Rain and More Rain.

The game was played before 40,000 Iowa homecomers as the first contest in the new $500,000 stadium. It rained throughout the entire afternoon and the downpour as the game ended approached the cloudburst classification. But the bunch stuck to the finish. It is doubtful if 2,500 persons left the stands before the final gun.

The dedicatory march of the Iowa band, all pretty but soaked, in their full dress regalia, scarcely had been completed when the homecomers got the thrill the like of which they scarcely had dreamed. As you know, Iowans are pretty sore on the Big Ten football idea and the turn out today before game time seemed a bit grim.

Peters kicked to Thomas, who returned the ball to his own 23 yard line. Thomas was knocked out on the play and the Iowa tough luck groan was given in unison. The teams lined up. Capt. Glassgow's form emerged from the mass in the center of the line. He found himself clear and started travelling. On the Illinois 25 yard Lanum almost nailed him, but Bill squirmed and it was a clear trip the rest of the way.

Ball Strikes Crossbar.

The kick for the extra point should convince the sorely oppressed Hawkeyes that maybe there is an Allah who doesn't hate folks who try to get good athletes to come to their university. The ball hit the crossbar and whirled high, almost straight up in the air. It could have come down on either side of the standard without making the physics profs wonder. But it came down on the scoring side, and, in the light of later events, was the break that averted a second 7 to 6 Big Ten Iowa defeat in 8 days.

We might as well get the other Iowa thrill out of the way before we start singing about the Illini. As soon as the whooping about Glassgow's initial flash died down, there was another kickoff, of course. Westra kicked to Peters, who was downed on his 20 yard line. After two plays Walker punted out of bounds on Iowa's 46 yard line. Glassgow surprised the Illini with a quick kick and the ball was down on Illinois' one foot line. It was brought back and Illinois penalized for clipping, half the distance to the goal from the spot of the offense placing the ball on Illinois 13 yard line in Iowa's possession.

Glassgow fumbled and Wolgast recovered for Illinois. Then Lanum fumbled for Illinois and it was Iowa's ball on Illinois' twelve yard line. Glassgow made seven yards on three downs but on his fourth plunge he was held and the ball went over on Illinois' five yard line.

Zup's Team Gets Going.

This terminated the Iowa rally and they made only one more serious threat in the third quarter when Glassgow made a pass which bounded

ROCKNE, PROPPED UP IN BED, GETS NEWS OF VICTORY

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 19.—[U.P.]—Knute Rockne, propped up in bed with an ailing leg, received the news of the Notre Dame's victory over Wisconsin with a broad smile today. Rockne said after the game he was feeling better.

tion on the first down. Oman caught it on his foes' 40 yard mark and tore up a dodging trail down the field until finally brought down on the South Benders' 8 yard line. In two more plays this same lad had charged through guard and tackle to put the ball seven feet from the coveted line.

Then the chills that were scooting up and down the backs of the Notre Dame rooters ceased. Gnabah, the Badger second string full back, fumbled. Conley fell on the ball on the 3 yard line. Notre Dame promptly kicked out of danger and one of Wisconsin's two chances for a touchdown went glimmering.

Oman Misses Savoldi.

It wasn't long after Gnabah's miscue that Rockne's men began to lay plans for a touchdown. A Wisconsin man lost the ball in the bottom of a beefy heap on the Notre Dame 25 yard line. McNamara recovered it for Notre Dame and the drive was on.

On the first place Schwartz hooked around Wisconsin's left end and then cut back toward the middle of the field. Sammy Behr, another of the Badger backs who carred on even after the odds were hopeless, finally caught him from behind. By that time he had traveled 35 yards to Wisconsin's 40 yard mark.

Next was Joe Savoldi. On a reverse play he marched proudly and speedily through a tunnel like opening in the neighborhood of Wisconsin's left tackle. He should have been stopped but he easily eluded the Badgers' bad tackling. He just kept on going and finally there was nothing between him and the goal except Oman. The latter missed and for the last twenty yards the wandering Italian just loped. Gebert missed the kick for the extra point.

Regulars Go In.

When the second period started there was a commotion on the Notre Dame bench. Sweaters were being pulled off in a mad scramble of men to get into action. Nine of them made the grade. Savoldi and Brill were the only ones to remain in the lineup. The nine were part of Rockne's regular troops. They did nothing through the second period to prove it. The Badgers played them about even.

At the start of the third period it was a bit different. After the kickoff there was an exchange of punts between Carideo and R. Rebholtz. The latter's punt was caught by the former who was brought down on Wisconsin's 43 yard mark.

On the first down, Elder zoomed around the Badgers' left end with the help of compact interference. Then the hostiles began to grab at him, but none could maintain a hold. Behr chased him for a time but quit when he realized he was hopelessly outdistanced in the 43 yard hike for a touchdown. Carideo kicked for the extra point, making the score 13 to 0.

Spinner Play Works.

After Elder's run Wisconsin appeared unmistakably weary. Brill and Savoldi repeatedly tore through for short gains, but when the least bit of a pinch appeared the South Benders kicked as a matter of safety. It was after an exchange of kicks between Carideo and R. Rebholtz that the former found himself shoved out of bounds on Notre Dame's 29 yard line.

It was on the next play that Savoldi popped up out of nowhere. He shot out of a big gap at Wisconsin's left tackle and went down the field for his seventy-one yard journey, in which nobody was able to molest him. All the Badgers were somewhere else. A spinner play sent them in the wrong direction just as it had a dozen times previously. Carideo's attempt for the extra point was fumbled.

After this there wasn't much except substitutes and Wisconsin's eleventh hour threat. In the fourth period, with Oman back on the premises, the Badgers began to move. Finally they clowed in on the Notre Dame goal. They had moved from the 40 yard to the 6 yard line. Then a pass was attempted. It sailed over the goal line incomplete and Notre Dame carried the ball out to the 20 yard line to continue the remaining minutes of futile struggling.

Iowa's First Play! It Ties Illinois, 7-7

Bill Glassgow, Iowa captain, cuts through the middle of the Illini line on the first play of the game and races 77 yards for the touchdown. In the next period Illinois tied the score at 7 to 7, and that's the way it remained. The gridiron engagement dedicated the new $500,000 Hawkeye stadium. Rain fell throughout, but the footing for the players was firm, although the ball was difficult to handle. The tie, a moral victory for Iowa, may keep Illinois from winning the third consecutive Big Ten title. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

off the paws of an Illini into the arms of Reedquist, in the end zone. The ball was slippery, of course, and the thing oozed away from the Hawkeye end.

Now let's talk about Mr. Zuppke's boys. They were stunned by the opening goings on but succeeded in getting things under way about half way through the second quarter.

The Illini's tying march started after an Iowa penalty for holding which resulted in Glassgow kicking out of bounds on his own 37 yard line. After this Timm skirted left end for six yards and Mills made first down on Iowa's 27 yard line.

Iowa smeared two Illinois plays, then a forward pass, Lanum to Peters, made nine yards. A quarter back sneak by Peters made first down by an eyelash on Iowa's 16 yard line. Mills ran right end for a touchdown. Peters drop kicked the extra point.

Booth Scores Yale Points in 14 to 6 Victory

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Brown's dream of conquest over the Big Three this year lived for the space of one period in Yale bowl today. It crumbled when fiery little Albie Booth scampered and squirmed and scurried for two touchdowns, drop kicking both extra points personally, so that Yale gained a 14 to 6 victory, its thirtieth in the 35 football meetings of the two universities.

Throughout the first quarter Brown, conqueror of Princeton last Saturday, ruled the field. Yale's backs were on defense for passes, but Brown, with smooth reverse formations, made four first downs along the ground and scored a touchdown on the last play of the first period.

Then the picture changed. When the teams lined up for the kickoff, Booth was at left half for Yale. At first he was a useless weapon. For more than half of the second period he battered the rugged Brown line without success.

Five minutes before half time replacements came to the Yale line and immediately Yale's power tore gaps in Brown's defense. Booth, now that he had room to run, roused Yale's side of the 40,000 crowd to joyful frenzy with his dashes into Brown territory that resulted in the two winning touchdowns. Lineup:

WASHINGTON AND GRINNELL TIE ON MUDDY FIELD

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A water soaked gridiron denied Grinnell college the use of its aerial attack today, and the Pioneers played a scoreless tie with Washington university of St. Louis in their homecoming game. Virtually all of the game was played in midfield. Both elevens threatened to score late in the last quarter, but a fumble ended Washington's chance, and the final gun halted Grinnell's advance.

CARDINALS AND BEARS RESUME RIVALRY TODAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two new teams will carry on the traditional rivalry between the Cardinals and Bears today at Wrigley field, where the professional football season opens for Chicago at 2:15 o'clock.

Only three players remain from the 1928 Cardinal team. The south side eleven, under its new owner, Dr. David Jones, who has replaced Charley O'Brien, an organizer of the league, again has become a factor in deciding the title.

Assistance for Holmer.

The Bears also have strengthened. Walter Holmer, a unanimous selection last year for Western conference halfback, now is wearing the orange jersey of the Bears. He's the player the crowd will be watching today. His remarkable kicking and passing ability have added power to the Bears' attack.

Holmer will have assistance, plenty of it. Bill Senn, Laurie Walquist, Joe Sternaman, Paddy Driscoll, and Red Grange, all veterans, will be in the back field some time during the game.

Red Grange is making a comeback after a year's absence. Those who have watched him in the four games the Bears have played say he's in shape.

Nevers Cardinal Ace.

Ernie Nevers and Mickey McDonald are the Cardinals expected to do things in a big way for the south siders. Nevers has been one of the consistent performers in professional football since he left Stanford.

Full Back Method and Fall Elkins, Indian half back, are others with professional reputations. Elkins was one of the stars of the Frankford eleven last season.

Then there's Gene Rose. Last year Rose played with Wisconsin, and then were times when critics said he was practicing for a professional career at the expense of his Big Ten opponents. Rose will call signals for the Cardinals.

Chuck Kassel, once of the Illini, Duke Slater, Iowa's famous All-American, and Herb Blumer, Missouri captain in 1924, are the outstanding dependables of the Cardinal line.

GAME SNARLS TRAFFIC

All Chicago highways seemed to lead to the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game in Soldiers' field yesterday, and traffic in the loop and especially the automobile traffic in Michigan avenue from 22d street to Chicago avenue became congested two hours before the game.

Lines of automobiles moved in Michigan avenue south of Chicago avenue and north of 22d street at a three mile an hour pace when allowed to move at all. Traffic in the loop also became congested before the game, and traffic policemen in Wabash avenue and State, Dearborn, Clark streets were kept busy.

JAILED EN ROUTE TO GAME.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Today was a complete flop for three Cudahy boys who started to hike their way to see the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game from their homes at midnight Friday and ended up in the Kenosha jail at 3 o'clock this morning. One of the three, Martin Gray, 16, is the son of Gilda Gray, stage and motion picture star. He and Joe Markiegics, 12, and his brother, Walter, 15, were picked up when a policeman suspected they had run away from home. They were taken back to Cudahy.

TEACHERS DOWN LOMBARD, 14 TO 6

Galesburg, Ill. Oct. 19.—[Special]—Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., defeated Lombard, 14 to 6, at the local school's homecoming today.

NINETY THOUSAND THRONG SOLDIERS' FIELD TO SEE NOTRE DAME KEEP ITS RECORD CLEAR BY RUNNING THROUGH WISCONSIN FOR THREE TOUCHDOWNS AND A 19 TO 0 VICTORY. Then came the Michigan counter attack but it was in vain and the Buckeyes won 7 to 0. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

FULL BACK GEMBIS SAILS INTO THE BUCKEYE LINE FOR A SHORT GAIN. Finding the hole plugged by the Ohio forwards, Gembis took off in an effort to slide down the far side. It is the second period and Ohio is battling to maintain its touchdown lead over Michigan. It was a thrilling battle worthy of the traditional rivalry between the schools. RUS BERGHERM GAINS 15 YARDS AROUND THE END OF MINNESOTA'S LINE, BUT ALL HIS WORK WAS LOST BEFORE A FOURTH PERIOD RALLY AND THE GOPHERS WON, 26 TO 14. Apparently inspired by last week's 7 to 0 victory over Wisconsin, Northwestern led, 14 to 9, at the end of the third period. Then Minnesota rushed in fresh men and scored 17 points in a rally which compares to Purdue's finish against Michigan last Saturday. Hank Bruder, out with a broken leg, was missed badly by the Wildcats. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

KNOX TRAMPLES CRIPPLED SQUAD FROM AUGUSTANA

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Augustana college football team was defeated, 25 to 0, this afternoon, by Knox college. The visitors held an edge over the Norsemen, who were handicapped by the loss of seven men because of injuries.

CARBONDALE 6 TO 0 VICTOR.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Carbondale Normal disappointed a large homecoming crowd here today by trimming a stubborn Illinois State normal eleven, 6 to 0. Carbondale scored in the first two minutes of play. Thereafter the battle was about even.

The game was one of frequent penalties, each team losing more than 100 yards. Hudgens and Lutz, Carbondale backs, skirted the normal ends for long gains, but failed to break loose in the scoring zone. Thomas, husky tackle, played the best ball for the losers.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS.

North Central college walloped Wheaton, 45 to 0, in a Little 19 game at Wheaton yesterday. North Central made eleven first downs, while Wheaton had five. Razavich scored two touchdowns for North Central. Tillman, Wheaton star, was handicapped by an injured ankle, but managed to get away for several good games.

Buckeye Reserves Bow to Michigan 2d Team, 17-6

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—While Ohio's varsity was downing Michigan at Ann Arbor this afternoon, the Buckeye reserves bowed to the Wolverine second stringers, 17 to 6, in a game played at the Ohio stadium.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

star, Mr. Cagle of Louisiana, who was receiving special demonstrations of vigor most of the time. The Harvard team does not practice the star system, and the loss of any one athlete from the lineup could not have damaged Harvard as seriously as the elimination of Cagle would have embarrassed West Point.

Aspersions no Longer Justified.

However, Cadet Cagle came through the battle sound of wind, limb and mind, and I believe both squads now are whooping back and forth across the small area between their respective wings of the locker house to the effect that a most enjoyable afternoon was had by all.

After this demonstration there are 83,000 witnesses to testify that any aspersions which may have been cast on the temperament of the Harvard football team by the Princeton boys in their memorable spat some few seasons back are no longer justified—if they ever were. This was a smashing football game, played with mad courage and abandon on both sides, and the 20 to 20 score was an accurate gauge of the standoff in skull, vitality and appetite for punishment.

Cagle, Hertz, Murrell and Johnny O'Keefe of the Army back field came out of the cloister as the second half began with the score 13 to 0 against them and raged down the field like crazy men to take the lead, 14 to 13, before the third quarter ended. From then on the Army fought to hold the advantage, and Harvard's second string backs, Wood, Mays, Devens and Potter, brawled back at them in the frenzy to tie or win.

Finally, toward the end of the game, with Army ahead 20 to 13, the straining throng in the stands, already pretty well done up by the emotional stress of the battle, saw Barry Wood, the second string Harvard quarter back, hurl a gambling pass, a 45 yard pitch in a long arc, over the racing figures on the plain, straight into the arms of Victor Harding, a substitute end. He whirled over for Harvard's third touchdown, and the score was: Army, 20; Harvard, 19.

Wood Becomes Person of Importance.

Wood then kicked the goal, and this admirable young athlete, a sophomore who plays tennis in the national men's championship, became somebody of great importance in the Harvard community by viva voce vote.

Dick O'Connell, Harvard's right end, scored first for his side early in the second period on a 25 yard pass from Elliott Putnam, at quarter, but Putnam's drop kick for the extra point went wide.

Somehow a lot of Harvard players were always leaking through and snatching Cagle by his arms or the slack of his sweater, and I don't believe he gained his own length before half time was reached. Capt. Biff Jones, the Army coach, took Cagle out late in the second quarter just after he had fired a wild pass to an open space on the field to avoid being thrown for a great loss, as Harvard's ends ran him deep into his own territory.

Dick Hutchinson relieved him, and on the next play, he, too, was run back. He tried to do as Cagle had done, but his pass hit Ben Ticknor, the Harvard center, plunk on the chest, and Ticknor kept right on going, about twenty yards, for a touchdown. Wood drop kicked neatly between the bars for the extra point, and Harvard led, 13 to 0.

Starting the third quarter, Cagle, Murrell, O'Keefe and Piper, the regular Army backs, rolled over the Harvard stalwarts of the Harvard defense to a first down at the thirty yard line. Finally Cagle got free for the first time of the day, cut back behind Ticknor and Davis on Harvard's right side and scurried 30 yards to score. O'Keefe's placement kick made the score: Harvard, 13; Army, 7.

The Cadet backs were using power plays now and another rush started again from mid-field with Murrell smashing the line and Cagle and O'Keefe plowing ahead. Capt. Jim Barrett, the Harvard tackle, went down under the pounding. Murrell made one gain of 20 yards and another stretch of 13 to a first down seven yards from the goal. On the final plunge, the parade walked straight over Barrett, with Murrell toting, for Army's second touchdown. Again O'Keefe's placement was good, and Army led, 20 to 13.

Cagle got a second touchdown in the last period shortly after even Mr. Potter aroused his temper. He had just reeled off one 18 yard winding run and now he sifted through and romped 44 yards past the Harvard secondaries to another score with Malloy just behind, holding two tacklers.

Then Wood's pass and kick tied the score. Darkness closed in and the Cadets formed ranks and marched away behind their drums.

TWICE

as many men to-day smoke ROBT. BURNS PANATELAS

Yes, twice as many men now smoke Robt. Burns Panatelas as at the first of the year.

You see them everywhere—on the street—at your club in town and country. At every sport event and social gathering.

College men in city or on the campus have welcomed it as their own.

Men who never before smoked cigars are smoking the long, graceful Robt. Burns Panatela.

For it has done something new—outstanding for smoking. It has put style into smoking, and style belongs in smoking.

Young men and men with young ideas take to it like a plunge into a swimming pool. They like the smartness it adds to a well groomed man.

They realize it suits the young, clean cut face, the face of a man physically fit.

Many a smoker finds the mild flavor and fragrance of its clear Havana filler the multiplication of what he has liked in smoking—and more satisfying.

Try the Robt. Burns Panatela yourself, and mark how it belongs with your new fall suit, and autumn hat.

70,000 See Forward Pass Bring Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—California came, saw, and conquered Pennsylvania on Franklin field when the westerners' margin over the Red Light. Two touchdowns to one was the westerners' margain over the fighting Quakers, who went down to a 12 to 7 defeat.

Seventy thousand people, capacity for the Pennsylvania stadium, witnessed the game, which was replete with thrills and played under weather conditions that must have made the Californians feel at home.

The westerners' first score came as a result of Benny Lom's great run back of Dick Gentle's opening kickoff. Followed by a driving attack that the Pennsylvania forwards could not solve, the Californians went thirty-seven yards for this touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Pennsylvania equaled the count a few minutes later by blocking one of Lom's kicks and recovering the ball on California's 18 yard line. Then the Quakers opened up a lateral passing attack that ended with a touchdown. Masters made good the try for extra point.

California came back in the second period and scored the winning touchdown on a 25 yard pass. The lineup:

DARTMOUTH TRIUMPHS.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The rising star of a Columbia team that appeared to be taking its place in the firmament of the elect fizzled out in a dingy contest today. The Blue and White went down in a 34 to 0 contest, the most decisive beating it has sustained at the hands of a Dartmouth eleven.

Led by Marsters, one of the greatest backs that ever wore the green, with a line in front of him that clearly outplayed the Columbia forwards, Dartmouth's high geared machine rolled over three touchdowns in the scoring period. After being held to a stand off for the next two quarters, Dartmouth scored twice more in the final 15 minutes.

Forty thousand spectators, filling the stadium at Baker field to capacity, saw the dazzling Marsters wreck the hopes of Columbia at the outset with an exhibition of broken field running that compared with the most brilliant feats in his sophomore year.

CORNELL, 13; PRINCETON, 7.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Any pessimism that lurked in the Cornell camp about this year's football team was swept right out of Schoellkopf field this afternoon as another smashing Dobie team sent Princeton down to defeat by 13 to 7.

There were 20,000 here for the game today and it was a day of cheer for many old grads. Not since 1907 when Cornell won by 6 to 5 had they had the privilege of tramping after a band that was playing in honor of a Cornell victory over Old Nassau.

There were many to share Cornell's laurels today, but it was a sophomore back, Bob Stevens, who carried off most of them. He intercepted a pass that led to the winning touchdown and he pulled down Howard Johnson's 15 yard pass and stepped over the goal line for the score that gave Cornell victory.

It was Stevens, too, who punted beautifully, getting off one boot in the first period that went 65 yards and was the beginning of the first big push that ended when Scott drove through the line from the one yard mark for Cornell's first touchdown. Capt. Wakeman kicked the extra point.

But Cornell's primary joy was short lived. Seconds later Ed Wittmer caught the Cornell kickoff and raced 75 yards for a touchdown. Barfield tied the score at 7-7 when his placement went over the bars. But Cornell men were not to be denied. They had picked weak spots in the opposing line and they kept driving until within scoring distance when a deceptive forward pass brought victory.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Chicago's Maroons ran their chain of football victories to five yesterday by winning a double header at Stagg field. In the main event the Midwayites ripped through Ripon, 10 to 0, and in the afterpiece the Maroon reserves took their chance to perform by besting Indiana State Teachers' college, 18 to 0. Chicago's heavy line split the Ripon forward wall with apparent ease, and the backs went through for steady gains. Only once was there a spectacular gain, but throughout the game the Chicago backs smashed through to the secondary defense.

Though he didn't score, Errett Van Nice, the Maroon 200 pound half back, carried the burden of the offense, hitting the line for consistent yards that bodes no good for Purdue next Saturday. Not only that but his 47 yard sprint, after twisting through right guard, paved the way for the Maroons' only touchdown.

Ripon Passes Help.

Ripon's passes figured largely in Chicago's victory. The Wisconsin lads passes were beautifully accurate—into Maroon hands. Ripon threw ten passes, of which one was completed, three knocked down, and six intercepted by alert wearers of the Maroon.

The first half was scoreless, the fine punting of Wesley Heinz, Ripon right end, counteracting a march of four consecutive first downs by Chicago at the start of the game. Van Nice and Temple gained 35 yards on seven plunges, none over seven yards, the first time the Maroons got hold of the ball. The march ended when Van Nice lobbed a pass to Boesel and the latter fumbled as he was tackled on Ripon's 10 yard line, Mangen recovering for Ripon. Neither team got inside the other's 30 yard line again in the quarter.

Fate Decides Breaks.

Red Martin, Ripon's captain who failed to play the game expected of him, intercepted a pass early in the second quarter, but two plays later Knudson intercepted one of Martin's passes to even up. A bit later Temple fumbled on Ripon's 45 yard line, and Pine recovered, but two plays later Martin fumbled and Van Nice, Knudson and Stagg dived on it. Stagg intercepted another pass by a beautiful leap and fingertip catch before the end of the half, but it meant nothing.

Mangen fumbled and Van Nice recovered on Ripon's 45 yard line early in the third quarter, and Bluhm passed to Van Nice for 20 yards and Van Nice cut back through left tackle for eleven yards to Ripon's eight yard line. MacKenzie hit center for three yards and Van Nice got two at right guard, but Temple was stopped and Cassle's place kick for a field goal was wild.

Van Nice Sparkles.

The Maroons got another chance for a touchdown a minute later and they made this one good. After Ripon had kicked, Van Nice smashed through his left guard and raced 47 yards to Ripon's ten yard line before he was pulled down from behind. Bluhm picked up five yards on a quarter back sneak, Van Nice hit left guard for three and Temple a yard at center. Then Bluhm went over on another quarter back sneak and Cassle place kicked the extra point.

Cassle took a turn at intercepting a Ripon pass on the Wisconsin 38 yard line as the third quarter ended. After the line had held and Chicago punted Martin passed from his own six yard line into Van Nice's hands. Van Nice got loose to race over the goal but he'd stepped out of bounds on the 27 yard line and the Maroons started from there.

Cassle Place Kicks.

MacKenzie hit the line for nine yards and Van Nice three more to make it first down. Temple split right guard for three and Van Nice three more at the same spot, but on the third down Bluhm fumbled and recovered with a two yard loss on Ripon's 11 yard line. On fourth down Cassle place kicked a field goal. Neither threatened again while the game ended on the typical note of Stagg intercepting Freeman's pass in midfield.

Chicago made thirteen first downs to one by Ripon and gained 217 yards from scrimmage to 24 by Ripon's backs. Each tried ten passes, Ripon completing one for 15 yards and having six intercepted, while Chicago completed three for 37 yards and one was intercepted. Each fumbled three times and each recovered once.

Reserves Win Easily.

Indiana State Teachers' college proved rather easy for the Maroon reserves. The Midwayites scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth quarters to win, 18 to 0. Indiana threatened only once, after a brilliant 50 yard pass, but a fumble on the next play lost the ball and theft chance.

COLGATE BACKS ELUDE INDIANA TACKLERS, 21-6

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Colgate's speedy backs dashed and passed their way to a 21 to 6 victory over Indiana in an intersectional grid tilt here today. Indiana stopped the eastern ball carriers time and again, but when Dowler and Hart's fleet steps once pierced the Crimson line and reached an open field they sped toward the goal.

Dowler first showed the Hoosiers how fast he could step when he dashed off tackle in the first quarter. With fine interference he reached Indiana's secondary defense, eluded tacklers and ran 75 yards down the side line to score.

Colgate Aims at Tackles.

In a like manner Colgate kept hitting the tackles until its backs found openings through which they sped to score in every quarter but the third.

Indiana uncorked a slashing line attack near the end of the half that caught Colgate off guard. Running off tackles, Todd and Ross ripped off big gains to reach Colgate's 13 yard line. Here the easterners braced, but Brubaker caught a pass over the goal line simultaneously with the referee's gun. Another pass shot 2 yards straight down the field to Yablock, who stepped over the goal five yards away, accounted for Colgate's second score.

Fumble Stars Drive.

A Crimson fumble started Andy Kerr's eleven on the road to its third touchdown. Hart started the drive 20 yards from the goal, aided by Maguluso, plunging full back, he reached the 6 yard line He then spurted over the goal standing up.

Colgate was not only superior in its offensive, but also flashed fast ends and a stanch line Pat Page's boys, apparently tired and worn, attempted many long passes in the last quarter.

Dayton Stivers High School Beats Scott, 13-0

Toledo, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Dayton Stivers High school eleven defeated Scott High football team this afternoon, 13 to 0.

PURDUE SCORES 26-7 VICTORY OVER DE PAUW

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—Rolling up a touchdown a quarter Purdue's reserves supplemented by the regulars for an eight minute appearance, had an easy time here this afternoon defeating De Pauw, 26 to 7, in the final trial for the Boilermakers before they jump back into the conference against Chicago next Saturday.

Purdue revealed little in this afternoon's performance, Phelan contenting himself with keeping the game well in hand and giving his reserves a good tryout in actual competition.

De Pauw Makes Bid.

Jim Purvis and Louis Pope, half backs on the starting reserve eleven, provided most of the dynamite in the first three quarters of the game with their all around ability.

Purvis started the scoring when he slipped across the line in the first quarter, while Pope's twisting runs through tackle accounted for the markers in the second and third periods.

De Pauw made a bid in the second quarter with Purdue leading 12 to 0, when Johnston recovered a Purdue fumble that started a Methodist touchdown drive, Hogan finally going five yards around end for the lone De Pauw marker.

Regulars Go In.

In the last quarter Phelan sent in his regular combination, with Welch appearing in the new rôle of full back. The regulars promptly drove down the field, largely as the result of a 35 yard pass from Harmeson to Woerner. After Welch had placed the ball on the 5 yard line, Harmeson went around end for the final touchdown of the game.

Carroll College Lowers Lake Forest College, 18-7

Lake Forest lost its second Little 19 game of the season yesterday to Carroll, 18 to 7, at Lake Forest. Both teams used a fast passing attack. Orieback played a great game for Carroll, while Ferzacca led the lighter Lake Forest team.

GOPHERS RALLY IN 4TH QUARTER; BEAT N. U., 26-14

Reserve Power Scores 17 Points.

down via air. The Gopher forwards broke up Northwestern interference in attempted running plays.

Bergherm was the most consistent back field player Northwestern had.

What the Statistics Show.

Statistics for once gibe with the result. Minnesota gained 214 yards from scrimmage, and Northwestern gained only 54. Minnesota gained a total of 270 yards; Northwestern made 181. Minnesota captured 10 first downs; Northwestern made only 6. Only in passing did the Purple players excel. They completed 6 out of 19 tosses for 127 yards gain. The Gophers passed for 56 yards, completing 4 out of 9.

GOPHERS SCORE FIRST

And now for the details of the battle:

Before the break which resulted in the first touchdown Northwestern had made a first down in the first quarter and Minnesota had made done, resorting instead to punting. The Purple, unable to push forward from their own 23 yard line, sent Calderwood back to punt. He received a poor pass from Erickson and kicked only to his 40 yard line. On the second play Somers, a Minnesota sophomore, starting his first conference game, passed over the center of his line to Brockmeyer, who, with a clear field in front of him, ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

Lee Hanley, playing safety for Northwestern, was caught dozing on the play. Marvil, Northwestern lineman, blocked Brockmeyer's attempt to place kick the point.

The quarter ended with the Gophers leading 6 to 0.

Northwestern got back into the fight when the fleet Haas, who had replaced Hanley at quarter back, caught a 20 yard pass thrown by Bergherm and, dodging and twisting, sprinted to Minnesota's 27 yard marker. Bergherm tried two more passes and they failed. But on the fourth down he tried again and this time Burnstein, who had taken Calderwood's place—the latter had twice fumbled, once on Northwestern's 15 yard line—caught the pass and ran about ten yards for a touchdown.

WIN BROCKMEYER.

Ball Scores Extra Point.

Ball, until this season a basketball player, went in for Haas and drop kicked neatly for the point that meant a 7 to 6 lead for Northwestern.

And with that score the half ended. Purple balloons were flying, thousands of dads were cheering as the teams trotted off the field.

Northwestern's joy was suppressed when on the first play after Northwestern's kickoff in the third quarter, Brockmeyer, with splendid interference, galloped around his right end to the Purple 15 yard line. Capt. Anderson, who played a fine game at left guard, brought Brockmeyer down. Failing to gain, Minnesota posted Pharmer back 25 yards from the goal and he place kicked over the bars. Again the Gophers led.

Now it was Northwestern's turn to thrill the crowd.

Bergherm's quick kick from his own 35 yard line soared over Brockmeye's head and, in attempting to retrieve the rolling ball, he fumbled. Erickson recovered on the four yard line. On the fourth down, with a foot to go, Bergherm plunged across for Northwestern's second touchdown. Calderwood who had started again at half back, place kicked perfectly. The third quarter ended with Northwestern ahead, 14 to 9.

Call Out the Reserves.

Then came the reserves. Spears began sending fresh strength into his line. Nurgurski, star tackle, who yesterday had been put into Minnesota's back field, began plunging, plunging, and plunging. Tired Northwestern linesmen couldn't stop him. Kirk, a replacement for Brockmeyer, and Pharmer helped Nurgurski march forward.

Northwestern fought. No one can deny them courage. Four yards from their goal line they made a Herculean effort to stop the Thundering Herd. But when the Purple linemen held, Minnesota resorted to strategy. With Northwestern's forwards shoulder to shoulder and their back field pulled up close to help, Kirk passed to Pharmer over the goal line. Again the same player's talented toe made the place kick good.

Northwestern couldn't help but be disappointed. But the team was game. Unable to keep the lead from slipping away, faced with defeat, it rallied for a desperate passing attack. The breaks didn't come. Burdick intercepted one of Hanley's long passes on Northwestern's 45 yard line. The failure of the rally demoralized the Purple. The line sagged, Minnesota forwards split the right side open, and Pharmer tore through for a forty yard run and a touchdown. He place kicked. Sure, he made it.

One More for Pharmer.

The fight was over. After advancing the ball to Northwestern's 20 yard line, Pharmer hopped back ten yards and place kicked his second field goal. Minnesota didn't need those three points. But it was good practice for Pharmer.

And so it ended.

Northwestern partisans will tell you what might have been if Bruder had been in the back field, instead of on the bench with his leg in a cast. But might have beens aren't recorded in the books.

Minnesota yesterday was the better team.

GEORGIA TECH'S TORNADO WRECKS FLORIDA, 19 TO 7

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado all but wrecked by North Carolina last week, got back on the football map here today with a stirring 19 to 7 triumph over the vaunted Alligators from the University of Florida.

The victory blighted Florida's chances for a southern championship. 7,000 Florida rooters saw their team defeated.

The Tornado scored a touchdown before the game was seven minutes old, it added another each in the second and third. Florida made its only threat in the third period.

Florida's highly touted offensive failed to materialize and except for a brief spurt, which resulted in their lone touchdown, the 'Gators were on the defensive throughout the afternoon. Earl Dunlap, the passing quarter back and "Stumpy" Thomason, the back field mainstay, led the Tech team to victory. They were given excellent assistance by the Tech line.

TEXAS BEATS OKLAHOMA

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Aided but once in its scoring by modern football and depending largely upon a human battering ram in the person of Dexter Shelley, right half back, the University of Texas Longhorns downed the University of Oklahoma, 21 to 0, today at the Texas state fair. The battle marked the renewal of hostilities broken five years ago.

Texas produced one touchdown and a placement kick in the third period, and added two more of each in the fourth period after the heavy sooner team had played a nip and tuck battle for the first half. The ball was not more than twenty yards from the midfield stripe in the first two periods except once on a punt. It immediately was back in midfield on a return kick.

GEORGIA WINS, 19-12

Chapel Hill, N. C. Oct. 19.—(AP)—In a magnificent comeback the Georgia Bulldogs defeated North Carolina 19 to 12 today, before a crowd estimated at 24,000.

W. AND J. HOLDS CARNEGIE TECH SCORELESS, 0-0

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Battling Carnegie Tech to a scoreless tie here today, Washington and Jefferson served notice that it has returned to its former high place in the collegiate football world.

A squad of young athletes led by the veteran lineman, Capt. "Jap" Douds, played a brilliant defensive game, and through the aid of more or less timely breaks, held off three scoring threats during the four bitterly fought periods.

Washington and Jefferson threatened but once, in the second quarter, when Douds intercepted a pass deep in Tech territory. The ball was lost on downs, however, on the five yard line. The Skibo made ten first downs to five for the visitors.

KANSAS AGGIES TRIUMPH, 6 TO 0, OVER KANSAS

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Battling under leaden skies on a muddy field, the Kansas Aggies today defeated the University of Kansas, 6 to 0, in the twenty-seventh annual revival of the Kansas gridiron classic.

The touchdown was made in the second period. A pass, McMillan to Nigro to Towler, placed the ball on the K. U. one foot line. Wiggins then plunged for the tally. A bad pass from center was responsible for failure in the try for the extra point.

In the last quarter Kansas made a brilliant march, featured by two passes, but the Aggie line stiffened and the Crimson lost the ball on downs.

SYRACUSE TRIMS JOHNS HOPKINS IN NIGHT GAME

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Syracuse university ran roughshod over the light Johns Hopkins eleven in its second night game of the season tonight and piled up an 85 to 6 victory. The Medics' only tally came early in the last period after Merriken, right half, intercepted an Orange forward pass and ran 47 yards to place the ball on the Syracuse 10 yard line. After a grounded forward pass Bledsoe, Hopkins left half, carried the ball across the line.

DUQUOIN BLANKS CARLYLE.

Duquoin, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Duquoin High school football eleven defeated Carlyle here today, 19 to 0. Duquoin scored touchdowns by Pittman, Harris and Cantasara on line plunges.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question William H. Hotze, 3643 Millimore avenue, was awarded $5.

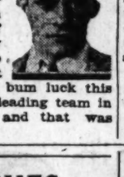
The Question.

Are you letting the defeat in the world series cool your enthusiasm as a Cub fan?

The Answers.

F. P. Albade, 1474 East 69th street, treasurer—No; because the Cubs fought to the limit of their ability. At no time, in spite of unfortunate reverses, were they yellow, to use that expression. My wife was so wrought up over their defeat that she wrote Malone a letter of encouragement.

Charles Haynes, 1442 North Park avenue, butcher—I do not see why it should. Why give up the ship because the storm prevented the sailors from hoisting the pennant? The Cubs will carry out that part of the ceremony next year. It merely was a case of bum luck this year. They were the leading team in the National league, and that was something.



R. G. Watts, 553 West Randolph street, salesman—One shouldn't let the bad breaks the Cubs had in the world series interfere with his supporting the team. The Cub fan should be just as enthusiastic as heretofore. The Cubs had a bad break, a series of unfortunate circumstances that deprived them of a chance to display their real class.

J. J. Whalen, 7734 North Ashland avenue, engineer—No. The Cubs didn't get the breaks they were entitled to. Inexperience in world series strife also brought their downfall. But I know they can do better. Next year, when world series time rolls around, they'll not let any team like the Athletics beat them.

L. J. Newlin, 509 West Madison street, pantryman—No, on account of the breaks they got during the series games. Everything went against them. I always have been interested in the Cubs, though not so wildly as some fans, and I wanted to see them win. That's what we will want them to do next year, and their chances of doing so will be better if the fans don't fail them because of their recent defeat.

NAVY FLASHES POWER TO BEAT DUKE TEAM, 45-13

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Navy today exhibited greater power, accuracy and versatility in its attack than at any other time this year to defeat Duke university, 45 to 13.

The Naval academy scored at least one touchdown in every quarter. Duke tallied twice in the second period when they released a splendid running attack, headed by Bule and Beaver.

Duke's fumbles and passes intercepted by Byng, Hugnes and other Navy players frequently put the Middies in position to score in the second half, and for the first time this season they generally had a scoring punch when the chance offered.

COE RALLIES TO BEAT MONMOUTH

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Coming from behind in third quarter Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia., won from Monmouth college here today, 12 to 7. Monmouth came back determined to score at opening of third quarter. With Corgnati going around ends and McConnell driving through the line, the ball was carried to the 25 yard line, from where McConnell passed to Mekemson on the 3 yard line. McConnell plunged the ball over from there and then place kicked the point.

After an exchange of kicks Barrows started from midfield to the 20 yard line. Johnstone passed across goal to Ford. Barrows' attempted place kick was blocked. In the final quarter Barrows carried the ball to the one yard line, from where Frisbee plunged it over. Johnstone's drop kick was blocked.

HOLMAN PASSES TO FESLER, OHIO BEATS MICHIGAN

brilliantly on defense. He carried the ball off the tackles and around the ends for long gains, and in the final period he caught a long pass from his captain and was downed on the Buckeye 15 yard line. This gave the Wolverines a great chance to score, but they were finally stopped on Ohio's 1 foot line.

The first quarter was featured by Michigan's stubborn defense in the shadows of its goal posts. After an exchange of punts had left the ball in midfield, Ohio State made a first down by rushing and then kicked to Simrall, the Michigan quarter back. The Wolverines could not gain. And Michigan was forced to punt. Simrall lifted to Holman, who made a beautiful return of 12 yards. Several other punt exchanges followed, and finally Ohio took the ball on the Michigan 30 yard mark. Time for the quarter was called shortly afterward.

On the opening play of the second quarter Simrall of Michigan punted to Holman, who returned 5 yards. Two straight plays failed, and then Holman shot a long and high forward pass to Fesler, the Ohio State right end. Fesler made a nice catch as Capt. Truskowski tried to bat the ball, which was caught on the goal line. After recovering his balance, Fesler stepped over the goal line, and Barrett, the Buckeye, center, added the extra point by shooting the ball between the posts from placement. This made the score 7 to 0.

CAPT. TRUSKOWSKI.

As previously stated, both elevens threatened to score in the last half, but strong defensive play by both at critical times prevented. The Wolverines came back strong and many times forced Ohio State to tighten its line to stop the line plunging of Gembis, the Michigan full back, and Truskowski, who had been shifted from end to half back.

Duquesne's Kick After Touchdown Beats Loyola

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Duquesne university nosed out Loyola university, Chicago, by a score of 7 to 6 today at Forbes field before a crowd of 4,500. Donnelli's place kick after Burns' touchdown in the final period provided the winning point.

Jim McNeil, Rambler right end, intercepted one of Donnelli's tosses in the middle of the third quarter and Loyola took the ball on Duquesne's 16 yard line. Burke fumbled but recovered for a five yard loss. Molloy tossed a beautiful pass to Burke, who caught it behind the goal line for the first score of the game. Tommy Flynn's kick for the extra point failed.

Two passes in the fourth period carried Duquesne from her own 40 yard line to the Loyola goal for the winning touchdown and point. The first toss, Benedict to Donnelli, gained 35 yards. On the next play McCarthy passed to Jack Burns, who crossed the goal line as Les Molloy tackled him. Donnelli's placement for the extra point was perfect.

Tommy Flynn's crashing of the Duquesne line and Molloy's pass to Flynn for a gain of 40 years featured the closing minutes of play, with Loyola making a desperate effort to score through the air.

Loyola made nine first downs to the home team's four. Donnelli's punting and Devenney's passing featured the attack of Duquesne, while Les Molloy was the Loyola star.

MISSOURI ROMPS OVER DRAKE IN 20 TO 0 CONTEST

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers, pacemakers in the Big Six conference, defeated Drake university, leaders of the Missouri valley loop, 20 to 0, in their inter-conference football game here today.

The Tigers scored a touchdown in each of the first three periods, but were held scoreless in the final quarter when a reserve team opposed the Bulldogs.

Two minutes after the initial kickoff, Capt. John Waldorf of the Tigers hurled a pass thirty yards to Keither Hursley, veteran end, who dodged through the apparently inadequate Drake aerial defense over the goal line.

Russell Dills, diminutive quarter mile sprinter, replacing Scotty Kenney, tore off tackle for 27 yards in the second period for touchdown number two. He flitted through the whole array of Bulldogs, first line and secondary defense, aided by an imposing line charge and excellent blocking.

Capt. Waldorf supplied the score toss to J. Mack Gladden, regular end, that resulted in the third touchdown, in the third period.

World's Non-Stop Automobile Record Shattered by Plymouth

More than one year's average driving in 26 days! 11,419 miles of travel in 632 hours—with never a stop, never a moment's rest for motor or chassis! That is the record-breaking feat performed by a Chrysler-built standard stock Plymouth 4-door Sedan over all sorts of roads around Tyler, Texas!

The finish was voluntary, with the motor functioning perfectly. Official examination showed scarcely a trace of carbon, no need to grind valves, no appreciable wear, no single part requiring repair or replacement. Observers' affidavits covering every detail of this non-stop record are open to public inspection.

Here is proof of unduplicated engineering soundness made strikingly apparent. Here is proof of unduplicated quality demonstrated beyond question. Here is a low-priced car that is built to last—a car that combines reliability, stamina, operating economy and long life with beauty, style and full-size comfort. Here is the greatest car and the greatest value in the low-priced field today!

Come in and find out for yourself, what Plymouth performance means.

LAKE VIEW TAKES 20 TO 7 BEATING FROM ROOSEVELT

Last Saturday Roosevelt High won its first football game in the four years of its City league competition, and the students at the Wilson avenue school rejoiced accordingly. Just by way of proving that it wasn't a fluke and that Roosevelt is to be reckoned with in the north section, Coach Alton's team made it two straight by defeating Lake View, 20 to 7, at Logan Square yesterday.

Tom Cotsopulos, star of the victory over Waller last week, got his team off to a good start in the first quarter by taking a long pass from Hoeft for a touchdown. Shortly after Nangle repeated the performance, taking another toss from Hoeft over from the 5 yard line. In the third quarter, Witz added the final Roosevelt touchdown on a three yard plunge.

Capt. McCarthy again turned in an excellent game at center for Roosevelt, while Olander and Reynolds featured for Lake View. Lineup:

ROOSEVELT [20].		LAKE VIEW [7].
Jarosil	L. E.	Stromberg
Nelson	L. T.	Pellgrem
Peck	L. G.	Coe
McCarthy [C.]	C	Miller
Hall	R. G.	Erdorf
Wagner	R. T.	Stone
Nangle	R. E.	Thomas
Gabrielse	Q. B.	Jacobson
Hoeft	L. H.	McMammon
Witz	R. H.	Reynolds
Nelson	F. B.	Olander

Touchdowns—Cotsiopoulos, Witz, Nanini. Points after touchdowns—Hoban, Hoeft.

Substitutions—Roosevelt: Witz for Cotsiopoulos.

AUSTIN, 13; CRANE, 0.

Austin chalked up its first victory in the west section of the City league yesterday by defeating Crane Tech, 13 to 0, at Mills stadium. Yergens, Austin full back, plunged through Crane's line for the first touchdown in the first quarter. In the last period, Manning, left end, grabbed a Crane pass and ran seventy yards for the second Austin tally. Lineup:

CRANE [0].		AUSTIN [13].
Jones	L. E.	Manning
Nicklas	L. T.	Anderson
Nichlis	L. G.	Zepp
Kendall	C.	Koch
Odenbach	R. G.	Norton

Bilicki	R. E.	Doner
Rayor	Q. B.	Ray
Prokopec	L. H.	Valle
Beverdi	R. H.	Kimet
Pawloski	F. B.	Armstrong, Yergens

Touchdowns—Yergens, Mannings. Points after touchdowns—Armstrong.

MARSHALL, 19; HARRISON, 7.

Marshall won its second victory in the west section race yesterday and incidentally handed Harrison its first defeat, 19 to 7, at Ellis stadium. Harrison took the lead in the first quarter when Kvidera, right end, blocked a Marshall punt, scooped it up and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. A triple pass for 45 yards followed by a series of plunges gave Marshall its first score a short time later. A fumble by Harrison on its 11 yard line gave Marshall another touchdown and a third was added in the last period on an intercepted pass. Lineup:

MARSHALL [19].		HARRISON [7].
Novak	L. E.	Klein
Tamoshik	L. T.	Miller
Berry	L. G.	Kreswinski
Frank	C.	Deibel
Kendrick	R. G.	Dvorak

Polansky	R. H.	Kubic
Jarvis	F. B.	Leonetti

Touchdowns—Prejansky [2], Pine, Kvidera. Points after touchdown—Prejansky, Carek.

TILDEN, 26; BOWEN, 0.

Tilden Tech, all-city champion last years, won its second victory in the central section yesterday by trimming Bowen, 26 to 7, at Normal park. Conroy and Shemaitis again featured for the Techs, receiving able support from Marshmann, Kostbade and Schiffman. Lineup:

TILDEN [26].		BOWEN [7].
Kostbade	L. E.	Blastic
Schiffer	L. T.	Wernts
Stark	L. G.	Vodvrich
Schlegel	C.	King
Schreiner	R. G.	Stuck

Touchdowns—Shemaitis [2] Marshman. Conroy. Schwitter. Points after touchdowns—Conroy, 2 [drop]. Blastic.

St. Rita Beats St. Leo in Last Seconds, 13-7

St. Leo, one of the youngest and strongest teams in the Catholic league, was defeated by St. Rita, 13 to 7, in the league opener for both at the latter's field yesterday. It was St. Leo's first defeat in five games and if it had not been for an intercepted pass they might have earned a tie.

St. Leo took the lead in the first quarter when O'Connor skirted left end and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown. St. Rita proved that it still is one of the most aggressive teams in the league, despite the fact that it lacks weight, by tying the score in the second quarter. A pass, Walsh to Lenzi, brought the ball to St. Leo's 10 yard line, and the latter carried it over in a series of plunges. Carron kicked the extra point.

With only a few minutes of the game remaining, Sheehan, St. Rita center, intercepted a St. Leo pass and ran it from his own 40 yard line to St. Leo's 15 yard line. Lenzi went to work again and took the ball over with 30 seconds left. Lineup:

ST. RITA [13].		ST. LEO [7].
Murner	L. E.	Hackett
Ouaks	L. T.	Hamill
Niedbala	L. G.	Kelly [C.]
Sheehan	C.	Ryan
Foster	R. G.	Boyle
Roche [C.]	R. T.	Lavin
Elten	R. E.	Lynch
Walsh	Q. B.	R. Maher
Lenzi, Kuhl	L. H.	O'Connor
Evans	R. H.	MacKinnon
Carron, Lenehan	F. B.	Fitzgerald

Touchdowns—O'Connor, Lenzi [2]. Points after touchdowns—Carron, Fitzgerald.

MT. CARMEL, 20; ST. IGNATIUS, 0

Mount Carmel opened its Catholic league schedule with a victory over St. Ignatius, 20 to 0, at Shewbridge field yesterday. In the first quarter, Mount Carmel marched from their own 10 yard line, down to the Ignatius 8 yard line, and McCarthy made an end run for the first touchdown.

The victors passed frequently in the last quarter and a 25 yard toss from Zegers to Bowling brought the second touchdown. Another pass, Gegrs to Henderson, accounted for the third tally. Henderson was successful in two attempts for extra points. Lineup:

MT. CARMEL [20].		ST. IGNATIUS [0].
Taber	L. E.	Liska
Breen	L. T.	Powers
Osomski	L. G.	Burke
Healy	C	King
Nortman	R. G.	McCarthy

Bowling	R. H.	Neville
McCarthy	F. B.	Dugan

Touchdowns—McCarthy, Bowling, Henderson. Points after touchdowns—Henderson [2].

FENGER, 19; CALUMET, 7.

Fenger upset Calumet, 19 to 7, in a south section game yesterday. Fenger attempted seven passes and completed three, all of which led to the trio of touchdowns. Cedergren's passing and Sleszig's punting featured the victory.

FENGER [19].		CALUMET [7].
Dykstra	L. E.	Mans, Scott
Anderson	L. T.	Fay
Undroitis	L. G.	Olsen
Wandland	C.	Reneker

Touchdowns—Strain, Cedergren [2], Scott. Points after touchdowns—Cedergren [drop kick], Bloom [plunge].

LINDBLOM WINS, 47-0.

Coach E. L. Moore's Lindblom team made its 1929 debut in the central section of the City league yesterday by defeating Hyde Park, 47 to 0, at White City. The Lindblom eleven showed its strength in every quarter, scoring two touchdowns in the first third and fourth periods. Schabes, Condon, Mellies led the attack, while Capt. Fred Febel continued his accurate place kicking accounting for five points after touchdowns. Lineup:

LINDBLOM [47].		HYDE PARK [0].

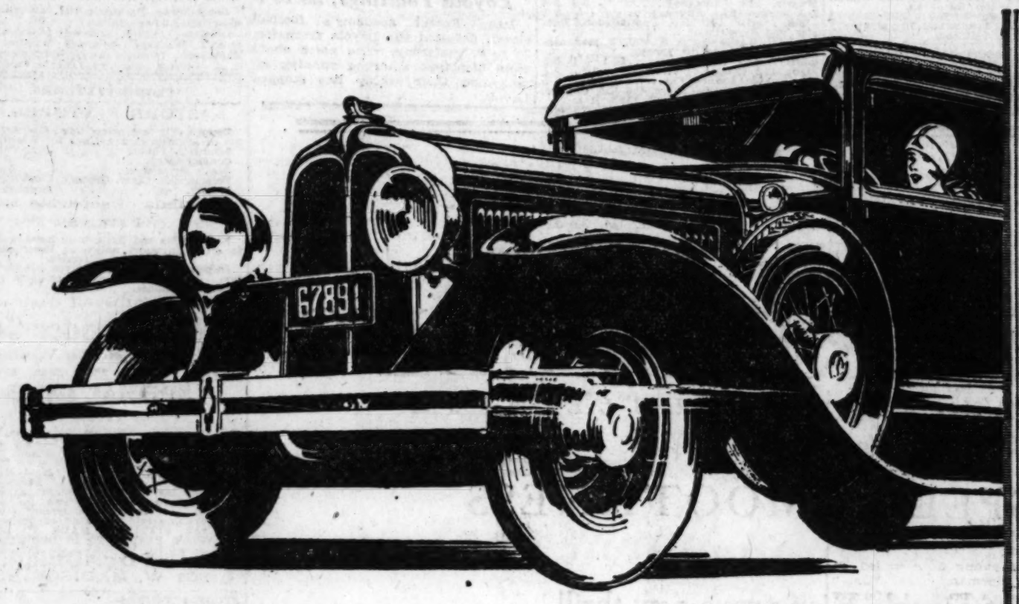
The only car listing for less than $1000 which offers all these Important Features



IF YOU are in the market for a low-priced six—and if you study this field for the purpose of learning which car offers you most for your money—then it is safe to predict that your choice will be a Pontiac Big Six. For, search as you may, you will find nothing to compare with Pontiac at equally low prices. This holds true regardless of what qualities may weigh heaviest in your conception of motor car value.

Do you want power? Pontiac's big, 200-cubic-inch engine develops 60 horsepower at 3,000 revolutions per minute—the highest power produced by any six so low in price.

Do you want speed? Pontiac offers the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration to be found in any low-priced six, as proved by the "fifth wheel," the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers.

Do you want smoothness, safety, long life? Pontiac provides them in more generous measure than any other low-priced six because of such features as the Harmonic Balancer which counteracts torsional vibration in the crankshaft, the crankcase ventilating system which prevents dilution of oil, the full pressure lubricating system and Pontiac's exceptionally fine internal-expanding non-squeak four-wheel brakes.

And for those to whom beauty and comfort are deciding factors, Pontiac's bodies by Fisher offer smartness of line and richness of interior unparalleled in the low-price field.

Note the list of features at the right. These are features which are combined in the Pontiac Big Six and in no other car listing for less than $1000. Come in and let us show you what these features mean to you in terms of finer performance, greater riding ease and increased all-round satisfaction with your car. And bring your present car for our liberal appraisal. You'll be astonished at learning how easily you can own a Pontiac Big Six.

1 A 200-cubic-inch L-head engine.
2 The Harmonic Balancer.

NEW RECORD SET BY JACK HASKELL AT AURORA OVAL

Parmelee Draws Boos as Islam Loses.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jockey Jack Parmelee, who has been one of the stars around Chicago this season, came into disfavor with the 15,000 racegoers at Aurora yesterday when he finished third in the Mooseheart feature on the short priced favorite Islam.

A chorus of boos greeted him when he came back to the scales to saddle, and the crowd continued to hoot him as he made the long painful trip from the scales back to the jockeys' quarters. It is questionable if the outburst against Parmelee was justified. He did get Islam away to a bad start, and was four lengths back of the flying pacemaker, Jack Haskell, as the field hit the turn.

Breaks Track Record.

He continued to trail Jack Haskell throughout the mile and seventy yards trip. But Jack Haskell clipped nearly a full second off the track record. His time was 1:42 1-5. The old mark was 1:43, held by Florence Mills.

Even with a good start, it is doubtful if Islam could have headed Jack Haskell in such fast time. Under a hustling ride by Corbett Jack Haskell led his stablemate Trieze home by three lengths in the Mooseheart with Islam third, and despite the fact that the gray Jack Haskell has run all the brilliant races of his career over the Aurora course, he was again overlooked in the betting in the rush to support Islam. He paid $8.22 to win.

Because the entry, which sported the silks of Lewis & Kemp of Kansas City, finished first and second freak place prices prevailed when $7.70 was hung out. No show mutuels were sold.

Parmelee has been in a slump since the Aurora season opened, winning only a couple of races during the first week. His mounts are always heavily played, but his backers deserted him after his failure on Islam.

Paul Bunyan Wins.

The best card of the fall season attracted the largest crowd, and it was also the heaviest betting gathering.

The Oaklawn purse at 6 furlongs shared the place of honor with the Mooseheart, and it brought Paul Bunyans' third straight victory when he came from behind and beat Golden Volt by four lengths with Fiala third.

Paul Bunyan stepped a fast 6 furlongs when he completed the course in 1:12, and he looks better in every race he runs. He was far back for a time in the Oaklawn, but began moving up on the turn into the stretch and when he began his big drive an eighth from home, he smothered those who were trying to keep pace with him.

The Chicago crowds are beginning to respect Bunyan's speed and they made him the odds on favorite, the final price against him being $3.74. Old Cartoon, the black sheep son of Chicle, won his second race in a row when he came home first in the mile and a sixteenth sixth event. He had to have a million dollar ride by Jockey T. May to slip through on the rail and win by a neck from the long shot, Thistlecoat, in the final strides. Corinne Star wound up in third place.

May saved ground all the way with Cartoon and had to take a desperate chance to ride him through next to the rail in the last twenty strides. Cartoon rewarded his backers at $9.76.

Western Teachers Defeat Shurtleff Eleven, 12 to 0

Macomb, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Before a huge homecoming crowd Western Teachers defeated Shurtleff college of Alton, Ill., today, 12-0. Touchdown by Capt. Poppenhager and Watts, colored left end, in first and second quarters, respectively, counted the points.

Sparta Meets Carpenters in Soccer Clash

Intercity Standing

	W.	L.	T.	Pt.
Holley Carburetors [Detroit]	3	0	3	3
Carpenters [Chicago]	3	0	1	7
Brsell Hungarians [Cleveland]	3	2	1	5
Slavia [Cleveland]	2	3	0	4
Detroit S. C. [Detroit]	1	3	1	3
Sparta [Chicago]	0	3	1	1

A record crowd is expected today at Sparta field, 22d street and Kostner avenue, where the Carpenters clash with Sparta in an Inter-City league soccer game. The kickoff will be at 3 o'clock.

The Carpenters have not been defeated this season, and while a victory in today's game may put them in first place in the league standings, the points will be hard to get should Sparta play like it did against the Holley Carburetors of Detroit last Sunday. Other games today in the Inter-City league:

Detroit and Slavia at Detroit.
Brsell Hungarians and Hollys at Cleveland.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES.

Swedish Americans and Vienna at De Paul field.
Majestic Radios and Buds at Majestic field, 6100 West Grand avenue.
Norwegian Americans at Johnston City at 4500 West Fullerton avenue [game called at 2:30 p. m.].

BUDA CUP COMPETITION.

Maccabees vs. Joliet at Olympia field, 47th avenue and 19th street.
Meyer London vs. Brt. & Col. Vets at 47th and 19th, and kickoff at 1 o'clock.
Ulster United vs. Waverly at 67th street and California avenue.
Dr. Skerodin Boosters vs. Hungarians at 51st and Wood streets.
[Games called for 3 p. m.]

MAJOR LEAGUE GAMES.

Ivy Oak vs. Fullman at Woodbine.
Campbell A. C. vs. MacDuff A. C. at Humboldt park.
Ravenswood and Linnea at 64th street and Racine avenue.

Jack Alexander Brings $4,000 in Aurora Sale

Jack Alexander, which in his day, won many races around Chicago was the star of the sale conducted in the Aurora paddock yesterday. He was sold by McConnell and Walker to M. E. Syufy, a western turfman, for $4,000. C. P. Winfrey paid $1,700 for Vowed Vengeance, the Jones stock farm got Dorothy Mac for $1,550, and Seventeen Sixty went to G. L. Foster for $1,350.

SO. CALIFORNIA ROLLS UP 64-0 ON OCCIDENTAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—With its head coach, Howard Jones, absent to scout Stanford and its first team never at any time in the game together, Southern California's football juggernaut today crushed little Occidental college, 64 to 0, before 22,000 in the Los Angeles coliseum.

Duffield, second string quarter, who started the game but went out before a half was played in place of Gaius Shaver, third stringer, was the scoring hero. Duffield put over three touchdowns, all in the first period and converted once, for 19 points. Shaver totaled two touchdowns and two conversions. Hammack, second string sub full back, added one and Rocky Kemp, fourth string quarter, and Willingham, a fifth stringer, also made touchdowns.

The Trojans now top the coast conference with successive wins of 76 to 0 over University of California in Los Angeles; 48 to 0 against University of Washington, and 21 to 7 against Oregon State. They meet their first real test against Stanford at Palo Alto next week, where the far west championship will be decided.

Lake Forest Preps Stop Loyola Yearlings, 20 to 0

Lake Forest academy's football eleven defeated the Loyola freshmen, 20 to 0, yesterday. The north shore team displayed a strong running attack and their sturdy line stopped Loyola.

Cornhuskers Fall Before Pitt, 12 to 7

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Pittsburgh utilized the 15 minutes of the second period today to sweep through Nebraska's defenses for two touchdowns and a 13 to 7 victory over the 1928 Big Six champions in one of the most important intersectional gridiron battles of the afternoon.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Pennsylvanians this season and shoved them a step farther along the gridiron path they hope will lead to a national championship. A crowd estimated at 35,000 packed the stadium and temporary bleachers despite an all night drizzle which did not let up until after the game started.

Twice Parkinson, veteran Pittsburgh full back, lugged the ball over the Cornhuskers' goal line. The first score came after Wallnchus, substitute for Williams, had caught a short pass and ran 53 yards to the two yard line. The second followed a steady Pitt drive aided by a Nebraska penalty.

In the third period Clair Sloan hurled a pass 25 yards to Morgan over the goal line for Nebraska's touchdown. Lineup:

NEBRASKA.		PITTSBURGH.
Morgan	L. E.	Donchess
Braay	L. T.	Tully
Koster	L. G.	Montgomery
Masadam	C.	Dougherty
Greenberg	R. G.	Dimeolo
Broadstone	R. T.	MacMurdo
Prucka	R. E.	Collins
Witte	Q. B.	Baker
Frahm	L. H.	Tansas
Farley	R. H.	Williams
Sloan	F. B.	Parkinson

Touchdowns—Parkinson [2], Morgan. Point after touchdown—Sloan.

Officials—Leslie B. Edmonds [Ottawa], referee; D. Watkeys [Syracuse], umpire; M. J. Thompson [Georgetown], head linesman; C. E. McBride [Missouri Valley], field judge.

IF YOU CAN'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT, WHY PLAY AT ALL?

That's Gist of Army Stand on Eligibility.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—When Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson to settle the football row between the military and naval academies next week he will present a unique idea regarding rules of eligibility for football players.

The general will propose that any college or academy which can not be trusted to exclude professionals from its teams is not worth playing and that any time one college suspects another of harboring players who are football men first and students only it vindicate their football playing, the proper conduct is to drop relations instead of trying to reform the erring institution.

May Need Changes.

It is not certain that Gen. Smith will present these ideas in this form but they will be the substance of his reply to the Navy's old effort to regulate football eligibility at West Point. Incidentally, the Navy's effort has taken from the form of coercive action from other quarters and it is said that cordiality between the schools can not be entirely reëstablished until the routine shifts of assignments in the service bring new personnel to some of the academy posts.

Of course, Gen. Smith's idea that a college or academy should be given credit for a spirit of honor is not entirely his own invention but it has been so many years since the colleges substituted restraint and surveillance for instinctive honesty in their football relations that it will seem new. He proposes that the naval academy look to its own eligibility and accept the Army's football teams as bona fide without question, not deeming it necessary to give special guarantees against evasion or cheating.

The whole dispute goes back to the old suspicion that West Point proselytes cadets with good football records in civilian schools, not to make officers of them but to use them on the football team. West Point has always insisted that these cadets are admits in good faith and are likely to make superior officers upon graduation. The Navy imposed the collegiate three year eligibility rule upon itself and asked the Army to do likewise. Now, at the risk of seeming to meddle in the Navy's private affairs, army officers are suggesting that the Navy abolish these restrictions on itself instead of trying to impose them on the military academy if parity is what the Navy wants.

Player's Sweater Is Pledge.

West Point has held throughout the controversy that any time a football player appears on the field in an Army sweater, that very fact is an automatic pledge backed by the honor of the military academy that the player is a bona fide cadet above the rank of junior with satisfactory grades in all his studies. On this point the Army will stand in the peace negotiations with the Navy, and far from being intimidated by the agitation of Congressmen Britten and Fish, the Navy's political agents in Washington, the Army is prepared to defend its contention.

As the normal maximum age of midshipmen is 24 years, one year younger than that of cadets, there may be some counter proposal that all cadets who have reached the age of 24 be automatically retired from varsity football competition. In the present year, such a concession would eliminate the Army's captain and greatest star, Chris Cagle and another regular back, Dick O'Keefe, as well as Clark Piper, a valuable second string back, and four other fairly important members of the first team. As this is a typical Army squad, I doubt that the Army will willingly consent to even this modified regulation by the Navy of the playing activities of military cadets.

What of the Students?

Incidentally, it may be remembered that at no time in this controversy have any of the students of either academy been consulted as to their desires or opinions in the matter. All the thinking, corresponding and political maneuvering has been done by the mature and serious minded officers of the two services. Perhaps, if the problem has been referred to the young men they would have settled it long ago.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

by Westbrook Pegler

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 19.—About thirty minutes before the start of a big football game, a journalist of my acquaintance approached the coach of one of the teams involved and asked him if it would be all right to enter the dressing room merely to see, hear, sniff, and otherwise absorb the general scene of a famous football team awaiting the whistle.

The coach was quite courteous, but he said he would have to keep the boys quarantined with their bottleholders until the game began because they were all on edge and any distraction might disturb their mood, in which case they might not win the football game. The coach evidently felt that he had not made himself quite clear, however, so a few minutes later an alumnus of the college who is intensely devoted to the teams year after year, came up to explain the matter a little more fully.

"They're Just Like That," Says Old Grad.

"The coach hopes you won't misunderstand," he said. "And he would be glad to have you come to the dressing room or the hotel after the game and meet the boys individually. But the fact is that just now he has got the players in just the right frame of mind to go in there and fight like the devil. I was inside a few minutes ago myself and I can assure you that they are just like that." Here he made a grim face and clenched his hands fiercely.

Now this incident could be duplicated a hundred times any Saturday afternoon in the football season, and I hold that it boils down the Carnegie foundation's report, Chief Justice Taft's dignified criticism, and the whole case against that phase of football which is known as over-emphasis.

Every one, including the coaches, holds that football is an amateur game and if it is an amateur game then it should be played for fun. Yet all over the United States on Saturday afternoons coaches harangue teams of young players and send them out like so many fanatics in a holy war, which, of course, is no fun for them. The coaches do this because it is their job to win games, and a team which takes the field with a laugh on its lips regarding the game as nothing but a game would be torn apart by a team whose emotions have been played upon by the standard tricks of psychology familiar to all city detectives, lawyers, revivalists and football coaches.

School Applies Pressure on Coach.

In after years, old football players speak amusedly of how the old coach whipped them to frenzy with his exhortations in the dressing room, realizing now that he was only striving for an effect to achieve the purpose of holding his job. The pressure on the coach is applied by the school itself. The school demands gate receipts and losing football teams, like losing clubs in the major leagues and third rate prize fighters, can't draw money at the turnstiles. The more money the team must draw the greater the pressure on the coach and the grimmer the game becomes to the young men who play it, with the result that 25 or 30 college boys, ostensibly out for an afternoon of play, must be hypnotized to frenzy before they may be considered ready to take the field.

How Would This Dialogue Go?

It would be absurd, of course, but one of these days I should like to attend a football practice at one of the big universities and hear a dialogue between coach and player somewhat as follows:

Coach:

"Hey, hey, you big clumsy party over there, is that the way you pull out of the line on that play?"

Player:

"My name is Smith. Inasmuch as I am a student here, paying my tuition, and you are a hired employé teaching a non-intellectual activity, thus ranking only slightly above the janitor in my estimation, I shall have to ask you to call me Mr. Smith.

"As I understand our relative positions, you are paid to teach me to play this game and if that is the case you will please confine your remarks to instructions only. And, moreover, your lectures on loyalty to the school strike me as not only irrelevant but inconsistent. You never attended this school as a student, on the contrary, you attended St. Phoebe's academy, whom we have the honor to play next Saturday afternoon. Yet, you have the gall to stand before this team and exhort us, in the name of loyalty, to lick that school to which you owe such loyalty as the situation requires.

"How About Those Testimonials?"

"Another thing, I notice that you have been selling testimonials for nickel cigars which you do not smoke, and newspaper articles which you have not the capacity to write and otherwise commercializing the newspaper importance which you have derived from the fact of our winning a great many football games. Now, if you have denied yourself this revenue, then you might have some claim to the devotion of the football players, including myself. But since you have developed your job into a racket, it is plain to me that you want this team to win only to increase your rate for testimonials, newspaper articles and other phases of your racket.

"As I said, it must be understood that I am the client in our relationship, and it is your duty to serve me in a respectful way, not revile me. Hereafter I will be mister to you. Now what was it you were about to say about the correct way to pull out of the line on that play?"

[Copyright; 1929; By The Chicago Tribune.]

The players must be hypnotized to frenzy before they may be considered ready to take the field.

Hunters Make Preparation to Ambush Geese

BY BOB BECKER.

In the sand bars along the Mississippi river excavators have been digging some queer looking holes lately. No archeological investigations are involved in these enterprises.

On the contrary, the projects are strictly zoological, because the boys along the big river are getting ready for the annual migration of the Canada geese, the honkers that breed far north and will winter [for the most part] along the Louisiana gulf coast. The holes being dug in the sand bars will serve as blinds for the goose hunters.

Most of the pits will be lined with boards. Some of them will be heated with little charcoal burners later in the season, when the sand bars may get as cold as a pack of north pole ice swept by a bitter winter wind.

Although the sand bar brigade which aspires to spray the big white throated honkers with number two shot goes below the surface in the construction of a blind, the prairie goose hunter makes his preparations for hunts by building a hideout above ground, because the latter, as a rule, crawls into a cornstalk shelter.

Thus midwest hunters have the choice of two kinds of blinds, depending on the type of country visited for a goose hunt. In southern central Illinois, along the Illinois river, the cornstalk blind is common. Farther south in the state and down through Tennessee and Kentucky you crawl into an underground blind.

The honkers will be down pretty soon. In Illinois the daily limit on these birds is four. But the bagging of that number of husky geese is only half the fun. The broadcasting and the antics of the live decoys as they talk to the wild birds on the wings is in itself a big show.

CHARGE SEWAGE KILLS THE FISH IN ILLINOIS STREAM

Pontiac, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Sewage from Pontiac is charged with polluting the water of the Vermilion river, killing thousands of fish. The sewage disposal plant maintained by the city does not take care of all the waste, and enough flows into the river to create the pollution, it is charged by anglers.

To remedy the situation, it is proposed to add filter beds to the municipal plant which, it is claimed, will take care of all sewage. Financial difficulties of the city at the present time may prevent the installation. As the sewage from the Illinois reformatory is being treated by the city disposal plant, an effort is to be made to secure financial assistance from the state.

ILL LUCK AT WESLEYAN.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—It seems that there is no end to the ill luck at the Illinois Wesleyan football camp. Wilbur Summerfelt of Chicago, who rains as the best utility lineman on the squad, was lost to the team when he tore the ligaments in his right ankle in dummy scrimmage.

Quincy College Scores Third Victory, 38 to 6

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Quincy college today won their third straight game when they defeated the Hannibal-Lagrange college, 38 to 6. The locals made most of their gains on aerial plays. Quintenz and Redd starred for Quincy with two touchdowns each. Flynn and Singleton each had a touchdown and each kicked goal. Rigney got the touchdown for Hannibal-Lagrange.

Cross-Country Teams to Meet at Bradley

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The annual cross-country meet among teams of the Illinois intercollegiate athletic conference has been awarded to Bradley university here, and the date selected is Saturday, Nov. 23. The start will take place between the halves of the Bradley-Millikin football game. It is expected that six to eight conference teams will compete.

FAVORITE LAKE OF NIMRODS IS BEING DRAINED

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Sportsmen of this vicinity are mourning the loss of Lima lake, the site of which is to be reclaimed for agricultural purposes. For the last month 4 more pumps have been at work taking out the water.

The fish left stranded by the receding water were removed by the state fish and game conservation department. The water in the lake and contiguous ditches has been maintained by seepage from the Mississippi river. This fall the stage of the father of waters has been the lowest in a number of years, and this has lowered the water in the lake. For many decades Lima lake has afforded ideal hunting and fishing for nimrods and anglers of this city and adjacent territory.

BUICKS

Buick's *99-horsepower six-cylinder Valve-in-Head engine is the most powerful engine of its size in the world. It is famous, too, for unrivaled smoothness, economy and stamina. It incorporates such marked engineering advancements as counter-weighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control, positive pressure gas pump, and triple seals against wear.

Buick's Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes provide the most perfect control ever devised for any automobile. They are smooth, sure, silent in operation, and achieve positive results with minimum pedal pressure. And because they are enclosed—fully protected against dust, dirt and water—they insure maximum braking efficiency in any weather.

New, longer rear springs, in conjunction with four new Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers, impart a superlative degree of riding comfort. These two vital comfort factors work together in perfect harmony to check both bound and rebound over the roughest roads.

The world-famous Buick chassis and Buick's smart new Bodies by Fisher! An unrivaled combination! Providing the highest degree of motor car performance and all-round motoring satisfaction, over the greatest number of miles!

The more thoroughly you compare Buick with other cars, the more clearly you will understand why more than 2,000,000 people have bought Buicks—why men and women are buying from two to five times as many Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200—and why they have purchased more Buicks during the few weeks this brilliant new car has been on the market than in any like period in Buick history.

See the new Buicks and arrange to buy one. Six of the 14 luxurious body types, incorporating all the famous Buick superiorities, are available at prices ranging from $1225 to $1295, f. o. b. factory. All available on the extremely liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear imparts matchless steering ease throughout the entire turning range, while the new Buick Road Shock Eliminator absolutely prevents transmission of road jolts and jars to the driver's arms. Twin features which make a tremendous contribution to driving ease and roadability.

Buick's famous multiple-disc clutch, too, reveals marked superiorities. In addition to being far sturdier than those of conventional design, it imparts exceptional smoothness, due to its special facing which insures gentle, gradual engagement of the driving and driven surfaces.

Buick's famous torque tube serves two vitally important functions. It not only carries the driving thrust, leaving the rear springs free to cushion the car's progress, but also forms a major unit of the Buick chassis seal. Every moving part of the Buick chassis—from fan to rear wheels—is fully protected against dust, dirt and water, assuring maximum operating efficiency in any weather.

*The engine in the 124- and 132-inch Buicks develops 99 horsepower, and that in the 118-inch Buicks 80½ horsepower.

PLANES CAUSE 153 DEATHS IN LAST 6 MONTHS

Unofficial List Reveals Character of Crashes.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

A rough estimate, made from unofficial figures, shows that 153 persons met death from airplane acidents in the summer flying season which is now drawing to a close. This figure was compiled from news accounts of the air crashes during the six months' period from April 1 to Oct. 1.

A comprehensive record of the season's air fatalities will not be available until the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce publishes its annual analyses of accidents in civil aviation next January. Even the department of commerce published record is not a complete report of the air accidents. It is a bare classification of crashes, omitting the specific causes of accidents and the names of the various planes in which the accidents have occurred. This information, is withheld by the department in its reluctance to place definite responsibility for fatalities.

Inexperienced Pilots.

The present estimate and the following summary of crashes which found their way into print serve to show the general character of the latest accidents. They show that by far the majority of crashes have occurred to planes in the hands of inexperienced pilots, youths who with only a few flying hours to their credit have become cocksure and careless.

A review of the season's crashes also reveals a large number of accidents due to the errors of trained pilots. The 1928 report of the department of commerce points to the failures of pilots. The analysis shows that 55.79 per cent of the accidents during last year were due to pilot errors. In accidents of transport planes the responsibility rests as much with the operator as with the erring pilot, for it is the operator's duty to select pilots whose judgment is proved to be sound.

Tail Spin Accidents.

Many of the season's air crashes have been described as resulting from tail-spinning. That fact is not particularly revealing. It describes what happened but does not indicate the specific cause. A plane falls into a tail spin from a stall, caused by the loss of flying speed. It may be due to engine failure, pilot error, or structural fault.

The following summary of accidents in the last six months gives the date and place of the accident, the number of fatalities, and, where they are reported, the names of the planes and a description of the cause:

April 13, Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Challenger and Ranger crashed in mid-air.

April 19, San Diego, Cal.—4 deaths. Two navy pursuit planes collide in air while landing.

April 21, San Diego, Cal.—6 deaths. Ford transport of Maddox Air Line collided with army pursuit plane in mid-air.

April 26, Los Angeles, Cal.—3 deaths. Unlicensed Travelair stunting in fog.

One Dead in Chicago.

May 1, Chicago.—1 death. Unlicensed pilot flying Waco powered with Curtiss OX5 "spun" when landing.

May 12, Waukegan.—2 deaths. American Eagle, Curtiss powered, buffeted by wind and rain storm and fell out of control.

May 19, Kankakee.—1 death. Plane flown by novice fell 65 feet from stall. Muskegon, Mich.—2 deaths. Wing crumpled on homemade plane. Galveston, Tex.—1 death. Army attack ship crashed. No cause given.

May 25, Kansas City, Mo.—2 deaths. Fell 100 feet on takeoff. No cause given. Baltimore, Md.—1 death. Demonstrating new plane crashed in tree. Waterloo, Ia.—1 death. Student crashed taking first lesson.

June 2, Kalamazoo, Mich.—1 death. Pilot leaped from burning plane. Grand Island, Neb.—3 deaths. Unlicensed pilot flying new plane first time flew low in threatening weather and crashed. Iron Mountain, Mich. —1 death. Student pilot; "tail-spin."

Plane in River.

June 6, Alexandria, Va.—1 death. Plunged into river; no cause given. Conshohocken, Pa.—2 deaths. No cause given.

June 8, Wilmington, N. C.—4 deaths. Flamingo all-metal cabin plane; "nose dived." No cause given. Cumberland, Md. —2 deaths. Army attack plane flying low in fog struck tree. Passengers burned to death. Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Waco biplane flown by unlicensed pilot crashed into fence on forced landing and passengers burned to death. Chicago.—1 death. Eagle-rock powered with Curtiss OX5 flown by novice side slipped on sharp turn and pilot lost control.

June 9, Elyria, O.—1 death. "Tail-spin," no cause given. Chicago.—1 death. Inexperienced pilot flying Swallow with Curtiss OX5 motor flew from field covered with fog and lost flying speed. Poughkeepsie, N. Y. —1 death. No cause given.

June 13, San Antonio, Tex.—1 death. Two army planes locked wings during maneuver. Des Moines, Ia.—1 death. Old reconditioned "Jenny," turned over while landing.

Nose Dive Kills 2.

June 20, White Bear, Minn.—2 deaths. Plane, flown by unlicensed pilot, "nose dived." Seal Beach, Cal.—1 death. Unlicensed "homemade" experimental plane, built by pilot, crashed. Sacramento, Cal.—2 deaths. Unlicensed plane fell from 800 feet.

June 21, South Bend, Ind.—1 death. American Eagle powered with OX5 motor side slipped from vertical bank.

June 23, Harrison, O.—3 deaths. Pilot, stunting, crashed when maneuvering to land.

June 24, Creston, Ia.—1 death. "Tail spin," no cause given.

June 26, Minneapolis, Minn.—1 death. Ford of Northwest Airways fell from 700 feet. Reported that all three engines died at once. Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—1 death. Pilot burned when safety belt held him in plane after it turned over on landing. Indianapolis, Ind. —1 death. Plane flown by student pilot fell in "nose dive."

June 27, Beach Haven, N. J.—3 deaths. Motor failed on flying boat and plane dived into water. Reported salt water mixed with gasoline. South Bend, Ind.—1 death. Plane failed to come out of flat spin. No cause given.

June 28, Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—1 death. Plane ran out of fuel trying endurance record and crashed in fog. Riverside, Cal.—2 deaths. Two planes collided on takeoff.

Pilot Reported Drunk.

July 1, Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—3 deaths. Pilot reported drunk and stunting at low altitude.

July 4, Marshall, Mo.—1 death. Plane fell; pilot burned to death. No cause given. Decatur, Ill.—1 death. Stunting in new plane.

July 6, Kansas City.—1 death. Wing crumpled.

July 7, Los Angeles.—2 deaths. Stunting an old Curtiss "Jenny." New Preston, Conn. —2 deaths. Waco biplane "tail spun" from 200 feet. No cause given.

July 9, Quincy, Mass.—2 deaths. Marine flyers drowned when plane fell in harbor. No cause given.

July 10, Rochelle Park, N. Y.—2 deaths. Wing collapsed.

July 11, Salina, Kas.—2 deaths. Lincoln-Paige powered with Curtiss OX5 motor fell. No cause given.

July 12, Woodbridge, N. J.—2 deaths. Spartan biplane burst in flames and crashed. No cause given.

July 17, Van Nuy, Cal.—2 deaths. Pilot collapsed at controls. Detroit, Mich.—2 deaths. Wing torn off in first flight of experimental ship.

July 20, Toledo, O.—3 deaths. Swallow biplane powered with Hispano-Suiza motor, crashed while flying low. No cause given. Minot, S. D.—1 death. Plane piloted by student went into tail spin.

Plane Hits Tree.

July 22, Chicago.—2 deaths. Swallow powered with OX5, an old plane with old motor, flown by unlicensed pilot, went into tail spin when motor failed. Groton, S. D.—2 deaths. "Tail spin." No cause given. Santa Barbara, Cal.—2 deaths. Plane struck a tree in landing.

July 26, Binghamton, N. Y.—1 death. Struck light wires on landing field.

July 29, St. Louis, Mo.—2 deaths. Training plane crashed on emergency landing after motor failed. Minneapolis, Minn.—2 deaths. Motor failed after 154 hours service in refueling endurance flight.

July 31, East St. Louis, Ill.—1 death. Plane flown by student instructor crashed. No cause given.

Aug. 1, Greenville, O.—1 death. Plane piloted by student fell after having trouble in takeoff.

Aug. 2, Armonk, N. Y.—3 deaths. Wing collapsed while pilot was looping plane, DeWitt, Ia.—2 deaths. No cause given.

Aug. 3, Hemit, Cal.—2 deaths. Two unlicensed pilots flying condemned plane.

Two Killed Stunting.

Aug. 4, Burlington, Ia.—2 deaths. Pilot stunting Velie monocoupe fell into spin while looping. San Bernardino, Cal.—1 death. Fuel tank exploded.

Aug. 8, Casper, Wyo.—3 deaths. Plane burst into flames and fell. No cause given. Aug. 11, Clovis, N. M.—3 deaths. Lockheed Vega side-slipped on sharp banking turn.

Aug. 18, Atlanta, Ga.—1 death. Student fell from plane learning to fly. Scottsbluff, Neb.—3 deaths. Plane fell into nose dive when landing. No cause given. Sioux Falls, S. D.—1 death. Pilot put ship into climbing turn on takeoff.

Aug. 25, Detroit, Mich.—1 death. No cause given.

Sept. 3, Grants, N. M.—8 deaths. This was the greatest single death toll of the summer. The department of commerce has not made public their detailed findings. The pilot of the Ford transport ship of The Transcontinental Air Transport Line attemped to go around a storm, became enveloped in storm and fog, apparently unable to see the ground, and crashed into side of mountain.

Sept. 5, Lemmon, S. D.—1 death. Curtiss pursuit plane crashed on takeoff. No cause given. Pittsburgh, Pa.—2 deaths. Army plane "tail spun." No cause given.

Sept. 12, Carroll, Ia.—2 deaths. Plane struck pole taking off. San Francisco, Cal. —3 deaths. Plane burst into flames and fell. No cause given. Hadley Field, N. J.—1 death. No cause given.

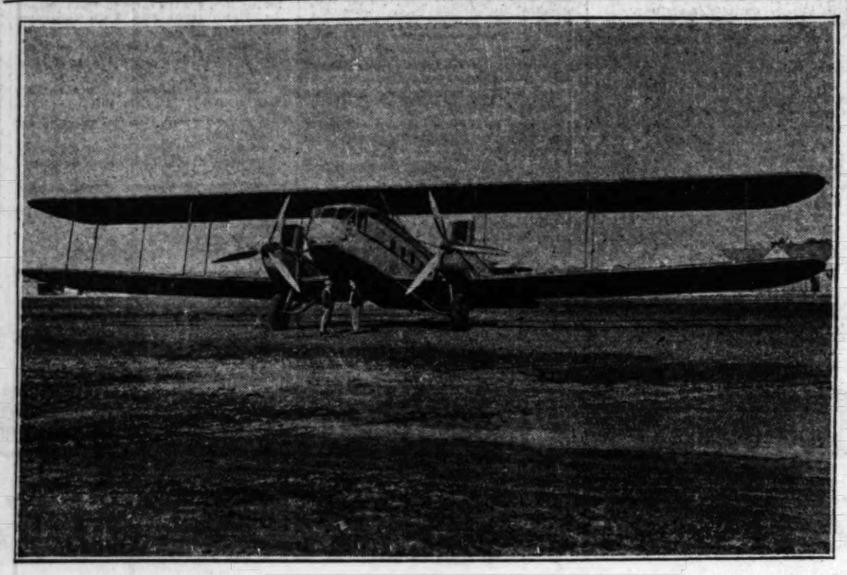
Planes Collide in Air.

Sept. 14, Chicago—4 deaths. Unlicensed pilot flying a Standard biplane powered with Curtiss OX5 motor, collided in mid-air with Stearman powered with Wright J5, piloted by experienced pilot. Oakland, Cal. —2 deaths. Student pilot attempted to loop at low altitude. Minneapolis, Minn.—1 death. Pilot lost control of ship and died in attempted parachute jump. No cause given.

Sept. 22, Chicago.—2 deaths. Student pilot flying Waco biplane froze stick while landing and fell 100 feet.

Last year's report of the department of commerce showed that 384 persons were killed during 1928 and 708 injured.

HERE FOR CARNIVAL



This eight ton transport, the Curtiss "Condor," was due to arrive in Chicago today after a night flight from New York to take part in the aerial carnival which will mark the opening of the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview today. The Condor carries 18 passengers.

Cleveland-Detroit Air Record Cut to 40 Minutes

This is the season when all aviation records are challenged. One that has been broken four times this summer is that for passenger planes between Detroit and Cleveland, and there is no telling when it will be smashed again. The first record was 55 minutes for time consumed in flight between the two cities. This mark stood less than a week when Lester F. Bishop, flying a Loneing amphibian on the Thompson Aeronautical corporation's Detroit-Cleveland passenger run, brought it down to 50. But Bishop's time was soon lowered to 47 minutes. And last week, with the mind at his back, Bishop flew the 100 miles from Detroit to Cleveland in 40 minutes flat, thus setting a new record.

NEW RADIO BEACON.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The department of commerce has rented an acre of ground at the municipal airport for a fee of $1 a year, upon which it will erect an $85,000 radio beacon.

$3,000,000 FIRM.

BALTIMORE, Md.—Incorporation of a $3,000,000 airplane manufacturing concern, the Aero-Plane corporation, headed by James F. Milton, widely known race track starter, has been made public here. According to the charter of the new company it will take over patent rights of Howard Tebbs of this city. The other official named is Herbert C. Craft.

I. C. INAUGURATES RAILROAD-PLANE SERVICE OCT. 28

Leave Chicago 6:15 P.M.; In New Orleans 2 P.M.

Plans for air-rail connections between Chicago and New Orleans have been announced by J. V. Lannigan, general passenger agent for the Illinois Central system, following the completion of an agreement between the Illinois Central and the Continental Air Serves, Inc.

Under terms of the agreement, schedules of Continental's planes on the first lake-to-gulf air line will be coordinated with existing Illinois Central train schedules, so that an over night train trip and a short plane journey will put a traveler in either Chicago or New Orleans by mid-afternoon, with three before dinner hours left for transacting business.

Change at Memphis.

A Chicago passenger would leave at 6:15 p. m. on the New Orleans limited, arriving in Memphis in the morning, where he would change to a Keystone Loening amphibian plane. Following the course of the Mississippi river, the plane would stop at Vicksburg and fly on to New Orleans, landing there shortly after 2 p. m.

On the north bound journey, the passenger would leave New Orleans at 8:40 p. m. on the fast mail, arriving at Memphis in the morning. There he would take off in a Travelair cabin plane, land at St. Louis before noon, and at the Chicago municipal airport before 3 p. m.

A Chicagoan could make the round trip in forty-five hours, and still have six and a half hours to transact business in the gulf coast city. To facilitate the working arrangement between the railroad and Continental Air Services, Inc., the Illinois Central system will be represented on the board of directors of Continental Air Services, Inc. Arrangements provide that a single ticket, sold by either the railroad or the air line, will suffice for the entire journey.

Service Starts Oct. 28.

Service will be inaugurated on Oct. 28, when a fleet of five Continental planes will hop off from the municipal airport and visit St. Louis, Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans. Officials of the air line and the railroad and a number of others will be passengers on the first trip.

"Increasing industrial importance of the south has demanded more rapid transportation between Chicago, the industrial capital of the middle west, and New Orleans, the major city of the south," said Maj. M. D. Mann, president of Continental Air Services, Inc. "We feel that we are helping to bring about a closer connection which should aid the greatest development of both these sections. On the southern section of our route we will travel over and land on the same stream which has borne packet boats carrying the commerce of the midwest and the south for generations. We decided on flying boats for the southern part of the route as offering the maximum of safety and allowing us to give a trip of unusual scenic beauty. We feel that the Mississippi will have an important bearing on aviation development in the south and believe that our efforts in developing air transportation throughout the Mississippi valley are filling a genuine needed."

ARMY ORDERS 70 PLANES.

Work was started recently by the Thomas-Morse Aircraft corporation, a division of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, on initial production of the United States army air corps order for 70 all metal corps observation planes involving approximately one million dollars.

AVIATION QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world's altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—Is there any way I can get information concerning the Air Service Technical school, Rantoul, Ill., and the Aviation Mechanics school, Great Lakes, Ill.? I have heard from the other schools but not from these two. Do you know if they send out catalogs?—R. M. R., Lockport, Ill.

A. — Write headquarters, Sixth corps area, to the air officer, 1819 W. Pershing road. See your nearest naval recruiting office for information on Great Lakes naval training station.

Q.—I have several questions which I would like answered. 1. Please tell me the wing span of the Chance Vought Corsair, Curtiss Hawk, and the Keystone bomber. 2. How many planes are there in a squadron? 3. Please tell me what N, X, or C in the license numbers on planes mean? —L. P., Waukegan, Ill.

A.—1. As to dimensions on planes you will have to write the respective manufacturers. 2. A squadron may be made up of any number of planes for tactical purposes, but usually consists of about fifteen planes in the various countries. 3. N means international, X means experimental, and C limits license to United States.

Q.—I am a school boy in high school and I like to build airplane models. Will you please tell me how I can get the working or technical drawings of the late plans? I merely wish a small copy, not a big one nor a blue print.—S. W., Chicago.

A.—We suggest your joining the Illinois Model Aero club if not already a member. W. L. Brock and Joe Lucas will be glad to help you on scale models.

Q.—I hear that the government operates a flying school where for $600 one may receive training as a pilot, providing that at the completion of the training he works for the government flying mail and pays a percentage of his salary the first year until he has paid for the entire cost of his training, which I think was $5,000. I would be obliged if you could tell me whether there is such a course or not.—M. R., Chicago.

A.—To our knowledge none of this is true, and we ask that you write the air officer, headquarters of Sixth corps area at 1819 W. Pershing road, Chicago, for information on the said corps.

Q.—Can you tell me who transport pilot No. 8 was and where he was from?—J. M. C., Michigan City, Ind.

A.—You will have to write department of commerce, Washington, D. C., as to transport pilot No. 8.

Q.—What are some of the best transport pilot's flying schools in the United States? Is the Boeing School of Aeronautics considered one of the best? Would the transport pilot course offered by one of these schools really give you the necessary experience and time so that the department of commerce would consider you for a transport pilot's license? Taking for granted that one has fair ability and education, is the 150 hours solo and 50 hours dual really enough? I always understood 200 hours solo was minimum. Would you consider it a bad policy to borrow the money for one of these courses, depending on that you could pay it back when you are through and have your license? Is there a very big demand for pilots in foreign countries?—A. W., Chicago.

A.—The school you mention should be one of the best. We suggest you write to various schools. In addition you may then inquire of the Better Business bureau, 111 W. Washington street, Chicago, Ill., and to the department of commerce as to the rating and then make your own decision. After 200 hours airwork in a competent school a flyer should be qualified to fly. There is quite a demand for pilots in South America as well as other countries.

The Air-cooled engine won't freeze— won't overheat— holds all major road records— gives the airplane feel

THE man who drives behind the air-cooled engine has greater peace of mind than any other motorist. No matter how many things other motorists are worrying about or how cold the weather, the Franklin driver knows there is nothing in the air-cooling system to fill, drain, mix, tighten, lubricate, replace or repair—there is no water to freeze, boil or leak. He knows, too, that he can travel indefinitely at top speed without fear of overheating, loss of power, or injury to the engine.

Besides fearing no petty annoyances, the Franklin driver is constantly delighted with brilliant performance. Pickup of the zooming airplane. Power that never lets you even think of shifting gears on a steep hill. Every new motoring emergency is met and conquered with effortless ease and greater confidence—leaving only a satisfied feeling of unusual performance.

You want this kind of performance—why not call us for a demonstration?

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

3 YEAR PROGRAM OF STREET WORK IS RECOMMENDED

Draw Plans for Spending Chicago's Gas Tax Cash

BY HAL FOUST.

A three year program for the expenditure of $4,800,000 on Chicago streets south of Madison street has been drafted by the Chicago Motor club. The work was undertaken at the request of a joint Chicago Association of Commerce and Chicago Regional Plan association committee, which was appointed to advise Cook county on how to spend its 1 cent share of the gasoline tax revenue.

The county board has decided to spend all of its portion of the fuel levy on Chicago streets. The conservative estimate of this revenue is $1,200,000 a year. The board has obligated itself to appropriate $2,800,000 of this money when, and if, it is needed to complete the Austin-Kinzie elevated highway after $20,000,000 road park bonds are spent.

Through Routes Considered.

Only the through routes are being considered for use of the gasoline money. Although $3,500,000 a year is not an impressive sum in view of the mileage involved, it is expected to go a long way toward improving traffic conditions.

At present, there are long stretches of good pavement in Chicago that are of little use to motorists because small connections are missing. There are places where a few blocks of paving will connect miles of smooth surface. A similar condition exists on the heavily traveled routes; few are without sections of bad pavement.

The motor club's recommendations for south side streets follow:

Ogden avenue—Between Cicero and 22d street under city contract. 22d street to Polk street brick pavement, asphalt resurfaced, good condition. Between Polk and Washington, pavement brick, condition fair to rough. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement.

Ninety-fifth street—Between State and Irving avenue, pavement brick bad condition. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement.

Avenue O—Avenue L to 138th street, no existing pavement. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement.

Avenue L—Between 95th street and 100th street, pavement asphalt, bad condition. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Between 103d and 112th streets pavement under construction. Between 112th and 116th streets pavement in good condition. Between 116th street and Avenue O no pavement. Recommend 20 foot concrete.

Forty Foot Roosevelt Road.

Roosevelt road—Between Austin and Kenton avenue, brick pavement, fair to bad. Recommend paving the north half of the road 20 feet of concrete. Between Kenton and Crawford avenues, pavement brick, fair to bad. Recommend new 40 foot concrete pavement.

Halsted street—Little Calumet river to 87th street, pavement under contract.

Eighty-seventh street—Between Morgan and Halsted streets, asphalt pavement in good condition, Morgan street, between 87th and 77th streets, asphalt pavement in fair condition. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Pavement between 77th and 73d streets is in good condition. Between 73d and 69th streets pavement asphalt, condition rough. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Between 69th and 57th streets, street pavement in good condition. Fifty-seventh to 55th street, pavement asphalt, in bad condition. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement.

Marquette boulevard—Between Western and Kedzie avenues, pavement in good condition. Between Kedzie and Central Park avenue, pavement macadam, in bad condition. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Central Park avenue to Crawford avenue, pavement good. Between Crawford and Cicero avenues, no existing pavement. Recommend 20 foot concrete.

South Chicago avenue—Between Ewing avenue and 85th street, there is no right-of-way. Same is to be obtained by the City of Chicago through condemnation. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Bridge is necessary to be built by the city.

Paving in 1931.

Indiana avenue—Between 95th street and South Park avenue the street has not been opened through; city of Chicago should condemn this property for right-of-way. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Ninety-fifth to 95th streets, pavement is macadam, in good condition. Ninety-ninth to 104th street is not paved. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Between 104th and 111th street pavement is macadam, is bad condition. Recommend new 40 foot concrete pavement. One Hundred and Eleventh to 115th streets the pavement is in good condition. Between 115th and 116th streets, the city to condemn property for right-of-way. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. [The pavement between 116th street and the I. C. R. R. is in good condition. Underpass is necessary to carry this street through. Between I. C. R. R. and the proposed cut-off the street is not paved. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement.] A cut-off is proposed between 126th street and Indiana avenue. This will extend 600 feet north of the 130th street curb, northwest, under the proposed underpass and meet Indiana avenue at 128th street which is to be extended. This proposed street [Indiana avenue] is on railroad property and will require condemning. Between 130th and 134th street the existing pavement is bad. Recommend new 40 foot concrete.

Fifty-fifth street—Between Narragansett and Kildare, no existing pavement. Recommend 36 foot concrete pavement. Kildare to Western avenue, pavement is in good condition, and becomes part of the boulevard system.

Thompson avenue—119th street to Monterey avenue, pavement is in good condition. Between Monterey and 108th street, brick pavement in fair condition. Recommend 40 foot concrete. Between 108th and 95th streets, recommend 40 foot concrete. Ninety-fifth to 91st streets, pavement is in good condition. Ninety-first to 70th streets, asphalt and brick wavy and rough. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement.

South Park avenue—Pavement between 67th and 52d streets asphalt, fair to bad. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement.

Paving in 1932.

South Chicago avenue—Between 95th street and South Park avenue, pavement is brick, bad. Recommend 40 foot concrete.

Western avenue—Between 95th and 109th streets, pavement is in good condition. One hundred and Ninth to 112th streets, brick pavement in fair condition. Recommend new 36 foot concrete. One Hundred and Twelfth to 134th streets, pavement is good. Between 134th street and the city limits cement and asphalt, fair to bad. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement.

Eighty-third street—Contracted for, between Western and Kedzie. Western to Kerfoot, pavement is in good condition. Between Kerfoot and Wentworth, no street through, city to condemn for right-of-way. Underpass to be constructed. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Wentworth to Maryland, pavement is in good condition. Between Maryland and the I. C. R. R., macadam pavement, bad. Recommend 40 foot concrete. I. C. R. R. to Dorchester, is not paved. Recommend 40 foot concrete. Between Dorchester and Stony Island, pavement is in good condition, Stony Island to the railroad, macadam, fair condition. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement and underpass. From railroad to Burnham, existing pavement is good. Between Burnham and Exchange, pavement macadam, is fair. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Pavement between Exchange and Burley is good.

Crawford avenue—Between 79th and 83d streets, there is no existing pavement. Recommend 40 foot concrete.

Twenty-second street—Between Kenton and Ogden avenue, pavement is brick, condition is fair to bad. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. Between Archer and Michigan, propose the widening of the underpass which now creates a bottle neck.

Ashland avenue—119th to 115th streets, dirt road. Recommend 40 foot concrete pavement. One Hundred and Fifteenth to Monterey, existing pavement is asphalt, good condition. Recommend widening. Monterey avenue—Ashland to Vincennes, brick pavement, condition rough. Recommend 40 foot concrete. Beverley avenue—Between 103d and 95th streets, is not paved. Propose 40 foot concrete.

Paving in 1933.

Archer avenue—Between Harlem and Cicero, widen present pavement, Cicero to Central Park, pavement is good. Central Park to 22d street, pavement is brick and wood, rough. Recommend 40 foot concrete.

Columbus avenue—Between Western avenue and the city limits, widen the existing pavement.

Indian boundary—This proposed street runs on an angle from Wentworth to Indiana avenue. The city should condemn property for the right-of-way. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement.

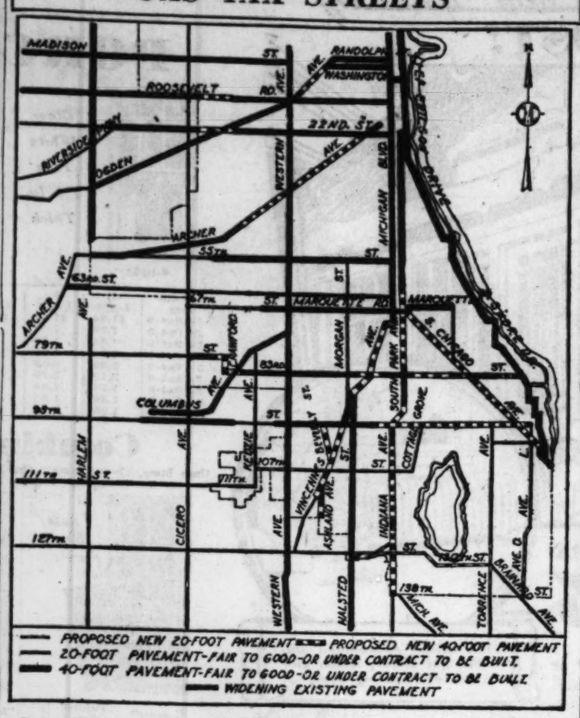
Vermont avenue—Between Halsted and 127th street, existing gravel road. Recommend 20 foot concrete pavement.

One Hundred and Seventh street system—Between Kedzie and California, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. California to Western, pavement is good. Between Western and Hoyne, asphalt pavement is rough. Recommend 20 foot concrete. Hoyne to Cottage Grove, pavement is good. One Hundred and Eleventh street, between Kedzie and Crawford, pavement is good. Cottage Grove avenue, pavement between 107th and 95th streets, in good condition.

One Hundred and Twenty-seventh and 130th street system—On 127th street between the city limits and Cottage Grove recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Cottage Grove avenue, 127th to 130th streets, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. One Hundred and Thirtieth street, between Cottage Grove avenue and Saginaw avenue, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Saginaw avenue, between 130th and Brainard, recommend 20 foot concrete pavement. Brainard avenue, between Saginaw and 138th street, recommend 20 foot pavement.

The Association of Commerce and the regional planners will complete their program for the entire city by the first of the year. Cook county will not receive any of its share of the gasoline tax revenue until after Jan. 1, and then only if the Chicago Motor Coach company's injunction suit is adjudicated by that time and the legality of the excise is sustained.

GAS TAX STREETS



Recommendations of the Chicago Motor club for the expenditure of Chicago's share of the gasoline tax for the next three years.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

AGAINST SUPER BOULEVARD.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Having the best interests of our community at heart and believing that those of us who reside and pay taxes on the west side of Chicago are now carrying as great a burden of taxation as we can bear, I am unconditionally opposed to the so-called superhighway proposed by the west park board.

An elevated highway, or any kind of an elevation, instead of increasing property values soon becomes an eyesore and lessens values. Such a structure will be a Chinese wall and there is a danger of either side of it becoming a slum.

Instead of this monument to political idiocy, which would probably terminate at Halsted street until additional funds were forthcoming, if we are to spend any money, let us have more one-way through streets on this great west side of ours and no elevations anywhere, be it Kinzie, Monroe, Congress or Polk streets, and let us pay our taxes for the west park system and complete the widening projects which have been in process some eight years.

If we are to afford relief to the western suburbs, who undoubtedly will benefit by the superhighway, why should they not bear their share of the cost? Or why not build it with the gasoline tax?

E. M. NAGLE, JR.

FAVORS SUPER BOULEVARD.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—As an old resident of Chicago, I am interested in all that pertains to the betterment of our city. I have therefore read with careful attention your articles outlining the plan for an elevated boulevard on the west side to carry traffic and thus relieve the congestion on our surface streets and boulevards.

This is a splendid conception. Something of the kind must be done in the near future. Dr. Robertson's program seems to be concrete and definite and should be supported by press and public. It will immeasurably add to the comfort and safety of our citizens and will please motorists from other points who are passing through Chicago—and whose good opinion Chicago needs.

F. G. BROWNE.

ATTENTION, DR. ROBERTSON.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Since the time will soon be here when the voters of the west side are to show their attitude towards the super highway project, would it not be advisable to have published in the daily papers a plane view of the highway, showing the arrangement of the ramps at street intersections. The schematics and futuristic sketches published so far do not, in my opinion, illustrate sufficiently the importance of this part of the project. Although meetings have been held and are being planned for the purpose of discussing the work, it is likely that only a small percentage of the voters will be able to attend.

LARS NORMAN.

JUNK THE JUNKS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—We have had our safety days, weeks, and various campaigns. We are talking about a driver's license and costly double decked streets and what not.

Why hasn't any one thought of licensing the automobile in the same manner as the airplane. These out of date crates with two wheel brakes, heavy front posts that obscure vision; old ignition systems that stutter so badly that the driver's attention is all on the car to keep it running. Pull the junks off the street. No one will suffer and maybe some suffering will be prevented. Some New England states license the car and are doing a nice job of it. J. M. B.

HORNLESS DRIVING.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Recently I had the misfortune of being deprived of the use of the horn on my car and I was surprised to find myself driving as carefully as if I had been suddenly thrown into a land where every one was deaf.

I was forced to approach corners with definite care, I was forced to pass children in the street carefully and meekly, and if some pedestrian heedlessly decided to cross the street while I attempted to make a right hand turn I was compelled to halt my car respectfully behind them until they had passed.

Then, I had my horn fixed and I blasted and roared my way along merrily again, not asking, but firmly demanding my right of way. Slow drivers, new drivers, pedestrians and all were again constantly being reminded that they were blocking and irritating me.

However, it has occurred to me that the world would be less hectic and more easy moving if the former method was practiced more and I have decided to use my horn only in extreme emergencies. I have completed my third day of hornless driving and while it is a bit slower I find it easier on my nerves. I pass 'em up when I can do so without blowing my horn and when I can't, I don't. I invite your readers to try some hornless days.

AN ANSWER TO HOOSIER.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 14.—I am astounded by Hoosier's (South Bend) confirmation of our Wisconsin contemporary in his comments on Chicago drivers.

I earn my pay in South Bend and live week-ends in Chicago, my home. I am in a position to criticize South Bend Hoosier's driving and that of Chicagoans. I see much of South Bend's metropolitan as well as suburban driving and can truthfully say that the drivers are almost there, but not quite—just like that long incompleted I. O. O. F. building.

Has Hoosier ever considered the large number of serious accidents on U. S. 20, east of Lincoln highway, compared to those in and about Chicago?

PAUL A. ENKE.

A DANGEROUS CORNER.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—In driving around town one sees many joke stop signs, but how those who are responsible for it ever missed putting a stop light system at 18th and Ashland avenue is certainly strange.

This is one of the most dangerous corners on the south side. I'm sure, if the appropriations fund has dropped to the bottom, the property owners and business men in the immediate vicinity would be glad to advance the money.

JOSEPH A. BRABEC.

WANTS DIAGONAL BUMPS.

Berwyn, Ill., Oct. 16.—Why wouldn't it be a good idea to have the expansion joints in concrete paving run slantingly instead of straight across the street? The modern hurryup paving job makes a decided bump at each joint and, as for me, I'd rather have these bumps hit my front wheels at different times.

BUSINESS MEN ASK ROOSEVELT ROAD WIDENING

Want 56 Foot Street in Suburbs.

The Roosevelt Road Business Men's association has petitioned the municipalities of Oak Park, Cicero and Berwyn to start special assessment and condemnation proceedings immediately, preparatory to the widening and paving of the thoroughfare early next year by the state from the gasoline tax funds.

The association, at a recent meeting attended by officials of the suburbs, went on record approving a width of 56 feet from curb to curb and a width of 100 from building line to building line. At present Roosevelt road's broken and worn out pavement through the three villages is 46 feet wide. With 16 feet occupied by street car tracks, there is not room for an automobile to pass an electric carrier where there is parking.

No Dissenting Votes.

The plans, approved by the business men's organization without a dissenting vote, call for the state to lay 20 feet of concrete an each side of the street car tracks and for the utility to pave its 16 foot right of way.

The villages are to move the curbs, gutters and lights on both sides of the street 5 feet further from the center. The cost of th's operation is to be borne by special assessment against the abutting property.

The building lines at present are 66 feet apart. The pavement widening can be carried out without moving the buildings, but the sidewalks will be cut from 10 to 5 feet wide. This will be a temporary arrangement. When the buildings are moved back for the 100 foot right of way—100 feet from building line to building line—there will be room for 22½ feet of sidewalk on each side of the street.

Condemnation Necessary.

Condemnation proceedings are necessary for the acquisition of 17 feet from the front of the private property. The Roosevelt Road Business Men's association is asking the villages to institute the litigation promptly. Because some of the lawsuits may take months or possibly years to adjudicate, the business men want to start on the 56 feet available without waiting for the 100 foot right of way between building lines.

In this rough and narrow stretch of Roosevelt road through the suburbs, Oak Park has jurisdiction of the north side of the street between Austin boulevard and Harlem avenue; Berwyn, on the south side, between Lombard and Harlem avenues; and Cicero, on the south side, between Lombard and Kenton avenues.

The north side of Roosevelt road, from Austin to Kenton, is within Chicago, as are both sides of the thoroughfare east of Kenton. Cook county, with its 1 cent share of the gasoline tax, plans to improve Roosevelt road within Chicago.

LIQUOR DRAWS AUTO DRIVERS TO CANADIAN CITIES

With the passing of the summer months, the heavy tourist travel from the Chicago metropolitan area to the lakes and woods of northern Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota has dropped off, but the popularity of Canada as a destination for motor trips remains.

"Liquor," reads a footnote on a standard road map of Ontario, "may be purchased only at government liquor stores which may be found in all the larger cities. Tourist's permit, good for one month, costs $2. Any amount up to twelve bottles may be purchased at one time."

At THE TRIBUNE'S touring bureau in the public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets, which handles about 5,800 inquiries a week, about forty per cent of the requests for maps and other road information relate to Canadian trips.

"Nine out of ten motorists going to New York," said Joseph Schullen Jr., head of the touring bureau, "map their routes to use Canadian roads from Detroit to Niagara Falls. After each killing by quick trigger dry agents on the border, we always get a lot of questions about whether it is dangerous for a respectable, law abiding citizen to drive across the border."

The "wild west," which once held the strongest attraction for tourists, has lost much of its popularity in the last couple of years while the travel to Canada has doubled in this time.

About eighty per cent of Chicago's vacation motorists during the season just ending went to the states north of the city or to the oases north of the international boundary, judging from inquiries received at the touring bureau. This same source of information shows a negligible travel from the metropolitan area to downstate.

CREATE MORE LAW TO DEFEAT ACTIVITY OF GAS TAX DODGER

Illinois will not face the gasoline tax dodger until after Aug. 1, when the tax goes into effect. In Minnesota, Wisconsin, and other farming states the practice of including in the application for refund all gasoline used on the farm, even that used to propel the farmer to the movies and picnics, has become almost a panic and the Minnesota law makers added a preventive clause this year. The state thus notifies farmers:

"Any person who shall make any false statement in any claim for a refund of gasoline taxes, or in any invoice presented with such claim, or who shall knowingly present any claim or invoice containing a false statement, or who shall collect or cause to be paid to him or to any other person any such refund without being entitled thereto, shall forfeit the full amount of such claim, according to an amendment to the gas tax law passed by the recent legislature.

"In the past the state oil inspector frequently discovered claims and invoices which had been changed so as to give the claimant a larger sum than he was entitled to. After the errors or alterations were corrected, the claimant was still entitled to the balance. The new law is expected to discourage this form of fraud.

"The clause in the old law making it a misdemeanor to make a false claim is retained in the new law."

Cook county pays for one-half and gets one twenty-fifth of the state's highways.

With the change of seasons, tourists' eyes are beginning to turn toward the south. Motorists are asking for maps to the scenic mountains of Arkansas, West Virginia and the Carolinas. Questions are being asked about routes to sections of Dixie made historically famous by the civil war. And there are some seeking knowledge of highways to Florida, the gulf coast and California.

IT'S HAPPENING EVERYWHERE

BUSY STREET Crowded traffic—cars, cars, cars, all straining for an opening—stopping and starting, bunching up at every signal light, losing time—along comes a new Multi-Range Chrysler—the driver flicks into acceleration gear, steps on the gas and is out in front like a puff of wind—no effort—no noise—what marvelous acceleration!

OPEN ROAD A new Multi-Range Chrysler in the distance—here it comes! A swish—There it goes!—the smoothest thing you can imagine on four wheels—so smooth that it actually seems to be coasting. The Synchronized Power System, giving higher car speeds at lower engine speeds, accounts for its unapproached performance on the open road.

STEEP HILL A long severe climb—some cars laboriously trying to "pull" it in high—some lugging and grinding slowly up the incline in "second"—But look! around everything on the hill steps a new Multi-Range Chrysler—flashing up and over the top with incredible ease—and quietly all the way—in its marvelous new acceleration range.

MATCHLESS UNDER ALL DRIVING CONDITIONS

There is no matching the supremacy of these new Multi-Range Chryslers under any and all driving conditions. They have turned performance standards topsy-turvy. They introduce not only the most revolutionary developments in Chrysler engineering but undoubtedly the most sensational advances which the automobile industry has ever known.

What these new Multi-Range Chryslers achieve in power, in acceleration, in smoothness and riding ease, is actually beyond the power of words to describe. You must drive one—you must FEEL this performance to realize how completely Chrysler has transformed the standards of motoring. Come have that drive.

LIVE STOCK MEN TO TALK "CO-OP" HERE THIS WEEK

Farm Board Working for United Marketing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Far reaching benefits to the live stock producers who sell their hogs and cattle at Chicago and other markets of the central states were foreseen today by C. B. Denman as a result of a conference to be held in Chicago next Wednesday. Mr. Denman represents live stock on the federal farm board.

Officials of each of the twenty-eight existing live stock coöperatives have been invited to the meeting, at which the board expects to set machinery in motion for a giant coöperative sales corporation, similar to that now being perfected to handle grain. Aided by loans from the board's 500 million dollar revolving fund, it is hoped that the corporation will gain control of the live stock market and eventually stabilize prices.

"Better marketing will mean a tremendous advantage to the producers, and I am convinced that it will not raise the price to the consumer," said Mr. Denman. "Our plan, if successful, will help both the farmer and the housewife by reducing the profits now diverted to the middlemen.

"We do not promise miracles to the live stock growers any more than to the grain or cotton growers, but we do believe that by enabling them to gain control of the live stock business we will be laying the groundwork for their prosperity."

23 Per Cent of the Farm.

Live stock marketing comprises twenty-three per cent of the agricultural commodity business in this country, and the farm board members consider the first step toward helping it of great importance. Chairman Alexander Legge will attend the conference Wednesday. Others who plan to be there are Mr. Denman, James C. Stone, Charles C. Teague, Samuel R. McKelvin and William F. Schilling. There is a possibility that Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde may be present.

Discussing the live stock market at present, Mr. Denman said that 75 per cent of the live stock in America is produced west of the Mississippi river, while 75 per cent is consumed east of the Mississippi.

"This shipping situation has produced a problem which can be solved only by a nation-wide agency," he explained.

Chicago Co-ops Weaken.

According to the farm board's figures the coöperatives on the Chicago market are comparatively weaker than those operating on the other large markets.

While 80,000 producers belong to the Chicago coöperatives, 211,000 belong to those in St. Paul, 190,000 to those in St. Louis, 35,000 to those in Sioux City, and 21,000 to those in Kansas City.

TAYLORVILLE'S BANK SCARE TURNS TO BOOM

Taylorville, Ill. Oct. 19.—(AP)—National bank examiners arrived from Chicago today to audit the books of the First National and Taylorville National banks.

Meanwhile word came from the 12 banks in Christian county which have remaied open through yesterday's money scare that depositors were fast re-depositing their money.

It was learned for the first time today that the state bank at Kincaid suffered a small run yesterday, which was checked when the Peabody Coal company deposited $91,000 and announced it would back up the bank with all its resources.

The Farmers National bank of Taylorville, which yesterday was saved from a serious run by the spectacular arrival of an airplane bearing money from Chicago, today was reported in good shape with nearly every depositor's money back in its vaults.

LIBERALITY IS ON THE UPGRADE IN REPUBLICS

Balances Setbacks of Dictatorships.

BY WILLIAM WISNER.

1783-1825

When, on the third of September, 1783, peace between the United States of America and Great Britain was concluded, a new form of government was in the making, and with the adoption of its constitution five years later the first federation of its kind took a place among the nations of the earth: a modern republic based upon the will and consent of the governed, its servants responsible to the people.

This democracy had as little in common with the republics of antiquity as with its pseudo-republican contemporaries.

It differed from the ancient republics in that the latter restricted the suffrage to small minorities who elected the lawgivers and executives ruling over majorities of politically impotent subjects.

The new American government was unlike the Swiss confederation in that its amalgamation was merely an alliance of several separate states, differing, group from group, in their internal political forms.

In 1783 there were four small republics in Italy (Venice, Genoa, Lucca, and San Marino), and a fifth, Andorra, in the Franco-Spanish frontier. Of these only the last two survive. The Dutch republic had ceased to exist in 1795, when the stadtholdership became hereditary.

The Europe of 1783.

Central Europe was dominated by the Hapsburgs in the south and by the Hohenzollerns, Wettins, Wittelsbachs, and Oldenburgs in the north. In northern Italy the house of Savoy was ascendant, central Italy contained the papal states, while the south of the peninsula formed part of the Spanish kingdom of the two Sicilies. Poland by 1795 the victim of three partitions, was to cease existence as a kingdom.

In the new world France held Louisiana and French Guiana; the Portuguese, Brazil; England owned Canada and the Oregon country; Russia possessed Alaska; and the Spanish dominions extended through North, Central, and South America to the wastes of Patagonia.

Such were the governments of the world in 1783.

Trouble Brews in France.

Six years later the king of France convoked the states general to their first assembly in 175 years. The harvest had failed and the specter of starvation stalked through the land; the government was weak and decayed. Followed the French revolution.

This ten year period saw the downfall not only of the monarchy but of the moderates who first seized the reins of government. The extremists under the despot Robespierre instituted a reign of terror, and the country was plunged into ruin. Finally his head fell victim to that guillotine to whose ghastly ministrations Robespierre had committed alike royalty, nobility, clergy and commons. The armies of the neighboring states would have overwhelmed France but for the dissensions among themselves and the military genius of some of the French generals. Notable among these was Napoleon Bonaparte. On Nov. 9, 1799, he engineered a coup d'état which led him to the imperial throne of France.

The American and French revolutions were almost completely dissimilar. In America there was a rebellion against a policy; in France there was an upheaval of the entire political structure; the American colonists builded upon existing foundations; the French revolutionaries tore down the ruling log only to establish a succession of king stories.

Imitators of Napoleon.

Free government in the United States and the French revolution had a tremendous repercussion in South America, while many republican beginnings there may be ascribed to the ambitions of Napoleon and to the lust of South American adventurers to ape him.

Under the liberator, Bolivar, Venezuela, Colombia, and Ecuador threw off the Spanish yoke and in 1823 were formed as a republic. Argentina, Chile, Peru, and Paraguay also became republics. Bolivia revolted from Spain and was plunged into guerrilla warfare. Uruguay rebelled, but was annexed by Brazil, in which colony the Portuguese fleeing from Napoleon had established their government, and in 1822 Brazil became an independent empire.

Mexico in 1821 became independent of Spain; Iturbide was made emperor in 1822 but deposed a year later, and the country was in the throes of civil war.

The Central American provinces joined Iturbide's empire and in 1823 banded together as the United States of Central America.

1825-1871

During this second period the French empire gave way to a monarchy, and that form to a short lived republic.

The Truth About Prohibition Killings: No. 5 in the Series

Pirate Law Figures in the Hanson Case

(Last Sunday's Tribune told of the killing of Jacob Hanson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., by Glenn Jennings, a 22 year old farmer in the service of the United States coast guard, and how the state prosecuted Jennings on a charge of manslaughter. This, the concluding installment of the recital, reveals how the federal authorities defended the coast guardsman and eventually brought about his acquittal.)

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Lieut. Clifford D. Feak of the coast guard service, with headquarters at Washington, was the first defense witness. He is assistant to the chief intelligence officer. He testified that the cap with the device is the identification of the coast guard and that under the conditions in this case Jennings had the right to stop the car by firing his pistol into it.

"I think this is for the court to determine in instructions to the jury," said Judge Hazel. "The coast guard has no right to operate differently from the method prescribed by law."

Lieut. Feak explained that the law goes back to an old high seas law. He said Jennings had on the regulation cap, sweater, dungarees, belt, and pistol.

The Agents' Defense.

In arguing his motion for the freedom of Beck at this point, Mr. Templeton said:

"And may I add that the reports that go out from this courtroom by men here who write stories should state the facts for the first time in the history of this case, should state the facts that an officer of the United States government, in full uniform from top to toe, stood there, the government of the United States standing there, and risked his life to do what? To any advantage to himself? Standing there to see that men smuggling stuff into this country were apprehended.

"When they see a high powered motor car going along at 30 miles an hour through that cut at 4 in the morning, where all sorts of bootleggers carry their goods, they have a right to do just what they did. Indeed, they have a right to shoot without any warning shots. When that man tried to knock him down and he jumped out of the way, he had a right to shoot into that car just as sure as you are in this courtroom. The newspapers were filled with a lot of lies at the early part of this fuss, saying these men looked like everything.

"Dew was the defense. Dew's record is the record upon which we stand. Dew is the only man who saw."

Lieut. Feak was cross examined closely by Mr. Knowles. He said Jennings did right in shooting. He balked, however, at answering this question:

"If Jennings had not been able to stop that car by shooting into the car, under your translation of the law would he have been justified in shooting Hanson?"

Mr. Templeton objected to this.

The Court—Before the witness answers that, perhaps I ought to remark that it is the state of mind of the officer, whether he considers himself in jeopardy, that must be considered, and it seems to me that such a question is unfair unless it embodies a situation of that character.

"Most Unfortunate."

The witness, however, was permitted to answer, and his answer finally was given in this way:

"It is better that one hundred guilty men escape than one innocent man should suffer."

Admonished that this was not an answer, the witness replied "No" to the question.

The question arose as to whether the men could separate and the warning of Dew become sufficient reason for Jennings to fire.

"In this case," said the witness, "the car was the automobile of a felon, escaping a federal officer, and the mere presence of Jennings in the road constituted a second warning to stop, which the car evidently did not do."

Lieut. Feak characterized the death of Hanson as "most unfortunate."

Roscoe S. Learned, the guardsman who was in command of the group May 5, said he had told Jennings and Dew to stop all cars coming up the hill. Orders from Beck were, he said, to shoot into tires or engine if the cars did not stop. He said he was with Jennings and the other guardsmen at the Florida café from between 12 and 1 in the morning until between 2:30 and 3 o'clock. He had nothing but coffee to drink, he said.

Mr. Rasmussen, recalled, testified that bullet holes in the car—with the exception of the one in the windshield—showed that Jennings' aim was downward.

JENNINGS' STORY

At this point the defense injected into the courtroom a measure of sympathy for Jennings.

Jennings is a good looking guardsman. He was in court in full uniform. His wife and baby were there. Now his aged father and trembling mother were put on the witness stand by Mr. Templeton to testify that their son's reputation for veracity was good, that the neighbors spoke well of him, how he had worked hard on the farm, walked miles to school every day, and other homely details. Mr. Knowles objected to all this, just as Mr. Templeton had objected to the effort of the prosecution to wring tears from the jury by description of Hanson's suffering.

Jennings was then called to the stand. He described the shooting as follows:

"We had taken our position on the first curve of the hill, and saw the lights of the Hanson car. [Nothing here about recognizing the car, as stated in his affidavit.]

"I told Dew to go down to the next curve, because he was in full uniform, and to signal the car that came through the cut. I saw his flashlight after it was turned on and then the lights of the car showed Dew standing there, his hands in the air, waving the car to stop, and the car did not slacken speed and Dew had to jump back. I heard gunshots after the car passed him, but could not tell whether they came from within or without the car. The car gained speed. I stood in the glare of the headlights and waved my arms. When I was 50 feet away I fired the first shot. I aimed low, intending to hit the motor. I jumped to one side, fired twice as I jumped. The car struck the curb 20 or 30 feet on. I opened the door and ordered the man out. He said, 'Just a minute—give me time.' He was nearly out when he asked if I was William Tierney. I left Dew with the man while I went for a car."

"Fleeing from What?"

Jennings put on the clothes he wore that night. He said he had unbuttoned his coat so the pistol could be seen. His cap was on, his belt in sight.

He told Mr. Knowles he had nothing to drink but ginger ale at the Florida.

The Court—You have several times stated that you regarded this car, because it did not stop in response to the signals of Dew, whom you could see, as fleeing. Now, fleeing from what? What was your state of mind with relation to that?

A.—Why, fleeing because he had contraband. That is the only thing I could think.

The Court—Just why was it that came into your mind when this car approached? [The court may have had in mind the reason given in the affidavit which had been presented to him months before and which he had granted.]

A.—Because it failed to stop when Dew signaled it and when it came on at increased speed.

Nothing here of the statement in his affidavit that he recognized this car as one that had escaped him and one that had carried contraband.

Ordered to Shoot Low.

Beck, boatswain in charge of the Fort Niagara station, was the next witness. He has been with the coast guard 21 years.

"My instructions to the men were that after a car had been properly signaled to stop and they had made every effort to stop it and the car continued on, then in my opinion they were authorized to shoot at the car to disable it. The men were ordered to shoot low and avoid hitting any one."

He said it was a breach of duty for the men to have been in the Florida café that night. Nothing, however, had been done about it.

The shooting of the Stearns car was put into the case on rebuttal, over Mr. Templeton's objection that it had nothing to do with the Hanson case. Stearns and his companions had been at a party and were trying out a new car on the hill.

They had not been drinking and there was no liquor in the car.

As they came over the hill the last time a man stepped into the road and began shooting into the car. Later they saw two men. They had a flat tire and there were five bullet holes in the car. They became frightened and one man said, "Step on the gas or we will get killed." Stearns did and they went on, flat tire and all.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

This closed the testimony. In his instructions to the jury Judge Hazel said in part:

"If an officer seeks to arrest without a warrant a person suspected of a misdemeanor he must use great caution not to injure the person. He has no right to shoot a person for trying to get away or evade arrest, when the charge is a misdemeanor, or when one fails to stop his car on request by an officer where the occupant is merely suspected of a misdemeanor. Violations of the national prohibition act by transportation, sale, or possession of intoxicating liquor are misdemeanors, not felonies.

"In this case we are dealing with asserted claims of defendant that reasonable grounds existed warranting suspicion and belief that a felony was being committed, namely, violation of the tariff law. I instruct you that before firing shots at the auto to stop it Jennings was required to have reasonable cause to suspect that the tariff law was being violated. His suspicion must be based on facts and circumstances, not mere guesswork or surmise.

"If circumstances show to your satisfaction that Hanson knew or had reason to know that an officer had signaled him to stop and instead of stopping he hastened on, giving the reasonable idea that he would not stop or that he was fleeing from the vigilance of Officer Dew, and there were no other means available for stopping the car to enable Jennings to perform his duty, then I instruct you that firing into the auto—not to shoot Hanson, for he was not detected committing a crime but to cripple the car—was excusable.

"If you believe the testimony of Dew and Jennings you may conclude that Jennings had reasonable grounds to suspect that Hanson was engaged in violation of the tariff law.

"The deceased Hanson was not a wrongdoer. No smuggled goods or intoxicating liquor were found in his car or in his possession, and it is hard to account for his omission to comply with the hailing and signal of shots fired in the air by Dew, and seemingly increasing his speed—if you believe Dew and Jennings on this point—and also failing to see Jennings with outstretched arms—if you believe him.

The Jury Deliberates.

"It impresses itself strongly on the mind that it must have been an omission to look and listen with reasonable care, else he must have seen the light ahead of him, he must have heard the signals. He is dead. If you believe that Jennings became excited as the car approached, or after

LOWER RATES TO AID TRADE AND BOND MART

Selling in Stocks Ends Pinch.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Every indication points to a condition of easy money for the balance of the year. The change from a period of stringency to one of comparative ease has been a rapid one, somewhat mysterious, too, and in most quarters entirely unexpected.

There have been two main factors in the sharp decline in the money rates. First, the liquidation of securities in the stock markets of the country and their present low levels as compared with the highs of early September. Second, the purchase of acceptances on a large scale by the federal reserve banks, a total expected to reach $500,000,000 before the end of the year. This operation, an annual one, automatically puts banks of the system on a comfortable basis and permits their extensive operation in the field of commercial loans.

Three Results Expected.

Three immediate results may be foreseen from the revelopment of easy money. First, the financing of the business of the country at rates materially below those of a month ago; second, the possible loss of gold by New York to London, clearly forecast last week by the exceptional strength in sterling; third, the stimulation of the investment market, meaning by that first grade bonds of all sorts in general and Liberty bonds and other government descriptions in particular.

There is no doubt that members of the federal reserve board and leading bankers and industrialists welcome the change which has taken place, rather drastically, too, in the money situation during the last two weeks. Possibly a step would have been taken in this direction sooner but for the fact that fears were expressed that it would prove a further goad to stock market prices and a heavy drain of speculative funds into the market.

Now that the market has experienced a severe shakeout [although brokers' loans continue at an extremely high level, in fact within $3,000,000 of the year's peak] money rates no longer are a factor in the securities market. In fact, the markets last week paid no attention to the decline in funds at all.

Change May Aid Business.

The change in the money situation is especially welcome, since complaints has commenced to drift in from many quarters that business was being affected These complaints were heard most frequently from real estate men and builders, a market for money practically deserted when call funds commanded 7 to 10 per cent in Wall street. This industry evidently had cause for complaint, too, as a sharp decline in new construction work has extended through practically the entire period of high and tight money.

That there will be an outward movement of gold from New York to London before the end of the year now appears likely. Sterling is about 1½ cents from the point at which gold shipments would prove profitable. Foreign funds, loaned in this market all summer, are now going home in large blocks. Commercial difficulties abroad and the decline of money rates here have hurried this movement, and, naturally, the repatriation of these funds to foreigners entails the sale of dollars, which are depressed, and the purchase of the foreign currencies, not less than nine of which established new high records for the year in the foreign exchange markets last week.

Bond Market Also Helped.

Possibly the most welcome effect of the decline in money rates, to the financial district at least, has been the tonic effect it has had on the bond market. Fixed return securities have been in the doldrums for more than a year, while stocks were the center of countrywide interest. At the moment there is a strong drift back to bonds. The market is strong, active and about as broad as it has been at any time this year, a condition which may be directly traced to the change in money conditions.

The course of the return on call any time funds this year has been an extremely interesting one. In March, call funds loaned at 20 per cent; in April at 16 per cent. Funds have loaned on call on the stock exchange at 5 per cent during the last week, with many loans "outside" at 4½. In October, 1928, the range for call loans was 6 to 10 per cent, the latter figure only 2 per cent below the high for the year. In the same month of 1927, the range was between 3½ and 4½ per cent.

Question of Corporation Funds.

The current recession in time money rates has not ben equaled this year. Rates for loans for stated periods were 9 to 9¼ per cent for all maturities. With an influx of funds, five separate recessions in rates were made, and on Oct. 17 the range was 7¼ to 7½ for sixty and 90 days loans and 7½ to 7¾ per cent for six months obligations.

Time rates are now back to the levels established in the first two months of the year and approximately the same as in October, a year ago, when the range was 6¾ to 7½ per cent. Two years ago, 4¼ per cent for 60 and 90 day loans and 4¾ per cent for six months loans were the ruling quotations.

Probably the most interesting question which now bobs up is that of how big corporations and individuals, heavy lenders in the stock market in the "for others" account, will allow their funds to remain in the call market. Of the total of $6,801,000,000 in loans to brokers, $3,875,000,000 is loaned in the market by "others," this representing a wide variety of sources, but mainly represented by the cash surplus of corporations, which have discovered the call money market as a safe, liquid, and remunerative vehicle for their short term loans. The figure represents a gain of $1,334,000,000 in this account as compared with a year ago.

It remains to be seen just how attractive a 6 per cent or even a 5 per cent rate will appear to owners of these funds. Possibly a considerable withdrawal is to be anticipated, particularly if the down trend in money is a sustained one.

BOND MARKET RALLIES

"The action of the bond market in registering an almost perpendicular advance in the last two weeks adds additional evidence in support of the opinion that the statistical position of bonds is now the strongest since 1921," said E. M. Zimmerman, economist of A. C. Allyn & Co., investment bankers, in discussing the present position of the bond market.

"The recognized bond averages have shown a very decided advance since early in the month, the extent of which is not at all appreciated by the public or even Wall street itself. The Dow Jones average of forty bonds in 12 days made up nearly 20% of the decline from the top in 1928.

"The sharpness of the up move and the rapidity of the advance is additional proof of the scarcity which has existed in high grade issues over the last three months. In general, it may be said that high grade corporation bonds have been absorbed by insurance companies and other shrewd, far seeing investors to such an extent that the floating supply has been practically negligible for some time.

"There are several factors which serve to place the bond market in a very strong statistical position. The outstanding one is the falling off from a normal increase in the supply. At the close of 1926 bonds outstanding totaled approximately forty and one-quarter billion dollars. At the end of 1927 this had increased to over $44,000,000,000 and in 1928 roce to an excess of $47,000,000,000.

Drop in New Issues.

"New bonds issued since the first of the year up to Sept. 27 aggregated slightly over $2,550,000,000, comparing with about $3,690,000,000 in the same period in 1928 and $4,680,000,00 in the period ended Sept. 30, 1927.

"From the first of the year maturities aggregated $717,288,990 up to Sept. 30. Bonds called to Oct. 31 amount to $656,506,750, or a total of $1,373,795,740. Subtracting this figure from the total of new issues since the first of the year indicates an increase in supply of slightly over $1,200,000,000. Comparing this figure with the new issues offered in the first nine months of 1927 and 1928 gives an indication of the big falling off from the normal figure.

"Another factor making for an exceedingly strong technical position in the bond market is that many banks have greatly reduced their portfolios in order to meet the loan requirements of their customers or have sold in order to place funds in the call money market, which has been so alluring the last few months."

SELLING DRIVES CURB PRICES TO LOWER LEVELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—What the trade classifies as "necessitous" selling growing out of previous declines of the week drove curb market prices to substantially lower levels today. The customary week-end run of liquidation helped to undermine the main list.

Many stocks, especially the utilities, were forced to new low levels on the movement or for the year.

A heavy accumulation of offerings at the opening indicated the extent of distress selling and closing out speculative holdings by disappointed bulls. Electric Bond and Share, on an opening block of 15,000 shares, dropped more than a point to a new low on its decline of recent weeks, rallied a point or two, then sold off again to 123, a net decline of 12 points on the day.

Losses of 1 to 20 points or more also were registered by such favorites among the utilities as Central States Electric, American Superpower, Electric Investors, United Light and Power A, and Brazilian Light and Traction. Niagara Hudson Power touched 19¼, a new low.

Oils investment trust, aviation and miscellaneous industrials, all retreated before the selling and in absence of any strong support. Cities Service continued to receive the best support of any of the leaders, dropping only a [illegible]

ALLEGHENY CORP. ACQUIRES BLOCK OF M. K. T. STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—The Allegheny corporation, investment company of O. P. and M. J. Van Swearingen, has acquired a large interest in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, according to a survey by E. E. Laufer, statistician for Harrias & Vose. The report says that in addition to a substantial amount of Missouri Pacific convertible bonds the corporation holds stocks as follows:

Company and class—	No. of shares.
Chesapeake Corp., common	1,080,000
Erie common	212,400
Nickel Plate common	75,000
Chesapeake & Ohio common	37,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie common	112,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie 7% pfd	75,000
Wheeling & Lake Erie 6% pfd	7,867
Missouri Pacific common	200,000
Missouri Pacific pfd	75,000

The corporation shows in its balance sheet that it owns about $53,000,000 of undisclosed securities which may include additional holdings of the stocks listed. The market value of securities owned on Sept. 30 was about $250,000,000, compared with a cost of about $183,000,000.

Unsettled Market Delays Millions of New Financing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Unsettled market conditions have forced the withdrawal of nearly $100,000,000 new financing, it is reported in Wall street. Huge stocks of "undigested securities" are in the hands of investment dealers as the result of the large volume of September financing. Repurchases of recent offerings will probably be distributed a second time before the glutted market will be capable of absorbing further offerings, it is said.

TRUTH ABOUT KILLINGS BY DRY AGENTS

How Slayer of Hanson Was Acquitted.

he had fired the first shot, and in the immediate emergency he sent a bullet higher than the first shot, and was at the same instant forced aside by the car, and there was no intention to injure Hanson, but the purpose only to disable the car, then you may conclude that the shot through the windshield, the bullet entering Hanson's head, was an accident and he was not guilty of the crime charged."

The jurors were all merchants and farmers of Elmira and vicinity. They retired at 1:45 p. m. on Jan. 29.

They returned at 11:15 the same night. The foreman asked this question:

"Assuming that Jennings regarded this Hanson's car as a felon's and escaping a fellow officer, and he fired to disable the car, and one shot that went wild did the damage, how would we be instructed as to determining him guilty or not guilty?"

The Court—These are circumstances from which I should say you could reasonably determine that it was a misadventure, and that the accused is not guilty of offense.

An hour later the jurors again returned to the courtroom. The foreman announced that they had been unable to reach an agreement, and doubted if they could. They had balloted eight times. On one ballot they were 10 to 2 for conviction. On another ballot four favored acquittal.

Juror No. 11 asked the court to reread his instructions about a man escaping from an officer, defining the crime of manslaughter, and excusable homicide.

The Foreman—Would Jennings have the right to assume that this fellow was a felon and escaping a fellow officer?

The Court—I instructed you that if Jennings had reasonable cause to believe that the driver of this car had evaded inspection, then he had a right also to assume that it was transporting contraband.

The Foreman—And under those conditions he then had the right in performing his duty to shoot to disable that car?

The Court—I instructed you that under those circumstances, having that belief in mind, he did have a right to cripple, to disable that car.

Disagree; Discharged.

Instructions along this line were repeated, and Juror No. 11 said the jury should reconsider the case.

The court recalled the jurors an hour later to say that the testimony of Dew, given as a witness for the people, must be accepted by them, and that they could take it as a fact that Hanson was properly hailed.

The jurors retired again, but came back in the morning to report a hopeless disagreement. They were then discharged.

The twelfth juror asked the court after it was all over if he had not done right in deciding that Jennings could not be found guilty unless it was shown that he had intended to shoot Hanson.

He was one who for this reason had refused to go over to the majority and convict Jennings.

Mr. Lowman There?

There is one incident which took place outside the courtroom toward the close of this trial and which may be worthy of record here.

Elmira is the home town of Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of enforcement of prohibition. He is the Republican boss of the county and had found it convenient to go home during this trial. It was reported in dispatches from Elmira at that time that he had aided Mr. Templeton in scanning the jury list, as his knowledge of men in the county was great. It is not known whether this is true or not, or whether Mr. Lowman was in the courtroom or displayed any interest in the trial, but Mr. Knowles, the Niagara prosecutor, who felt himself somewhat handicapped in the case, due to his ignorance of county conditions and the general atmosphere of the courtroom in favor of the government defense, relates this experience:

"The evening the jurors were out on their deliberations in this case I sat at a table in the hotel dining room alone. I noticed at another table, one close to the long table where the jurors sat, a group consisting of Judge Hazel, Mr. Templeton, and Seymour Lowman. I thought it peculiar, to say the least."

This first trial of Jennings was a close call for the government defense. In arranging for the new trial it was decided to try a new strategy. There was a suggestion in the first case that the bullet which struck Hanson was a wild bullet, but it was only one angle of the defense, tossed in for what it was worth. The whole defense in the second trial was based on this. Mr. Templeton, at the close of the first case, took the bullet which had been extracted from Hanson's head and had it examined by experts, with results that will be apparent.

THE SECOND TRIAL

The state sought to have the second trial held in Buffalo, but the government opposed this and moved for a change of venue on the plea that much prejudice existed against the defendant in Buffalo and vicinity. Judge Hazel denied this motion, but set the trial for the next term of court, which was to be held in Rochester. This in effect was a change of venue.

The trial began May 21, 1929, more than a year after the shooting. Mr. Templeton and Mr. Morgan appeared for the defense, with Mr. Johnson, the private attorney. Mr. Knowles was aided by William F. Love, district attorney of Rochester. As in the first case, 20 peremptory challenges were given to each side by state law. The state had only one left and the defense three when the jury panel was exhausted. The court ordered the box filled with men taken from the streets. Questions put to jurors by Mr. Templeton related to membership in the Elks, whether the prospective juror had contributed to any association opposed to the eighteenth amendment, whether he had read newspaper articles on the case, ever had been in the liquor business, or had listened to protests over the radio from Buffalo about this case. Mr. Knowles questioned as to the venireman's knowledge of auto driving, whether he believed officers of the law should obey the law, whether he had any connection with federal service, was a radical wet or dry, whether he was prejudiced because the defendant wore a full uniform in court and that the United States attorney was defense counsel. He also put this question:

A Dry on the Jury.

"If you detected any attempt at trickery by either side during this trial, would you penalize the side making it in your decision?"

"What do you mean?" asked the court.

"Funny business—chicanery," was the reply.

One of the men taken from among the bystanders to fill the box was Charles E. Ogden, a publicity man, former private secretary to Mayor O'Neill of Rochester and former city assessor. He is a gray haired, dignified looking man. In answer to Mr. Knowles he said he was "radically dry." Mr. Knowles ordinarily would have dropped him quickly, but after a conference with Mr. Love he accepted the man and the government, of course, took him gladly. He became the foreman of the jury and an acquittal advocate.

In opening the case Mr. Templeton stressed the new point of the defense that the first shot of Hanson was a ricochet bullet, which hit the pavement or some part of the car and was deflected through the windshield.

The evidence of this was the shape of the bullet itself. If true, it took intent out of the case, and this had a profound effect upon the jurors, regardless of the indictment. It was a point against which the prosecution fought in vain.

An Indirect Hit.

The state put on all its witnesses, as in the first trial, but the defense, instead of twelve witnesses used at Elmira, offered only Capt. James L. Hatcher of the ordnance department of the United States army, an expert in ballistics. He testified that the bullet which struck Hanson did not pass through the windshield without first having struck some other object. He told the jury all about his experiments in firing bullets through windshields and why a bullet which has been deflected from its course turns over and over and usually leaves a long impression. He said the tire and other holes in the Hanson car were made by direct hits. It was impressive testimony.

"In my opinion as an expert," he said, "and I have had twelve years on pistol ballistics—in my opinion this bullet, exhibit 30, struck some object before it penetrated the windshield."

Mr. Templeton told the jury that the witness did not see this bullet until he took the witness stand.

Thirteen experimental bullets were presented to the jury. They were ricochets that went into glass. They were deformed as the bullet that went into Hanson.

Evidence of the Stearns car shooting was kept out of this case. It was offered by Mr. Knowles. Mr. Templeton objected. There was no place for it in rebuttal. The story of the visit to the Florida café was not in the case. Jennings was not placed on the stand, nor Dew. There was no chance for cross-examination.

"Turn on the Light."

"What is the defense afraid of?" asked Mr. Knowles in his summation. "If they have a defense worthy of the name here, why not put the witnesses on and throw a little light on it? Why has the defense, all through this case, done everything they could to hide and shield and cover up this situation? Why have their made all these objections? Why the hesitancy to keep out of the record that Hanson was stone blind from the time he was shot until his death? Why all the excusals of the jury from the courtroom?

"The defense that has been put in has been a defense to a charge of murder in the first degree. The only defense that has been put in is that Jennings did not deliberately and intentionally shoot to kill Jacob Hanson. The people of the state of New York do not charge this. The people tell you that he did not have any right to fire any bullets, ricochet or in the air or wheels or in the skull of Jacob Hanson. It does not make the least difference to us that this was a ricochet bullet. There is no defense here as to why Jennings is not guilty of manslaughter in the second degree for causing the death of Jacob Hanson through his culpable negligence. The law does not contemplate that innocent, decent men shall be sacrificed in any such fashion as this. That was not the act of the United States government on that hill. Jennings was not the United States government then. He was what the people of the state of New York claim he was, foolish, reckless, willful, culpably negligent, and he had no more business to run and hide behind the skirts of the United States government than any other thug."

Again the Instructions.

The court's instructions were much the same as in the first case.

"If you believe, gentlemen," said Judge Hazel to the jury, "that Jennings did not send the bullet at the windshield, that there was no active, culpable negligence on his part in attempting to cripple the car by firing the shots, and that there was no other way of enforcing compliance with the statute authorizing him in the discharge of his duties to stop the car on Dew's signal to stop, and that the bullet strayed from the lower level or aim at the car and was deflected into the windshield, giving Hanson a mortal wound, then I think you may justly determine that the shooting of Hanson was accidental and a misfortune for which Jennings should not be found guilty. On the other hand, if you believe from the evidence that in firing the shot or shots there was a lack of care, prudence, and precaution—in short, culpable negligence—then the defendant should be convicted."

Mr. Knowles asked the court to charge the jury as a matter of law that absence of deliberate intent to kill is not, in and of itself, a defense to the charge of manslaughter in the second degree. This was done. Mr. Templeton took exception to this part of the charge. The court, however, added that "the element of intent to kill is not an element of the offense as charged in the indictment."

Acquitted.

The jurors retired at 12:15 on the afternoon of May 23. The first ballot was 6 to 5 for conviction. Those who voted for conviction, however, were not moved strongly to send Jennings to prison. They were registering their convictions that the federal officers had been too free with the use of guns in this and other cases. Nine ballots were taken. Those who stood for conviction finally came down to two. The jurors came into court and asked if they could find a conviction for any lesser offense than manslaughter in the second degree and wanted to know what the penalty was. The court told them that the penalty was not for them to consider, but that if they saw fit to bring in a verdict of guilty with a recommendation for leniency the court would not be slow to follow it.

At 10:50 that evening the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Attached to it was a recommendation that government agents be more careful in the future in the use of firearms. This had been written by Mr. Ogden and was the suggestion that won over the last two jurors to free Jennings.

How the Verdict Was Reached.

"The wet and dry question was never raised in the jury room," said Mr. Ogden. "This was a jury of fine men, anxious to do the right thing.

"The court told us that these agents had the right to stand in the road, that it was their duty to stop the car and that they had the right to shoot into the car. The whole question was whether Jennings had used good judgment. If I had been in his shoes on that dark cold night on that lonely road with the short time he had in which to act, I would also have tried to stop the car. The evidence was that he fired low. The bullet which killed Hanson had struck the pavement and had rebounded through the windshield. He did not know whether Dew was shot or not. There was silence down there after the shots were fired.

"One thing that influenced us was that one of the jurors was a war veteran who knew a lot about bullets. He told us that Hatcher's testimony was true, that this was a ricochet bullet. This was what determined the verdict. The two men who held out for conviction were perfectly satisfied when the recommendation was suggested."

So that ended the Hanson case. It stands as a beacon light in prohibition enforcement, showing the United States government in a new light towards its citizens.

ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

The jury in the first trial of Glenn Jennings, charged with slaying Hanson, was unable to reach an agreement. In the second trial, held in federal court at Rochester, N. Y., he was found not guilty. He is in the center of this picture, with his mother beside him, in the courtroom at Rochester.

UNITED CIGAR'S DIVIDEND ACTION IS UNDER FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—On the basis of the statement issued by the directors of the United Cigar Stores company explaining why dividends on the preferred stock of the company had not been declared on Friday, the bureau of securities of the state's attorney general's office today announced that an investigation would be made as to the method by which such dividends had been previously paid.

Legal representatives of the company after a conference with Watson Washburn, the assistant attorney general in charge of the bureau of securities, expressed the belief that the statement made by the directors had been misinterpreted, and declared that the investigation would probably be determined Monday.

The new board of directors, which was elected last August when management of the company passed from the Whelan interests, said an audit of the books resulted in omitting the dividend. It also was stated that the "so-called cigaret price war had a very material effect on earnings for the year and its termination would greatly improve the company's prospects."

LIBERALISM ON THE CLIMB IN REPUBLICS

World Tendency Is Toward Autonomy.

lic, which in 1852 was superseded by the second empire.

The end of the first French empire marked the welding of the German states into an empire under the king of Prussia.

In Italy the various states were unified by Garibaldi as a kingdom.

England Spreads Her Colonies.

In Asia, Africa, and Oceania the powers had increased their territorial holdings.

In Africa the Boers set up republics, and a like government was instituted in Liberia, founded by liberated American slaves.

The United States acquired all of its present continental territory, including Alaska. In Mexico anarchy and dictatorships prevailed. In 1839 the Central American union broke up into the republics of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, and Salvador, ruled by a succession of despots.

Bolivia and Peru were in a state of civil war. Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador separated in 1830 and gave themselves over to civil strife and despotism. Paraguay settled down in 1870 to a greater stability.

Chile and Argentina maintained the republican form. Brazil was still an empire, but Uruguay revolted and set up a republic.

Thus we have in this period in South America a manifestation of the growing pains of republicanism.

1870-1914

This era opened with the end of the Franco-Prussian war and the establishment of the French republic; it ended with the first year of the world war.

The year 1898 saw a free Cuba and the Philippines under the American flag. Panama in 1903 became independent of Colombia. Haiti and San Domingo were aided by the United States in setting their republican houses in order.

Mexico, in 1884, emerged from chaos under Diaz, but returned to anarchy in the Madero, Huerta, and Carranza régimes. In Central America during this period conditions remained unsettled.

Brazil in 1889 deposed the emperor and set up a republic, and in the rest of South America the forces of liberalism gathered strength.

In 1910 the liberals of Portugal deposed and exiled King Manuel and set up a republic.

In China the westernized liberals rebelled against the Manchu rulers. The emperor abdicated and in 1912 a republic was proclaimed, the scene of strife between the governing conservatives and the liberals.

Canada became a dominion, Australia a commonwealth; the Union of South Africa was formed.

1914-1929

In this period liberalism, the principle of self-determination, and, at the other extreme, a new despotism growing out of the misapplication to unenlightened and agricultural peoples of a visionary doctrine designed for a highly civilized industrial state, and the consequent defensive intensification of nationalism—all contributed to sweeping changes in world polity.

In Russia under the reactionary imperial bureaucracy corruption and treachery brought about the collapse of the armies.

Enter Lenin and Trotzky.

In March, 1917, the czar abdicated and the duma set up a provisional government, following the rule of Kerensky, a vacillating political spellbinder, whose authority was ended by the bolshevists Lenin and Trotzky.

After negotiating the humiliating peace of Brest-Litovsk and suppressing revolts against their despotism they promulgated a constitution which, promising freedom, did not even grant democracy.

This anomaly of nihilistic dictatorship attempts to justify its existence on the ground that the operation of nihilism can begin only when the entire population has arrived at uniform equality, and that until this happy bourne is reached the government must be centralized and absolute.

Not only did they destroy liberty and inaugurate a reign of terror, but they attempted a world-wide extension of their doctrine.

In the last ten years one oligarchy has been succeeded by another committed to bigger and better oppression, autocracy, internationalism, and repudiation.

New Republics Appear.

Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Poland set up separate republics. While in the first three constitutional government endures, Poland and Lithuania are run by dictators.

In Germany the kaiser abdicated, and there were frequent radical uprisings. In August, 1919, a republican constitution was adopted and [illegible] elected president.

In 1925 Von Hindenburg was elected. His monarchism was [illegible] as president he has upheld the constitution to the letter.

In Austria-Hungary arose the republics of Czecho-Slovakia and Austria. In Hungary, following the abdication of the king and a radical revolution the people restored the monarchical constitution.

In Italy the communists seemed ready to take over the government, but a huge nationalist organization headed by a former radical—Mussolini—and known as the Fascisti, rose to power and established a dictatorial ministry.

Serbia, Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Montenegro were formed into the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia, under the Serbian crown, and recent internal difficulties gave rise to a dictatorship.

In Spain a military coup and a directory were followed by the dictatorship of De Rivera.

Greece in 1924 established a republic.

In Portugal internal troubles and royalist and military revolts led to the dictatorship of Gen. Carmona.

The nationalists in Turkey set up a revolutionary government at Angora. Mustapha Kemal Pasha was elected president, and though he assumed dictatorial powers he has adopted a progressive attitude.

Status of British Dependencies.

Within the British empire is a tendency toward virtual independence.

In 1922 southern Ireland set up a Free State under the British crown, a democratic republic managing its own internal affairs.

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa achieved a like measure of autonomy, while in the United Kingdom itself liberalism is in the order of the day.

In China the southern liberals ousted the northern war lords and took over the government.

Iceland in 1918 established its autonomy under the king of Denmark.

In South America the natural ebullience of the liberals was heightened by the injection of the communistic virus and bolshevistic uprisings frequently caused the assumption of dictatorial powers by the authorities. However, everywhere the forces of stability have been successful, and in Peru alone is there an obvious dictatorship.

In Central America constitutional government has proceeded along older and more stable paths.

Mexico, stabilized under Obregon, Calles, and Gil, enjoys a period of peace and prosperity hitherto unknown.

The Trend of the Times.

This is the situation of republican governments today. The dictatorship in Russia on the one hand and Italy on the other are manifestations of the extreme products of present day communism. The setbacks suffered in the creation of semi-autocracies, born to combat bolshevistic anarchy, are more than balanced by the increasing tendencies toward national unity and the stability of popular government.

The trend of the times is nowhere more forcibly presented than in the British empire, where the structure is bound together by a commonality of imperial interest.

A dictatorship, by its very nature, may be limited to the political life of the dictator, and in any event the step thence to stable popular government is shorter than that from a dynastic monarchy.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The wet blanket of liquidation still hangs heavily over the London stock market, making the stock exchange one of the dullest and most discouraging spots in the metropolis.

The city sages are unable to answer the question of how long this black shadow will last. Liquidation seems to attack all classes of securities, although the weakness is most conspicuous in quarters where a financial stringency is revealed through the recent developments.

With the general inclination being to sell everything good, bad and indifferent, high class stock as well as speculative shares are being thrown indiscriminately on the market.

This week's renewal of selling pressure clearly indicates that apart from the sources of trouble definitely located there is considerable danger in other groups concerning which unfavorable rumors have been flying round for some time, who find it increasingly difficult to keep their heads above water. The consequent state of suspense or suspicion brought almost an entire absence of public support.

American Shake Out.

The severe shake out in American securities emphasizes that the fall of Wall street this time is different in character from its predecessors, which have been invariably followed by sharp recoveries. A distinct feeling of uneasiness prevails at the close of the week, with prices showing a general decline all along the line from the liquidation on a considerable scale both in home and colonial accounts.

Before confidence can be restored observers fear a further serious weeding out of those elements which are largely responsible for the present state of affairs. After that the city may be a healthier spot, but the recuperative process certainly will take time.

The monetary situation is apparently developing according to plan and the increased bank rate has become thoroughly effective in correcting adverse exchanges and consequently checking the outflow of gold. The Bank of England secured the bulk of this week's consignment of gold from the Cape amounting to $5,000,000, there being no foreign demand whatever.

Two points feature the foreign exchange market this week. The first is the movement of sterling in New York beyond the gold export point to London, and the second is the removal of government control over the peseta exchange. The sterling dollar rate rose Thursday to $4.87, the highest since July, 1928, in which year for a prolonged period sterling commanded a premium over American dollars.

Transfer of Funds.

Two factors of importance in the rise have been the break in the New York markets causing British money to flow back to London and the transfer of French funds from New York to London. The former is naturally regarded as a healthy movement so far as London is concerned, but the latter suggests fresh difficulties may arise in the near future regarding the French exchange.

There is reason for assuming that London's increased bank rate has less connection with the movement of exchange than the movements of New York and the cessation of the tourist demand for French francs, which the French authorities estimate to have reached about $400,000,000 in the last season.

The money market is still regarding the unstable condition of the French exchange as the chief unsatisfactory feature of the situation, with the probability of further export of gold to Paris from London.

The movement of the French rate is puzzling authorities here, and the financial situation existing between Great Britain and France, in view of the recent rise in the London bank rate, is producing much comment on the part of financial experts.

One of the leading citizens, whose nom de plume, Arthurian, cloaks one of the most important city figures, writes: "France has amassed $1,550,000,000 in gold. It has further gold claims upon us said to amount to $600,000,000. It could, if it liked, take nearly every ounce of gold the Bank of England holds. It has acquired claims to gold in the United States also. It is strange that a debtor country—in debt to us and in debt to the United States—could wield so much power over us and over the United States also.

Inspires French Fight.

"It could shake the stock exchanges of the world to their foundations. This is entirely due to the wisdom and skill of Raymond Poincare, doubtless inspired by the Rothschilds, who would fall if France fell and who do not mean that France shall.

"This fact should be noted at the busy Franco-Italian frontiers. When the gauntlet there is thrown down the basis of credit held by France at home and in various countries will probably have reached $3,500,000,000 in actual gold or claims to gold, enabling France and its banking representatives to create credit to be used in payment for supplies on French account to the extent of eight thousand four hundred million pounds with a minimum of difficulty."

The same writer suggests that Baron Edmond de Rothschild, head of the famous Paris financial house, has inspired the French fight for economic and financial inviolability.

Chicago Bank of Commerce Announces Appointments

Organizers of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, which will open in December, yesterday announced selections of additional officers and directors. Adolph Lindstrom will be vice president in charge of the real estate loan department and E. A. Schroeder will be vice president and cashier. B. J. Grigsby, Thomas M. Pletcher and J. F. Seeburg have been added to the directorate.

Domination of Farm Bureaus Seen Problem

BY SCRUTATOR.

It is a question, little thought of, whether the farmers of the United States can afford to allow the government to run their business for them. Can they permit bureaus piled on bureaus to dominate every part of their activities except the actual production of crops and live stock; and even if it pays in money, can they afford it in loss of independence?

The American agriculturist's complaint over decades has been that the buyers of his products have overmatched him. The solution always advanced has been that the government, benevolent as it is, would be a better farmer than the farmers are themselves.

In this respect other business men have differed with the tiller of the soil. The railroads in the beginning and even to the present day dislike to be managed by a commission at Washington. The utilities don't want regulation on a national scale. It is doubtful if any such industries would care to have a commission at the capital telling them how much money they may borrow and at the same time dictating how it shall be spent.

Inconsistency Cited.

The benevolence may be taken now as granted. We have the odd spectacle of the government financing a farmers' grain co-operative for millions of dollars, with the avowed intention of making the price of wheat higher, while other agents of the same government have been striving in New York to convict eighty-seven men charged with trying to make the price of poultry higher.

One wonders whether the prosecution would even have been considered if the eighty-seven New York individuals had been 87,000 farmers trying to do the same thing.

Governments in other days have conducted agriculture on a scale nation-wide. The perfect example, perhaps, was the Peru of the Incas. Regulations were strict and unbreakable. Each spring the sovereign and his agents decided how much ground each man in the kingdom should have and dictated what the crop should be and when it should be planted.

There were requirements that plots be set aside for the government, for the local poor and for the aristocracy, and these had to be tended before the individual could work for himself.

The Incas, not totally devoid of wisdom, stored the surplus away in public granaries in lush years, thus making provision for the lean ones. According to Prescott, the handful of Spaniards who conquered this great country found a year's supply of food for the whole population, as well as bountiful lots of cloth, in storage.

Similar System.

Some similar system seems to have prevailed in Egypt. In no country of the ancient world was the farmer an independent agent. In many cases he was a serf. Within limits, the systems worked well enough for him. He had enough, after the managers took what they needed, to keep himself alive. In the middle ages the villein was beholden to the noble, who exercised a like supervision and taxing power, besides the dictatorship of his planting.

The early American farmer carved his own way into the wilderness. He took land that belonged to no one but the Indians who had been driven out. He was different from the farmers that had preceded him in that he managed his own business. His reliance on government and his hopes to get management from it came later.

What Might Happen.

Agriculture can never be taken back to old evils. But an elaborate machinery is being built up to finance, to manage and to succor the farmers. Agency is being piled on agency. None is ever abolished for a new one. The new is simply added.

It is conceivable that a time may come when the bureau managers will be interested in some other element of the population; in making prices of farm products low rather than high. If that occurs, we may have farmers battling to get rid of regulation, as other business has been battling.

CHICAGO TRADE LIGHTER, DUE TO WARM WEATHER

Chicago's unusually warm weather during the last week had a marked effect upon purchases for fall and winter merchandise, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Retail and wholesale concerns reported light sales, with buyers inclined to delay orders until the mercury shows a tendency to drop. This is in marked conflict to buying in the east, where snow flurries and other signs of winter were followed by good purchases of cold weather needs.

The silver lining in the temporary cloud on the Chicago market came in the building materials field, where the same late summer, adversely affecting merchandise sales, found builders taking advantage of the weather to rush completion of several big projects, and making purchases in proportion.

Furniture dealers report a good response to the style show now being staged by local distributors. The leather and shoe houses appear optimistic despite present conditions, anticipating good demands for heavy footwear as soon as the weather changes.

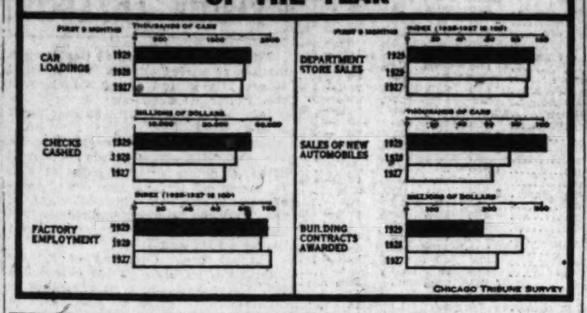
Business Failures Fewer; Liabilities Also Decline

New York, Oct. 19.—The insolvency record compiled by R. G. Dun & Co. shows a decided improvement this week over the returns for a year ago. Thus, failures numbering 359 compare with 480 in the corresponding week of 1928, reductions occurring in all geographical sections. The decreases range from 12 in the west to 62 in the east. With the smaller aggregate of defaults, those involving more than $5,000 of liabilities in each case fell to 212 this week, from 278 a year ago.

Weekly Debits in Decline; Reserve Bank Reports

Debits to individual deposit account reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the week ended Oct. 16, 1929, by 260 banks in thirty-eight leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregate $1,734,421,000, a decrease of 3.5 per cent compared with a week ago [$1,797,654,000]. Compared with the corresponding week of last year [$1,639,219,000], an increase of 5.8 per cent was shown.

RECORD OF CHICAGO BUSINESS IN THE FIRST NINE MONTHS OF THE YEAR



News and Gossip of Stock Markets

Seek Support for Market.

There was considerable talk in Wall street brokerage offices and banking parlors yesterday of the possibility of a getting together over Sunday and offering the market some definite sort of support tomorrow. Many people believe the decline has been too sharp and drastic and that if it goes much further at the present rate it is likely to prove an important factor in winter business consideration. Whether or not these people will be willing to go into the market and aid in its support, however, is another question. What most people in Wall street would like to see develop now is a long period of market inactivity in which the losses may be consolidated and an opportunity given for the present financial hysteria to pass away.

Position of Utilities.

Anent the repeated attacks on public utility stocks, which have been recently about the most vulnerable issues on the market despite the favoritism for such issues displayed by investment trusts for many months, there were many who failed to see where the glittering future for utility securities talked of last month and the month before is any the less true at the present time. The facts in the case are undoubtedly that speculative enthusiasm can put the prices of stocks up to, say, fifty times their earnings, but cannot be counted on to hold them there. With buying of utilities at a halt, it was therefore comparatively easy to sell them, with the drastic results that have made market history in recent sessions.

Paramount Earnings.

Paramount Famous Lasky earnings, according to Adolph Zukor, president, are running fully 50 per cent ahead of a year ago. Although definite estimate cannot be made at this time, net for 1929 should approximate somewhere between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000. Negotiations with Warner Brothers, he stated, were still in the offing and no one could predict when the merger of the two corporations would be consummated.

Record Rail Orders.

What the railroads are providing in the way of business for the steel companies was shown last week by the placing of the record order for 310,000 tons of steel rails by the Pennsylvania. This brought the Pennsylvania's purchase of rails in the last three years to 870,000 tons. These were the greatest consecutive purchases of rails ever made. The N. Y. C. came through with a substantial order and yesterday the Erie announced 1930 orders for 46,460 tons.

Discredit Bond Buying.

There were some very reliable indications that a series of important developments are pending in nearly all of the larger natural gas companies, such as Columbia Gas, Cities Service, United Gas and the Union Utilities group, and that bankers are working on projects which will be soon made public. That expansion of these companies is to be expected is accepted without question in utility circles and certain interconnections are looked for as well.

Plan New Projects.

Reports that investment trusts were buying bonds heavily, owing to the uncertain future for stock prices, were discredited by one Wall street bond house, which sent its salesmen out to approach the trust executives. The salesmen returned without a single order. In nearly every case they said the investment trusts declared that they believed the stock market still had a "kick" left in it and that they did not want to bother about the small change which the bond market might have in store for patient investors.

U. S. EXPORTS FOR NINE MONTHS SHOW INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The commerce department has announced total value of exports of the United States for the nine months ending September, 1929, at $3,849,218,000 as compared with $3,557,586,000 for the corresponding nine months of 1928. Imports for the nine months ending with September, 1929, were $3,361,883,000 as compared with $3,070,113,000 for the corresponding nine months of 1928.

Exports for September, 1929, were $442,000,000 as compared with $421,607,000 in September, 1928, and imports $353,000,000 as compared with $319,618,000 for September, 1928.

Gold and silver imports for the nine months ending September, 1929, were $255,195,000, as compared with $100,026,000 for the same period of 1928. Exports of gold and silver for the nine months ending September, 1929, were $9,942,000 as compared with $535,216,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Cotton Institute Vetoes Plan to Curb Production

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., at its annual meeting today defeated, 450 to 145, a proposal to permit participation by the institute in legislative and political questions. The institute's action means that members may continue to operate as in the past, with no agreement or legislation to curb overproduction.

PRICES IN LISTED BOND MARKET CLIMB HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Trading of listed bonds listed on the New York exchange continued the upward trend which has distinguished every session this week. Although activity was curtailed by the usual Saturday dullness, prices were firm in nearly all departments with the exception of the convertibles which suffered in sympathy with the decline on the share markets.

Traders in bonds have received encouragement from the persistence of lower money rates and the continued good prospects for easy credit throughout the remainder of the year. In addition funds realized from the sale of common stock, have to some extent been seeking employment in the bond market and evidence is not lacking that leading bankers are taking a more hopeful view of the future of bonds.

LIVERMORE SEEN ACTIVE IN SHORT MARKET SELLING

Makes Spectacular Comeback, Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Jesse L. Livermore, one of the most adroit and spectacular stock market speculators this country has ever produced, and who has been in eclipse, so far as market operations are concerned, for several years, has made a smashing comeback.

If Wall street reports be true, he has been heavily short of stocks for more than a month, and the hammering tactics against the leaders, ending in today's violent reaction in the market, was attributed, to some extent at least, to Livermore's brilliantly executed drives.

Of course, the decline cannot be laid at Mr. Livermore's door, but he had with him an exceptionally favorable opportunity. Many desperately driven longs have been obliged to liquidate, and a legion of bears throughout the country who do not "like" the market have aided in kicking it down. His profits, if these stories be true, run into the millions.

Discredit Reports of Struggle.

Another Wall street story that cropped out today was that Livermore on the short side and Arthur W. Cutten on the long side are locked in a titanic struggle in the stock market. This, it was learned, is not true. Livermore is heavily short of stocks and Cutten, if the stories are true, is heavily long. But there is no action by either against the other, for the market is peculiarly impersonal. Mr. Cutten has issued three statements in the last three weeks [or at least has been so quoted on the financial news tickers] to the effect that he continues bullish on stocks and has enumerated the stocks which be believed had tremendous possibilities and would sell much higher. Among these were Montgomery Ward and Simmons company, both of which were particularly weak today.

Cutten was one of the bull market leaders, among whom are William C. Durant, the Fisher brothers of Detroit and other large speculators in pivotal cities throughout the country, who were expected by many people to loan organized support to their stocks.

What appears to have happened is that they have found a set of circumstances strongly against them at this time. These include the nervousness of thousands of stockholders throughout the country about their holdings, the continued inflation of brokers' loans, the development of thousands of traders who feel more comfortable on the short than on the long side of the market and, finally, moderately drooping business.

Hand Picked Situation.

With stocks having been driven up higher during the last few months, with each reaction followed by a strong rebound to higher levels, the situation was a ready made and hand picked one for such a plunging speculator as is Livermore.

The street stories are that he got short of a large line of such issues as United States Steel common, Montgomery Ward, Simmons company, General Electric, American and Foreign Power and half a dozen other of the market's pivotal issues and then started the familiar hammering tactics.

Cutten, Durant, the Fishers and others of what is known in Wall street as "the big ten" merely were large holders of these particular stocks and have seen their plans and pools wrecked by what were natural developments, coupled with considerable shrewd short selling whenever these particular stocks showed signs of weakness.

Stocks Here Yield Slowly to Pressure

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Liquidation continued in the week's final two hour session on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday. The most serious losses, however, were confined to a few issues while the rest of the market gave way grudgingly.

Short interests staged a spectacular raid on Auburn Automobile and knocked that issue down 48½ points to a low of 356½, only to be forced to turn tail and buy in to make good their commitments, whereupon the price was run up 13½ points from the low to 370 when the closing gong rang. The net loss on the day was 35 points.

Cord, which holds considerable Auburn stock, eased a couple of points in early dealings but the loss was reduced to one point for the day. Bendix Aviation slid off three points and Houdaille-Hershey "A" was down 1¾.

Grigsby-Grunow Off 6¾.

Grigsby-Grunow featured the radio group with a decline of 6¾ points when it became known that a lack of buying orders existed in the New York market where the stock finished 7½ lower. National Union Radio was off 2½ and Zenith declined 3¾.

Wextark Radio Stores was off a fraction. The company reported September sales of $1,138,000, a gain of more than 95 per cent over the same period of 1928. The total for September last year was $582,000.

The acquisition of the City Radio Stores and Davega, Inc., by Atlas Stores was declared operative. The new corporation will have a chain of sixty radio stores.

Corporation Securities allotment certificates featured the investment trust group by opening at 100 and closed a major fraction higher in spite of the trend of the market. This stock is the new Insull investment trust issue which was privately placed at $75 a unit. Losses of from 1¼ to 2¾ points each were felt by Burnham Trading, Continental-Chicago, Chicago Investors, Insull Utility Investment and Utility and Industrial.

Loses Six Point Gain.

Commonwealth-Edison lost its six point gain of the preceding day and Middle West Utilities new was off 1½. Associated Telephone Utilities closed two points lower.

The stock exchange announced that starting tomorrow the ticker quotation wire service will be extended to Madison, Wis. Madison is the twenty-seventh city to receive direct ticker quotations from the floor of the exchange since June 1, 1928, when New York was the only city outside of Chicago to receive the service.

Meat Demand Fairly Good, Armour & Co. Says

Armour & Co. in its review of general packing house trade conditions says: "Demand for meats again was generally good last week, with movement into consumptive channels fairly active and broad. Fresh pork showed a noticeably improved demand. Smoked meats continued to give a good account of themselves.

"There was a fair demand for beef, with some further improvement in prices. Sheep and lamb trade was generally on a basis about steady with the previous week. Foreign business was broad and quite active. Collections continued good."

(New York stock list page 5.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Bearish trading forces, operating under covering of a smoke screen of pessimistic rumors, made a smashing attack on the stock market today.

Widespread gossip of the formation of a gigantic bear pool and of difficulties supposed to have been met by a prominent bull operator were factors operating in behalf of the bear drive. Altogether this has been one of the most discouraging weeks in the stock market experienced in several years, another setback this week, following the recovery from the sharp break over two weeks ago, was not unexpected.

Prices were beaten down 5 to 10 points in all the more active groups, with specialty losses running as high as 40 points.

Huge blocks of stocks were dumped into the trading hopper, evidence of considerable forced selling from speculative sources weakened by recent declines and frightened liquidation.

Heavy Selling; Vast Losses.

All told, it was one of the most disastrous sessions in market history. Estimates of the aggregate market loss—in paper values—ran as high as $1,000,000,000. The turnover of 3,484,100 shares was exceeded by only one previous Saturday, that of Dec. 8, 1928, when a three day break ended the boom that followed the election of President Hoover. The ticker ran nearly 1½ hours after the close of the market, the longest delay that has ever occurred on a Saturday.

Liquidation hit a tremendous scale at the very outset, prices running off one to three points as bunching of

BANKERS OUTLINE STAND ON STOCK INVESTMENTS

Oppose "Unwise" Extension of Gov't Regulation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Oct. 19.—From the discussions which took place at the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America at Quebec this week, two outstanding conclusions can be drawn.

One is that the investment bankers of the United States have been convinced that they must admit good stocks to investment ratings virtually as high as have been given good bonds in the past. Careful qualification was given this point, but the tenor of all reports bearing on stocks indicated that the duty of the investment banker in future would be to equip himself to give his customers full information on partnership as distinguished from creditor securities, with the emphasis to be placed on the stocks' value for income holding, rather than for speculative possibilities.

The second general matter on which a definite position was taken by the investment bankers was regulation by governmental bodies. Specifically, it was held that federal regulation of electrical utilities doing interstate business would be unwise, also that no official censorship to the extent of further legislation is necessary to control investment trusts.

Ask Free Development.

Concerning holding companies, the association was rather emphatic in its recommendation that they be given as free an opportunity to develop unhampered by laws as they have been in the past.

From the federal government little was asked except reduction of taxes. It was asserted in the report of the committee on federal taxation that the reduction of the national debt by almost ten billions in ten years, forty per cent of the cut coming out of annual surpluses, was a great accomplishment but that a continuation of a tax schedule creating such surpluses was an unnecessary burden on the present generation.

Reduction of the corporate income tax from the present twelve per cent was requested. Members were urged to work for the repeal of any tax on profits in security sales. The federal inheritance tax was declared unfair and the federal government requested to give up this source of revenue to the states exclusively.

Duplicate Collections

Attention was called to progress made in having the states themselves give up the practice of collecting duplicate taxes on intangible personal property in estates. Ninety-one million Americans, it was stated, cannot prepare for death with confidence that there will be no effort by two states to collect an inheritance tax for each.

It was generally agreed at the convention that the outstanding report was an outline of the duties of the investment banker in recommending to his clients the income or dividend possibilities of stocks. Suggestions were made as to the manner in which the bankers could go about this.

Investment bankers a few years ago were almost exclusively bond dealers. The trend in finance today is clearly indicated in their frank admission that they must cease to make any real distinction between stocks and bonds as investment, that the criterion is the sound income possibility of any security.

Chicago Curb Market Stocks

Liquidating pressure was evident on the Chicago curb yesterday and resulted in lower levels for most issues. General Realty fell five points and Greenebaum slipped nearly four on small sales. Curtiss Flying, Transformer, and Central and Southwest new had two point drops. Wizard ran against the downward trend in a fractional advance to a new top quotation at 17¾ and Dubilier recorded a good gain.

LARD MARKET IRREGULAR

Higher prices for hogs and good buying against cash sales of lard for shipment advanced prices early yesterday, while the break in grains and stocks brought increased offerings and a decline and close 2¼c to 7¼c net lower for the day. Liverpool lard was 6d higher, exports were 3,387,490 lbs. Bellies advanced 15c early but reached and closed a shade lower on October and 2½c higher on January and May. Exports of bacon were 40,000 lbs. Shipments of lard and meats for the week were larger than the previous week and last year. Prices follow:

Speculating on Tips.

The inquiries which come to the Investors' Guide indicate that many persons of moderate means are still trying to get rich by speculating on tips.

Tips are gossip. Sometimes it is possible to trace their origin, but more often, like Topsy, they "just grow."

Tips are strange monsters. Usually they embody just enough truth to make them plausible. They are conglomerations of facts and untruths, hunches and hopes. The amount of misinformation peddled in the form of tips by intelligent people who should know better is appalling.

Besides the tips which are born nobody knows where and which are passed along by egoists who attempt to cover up their own lack of knowledge in financial matters by giving out rumors and pretending that they are facts based upon reliable information there is a more sinister form of tip.

Professional Tipsters.

This sort of tip is given by someone who has an ax to grind, a person or firm that stands to profit by getting the public to buy something.

Last spring two so-called financial services flooded the country with literature and telegrams urging the recipients to buy a certain stock for a rise. There was no reason to expect a rise in this stock. Officers of the company itself stated that prospects were not good.

The stock did rise for a very brief period as a result of this campaign, long enough for the tipsters to sell their holdings at a profit, but not long enough for their "customers" to profit. The latter held the sack.

Not all those who disseminate tips do so with the idea of defrauding the public. The seller of stock is naturally influenced by his desire for gain and his sales talk may be embroidered with predictions concerning the future of the stock.

Then, too, speculation is very profitable to the brokerage business, and a broker's judgment may be affected by his hope for a commission.

No Game for Amateurs.

The small speculator should keep two things in mind at all times. First, no one is out to make him rich. No one is losing sleep figuring out ways to fatten another's pocketbook. Second, nobody knows what the market is going to do. The future market price of a stock cannot be accurately predicted.

The professional speculator makes money. Yes, and loses it, too. He does not always guess aright. And this man is an expert. His operations are not based upon rumors.

The little fellow is in over his depth. He's trying to best the professional at his own game. And his only weapon usually is a tip. This tip is probably old. The person who first circulated it very likely has already acted on it. The predicted appreciation in market price of the stock may already have come and a reaction may be due.

Even if he is lucky enough to be right half the time the small speculator is a loser. He has to pay interest on his money, if he trades on a margin, and with every turnover he must pay the broker a commission.

Don't play the other man's game.

COTTON TRADE SMALL

There was little interest in cotton yesterday and despite the unsettled condition of the grain and stock markets prices held well. The range of prices was only 15 points at the extreme and the close was

Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.60.
Estimated receipts at Chicago Monday, 28,000 cattle, 41,000 hogs, and 25,000 sheep.

The $10.00 quotation was again reinstated in the hog market on the week-end session, in spite of the fact that arrivals at 7,000 equaled the second largest for Saturday since last June. Prices ruled strong to 10c higher under brisk competition between local and outside buyers, and only 2,000 pen holders remained at the close.

Both the extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $10.00 and $9.60, respectively, but compare with a top of $10.25 and average of $9.75 last Monday. Although supplies were liberal yesterday, traders hope that the favorable condition of the weather will hold receipts moderate during the first half of next week.

Active Demand on Break.

The largest hog receipts since the last week of August brought the general average price down to $9.55 last week, lowest since February and below any corresponding week since 1923. Demand was unusually active on the break, indicating that hogs are well worth the money at $10.00 and slightly below.

The top passed this price on Monday's market only and best on Thursday and Friday were at $9.80 and $9.95, respectively. Shipping orders were largest since last March, taking 22 per cent of total arrivals, against 20 per cent the preceding week and 15 per cent a year ago.

Fresh pork has been in good demand, but supplies exceeded requirements and prices lowered 1@2c per pound on the wholesale market.

Young Hogs Moving.

Young hogs from the spring pig crop comprise approximately 60 per cent of total receipts lately, which accounts for the gradual lowering of the average weight. Weights during the last two weeks have been running lightest since March and 4@6 lbs below a year ago, but slightly heavier than at this time in 1927. Quality continues to hold up well, in spite of the fact that corn has been selling above a year ago and hogs lower, for several months.

Cattle salesmen scored a victory over buyers last week, carrying the general average price of beef steers to $13.95, highest since week ending Aug. 31. With the exception of an erratic finish, the market held firm to higher on most sessions, in spite of the second largest receipts of the year.

A mild upturn in the wholesale market for beef added zest to local demand in midweek. Medium weights took their position at the head of the price list again, prime 1,134@1,271 lb averages reaching this mark, while top yearlings sold at $16.40. Yearlings during the preceding week were outselling heavy cattle by 25@50c.

Native Lambs Arrive.

The marketward movement of native lambs reached full swing last week, resulting in a 25@75c break in prices and some of the hardest sorting of the year. However, this increase was partly offset by smaller supplies from the range, and signs of strength appeared near the close.

The week's general average price moved down only 10c, but was lower than any corresponding week since 1923 and 95c under the five year average. Packers are carrying on their yearly campaign against buck lambs, discounting extreme weights as much as $2.00@2.75. With the season for western range lambs coming to a close earlier than in 1928, feeders were outselling fat westerns by 25@50c at the close.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 28,000 cattle, 41,000 hogs, and 25,000 sheep, against 23,156 cattle, 36,432 hogs, and 28,291 sheep a week ago, and 26,352 cattle, 42,759 hogs, and 24,279 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 60,000 cattle, 150,000 hogs, and 80,000 sheep, against 62,549 cattle, 162,730 hogs, and 81,733 sheep a year ago.

VALUES SINK IN GRAIN MARKETS; WHEAT OFF 2C

Hold Longs Responsible for Heavy Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Drastic liquidation was on in the grain markets yesterday with selling accelerated by disquieting reports from New York and values crashed to the lowest figures on the crop for the March deliveries, and to the lowest figures since late in July or early in July for the December futures. Stop loss orders were uncovered in profusion on the way down, with shorts and holders of daily and weekly lots the best buyers.

At the inside figure wheat was off around 3c from Friday's finish with December off 10¾c from the high of the previous week, with the close 2¾ @2¼c lower. Corn lost ⅝@⅞c and oats ⅝@⅝c, while rye declined 1⅜@ 1½c.

Those in a position to know said there was absolutely nothing in the New York reports to cause uneasiness, and claimed the decline in values was due to heavy selling by discouraged longs, and saw evidence of the culmination of the decline in all grains due to the drastic liquidation which has been under way the greater part of the week. Winnipeg wheat was 1⅝@1¾c lower for the day, while Liverpool lost 1¼@1⅝d.

Grains Lower for Week.

Failure of outside buying to develop on bullish wheat crop comments from Argentina and on the better export demand led to heavy liquidation by holders the greater part of the week, and at the last net losses were 1⅝@1¾c, as compared with a week ago. Corn was 3⅜@4c; oats, 2@2¼c, and rye 2¾@4¼c lower for the week. Provisions averaged lower with lard off 2⅛@7½c; ribs, 22½c, and bellies, 2@40c, as compared with a week ago.

The bull position in wheat was undermined by reports of general rains in Argentina, which may materially improve the outlook for the new crop, although there was a private cable indicating that considerable hail also fell, and it was noticeable that the Buenos Aires market was off only ½c for the day. The trade have been under the impression that a large line of long wheat has been coming out for several days, and the weakness in the stock market in New York has not improved the confidence of holders. It is understood, however, that there are so concentrated holdings of wheat, although may traders have been under this impression.

A favorable development in the wheat situation was the reports of a better foreign demand with bids for hard winter at the gulf on a working basis, the first time this has been claimed for some time. With February wheat in Buenos Aires closing at $1.21, the discount under American prices is the smallest in some time, although the November delivery in that market finished at $1.16½.

Hedging Pressure in Corn.

There was a big trade on in wheat futures, with considerable business under way on both sides against daily and weekly bids. Large lines of the latter were said to have been bought around $1.29@1.30 for the December, and holders were taking profits on the decline.

Hedging pressure in corn is gradually increasing, and with pressure from commission houses and local bears on the continued good weather for field work prices dropped to the lowest level since late in June for the December delivery, which was down to 90¼c, and 14c under the recent high point. Support came mainly from shorts and holders of bids. Shipping demand was less active, with sales of 40,000 bu.

Cash interests were on the buying side of oats and held prices within narrow limits. The northwest was a seller, and locals also sold on the weakness in other grains. Weakness in wheat led to scattered selling of rye, but there was commission house buying on the way down.

LEGALITY OF ILL. BOND LICENSE ACT IS DENIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—The Supreme court today held unconstitutional section 23 of the Illinois security act. This section has to do with requiring a bond for the registration of bond brokers. Its legality was attacked in suits affecting the license of Gettelman & Co., which came to the Supreme court from the Municipal court of Chicago.

"Without the law," said the opinion, "Gettelman & Co. had the right to engage in the business of dealer and broker in securities. It needed no license or permission to do so. The legislature in the passage of the Illinois securities law required that such dealers and brokers should secure licenses.

"In the exercise of the police powers it has the authority to impose such a requirement, but in attempting to require a bond as a condition precedent to the license the legislature failed to do so because of its attempted unconstitutional delegation of legislative power in regard to the bond to the secretary of state."

New York Bank Clearings Increase; Fall Elsewhere

New York, Oct. 19.—Irregularity is more marked in the record of bank clearings, particularly at some of the western and southern centers. Total bank clearings this week at all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, are $13,853,068,000, this amount exceeding the clearings of a year ago by 21.0 per cent. The gain is mainly at New York City, where clearings of $9,839,000,000 are larger than those of last year by 32.9 per cent, while the total for the principal centers outside of New York of $4,014,068,000, is 0.7 per cent less than that of a year ago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat prices are down to the lowest level since early last July, with a break of nearly 32c on December from the extreme high of the season. There has been heavy liquidation on for two weeks, both here and in Winnipeg, with the largest holders credited as leading the selling. The sentiment at the close was bearish, despite the decline and the weeding out of weak holders. The market has paid no attention to bullish news but was regarded as weak enough to have a natural recovery.

Cash corn interests were on the selling side of December yesterday and the relative cash prices were lower as compared with the December. It was rather difficult to find any one with a pronounced bullish opinion for the immediate future. New corn is coming in faster than usual because of the dry season, placing it in marketable condition.

"Liquidation in wheat has been on in full force and while we recognize at this level prices represent a reasonable basis," says Thomson & McKinnon, "we must not ignore the possibility of this driving impulse to carry prices even lower."

Broomhall reported that stocks of wheat are accumulating in the United Kingdom and continental ports, and said there was improvement in the foreign demand, but the latter failed to help the market.

"The grain situation in the northwest and other parts of the country shows signs of an increased demand," says a report from Minneapolis. One firm there sold corn to points in Washington, Montana, Canada, and Michigan on overnight offers. Oats were sold into Louisiana.

Broomhall's Argentine agent estimates the remaining surplus of old wheat at 46,000,000 bu, which if cleared before the end of this year will make total exports of 272,000,000 bu, which are understood to be a record. Australia has shipped 98,040,000 bu since Jan. 1 out of an estimated surplus of 110,000,000 bu for the season.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

A moderate amount of Manitoba and hard winter wheat was reported at the seaboard, but quantities were not given. Local handlers sold 3,000 bu wheat, 53,000 bu corn and 40,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 35,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

An easier undertone prevailed in the local cash wheat market with No. 2 red, 2¼@2½c under December; No. 2 hard, 5@5½c under, and No. 1 northern, 4½@5½c under December. Cash corn basis was steady to ½c lower. No. 2 mixed being 1⅜@1½c over; yellow, 2@2¼c over, and white, 2½@ 2¾c over December, with No. 3 mixed 1@1½c over; yellow, 1⅜@1¾c over, and white, 1⅜@2c over the future. Basis on cash oats was steady to ½c lower with No. 2 white, 1@1¼c under and No. 3 white, 3⅜@3c under December.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 26 cars; corn, 187 cars; oats, 27 cars; rye, 13 cars; barley, 6 cars.

Milk Bottle Companies in Huge Consolidation Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Negotiations for a merger of glass manufacturers, particularly a group of companies specializing in milk bottles, is the object of negotiations now under way by two New York banking houses. The new concern will be known as the General Glass company. The nucleus of the new merger is the Thatcher Manufacturing company, one of the largest manufacturers of milk bottles in the world, and negotiations have proceeded far enough with several other companies that a consolidation of the interests which have already agreed to the plan would bring about the largest company in its line in the country.

TRACTORS AND TEAMS WORK SIDE BY SIDE

Money Is Saved by the Combination.

BY PAUL POTTER.

HIGH priced land and a faltering labor supply are the interlocking factors which have made the modern farmer who wants to make a profit speed up his operations.

There are a hundred and one major tasks on the farm where machinery has been called upon to compete with these two burdensome realisms. Propagandists of the power age have led many to rate a farmer hastily on how completely he has transformed his labor from human and animal power to mechanization. But farmers themselves, with long hours at the task during which to think through their problems, are deciding wisely that they can scarcely afford to abandon all the established practices of their forefathers.

Forethought Is Repaid.

Recently I had occasion to visit a series of progressive farms in Chicagoland, where accurate bookkeeping told the owners they were on the right side of the ledger. These farms were all well above the average, and two of them were comparable with the best in the middle west.

The first impression gained in each visit was that the owners had planned carefully the barnyard layout, so that buildings were logically located. These buildings also indicated ample capacity for expansion in the future, if found advisable. And they were not only substantially built but were receiving good care—not as "show places," either.

Silo filling was in progress. The hum of the ensilage cutter and the clatter of sliced corn stalks made a lively tune that kept all hands in quick step. Acres of corn that in earlier years took weeks to harvest disappeared into this mammoth stomach in as many days.

Animal and Motor Power.

In the field both teams and tractors were pulling the binders and wagons. I thought as I watched them, while waiting an opening to talk with the owners, that those who considered these motive forces in competition might be nettled at the comradeship of human, animal, and motor activity on these up to date farms.

What one farmer finds is a necessary, labor saving piece of equipment on his food factory is frequently an unwise expenditure for another. The successful operator today is the man who can secure the maximum use of production machinery with the least expenditure.

Just this year we are seeing in the great plains areas one of the transformations that make the romance back of the nation's loaf of bread. Grain growers have found in the combination of mower, binder, and thresher, all in one machine, a new force to eliminate the mounting costs of human labor. Gone are the days of bundles and shocks.

Several Operations in One.

Once over the field of grain and the job is done. Where large acreages of wheat have been handled by this means this year, many farmers have loaded the grain right into trucks and sent them over good roads to the local elevator or grain car on track. If the trucks were delayed the grain was backed, eliminating storage and multiple handling problems for those who wished to get the crop into marketing channels quickly.

Only with the good care being shown farm machinery that has been shown the horses, cattle, and other live stock, each item of which represents a considerable investment, can the modern farmer realize the most years of profitable, dependable service from his equipment.

Caring for Roses in Fall and Spring

When setting dormant roses in the fall, remove one-half or more of the wood. Then, in the spring cut back these roses more, leaving only two or three stems with four or five eyes on each.

Winter protection consists in cutting back all lengthy shoots to a height of a foot or more. Tie the shoots together so the earth may be hilled up about each bush. This is to keep the plant from whirling about in the wind, which frequently causes a hole in the earth about the stem.

This hole fills with water and necessarily in extreme cold weather will freeze, then thaw, all of which is decidedly injurious to the plant.

THRONGS AT THE RECENT WATERLOO, IOWA, Dairy Cattle congress paused to admire two noble representatives appearing at the National Belgian Horse show, held in conjunction with the dairy display. Prince Albert de Ligne, Belgian ambassador to the United States, representing the king, presented His Majesty's cup to Earle Browne of Minneapolis, owner of the show's grand champion mare, Range Line Marie. The prince is shown holding Marie's halter rope and the cup.

CHICKENS' SLEEP IS SHORTENED BY LIGHTED HOUSES

At first thought you might want to pity the modern flapper type, egg laying record hen.

Not contend with a busy summer about the poultry yard and fields, she is now being expected to stay up nights in order to meet the rigorous demands of society.

Yet she is looking for no sympathetic interest in her new environment, poultry specialists tell us. Her grandmother, who had to spend all of six hours on a winter day scratching diligently for a meager living really had much less to show in the way of results for the months of confinement.

Nowadays, since tests made at agricultural colleges have proven that proper use of electric lights in the poultry house will increase winter egg production from 30 to 40 per cent, the plucky flock of layers have every convenience to compare with the city bride in her kitchenette apartment.

Since the primary purpose of using artificial lights in the laying house is to lengthen the hen's working day and in that way give her a chance to eat more feed, it is important to have feed and water available for her when the lights are on. If lights are turned on automatically with an alarm clock at four or five a. m., it will be necessary to scatter feed in the litter the evening before and to arrange for holding water over night above freezing temperatures.

Users of artificial lights are finding that it is desirable to place the lamps in such a way that the roosts will not be dark. The general plan is to use one 40 watt lamp for every 200 square feet of floor space, or two of them in a 20x20 foot house. Lamps are placed about 6½ feet from the floor and about 10 feet apart in this width of house. Reflectors 16 inches in diameter at the base and four inches high are recommended.

The four months from November to February, inclusive, are "electric light" months in the laying house. A common system of lighting it is to turn the lights on with an alarm clock about 4:30 a. m., and leave them on until daylight. Another plan is to turn the lights on for a while in the evening, or these two systems may be combined.

Still another practice is to serve the hens evening lunch by turning the lights on for an hour about eight or nine in the evening. Each of the evening methods necessitates use of a dimming device to enable the hens to tell when it is time to roost. Any of the four plans should be started gradually.

Trees and Their Soil.

One of the controlling factors in tree planting is the soil in which the tree must grow. There are a few trees, such as the American elm, which are adaptable to a wide range of soils, says the American Tree association. There are others, such as the tulip tree, to which a deep rich soil is absolutely essential. The location or situation of the tree may determine its selection as well as soil and climate.

Agricultural Questions and Answers

FALL BULBS.

We moved into a suburb too late this last spring to enjoy flowers grown from bulbs. Will you tell us, please, what kind to plant this fall? Any suggestions that may add to the beauty of our grounds will be appreciated, as we have never before had a garden. J. H. A.

REPLY.

If you still anticipate the joy of watching for the first bit of green to break through the ground in the spring from planting by your own hands, then by all means get started with some bulbs right now, for narcissi, daffodils and tulips often make their appearance before the first robin.

September and October are the bulb planting months. One must get the bulbs which bloom in early spring into the ground sufficiently early to enable them to send out roots and make necessary development before the leaves and blossoms appear. You should not wait any longer to secure a supply of bulbs.

A few of the following are varieties of the more commonly grown bulbs: (Narcissi or daffodils)—Sir Watkins, Albatross, King Alfred, Emperor, Elvira. (Tulips)—Keizerskroon, Chrysolora, Coleur Cardinal Panorama, Clara Butt, Rev. H. Ewbank, Pride of Haarlem, Cardinal Manning. (Hyacinths)—Queen of the Pinks, Queen of the Blues, Queen of the Whites, City of Haarlem, L'Innocence, Madonna lily, Tiger lily, Regal lily, and Gold Banded lily.

Iowa State Grads Win Architecture Awards

Two scholarships for study of early American architecture and landscape architecture, each $1,250 value, offered by the Lake Forest foundation for post-graduate study, were won by Iowa State college graduates of the class of 1929, according to information received by Prof. A. H. Kimball, head of the architectural engineering department.

The Lake Forest scholarships are offered by the foundation for architecture and landscape architecture at Lake Forest, Ill., to special post-graduate students selected from Iowa State college, Armour Institute, University of Illinois, Ohio State university, and University of Michigan, who spend three months at Lake Forest in advanced study and competition for the scholarship awards.

Christian County Swaps Corn for Dairy Cows

A former Illinois corn and hog county has gone "dairy." At least, twenty-six progressive farmers and dairymen in Christian county have banded together to organize the most recent dairy herd improvement association in the state, according to J. H. Brock, assistant in dairy extension at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

This makes fifty-five groups of dairymen in the state who are testing their cows for efficiency of production under the supervision of the college extension service.

Drainage for Roses.

Importance of good drainage cannot be too greatly stressed, as roses refuse to grow where water stands about their roots. In heavy soils, where water is liable to stand, artificial drainage is the only solution to the problem.

ANNOUNCE TRIO OF APARTMENTS FOR 95TH PLACE

Beverly Hills Project Will Cost $330,000.

Another important development for Beverly Hills is revealed in the announcement of plans for the immediate construction of three apartment buildings at the northwest corner of Vanderpoel avenue and 95th place. The buildings will occupy a site fronting 225 feet on Vanderpoel avenue and 125 feet on 95th place.

John L. Brill is erecting the trio of apartment houses which, it is stated, will cost approximately $330,000, exclusive of the value of the land.

Of English Design.

The first of the three buildings will be put up at the corner. It will contain twenty-five flats. Then will follow the other two, which will each contain sixteen flats. These structures will adjoin th corner building and will face on 95th place. They will form a court with the first edifice.

All three buildings, which were designed by B. Albert Comm, will be three stories and English basement high. They will be of English Tudor architecture. Front elevations will be of face brick with ornamentation in cut stone. Some half timber work will be employed to give the proper English effect.

Four and Five Rooms.

A majority of the apartments in the three buildings will be of four rooms, though those at the corner will contain five rooms with two baths. All apartments will have mechanical refrigeration and other conveniences.

The development is a half block from 95th street—a south side shopping center—and is close to the forest preserve. It is served by the Rock Island.

GUSTAV CLAUSEN TO GIVE LECTURE ON SURVEYING

Gustav L. Clausen will address the first of a series of meetings to be held under the auspices of the Illinois Registered Land Surveyors' association, at which surveying will be the subject of discussion. This meeting will be held at 8 p. m., Friday, Oct. 25, in suite 100 of the Great Northern hotel. Mr. Clausen, who has had about fifty years' experience in surveying in and around Chicago, will take for his subject "Government Surveying." Those interested in surveying are invited by the association to attend the meetings.

The Coros beauty shop has leased 2,500 square feet at 7915 Cottage Grove avenue for ten years at a term rental reported to be $37,500. Martin J. McNally is lessor. This will be the lessee's third shop on the south side. James E. Loye was broker.

Ritter's Brunswick shops have leased a store at 1719 West Chicago avenue for five years at a reported $4,800 annually. Baskind Bros. and David O. Jordan were brokers.

The Katz Exclusive Millinery company has leased a store in the building at the southwest corner of Sheridan road and Leland avenue from Wise Shoes, Inc., for a term of years, through Cerf & Ehrenhalt.

The Charles Drug company has leased the southeast corner of West 86th street and South Ashland avenue, through McKey & Poague's West Highland office. The same firm reports having leased the store at 7920 South Ashland avenue, in the Lauerman building, to the Economy Radio Stores, Inc.

The entire fifth floor of the Stebbins building, at 62 East Lake street, has been leased to the Chicago Hat Manufacturing and Bleaching company for five years at a reported term rental of $22,500. Gordon Strong & Co. are agents of the building. Alfred Cahn represented the lessee.

PLAN 4 STORY HOTEL ON NORTH CRAWFORD AVE.

Plans have been completed and bids are now being taken for a four story and basement hotel building at 4028 North Crawford avenue, to be owned by the Shugman Realty company. Harry Dalsey is architect. The building will be of brick, stone and concrete and will oclupy a site 50x170. The cost, it is reported, will be $300,000. The building will contain two large stores and fifty-six kitchenette apartments.

COLORED MASONS BUILD TEMPLE IN EVANSTON

Work is well under way on a two story building for the Mount Moriah Masonic lodge, No. 28, a colored organization, just west of the northwest corner of Ridge and Emerson, in Evanston. Walter T. Bailey of Chicago is architect. The building will cost a reported $65,000 and will be 52x100. It will contain stores and shops on the first floor and offices and a lodge hall on the second floor. Completion is set for Dec. 15.

PLAN HOSPITAL AT FRANKLIN-SAWYER CORNER

The Franklin Boulevard Hospital and Training School for Nurses has purchased from Lydia and Spencer R. Griffith the old residence at the northeast corner of Franklin boulevard and Sawyer avenue which it has been using as a nurses' home. The Franklin Boulevard hospital now proposes to raze this structure and replace it with a modern home. Plans will be formulated upon the return shortly of Dr. John H. Evans, president of the hospital, from a trip to Europe. Arthur A. Maina is attorney for the hospital association.

BUYERS OF FLATS IN NEW "CO-OP" ON NORTH STATE

Sudler & Co. and L. T. Kelly, Inc., organizers of the coöperative apartment building announced sometime ago in this department for 1530 North State street, advises that the following have purchased flats in their enterprise: James M. Hopkins, Charles Garfield King, Lawrence Viles, Stanley Rickcords, W. Edwin Stanley, Paul Gardner, Harold Foreman, Albert Wedelstaedt and Mrs. Catherine Benello. Granger & Bollenbacher designed the structure and the Ralph Soilitt & Sons Construction company has the general contract.

MORTUARY FIRM PLANS $250,000 EDIFICE ON 111TH

Building to Rise Just East of Western Avenue.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a combination undertaking establishment and apartment building at 2322-24 West 111th street—just east of Western avenue—which, it is stated, will represent an investment of $250,000 in building and land.

The improvement is being carried out by A. J. Bourne & Son, morticians or undertakers, as you prefer, who for years have had an establishment at 63d and Troy streets. They will operate the 111th street place in connection with their old establishment.

Z. Erol Smith designed the building, which will be of English architecture. The first floor will be given over to a chapel accommodating 400 persons, four rest rooms, a large reception room, offices, and the working rooms. The decorative scheme of the chapel and reception room will be old English.

The upper two floors of the three story building will be divided into fifteen apartments ranging in size from two to six rooms. The lot, 100 feet, was purchased through Wilson C. Groebe & Co. Financing is through a bond issue of $125,000 underwritten by the Chicago Lawn bank. Wilson MacAskill has the general contract.

This development is said to be the first of a series of projects for the territory immediately adjacent to 111th street and Western avenue planned by various interests associated with John Bain, prominent southside banker.

EDISON ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO. BUYS ON TAYLOR

The Edison Electric Appliance company, a subsidiary of the General Electric company, has completed the purchase of the property at the northwest corner of South Central avenue and West Taylor street from the Chicago Trust company, trustee for W. B. Templeton and J. W. Page. The property fronts 309 feet on Taylor and 78 feet on Central and is improved with a two story building erected five years ago, occupied by the buyer under lease. This purchase gives the Appliance company approximately twenty-five acres in the vicinity. Ednyfed H. Williams acted for the buyer and Rupert Barry of Barry & Crowley was attorney for the sellers.

NEW LOOP MART ENLARGES SCOPE TO DISPLAY FOOD

The scope of the Chicago Loop Merchandise Mart, located in the new L shaped building erected around the southwest corner of State and Washington streets, has been enlarged to include a food products mart, according to Swigart & Co., managing directors. Displays of food concerns will be found in booths. The mart displays various products of manufacturers and food companies for wholesale buyers.

Carleton Plaza Hotel Is Sold by Miles A. Feurst

The Lake View State bank has taken title as trustee for an undisclosed buyer to the Carleton Plaza hotel, a seven story structure, at 833 Gary place. Miles A. Feurst was the seller. It contains sixty-two furnished apartments. The reported price was $350,000, subject to a first mortgage of $250,000. The seller took in part payment the fifteen flats at the southwest corner of Gidding and Virginia. John J. Ready Jr. was broker.

George W. Prassas to Build Two Stores at 1531 Devon

George W. Prassas has purchased 50x112 feet at 1531-33 Devon avenue, east of Clark, from Leo H. Wolfeld for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Prassas will erect a one story building to contain two shops for lease to chain organizations. Jens J. Jensen is architect.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

HOUSE 50 YEARS OLD, UGLY MADE CHARMING ABODE

Modernizing Gives Home New Lease on Life.

(Next week will appear an article on "Heating the Home with Gas.")

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

[Home Builders Editor.]

Can you realize the imagination it takes—and the courage—to recall the lost beauty of a house more than half a century old and restore not only its submerged individuality and charm but equip it with all the improvements of an ultra modern age?

Yet this is what Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. D. Bradley dared to do when, for reasons of sentiment, they wished to spend part of the year in De Kalb, Ill., and purchased this frame dwelling, sturdily constructed after the manner of its time, but obsolete and unprepossessing in appearance.

Benjamin Franklin Olson, architect, 19 South La Salle street, Chicago, was given the task of recalling its former individuality and usefulness, and he undertook the work with enthusiasm and interest.

House Is Transformed.

Amid the sentimental values and natural beauty of the locality, Mr. Olsen enlarged, modernized, and virtually transformed the home.

All gingerbread detail was stripped from the exterior and the side walls covered with wide, white shingles laid 10 inches to the weather. The roof was covered with rough texture asbestos shingles in varying shades, and the chimneys painted white with black tops.

The front entrance with its quaint benches on either side of the door, suggests the warmth and friendliness of the interior. Green shutters and flower boxes at the windows complete the color scheme of a charming home and give to the community an attractive dwelling where for more than one-half a century stood one that added nothing in beauty to the neighborhood.

In the process of planning, the house was enlarged by the addition of a wing containing the dining room, study, master bedroom and bath and the two car garage. Two small rooms on the first floor were combined, making one good sized living room; the old dining room was converted into a modern kitchen using electricity for cooking and kitchen appliances.

In Early American Manner.

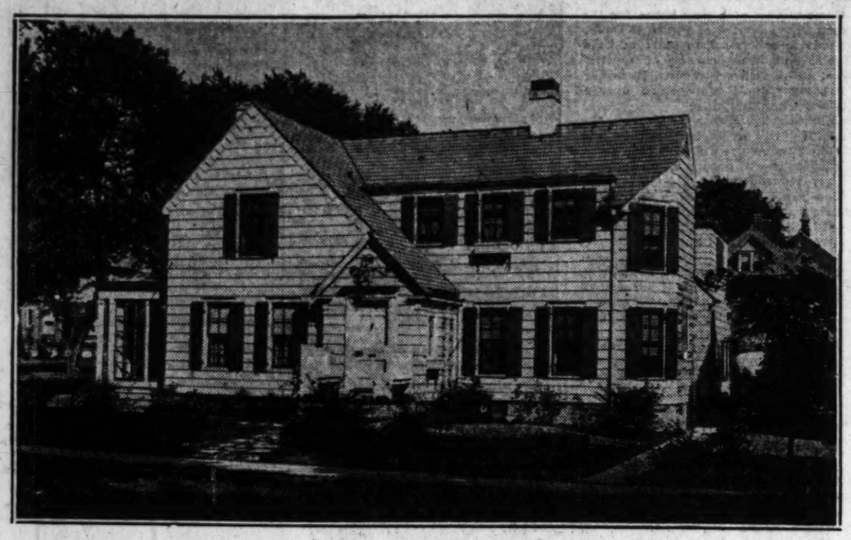
A simple detailed colonial stairway in white and mahogany leads from the reception hall to the second story, where there are four bedrooms and three tile wainscoted bathrooms, in addition to Mr. Bradley's study.

The doors, trim, mantel, hardware, lighting fixtures and bedroom wall papers were done in strict conformity with the early American period; all of which, with the judicious treatment of drapery fabrics and furnishings selected by Mrs. Bradley and M. Edith Bennett, interior decorator of Chicago, lends an atmosphere that makes a house a home.

The house is heated by warmed air, using an oil burner; the system being amplified by the use of an air conditioning cabinet that supplies moisture to the air in winter and filters the air that recirculates through the rooms continually. This cabinet permits the washing and cooling of the air drawn from the outside in summer.

The problem of the oil supply tank was solved by placing it on end above grade at the rear corner of the property and enclosing it with a covering of shingles to match the house, with a conical roof giving the appearance of a dove cote and wren house. Placing the oil tank above grade obviates the necessity of an electrically operated pressure pump to supply the oil to the oil burner.

RESIDENCE RESTORED TO LIFE



One sees here a house "recalled," its gingerbread details stripped from the exterior, and the side walls covered with wide white shingles. The chimneys are painted white with black tops, the roof has been covered with asbestos shingles. Enlarged to include several new rooms and two car garage, the interior decorations have been kept in conformity with the early American period. The furnace is oil fueled and moisture given to the air in winter by air conditioning cabinet.

USEFULNESS APPARENTLY OUTLIVED

For over fifty years this house had stood, of sturdy construction after the manner of its time, but with individuality submerged and general appearance unprepossessing to the point of ugliness. For reasons of sentiment Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. D. Bradley chose to spend a part of the year in DeKalb and purchased this house. Benjamin Franklin Olson, architect, 19 South La Salle, Chicago, was given the task of reclaiming the dwelling, giving to it quiet beauty and all modern improvements.

WINTER AHEAD, SO MAKE HOUSE WEATHER TIGHT

Next month we can count on a surprise storm or two. How about your weather stripping? If the rubber is old and dried it should be replaced with new. You can get weather stripping of many kinds ready to tack to the base of doors. You can use a lighter strip around the windows. All this helps in saving fuel and adding to interior comfort.

This is the time to paint your storm doors—if you use them. Oil the hinges and locks. Weather stripping at top and bottom will help.

As for your screens—this is the month when you will take them off. Clean them before putting them away by brushing off dust and wiping them with kerosine on both sides. This kerosine will not only clean but reduce the rust—if they are not of the nonrusting sort. Then if you want to be sure that the frames will not warp during the winter, stand them up straight and cover the whole group of them with old carpet or heavy paper.

Awnings need to be brushed and cleaned before they are put away. A good washing will help, but see that they are perfectly dry before they are rolled. Rust and corrosion may be prevented by putting a drop of oil on the hinges or rollers.

Hearth Minus Equipment Loses Much of Interest

These are the days when the fireplace achieves especial importance in the home. But in considering possibilities for its beauty and comfort these months ahead we should not forget its equipment—for without it the hearth would lose much of its interest.

WHY NOT INSTALL SHOE CABINET AS AN AID TO ORDER?

The season of muddy feet approaches. And after that months of snow and sleet covered shoes. A modern extra in the form of a shoe cabinet, built into the wall or attached to the wall of a bathroom or a kitchen or a hallway, furnishes a time saving and clean accessory. This cabinet when open contains the necessary paraphernalia for shining shoes and also a firm substantial foot rest just the proper height from the floor. When it is no longer needed it can be folded back out of the way.

COLORFUL ROOFS MAY BE HAD IN MANY MATERIALS

Delightful Effects Are Easy to Secure.

BY HOMER GRANT.

A variety of colors is obtainable in practically all modern roofings; indeed one's choice of color in roofing materials, as in many materials which go into the building and equipping of the home, is nearly as broad as the spectrum.

One manufacturer of composition asphalt shingles announces the introduction of new and interesting colors and combinations of colors in their roofing product.

These asphalt singles are being manufactured at the present time in two types—the 12x32 inch three-tab strip, and the 12x16 inch individual, giant size.

By the mixing of various softly colored slates a soft velvety surfacing results in combinations which, it is said, can harmonize with any exterior decorative scheme. In solid colors there is also a wide range possible, including delft blue, chocolate brown, jade green, golden brown, and so on.

Simple to Apply.

There is another feature to these asphalt shingles which contributes to their economical application. This is that the 3 tab strip shingle is surfaced with the essential colors of the combination or blend, thus eliminating the necessity of sorting the shingles on the roof to achieve the proper coloring.

Briefly, each tab is colored differently. For instance, in the combination called the blue-green tone, one tab is surfaced in delft blue, the other jade green, and the third tab is surfaced with the mixture of harmonizing slates. The giant size types are handled with equal ease, each shingle having two colors, and the color combination is obtained by merely reversing the shingle.

Clay tiles formerly ranging through the yellows, oranges, reds, rich greens and browns, now have added shades in mottled tones and many shades of green and gray, black and Burgundy.

Have Natural Colors.

Slate roofs derive their colors from natural sources, with various soft tones, gray and green and dull red, but mottled effects are also secured from slate beds which produce a combination of colors.

Asbestos shingle roofs are manufactured in shades that closely resemble burned clay tile and quarried slate and in other tones as well.

As for wood shingles, every one knows how colorful they can be, not only in weathered effects but in many different stained shades.

Times have changed from the days of past centuries when materials were not transported very far and whole towns had roofs similar in character and color from the local roofing sources.

ENGINEER UNION TROUBLES ARE SMOOTHED OVER

Builders See Action as Step Toward Peace.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Two important developments involving Chicago engineers occurred last week. Peace was declared between the Chicago local of the hoisting engineers and its international organization, which is ruled by Artie Huddell, the president. Chicago building contractors hail the peace treaty as a step toward unified tranquillity in the local construction as well as the national construction industry.

EDWARD F. MOORE.

"Builders throughout the country had no direct interest in the battle between the Chicago engineers and Mr. Huddell," said Edward M. Craig, the executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago.

"But their interests were being drawn into the picture through circumstances over which they had no control. Hiring of one set of engineers incurred the displeasure of the international union of engineers, and many builders operating on a national basis experienced trouble on this account."

A Dual Union.

Development No. 2 embodies an announcement in the Searchlight that plans are being perfected in Chicago for establishment of a new dual international union of engineers. This announcement says the membership of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers is composed of twenty-five per cent hoisting and portable and seventy-five per cent stationary engineers.

It points out the conditions and wages of the hoisting and portable engineers are protected through affiliation with building trades, while the stationary men enjoy no such protection. The pronouncement also declares the funds of the international are used for the welfare of the hoisters, the portable and shovel engineers, while the stationary men are left adrift of any financial assistance.

It is proposed to have one international union of hoisting, portable, and shovel engineers and one of regular stationary men.

Makes One Man Union.

Artie Huddell's dictum to abolish elective offices in all unions of engineers throughout the country brought to a climax the controversy between the Chicago hoisting engineers and the international. Artie demanded the privilege of ousting all duly elected officers and, it is said, replacing them with his own lieutenants. This, as Julius Brodsky says, tended to make the organization a one man union.

Credit is given to Patrick Sullivan, head of the Building Trades council, for ironing out the differences between the hoisters and Artie Huddell. A few of the outstanding features of the peace treaty are:

Edward F. Moore, for years one of the stalwarts for the engineers, resigns the presidency of local No. 569 and becomes a private in the ranks. Local No. 569 fades from the picture and becomes identified with No. 150, the organization established by Huddell after No. 569 refused to accept his ukase.

Maloney Assumes Control.

William E. Maloney assumes control over the new local, and some provision is made to find employment for the shovel men that remained in the fold of the new local No. 150.

Huddell said he desired his union delegates to be called supervisors instead of business agents. Supervisors appointed by him remain in office as long as he does.

Who made your faucets

A question of vital importance to every building owner

WHEN you have faucet trouble, to whom do you turn for service? When ordering repair parts or repair service, can you tell your plumber whose faucets you have?

Many people think that a faucet is just a faucet, but when it comes to obtaining the proper parts they soon discover that each faucet has its own peculiarities. Oft-times people are put to a great deal of bother and unnecessary expense because neither they nor anyone else knows who made their faucets or where the necessary repair parts are obtainable.

How a faucet looks is not important. The owner is faced with the vital question, "Where can I go for adequate and prompt service?"

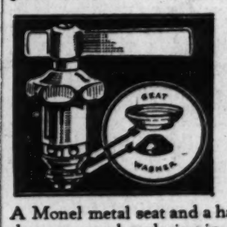
These difficulties are never experienced by users of Chicago Faucets. They are made, sold and serviced right in Chicago. Every good plumbing shop—hundreds of them in Chicago and vicinity—sell genuine Chicago Faucets and repair parts. Look for this sales and service sign.

Sales & Service
CHICAGO FAUCETS
Serving last as long as the Building



Even Chicago Faucets do wear insofar as two small parts are concerned—the seat and washer—never the faucet itself. Either are replaceable at the cost of a few cents and can be changed as easily as renewing a light bulb.

Should you have trouble in getting Chicago Faucets or repair parts, phone our factory, Belmont 0301 for the name of the nearest plumber who can serve you.

A Monel metal seat and a hard rubber washer are the only two parts that ever need replacing in a Chicago Faucet. There is no wear on the body of the faucet—it lasts as long as the building.

The "Straight-8 Streamline" Classic
A New Faucet for Modern Sinks

This beautiful combination sink fixture was designed especially to harmonize with the new modern 8-inch sinks. It's the lowest, neatest, most compact model ever made—only 3¼" high, and looks equally well on old-style sinks, too. Ask your plumber—consult your architect.

NTANGLING OF TRANSIT MAZE TO AID REALTY

Nixon Tells of Gains Due to Elevated.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With Chicago's transportation problem once more in a position where a well directed hit might bring it home after the many years it has verged on a settlement, some recent remarks of George F. Nixon, president of George F. Nixon & Co. and former head of the Chicago Real Estate board, may be timely.

Mr. Nixon holds that if Chicago and its suburbs are given adequate transportation real estate values in the Chicago district will be enhanced by $1,333,000,000. George C. Olcott, publisher of Olcott's Land Values Blue Book of Chicago, in his 1928 estimate gave the city a real estate valuation of $2,538,750,000. Mr. Nixon's figure approximates that of Oscar Hewitt in his able story in this department last May on the subject of real estate and transportation.

So if the estimates are accurate one can get some idea of what real transportation, with subway and elevated trains, street cars and buses all working to their best advantage, would mean to owners of Chicago realty.

Elevated Boosts Values.

Incidentally, our lack of satisfactory transportation brought forth this remark in the new edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica in the chapter on this city: "Chicago's conspicuous failure as a city has been in the lack of providing adequate transit facilities."

But to return to Mr. Nixon:

"Prior to the extension of the elevated road to Howard street land in the region affected was worth $20 to $40 a foot, while today the same property is priced at $1,000 to $2,000 a foot. In the territory bounded by Montrose, Western, Foster and Central avenues the full taxable value was $1,975,400 before the opening of the Ravenswood branch of the elevated in May, 1907, whereas in 1923 it had risen to $27,649,071—a fourteen fold increase in sixteen years.

Realty Owners to Gain.

"To only one major factor can these and most other great gains in real estate values be ascribed. That factor is the improvement in transit facilities. And now that further improvements and extensions are proposed, they will, if carried out as they should be, add about $1,333,000,000 to the present value of Chicago realty. In other words, this sum will be put in the pockets of the people who own Chicago real estate. The program, if properly carried through, will be the biggest thing since the elevated railroad started here in 1892.

Cites Other Benefits.

"There are other phases to the benefits that will accrue from the vast transit expansion program. Aside from the added value to the city's real estate, the money required for carrying out the construction work will circulate in the interest of greater prosperity for the city. A new field for labor employment will be opened up, more homes will be built, more building construction materials sold, and business merchants, manufacturers, and bankers will be vastly stimulated.

"Digressing a moment from the dollars and cents side, the fact is outstanding that Chicago cannot progress toward the goal of supremacy among the cities of the world until relief from present congestion is afforded. The city must constantly expand. It has been spreading, with new sections being populated, until today it has become an absolute necessity that residents in these sections be given more adequate transportation. The age of even comparative isolation is over.

"In Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Boston it has been proved consistently that large population growth follows the development of what we call rapid transit. This fact is now accepted as a fundamental, and of course we know that population growth brings higher real estate values. The beauty of it all is that the three factors—rapid transit, population growth, and real estate's increased valuation—are all interlocked.

Rapid Transit to Rescue.

"Each benefits the other and in turn is benefited by the other. In the past, the factor known as rapid transit has done the pioneering. Today, in addition to the call for pioneering in new sections, rapid transit must meet the demands for better service through extensions in the sections now built up.

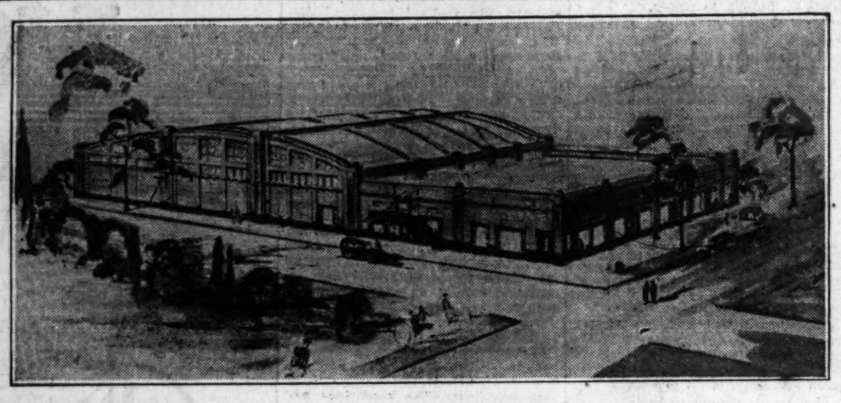
"To show specifically what subway construction—the only way out—has done for New York, George McAneny, chairman of the transit commission, declared as far back as 1923 that two-thirds of the three billion dollars increased real estate valuation on the tax assessors' books was 'directly attributable to the subway construction under these contracts.'

"In Chicago's case it is estimated that every dollar spent in the street by the transportation company will produce about $3.75 added value to the land within easy access to the transit line."

CHICAGO HOME OF OHIO TIRE CONCERN

L. G. Hallberg & Co. designed the above building, which is being erected on the south side of East 25th street, just east of South Park way, by Newton C. Farr and associates, for lease to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron. This structure will house the Chicago activities of the concern. Lawrence Monberg drew this picture.

TO GROW MUSCLE FOR NORTH SHORE FOLK



Picture of the new home for the North Shore School of Physical Development to be erected at the southwest corner of Central street and Eastwood avenue, Evanston. Henry J. Szymanski, a West Point man, is head of the school. The school will be a block from Dyche stadium and will cost about $250,000, it is stated. Meyer S. Sturm is architect.

FORGING CONCERN ACQUIRES PLANT ON NATCHEZ AV.

Gears and Forgings, Inc., have acquired from the Austin company a plant consisting of two units located at 2108-20 North Natchez avenue, a block from the Galewood station of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. The consideration was not disclosed. The two units contain in the neighborhood of 40,000 square feet. The firm recently acquired the interests of the William Ganschow company and also firms engaged in similar lines in other cities. All Chicago interests of the organization will be concentrated on Natchez avenue, the factory at Washington and Morgan being slated for abandonment.

F. J. Petru to Talk Before Real Property Institute

Frank J. Petru, active in building and loan circles, is to address the Real Property institute of the Cook County Real Estate board, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 8 o'clock, on the subject of "The Success of the Building and Loan Associations of Illinois." The meeting will be held in the board rooms at 100 North La Salle street. At 7 o'clock M. M. Oshe will talk on the "Homestead Exemption Act of Illinois—How the Exemption May Be Waived or Released."

Boston Architect to Be Small House Service Guest

The architects' small house service bureau, Central Division, Inc., is to hold a luncheon at the University club, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at which William Stanley Parker, Boston architect, will be the principal speaker. The luncheon is to be attended by real estate men, architects, builders, mortgage bankers and developers. It is held for the purpose of bringing about a better understanding of the community value of well designed and well built homes.

OLD FIELD WAREHOUSE AT ADAMS AND WELLS TO BE PUT ON MARKET

The noted old wholesale building of Marshall Field & Co., constructed of huge stone blocks and located at Quincy and Wells, is to be put on the market, for sale or rent. This was announced yesterday when the time for moving from the old quarters to the Merchandise Mart — the world's largest building in point of floor area —was placed at about April 1.

In discussing the removal, old timers with the Field organization recalled the early days of the warehouse. William Dieterle, who has completed a half century of service with the firm, says that when the building was being inspected by the late Marshall Field some one scoffed at the idea of such a huge structure ever being entirely utilized by one firm. But Mr. Dieterle lived to see it outgrown.

Mr. Dieterle watched the placing of the massive Missouri granite cap stone, weighing twenty-two tons, over the main entrance of the building, which was designed by H. H. Richardson of Boston. Mr. Richardson was one of the outstanding architects of his day—being particularly noted for his Romanesque designs, of which the old Field building is a fine example.

W. C. Miller, who has been with Marshall Field & Co. for fifty-five years, recalls the site of the old wholesale building as a lot where the boys of the neighborhood played baseball.

Two Apartment Buildings on 90th Street Are Sold

Lester J. Norris reports the sale of the eight flat building at the northeast corner of 90th and Elizabeth streets by Augustine F. McCarthy to Jacques Tchelbian for a reported $60,000, and the six flat building at the northeast corner of 90th and Throop streets, by Stephen and Jay Funsten to Benjamin F. Wright for a reported $50,000.

New Firm to Specialize in Building Location Work

Leland L. Neff has organized the Mortgage Survey corporation to specialize in building location work for bank and mortgage house loans. Offices of the company are located at 127 North Dearborn street. A. W. Hartge, formerly with the Torrens offices, is the chief surveyor for the firm.

New Health School for Evanston Site

Construction of a new home for the North Shore School of Physical Development is scheduled to start at once at the southwest corner of Central street and Eastwood avenue, Evanston —a block from Northwestern university's Dyche stadium.

Designed by Meyer J. Sturm, the structure will resemble slightly the Patten gymnasium and will cost about $250,000. It will occupy a lot approximately 150x150 feet.

The schol specializes in individual physical development work, its enrollment being taken from the district between Rogers Park and Lake Forest. It was organized in November, 1924, at 821 Church street, and in the spring of 1928 it moved to 1854 Sherman street. Its new building is expected to be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Henry I. Szymanski, a graduate of West Point and of Northwestern university, is head of the school. Besides being a coach at Northwestern, Mr. Szymanski was a member of the American Olympic team at Antwerp in 1920 and he has been a physical director at various army camps.

The new building will contain a regulation size swimming pool, hand ball, squash and volley ball courts and other facilities for exercise. The building site was leased for twenty years at a reported term rental of approximately $400,000 from an undisclosed lessor. The O. W. Rosenthal-Cornell company has the general contract. William D. Alcott represented the lessees and W. M. Mitchell acted for the lessor.

SOME MIDDLE WESTERN CITIES GAIN IN BUILDING

Despite losses generally throughout the country, many middle western cities indicate substantial gains, an indication, according to S. W. Straus & Co., of the soundness of business conditions in this central territory.

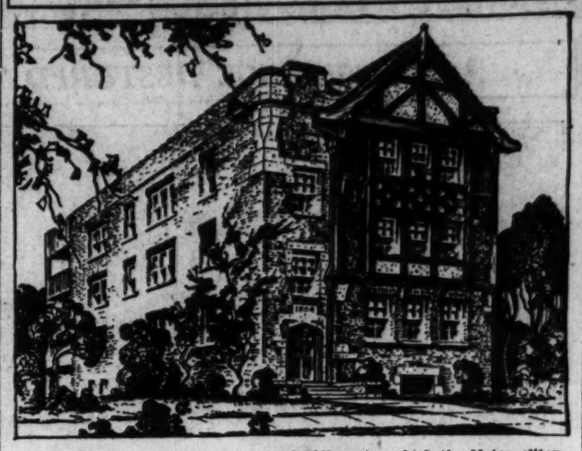
Among these middle western cities showing gains were the following: Kenosha, Wis., 154 per cent; Gary, Ind., 126 per cent; Dearborn, Mich., 124 per cent; St. Paul, 74 per cent; Wichita, 60 per cent; Cincinnati, 59 per cent; Flint, Mich., 28 per cent; Kansas City, 27 per cent; Cleveland, 3 per cent; Columbus, 3 per cent, and Dayton, 3 per cent.

According to the building survey department of S. W. Straus & Co., the twelve middle yestern states last month did a volume of $71,740,474 in building construction, according to permits issued. This figure represents 33 per cent of the entire volume in the United States as reported for last month.

Sells Stores and Flats at Birchwood and Ashland

The store and apartment building at the southeast corner of Birchwood and Ashland avenues, lot 50x150 feet, has been purchased by Robert L. Schutter for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $74,200. James J. Fairweather was seller.

NILES CENTER APARTMENT



One of a group of ten three flat buildings for which the Metropolitan District Realty Trust is now breaking ground in the Elm-Lee street district of Niles Center. The apartments, located a block north of Main street and a block west of Cicero avenue, will be of five and six rooms. This unit is the second of a group of ten three flat buildings erected by the realty trust this year. The first ten have been sold and rented. C. W. Lampe & Co. are architects. Lawrence Monberg drew this picture.

FRANK C. WELLS GIVEN NEW POST BY S. W. STRAUS

Frank C. Wells, real estate specialist for S. W. Straus & Co., has been appointed head of the property service department of the company, replacing Laurence Greenebaum. Mr. Greenebaum recently resigned from the Straus organization to become treasurer of Mandel Brothers. Prior to joining the Straus company two years ago, Mr. Well was a member of the real estate firm of Lindheimer & Wells. He was for three years editor of the Chicago Realtor. He was born in Chicago and was educated at the University of Chicago and Chicago Law school.

Edgar N. Greenebaum Will Address Future Realtors

"How Real Estate Transactions Are Financed" will be the subject of a talk to be given Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, by Edgar N. Greenebaum of Greenebaum Sons Investment company before the Chicago Real Estate Board's class in real estate education. The course is given in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. Louis A. Dumont will address the class in land economics Thursday evening, Oct. 24, on "Chicago—the City of Destiny."

Brokers' Notes

The Frank De Lugach Real Estate company recently opened a branch office on Columbus highway, commonly known as Columbus avenue, at the corner of Kolmar.

E. J. Perlberg has moved his offices from 134 North La Salle street to Suite 1030, 29 South La Salle street.

The Herbert E. Graves Real Estate Improvement corporation announces the appointment of J. Lebrecht as secretary and treasurer. Mr. Lebrecht has been with the International Harvester company for the last quarter of a century. He will direct an organization in the sale of a new tract development at Gary.

Howard J. Hager, who has been with Baird & Warner for several years in the renting and sales field in Rogers Park, has been elected a vice president of that organization, in charge of the Rogers Park office.

William G. Crimp announces that he has opened his own office at 140 South Dearborn street where he will deal in business and industrial properties. He formerly was with the H. H. Harper & Co. Mr. Crimp's phone is Central 8022.

Arthur D. Kallas, formerly with the real estate firm of Robert L. Gear & Co., is now in business for himself, operating from his home at 6540 Minerva avenue.

Robert E. Humphrey, formerly with Humphrey & Grubb, has become associated with the Lake Park Securities company as manager of the firm's real estate department.

ERECT $600,000 STRUCTURE ON NEAR SOUTH SIDE

To Be Leased for 15 Yrs. to Tire Company.

A $600,000 building development is announced by Newton C. Farr and associates for the near south side in a four story and tower structure to be erected on the south side of East 25th street, just east of South Park way.

The building will be leased for fifteen years to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company to house the Ohio concern's Chicago activities. The lease calls for a reported term rental of $594,000.

L. G. Hallberg & Co. designed the structure, which will be of reinforced concrete construction. The walls likewise will be of concrete, with ornamentation of cut stone. Foundations are being installed for an additional two stories if more space is required.

All water tanks and other roof paraphernalia will be concealed in the tower. The building is to be heated by fuel oil. There will be 150,000 square feet of floor area. The interior is to be finished under the direction of the tire company, and the offices are to be unusually elaborate. The reported investment of $600,000 includes the land.

The Henry B. Ryan company has the general contract. Completion is scheduled for Jan. 1. Brokers in the transaction were N. Ray Miller of Chandler & Montague and W. B. Ingruels of the Central Manufacturing District bank. Vent & Warfield represented the lessors.

Jacques Lease Space in Building on East Ohio

Jacques, importers and designers of women's clothes at 645 North Michigan avenue, have found it necessary to lease space in the Seymour building at 149-55 East Ohio street as a result of overcrowding in their newly completed him on the Boul Mich. T. Bennett Polk of Earle A. Shilton's office consummated the lease.

Walnuts

HAROLD GRAY

HEY - KEEP AWAY FROM ME WITH THAT RED HAIR - I DON'T WANT TO GET SET ON FIRE -

AW, YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY 'BOUT THAT - YOU'RE TOO GREEN TO BURN -

YESSIR, I BETCHA HALF TH' FUN OF EATIN' WALNUTS IS GOIN' OUT INTO TH' WOODS IN TH' FALL AN' GATHERIN' 'EM - COURSE IT'S A LOT O' WORK -

BUT THAT BIG WIND LAST NIGHT SHOOK 'EM ALL OFF TH' TREES AND NOW ALL WE'VE GOT TO DO IS PICK 'EM UP AND HAUL 'EM HOME -

LOTS O' KIDS IN TOWN WOULDN'T KNOW WALNUTS EVEN IF THEY SAW 'EM THIS WAY 'FORE THEY'VE BEEN HULLED AND DRIED -

KIDS IN TH' CITY SURE MISS A LOT O' FUN - AN' THERE'S LOTS O' THINGS CITY KIDS DON'T KNOW -

IN TH' CITY YUH GET EVER'THING FROM A STORE - COURSE IT'S HANDY - BUT THERE ISN'T MUCH KICK TO JUST BUYIN' THINGS IN A STORE -

GLAD I FOUND THIS OLD WOODEN MALLET - IT'S JUST TH' THING TO KNOCK TH' HULLS OFF - SOME FOLKS PUT 'EM THROUGH A CORN-SHELLER BUT THIS IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME -

NOW WE'LL JUST SPREAD 'EM OUT ON THIS CELLAR DOOR WHERE TH' SUN CAN GET A GOOD CRACK AT 'EM AN' THEY'LL BE DRY IN NO TIME -

THEN, AFTER THEY'RE GOOD AN' DRY, SO THEY'LL KEEP, WE'LL PUT 'EM AWAY UP IN TH' ATTIC WHERE WE CAN GET AT 'EM - THEY SURE WILL TASTE GOOD NEXT WINTER -

WE'LL HAVE WALNUT CAKES AN' WE CAN HAVE 'EM IN FUDGE, TOO - AND THEY'RE GOOD ANY TIME JUST BY THEMSELVES -

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! JUST LOOK AT THAT - BLACK AS COAL - AND SOAP DOESN'T HELP A BIT - NOW HOW TH' DICKENS AM I GOIN' TO GET MY HANDS CLEAN?

WALNUT STAINS - I OUGHTA HAVE KNOWN BETTER - JUST HAVE TO WAIT TILL IT WEARS OFF, I GUESS - AN' THAT'LL TAKE A LONG, LONG TIME -

OH, WELL - WHO CARES? NOTHIN WRONG 'BOUT HULLIN' WALNUTS - THAT MUST BE WHAT THEY MEAN WHEN THEY SAY, NOBODY OUGHT TO BE 'SHAMED O' TH' STAINS O' HONEST TOIL -

"Gosh! I'll be terribly busy for the next few weeks. I've got billions and billions of these leaves to decorate—and every one has to be a work of art—worth putting in a scrap book; and then, when I get 'em all done perfectly beautiful, folks will say, 'How purty!' and then rake 'em up in a pile and burn 'em up. Gosh!"

New heel-heights–New lasts modeled on the new Fall shoes

–give these smart galoshes their trim, slender fit

No wonder the new Glove Brand Galoshes have the trim, slender fit of your custom-made shoes!

They're designed to fit the new shoe widths. They have the new Fall heel-heights.

Another thing that gives them importance in this Winter of ensemble costumes—they come in the same color range.

Further, the new Glove Brand Galoshes are varied in both style and weight—to suit all varieties of weather inclemency.

There's an oxford or low-cuff style of featherweight rubber—so intriguing that a cloudy or showery day is really a pleasant excuse to wear them.

And tweed-like fabric galoshes in all the season's new colors have a charming way of harmonizing with one's ensemble while they protect shoes and ankles from rain or slush.

And extra-high ones for Winter sports or country tramping.

You'll find these trim-fitting galoshes in all the smartest shoe shops and department stores. You'll find, too, how appropriately they're named, for they truly fit like a glove. Ask to be fitted with Glove Brand Galoshes when you shop for your new Winter shoes. Goodyear's I. R. Glove Manufacturing Co., Naugatuck, Connecticut.

Made entirely of featherweight rubber, this galosh is perfect for rainy day wear. Clean it with soap and water if it happens to get spattered.

Here is a galosh that affords smart protection against the Winter's worst storms. It has the patented KWIK fastener and fits the new Fall shoes like a glove.

Also of featherweight rubber, this galosh has the patented KWIK fastener so many girls prefer. And it fits the new Fall shoes like a glove.

This galosh of tweed-like fabric is the same as that above. It is turned down for use in only moderately bad weather.

With its low turn-down cuff that snaps trimly about the ankle, this galosh is quite the Winter favorite. It comes in shades to harmonize with the new Fall costumes.

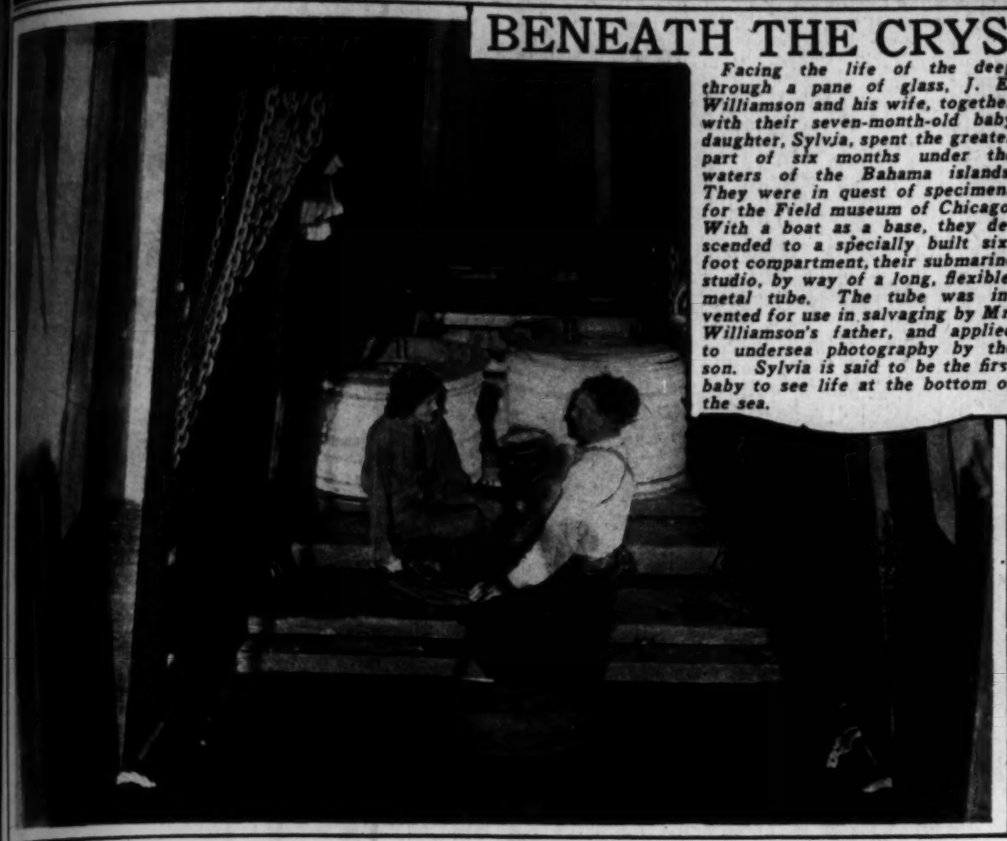
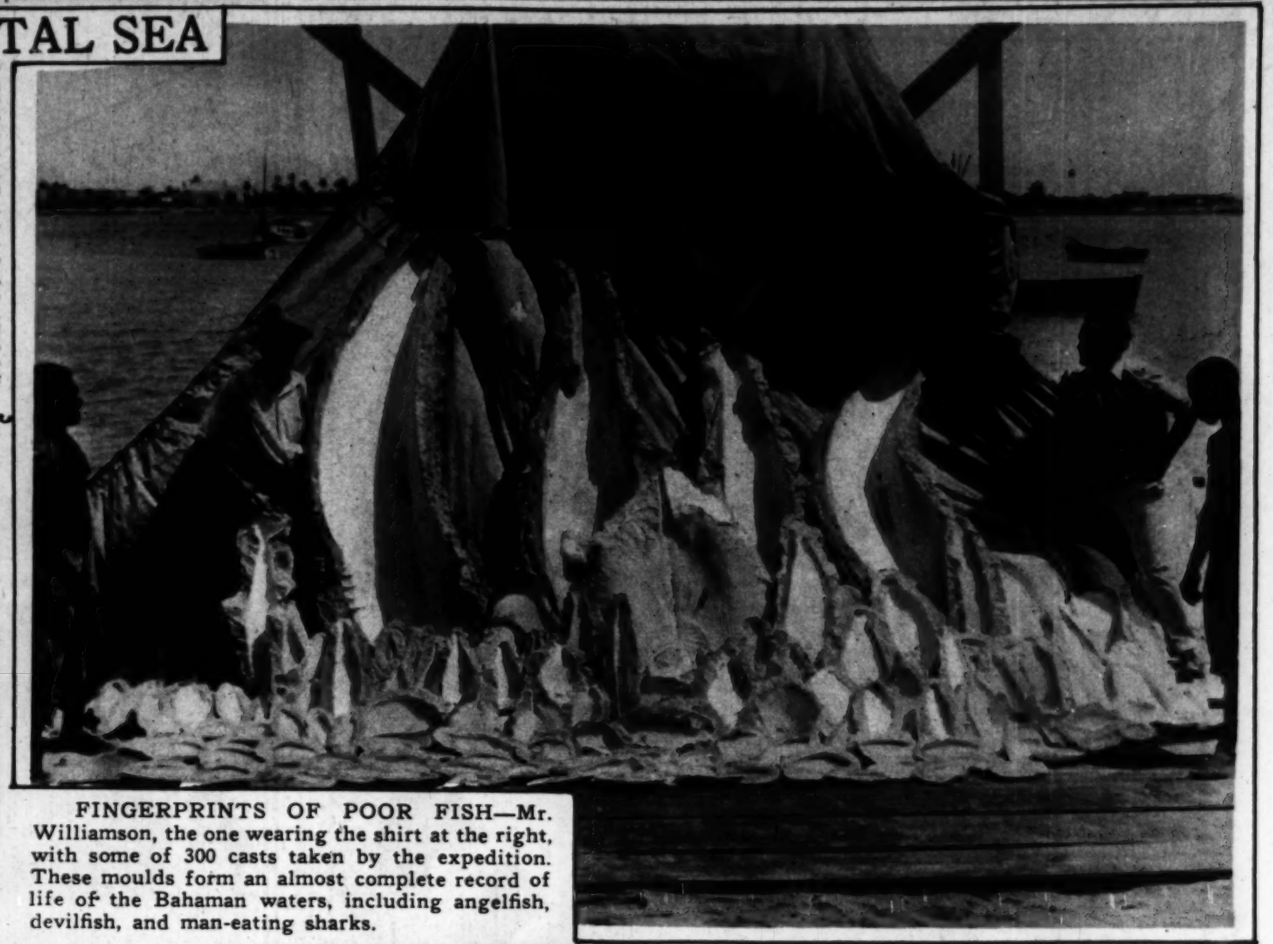
BENEATH THE CRYSTAL SEA

Facing the life of the deep through a pane of glass, J. E. Williamson and his wife, together with their seven-month-old baby daughter, Sylvia, spent the greater part of six months under the waters of the Bahama islands. They were in quest of specimens for the Field museum of Chicago. With a boat as a base, they descended to a specially built six-foot compartment, their submarine studio, by way of a long, flexible, metal tube. The tube was invented for use in salvaging by Mr. Williamson's father, and applied to undersea photography by the son. Sylvia is said to be the first baby to see life at the bottom of the sea.



WITH BABY IN A KNAPSACK, the undersea explorers prepare to descend through their metal tube to their studio on the ocean floor.



FINGERPRINTS OF POOR FISH—Mr. Williamson, the one wearing the shirt at the right, with some of 300 casts taken by the expedition. These moulds form an almost complete record of life of the Bahaman waters, including angelfish, devilfish, and man-eating sharks.

"BABY SEE THE PRETTY FISH?" A leopard shark called to pay his respects to Mrs. Williamson and Sylvia; but the front window was as far as he got.

ALL UNBEKNOWNST, a fifty-pound grouper is visited in his haunt of fancied seclusion. He floats beneath the branches of a living forest of coral.

THE GENTLEMAN ALWAYS — Outside the studio window a diver removes his helmet — which is doffing the hat under difficulties.

YES, SYLVIA HAD A GOOD TIME—Perhaps she didn't quite understand all the strange business daddy and mother were about; but if she didn't, she concealed it with the sage untalkativeness of her seven months.

SUBMARINE BONES—Chemicals were employed to remove the film of living polyps which, with incredible millions of ancestors, built these beautiful formations beneath the sea; and tons of coral specimens remain.

TEEMING LIFE in a garden of the sea. Among those present in this remarkable vista are grunts (so-called from the noise they make when caught), goatfish, yellowtails, and schoolmasters.

Girls!

$22,000 FOR PERSONALITY!

No Work to Do! No Letters to Write! Nothing to Pay! Just Send In Your Photograph to Doris Blake of the Tribune for Personality Reading!

143 BIG CASH PRIZES!

GIRLS! What kind of personality do the features of your face reveal? Each face reflects a different personality. Some denote charm, some cleverness, some kindness, some meekness. The eyes—the nose—the mouth—each has a significant meaning. Together, they mirror one's personality.

Doris Blake, famous Character Editor of the Chicago Tribune, will analyze your personality from your photograph. The Chicago Tribune will pay $22,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the girls whose photographs reveal the best personalities. They may be city girls, country girls, home girls, stenographers, society girls, factory girls or school girls. They may be blonde, brunette or titian haired.

143 Big Cash Prizes are offered for photographs revealing the best personalities. Any girl may win. The prizes range from $100.00 to $5,000.00 each.

Photographs of the first group of weekly Prize Winners are published here together with personality readings. Another group of ten $100.00 Prize Winners will be published in next Sunday's Tribune.

Here Are the Simple Rules:

1. This offer is open to every unmarried girl excepting professional beauties such as stage girls or artists' models, and excepting employes of the Tribune and their families. It costs nothing.
2. All that is necessary is to send a photograph to Doris Blake of the Tribune for personality reading. No letters to write! No subscriptions to take! No work to do!
3. Any kind of photograph will do—a small snapshot, a cabinet photograph or a postcard picture. Style of photograph will not count, as standard photographs of the finalists will be made at the Tribune's expense for the final judging.
4. Photographs will be analyzed by Doris Blake. 10 photographs, together with the personality readings, will be published each Sunday for 14 Sundays in the Rotogravure Section of the Sunday Tribune. $100.00 in Cash will be paid to each girl whose photograph is published—a total of $14,000.00. IN ADDITION three Grand Prize Winners will be chosen from ALL the photographs submitted, and to these girls the following sums will be paid: 1st Grand Prize $5,000.00—2nd Grand Prize $2,000.00—3rd Grand Prize $1,000.00.
5. Photographs may be sent in by any relative or friend. The prizes shall be payable only to the girls whose photographs are published.
6. Note the coupon below. Fill this in or write the same information on another sheet of paper and paste it on the back of the photograph you submit. All photographs should be addressed: Doris Blake, Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. The Tribune cannot be responsible for photographs.
7. In printing the photographs and personality analyses no names will be published—just initials. No addresses will be given—just the city and state.
8. No entries will be accepted after midnight Tuesday, January 14th, 1930. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Tribune and their decision will be final. Photographs of the three Grand Prize Winners will be published in color rotogravure.

Mail Your Photograph At Once!

Send in your photograph or the photograph of a relative or friend at once. Clip the coupon below. Fill it in and paste it on the back of the photograph you submit. Watch the Chicago Sunday Tribune each Sunday for photographs of entrants and personality readings.

Mail This Coupon With Photograph

Fill in this entry coupon or write the same information on a separate sheet of paper. Paste it on the back of the photograph and mail to "Doris Blake," The Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1718, Chicago, Ill.

Here Are The First Weekly Prize Winners!

$100.00 In Cash To Each of These Girls!

MISS D. J., Lombard, Ill.
Miss J. is reserved, analytical, courageous, and the possessor of two excellent gifts, a sense of values and a sense of humor.

MISS H. E. D., Waukegan, Ill.
Miss D. is the possessor of a quiet sense of humor, an even temper, and good judgment. She is resourceful and sufficient unto herself, and for this very reason should guard against a tendency to exclude the rest of the world.

MISS Y. N., Chicago
(Photograph from Lavecchia.)
Good breeding, refinement, sensitiveness, and a sense of fitness are Miss N.'s salient characteristics. She is fair minded, extremely reserved, and conventional. She is more of a dreamer than a doer.

MISS M. M. K., Hammond, Ind.
Here the convex outlines signify strength of character and memory, sociability, and good nature. The spacing and proportions of the features indicate that Miss K. is a happily balanced person, with sufficient benevolence to offset a tendency toward forcefulness.

MISS I. E. S., South Bend, Ind.
This face, inclined to be square, expresses perseverance and obstinacy, but these traits are discretly tempered by those signified by the eyes and mouth, which indicate that Miss S. is a lover of beauty, reserved, and capable of deep and lasting affection.

MISS M. L., Milwaukee, Wis.
Sociability, a sense of humor, firmness, and the ability to think quickly and accurately are signified by Miss L.'s features. She is a good combination of amiability and strength.

MISS F. M., Aurora, Ill.
Here the facial contours and expression indicate that Miss M. is high strung, a rapid thinker, and the possessor of an unselfish spirit. Her emotions guide her decisions, however, and she should endeavor to make her head rule her heart.

MISS E. L., Davenport, Ia.
Miss L.'s face and features reveal an opportunist, who is light hearted and a lover of gaiety. She makes friends quickly, and likes people generally. Her intelligence is entirely adequate, but she should guard against being influenced by others.

MISS M. H., Grand Rapids, Mich.
Miss H. is probably a contradictory person. Her eyes indicate keen perception, but a slight tendency to temper, while her mouth and lower face contours signify open heartedness, cheerfulness, and an inclination to take things as they come. She is more active than dreamy.

MISS G C., Rockford, Ill.
The predominant characteristic expressed in Miss C.'s face is wholesomeness. Present also are indications of good nature, vitality, and intelligence. She has a tendency toward over-impulsiveness, and her judgment of people is apt to be a bit inaccurate.

(Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

BEST SHOT—Ralph S. Marshall of Lima, O., won the American Legion's national revolver championship at the convention in Louisville.

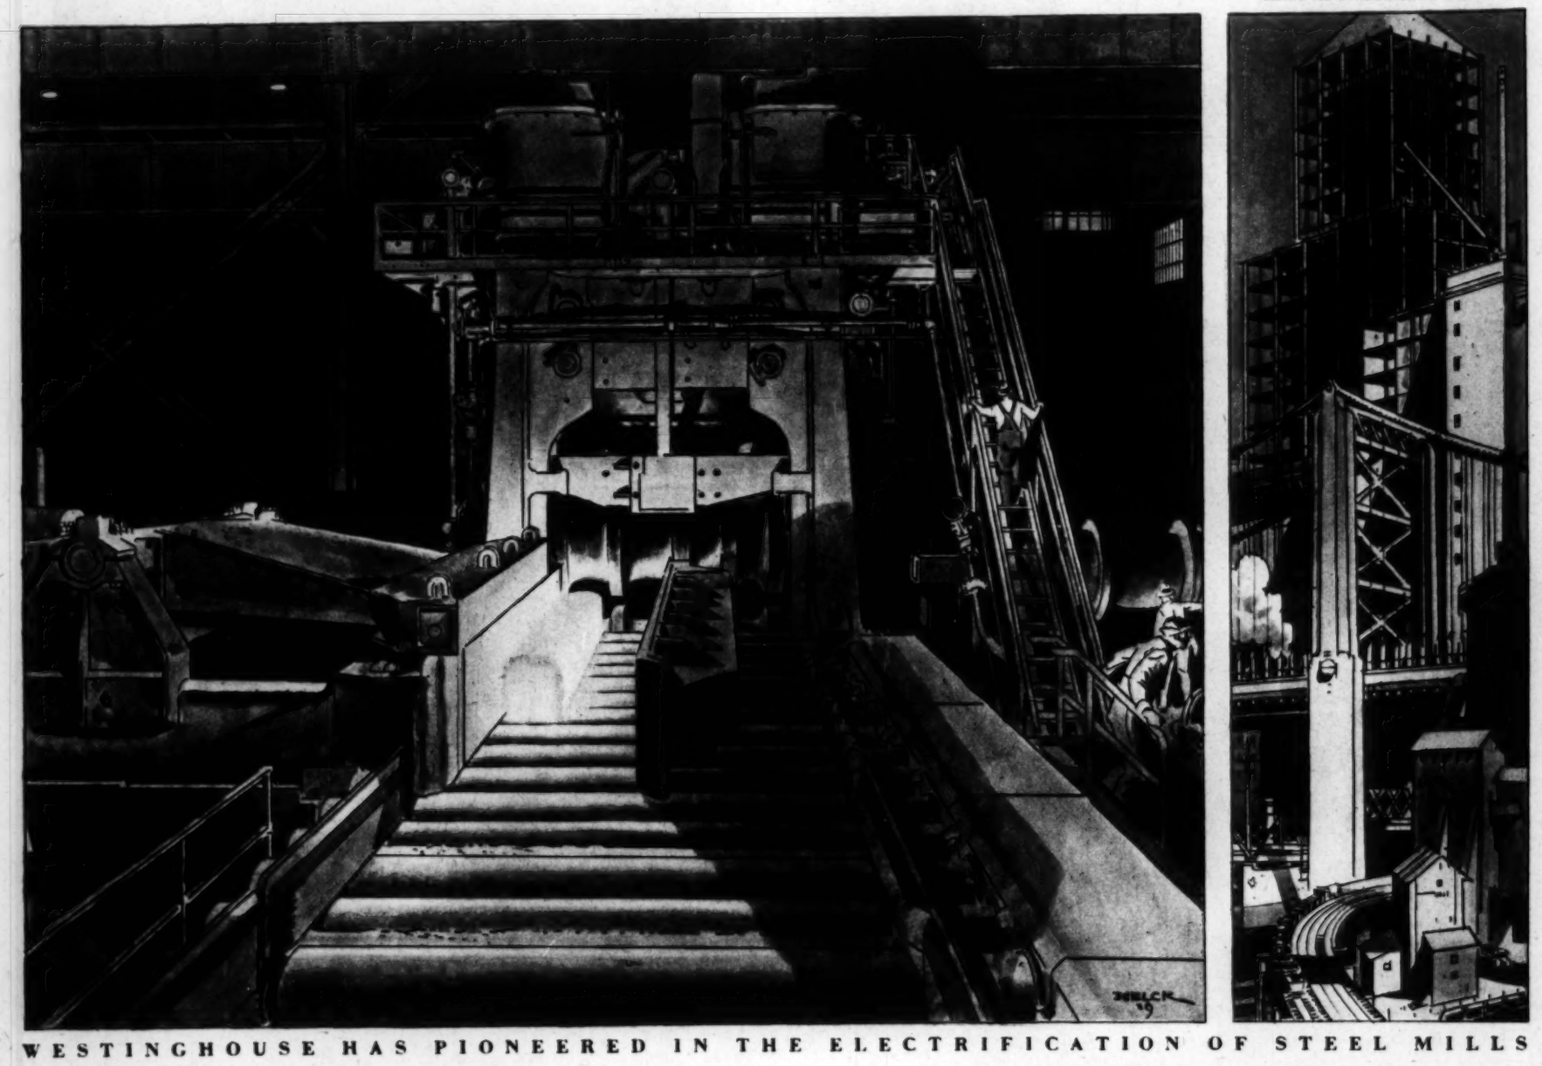
THE NEWEST BARRYMORE—Miss Ethel Barrymore Colt, 17, visited her mother, Ethel Barrymore, in her dressing room in Chicago and got a few pointers on stage makeup. The daughter plans to carry on the family tradition, but her mother wants her to wait a while. (Photograph from Wide World.)

WHAT WESTINGHOUSE IS DOING TO MODERNIZE INDUSTRY



DRAWN FOR WESTINGHOUSE BY C. PETER HELCK

WESTINGHOUSE HAS PIONEERED IN THE ELECTRIFICATION OF STEEL MILLS

Electricity—maker of iron and steel

Trace the ancestry of a watch spring, a motor car, a modern skyscraper's towering frame. These and a thousand other everyday conveniences are yours because men of the iron and steel industry tend their roaring furnaces. They transform mountains of raw ore to glowing iron. They roll ingots of raw steel into rails, rods, sheets, and bars that builders, manufacturers, and railroads demand in growing volume.

Fifty million tons of steel a year must be produced to meet America's needs for bridges and buildings, machinery, ships, and railroad trains. Electric motors to the total of six million horsepower turn the wheels that help the steel industry supply this vast demand.

In modern steel production, electricity drives machinery that unloads bulky ore boats in a few hours' time. The blast and open hearth furnaces that reduce raw ore to steel are charged by electric power. Electric hands maneuver great ladles of molten steel with the dexterity of a tireless giant.

Where ten-ton ingots are pressed down to bars, rods, and sheets of wafer thinness, it is electric power that drives the crushing rolls. Where twenty thousand horsepower must be concentrated in a single machine, electricity makes this massed strength constantly responsive to the finger-tip control of a single man.

Westinghouse, in co-operation with engineers of the steel industry, has played a prominent part in its electrification. Westinghouse was first to apply electric power to a main roll drive. Many of the speed-regulating devices in use today are Westinghouse developments. Westinghouse provides the giant motors as well as the countless auxiliary motors, controls and various safety devices that make today's efficient production of iron and steel possible.

Few men realize how much the pajama drawstring interferes with sound, true sleep. Hard, unyielding, and tightly drawn (or the trousers fall down) it hinders circulation and prevents muscles from completely relaxing. It's just like so much rope around the waist!

The Waistband that revolutionized nightwear!

—the reason why Faultless Nobelts are the most popular pajamas of today is that

They stay up without noticeable waistline pressure

ONLY when the drawstring was banished—forever!—did men come to realize how really comfortable pajamas could be. And now they buy them by the thousands . . . these Faultless Nobelt pajamas that have made possible real, sound sleeping and lounging comfort.

The patented Nobelt waistband that takes the place of the harassing drawstring is a broad, flat, resilient band that fastens with one lone button. It is soft, pleasant, and so gently resilient that though it holds the trousers up firmly it does so without any noticeable pressure round the waist and expands and contracts to the slightest movement of muscles. It breathes with you! It is ideal, for it contains no ordinary garter elastic to cut into the skin and bind—by the patented Faultless process its resiliency is woven into the very fabric of which it is made.

Faultless Nobelt pajamas offer you more than comfort, too—as important as that is. They are stylish, well cut, beautifully tailored. They can be had in many different fabrics and a hundred schemes of color and design. They are very reasonably priced (although Faultless makes high-priced pajamas of silk and sateen in exclusive designs that are quite in good taste for week-end informal evening wear and for lounging at any time).

Find out how great it is to awaken refreshed in the morning with your muscles and nerves rebuilt and relaxed! Treat yourself to Faultless Nobelt pajamas at most any shop or department store. The Faultless Manufacturing Company, Baltimore, Maryland. Chicago Sales Office, Republic Bldg., 209 South State Street. New York City Sales Office, 452 Fifth Avenue (at 40th Street).

IN THE LEADING ROLE of Oberammergau's Passion play next year will be Alois Lang, 38-year-old wood carver, gifted with a mellow, stirring voice, black hair, brown eyes, black beard, and a height of 6 feet 2. He has been chosen to succeed Anton Lang in portraying the part of Christ.
(Photograph from Wide World.)

A 23-YEAR-OLD TYPIST, pale, quiet Anny Rutz, will have the role of the Virgin Mary in the Passion play opening May 11, 1930, and continuing all summer at the little town in the Bavarian mountains. She was elected over three rivals, all in their early twenties.

JUDAS ISCARIOT in the Oberammergau spectacle will be portrayed by Guida Mayr for the second time. The play is given every ten years in gratitude to the Supreme Being for saving the village from a plague early in the seventeenth century.

"AT LAST I HAVE A FACE POWDER I CAN HONESTLY RECOMMEND"—

she tells us today.

She is the head of one of America's most exclusive toilet goods departments: and two years ago she told us that she hesitated to recommend any face powder . . . . For she knew only too well what intelligent women were beginning to ask about face powders:

"Is it absolutely pure and safe?"
"Will it stay on for a really long time?"
"Haven't you a transparent powder—one that doesn't cover up my skin?"
"Haven't you any shade that matches my own natural skin color?"

Then and there we decided that we simply had to create a totally new face powder —working from an entirely new conception of what the ideal modern face powder should be.

So we started with different ingredients — ingredients never before used in a face powder. And we consulted with fashion experts on color trends and the vogue for harmony of costume ensemble.

Then last Spring . . . after two years of experimenting . . . Poudre le Début appeared in the shops — and its instant success proved that we had created a new, different powder . . . exactly the powder that you modern women were asking for.

Here is a face powder soft and velvety in a way you never knew a powder could be soft and velvety . . . spreading so smoothly and evenly that it seems to become a very part of your skin . . . a powder that clings — indefinitely — but never cakes . . . with a range of natural skin tones so subtle in their nuances that in one you find the perfect complement for your own individual complexion.

And . . . even more dramatic . . . here for the first time is a powder that is not only safe, but (thanks to certain of the new ingredients) actually protects your skin's texture against the effects of burn, wind, dust and city soot!

Poudre le Début will come to you as a revelation of what modern face powder can be. You'll love the fragrance — typically le Début, suggestive of Paris — and the gay box, so striking in design . . . Incidentally, you'll find it a distinctly economical powder to use . . . for it smooths so beautifully, that just a tiny bit is enough for your whole face!

Poudre le Début may be had at any of the modern shops. Or if you'd like to try it, we'll be glad to send you a liberal trial box.

For LIGHT Complexions:
'PEARL'—for the fair skin with color.
'PEARL WITH GLOW'—a warm tone for the fair skin with little color.
'NATURELLE'—to match the medium-toned skin.
'SUN-TINT'—a tan for the fair skin.

For BRUNETTES:
'RACHEL'—for the brunette with color.
'RACHEL WITH GLOW'—a warm tone for the brunette with little color.
'OCRE-ROSE'—a warm tone for the olive skin.
'SUN-TAN'—a tan for the brunette skin.

To these perfect Proportions PHOENIX is shaped by an accurate new knitting method

The sheer, clear shapes of Phoenix Hosiery which women find so flattering have two good reasons for their beauty. Not only are they woven by a wonderful new method, but they are also perfectly proportioned. . . . Florenz Ziegfeld, internationally-famous producer, selected Miss Barbara Newberry's legs as the pattern for Phoenix after the measurements had been taken of nearly three hundred lovely girls in his Broadway shows. Average in size, graceful in shape and typical of all attractive women, Miss Newberry's legs were declared by Mr. Ziegfeld the most beautiful in America—possibly in the world. . . . The Accurator, a device which counts and gauges every stitch in knitting, enables Phoenix to follow Miss Newberry's proportions with absolute precision. Stockings created by this exact method fit better, are more even in color and weave. . . . The petite woman, the average and the statuesque all find at least one Phoenix style perfectly proportioned to their size. In stores and shops now are delightful new Fall shades. . . . $1.50, $1.95, $2.95.

The Interior Decorator

By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"When in doubt, ritz the client," is an unwritten law among the better class of interior decorators. Suppose, for instance, a stranger enters a woman decorator's shop. The decorator, after making sure it is not someone to discuss the phone bill, will start a loud conversation with her associates—preferably all about dukes and duchesses and what a ghastly season it was at Newport, etc., paying no attention whatever to the prospective client. When the client has asked for the third time, "How much is this?" the decorator will answer, but very vaguely, "Yes, isn't it adorable. It's Staffordshire." This is known as the bon ton method of approach.

Two gentlemanly interior decorators who, feeling as they do that art stopped short with the Italian Renaissance, are verging on nervous breakdown at an exhibition of modern furniture.

Just a personable young decorator's assistant thinking about nothing except galloons, glass elephants, and original brasses.

"Have you an appointment? She can't see anybody today. She's very busy making estimates on Mrs. Van Astor O'Toole's gold and diamond Italian loggia!" (Just another way of saying "She's in conference!")

Nothing so delights the eye of an experienced interior decorator as the sight of a recently rich family who have become decorator conscious. Don't mind what they have to spend to make the old home grander.

Decorators have to be pretty severe at times, even though it hurts. Mrs. Ella Foolem, who prefers to be known as an interior artificer, is withering a client who wants to add a mission Morris chair to a directoire room "just because it's so comfy!"

Adolf, the cabinet maker, is a great trial to decorators. Never gets anything done within a week of the promised delivery.

As a child, Lula was combative to a degree that caused her parents much worry. They did not realize that her fighting qualities would bring her great success as an interior decorator. Lula loves nothing better than a good lawsuit served up with writs of replevin and habeas corpus and summons, and all that. Painters, cabinet makers and upholsterers are in deadly terror of Lula and deliver on time. And if a client dares to return a chest of drawers, or a kneehole desk, or such, said client gets it fired right back with a growl and a snarl from Lula.

Frances, the secretary, is the buffer between the rest of the firm and the great big world. This morning Frances is busy as usual answering irate clients by phone and typewriter. It seems that a woman out in the suburbs had her boudoir all done Irish moyen age, and the four-post bed they shipped her caved in while in use. Frances is all apologies and promises. She is also typing a request for whole or partial payment on a Charles II. tea wagon for which a client in Selecte, Ohio, refuses to pay on the ground that the casters are missing. "Casters," types Frances, "are not authentic on Charles II. tea wagons."

The curse of an interior decorator's aching heart is the woman client who changes her mind often and anon. Decides when the job is half way to a finish that she's tired of French Provencal and wants to switch to early Venetian.

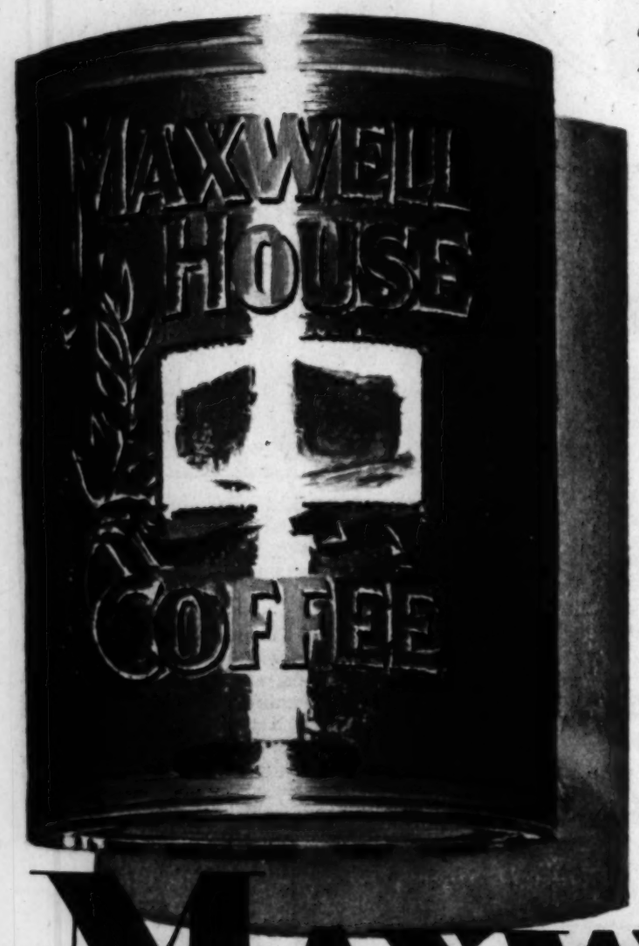
Today, as in the glamorous past, wherever hospitality is found at its best, Maxwell House is the chosen coffee.



THE chefs of the old Maxwell House knew well how to roast "possum" or prairie grouse to a crisp golden brown; how to contrive many epicurean dishes whose savory fragrance only hinted at their goodness. And then as the crowning delight with which to bid the guest farewell, a cup—or perhaps two—of the famous blended coffee which men and women still drink with reverence and with relish. You will find this same coffee, named for the famous old hotel which first served it, at your grocer's now. Taste it, and to you it will be no mystery at all why Maxwell House has become the largest selling packaged coffee in the world.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

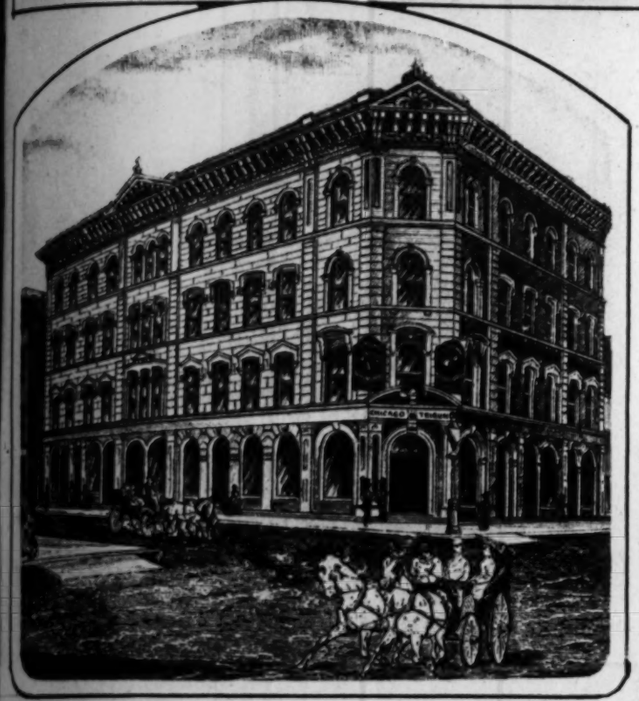
PICTORIAL HISTORY OF CHICAGO—On Sunday evening, October 8, 1871, there broke out in Patrick O'Leary's barn at 137 DeKoven street what was to become one of the great conflagrations of history. Three and one-half square miles of the city were razed, nearly 100,000 persons were left homeless, more than 17,000 buildings were destroyed, and the property loss was placed at $200,000,000. The death toll was at least 250. This was an actual photograph, taken as the all but ruined city started to count the cost.

(Photograph from "History of Chicago," by A. T. Andreas.)



THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was published at 51 North Clark street until 1868, when it removed to its handsome building, shown above, at the southeast corner of Madison and Dearborn streets. Four stories high, of Joliet marble, and costing $225,000, the structure was gutted in the great fire, but was rebuilt, and the paper continued to be published on that corner.

(Illustration from "History of Chicago," by A. T. Andreas.)

ELEGANT AND COSTLY was the Sherman house, opened to the public July 8, 1861. Situated at Randolph and Clark, and six stories high, the building was of Athens marble. A total of nearly half a million dollars was represented in the enterprise.

(Illustration from "History of Chicago," by A. T. Andreas.)

EIGHT STORIES HIGH, the Palmer house, at the northwest corner of State and Quincy streets, had handsome stone fronts and 225 rooms. It was completed in 1870 at a cost of about $300,000, only to be destroyed by the fire a year later.

(Illustration from "History of Chicago," by A. T. Andreas.)

McVICKER'S, at the left, opened in 1857, was described as the most substantial, convenient, safe, and costly theater in the west. It had a seating capacity of 2,500, and its completion was hailed as epoch making. Jas. H. McVicker spent $85,000 to build it.

A CITY IN SORROW—Following the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln in 1865, the body was brought to Chicago on its way to Springfield for burial. This funeral arch, erected on the lake front, carried such inscriptions as "Faithful to Right, a Martyr to Justice," and "We Honor Him Dead Who Honored Us While Living."

FIRST TO ENTER VICKSBURG, and later in command of the army of the Tennessee, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan returned to Illinois after the war and took up a career in politics. He served in the United States senate and in 1884 was the Republican nominee for Vice President.

THE LONG STRUGGLE to establish Chicago as an important port for lake shipping was already on at the time of the Civil war. And sixty-five years ago water commerce was beginning to thrive. The view down the river was taken from the Clark street bridge.

HERO of "the ride to Winchester," Maj. Gen. Philip H. Sheridan was one of Chicago's most picturesque citizens after his spectacular career in the Civil war.

NANCY WELFORD is the name of this fair lady, and she plays the leading role in "Gold Diggers of Broadway." This is an all-singing color production adapted from the Belasco stage piece.

PAULINE FREDERICK has not retired from the screen, as you may have thought because of her long absence. No, she's been working hard on two all-talkers that will be seen in the near future. They are titled "Evidence," and "The Sacred Flame."

ANN PENNINGTON will look like this when you see her as Ted Lewis' leading lady in "Is Everybody Happy?" This little dancing lady doesn't change a bit, does she?

BEAUTY LIES IN A SMOOTHLY ROUNDED THROAT

AND this beauty is yours, indefinitely, unless you neglect it. Do not allow tiny criss-cross lines to form on your throat and give it that ageing, crêpy texture. Give your throat the same meticulous care you give your face. Intelligent day-by-day care of your skin will keep it beautifully young.

Dorothy Gray evolved remarkably successful treatments and preparations for preventing crêpy throat, and for correcting it.

The same preparations which are used in the Dorothy Gray Salons will be found at leading shops in Chicago. Give yourself a Dorothy Gray treatment in your own home.

Ask for the booklet, "Your Dowry of Beauty," which very clearly explains the Dorothy Gray methods.

"I guess this man's car can go faster!"

And Aunt Luce, eighty in years but eighteen in ideas, got into the big limousine whose driver had offered her a lift towards New York! Aunt Luce is "leading lady" in a story that will make you laugh—"Hitch-Hike," by Ellis Parker Butler. Read it in the woman's section of today's Tribune.

BACK TO HIS ANCESTRAL HOME went Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to receive the homage and the honorary citizenship of Sudbury, England. In the group in front of the town hall were General and Mrs. Dawes and Mayor and Mrs. E. P. Fitzgerald of Sudbury. Photographed with them were the city's gifts, a handsome coffer and a silk cushion.

BENEATH THE FLAGS of the United States and Great Britain, Ambassador Dawes addressed the citizens of Sudbury from in front of the Thomas Gainsborough statue. His forefathers lived there in the fifteenth century—long before William Dawes rode with Paul Revere to warn the colonials of the coming of the English.

Only an Old Brew Fosters Sleep

It must be aged and pure and sterile

Here is good news for the countless people who miss old-time beer. Some are using other drinks. Some are using brews so green or impure that they ferment and cause wakefulness.

There is a malt-and-hop brew better than the best of old. Made by the same master brewers in ways that made them famous. Made with prime barley malt and Bohemian hops. Made with the same treated water, to match European brews.

Gradually cooled, then filtered through white wool pulp. Aged for months, as in old days. Pasteurized in the bottle.

Here is the same mellow flavor, the same sparkle, foam and zest. The same aids to digestion and sleep. At the end of the process we evaporate most of the alcohol, but you don't miss that. It was always a small factor in beer.

Like Old Days Back

The name of this prize product is Atlas Special Brew. If anyone told you it was pre-war Atlas, you could not discover the difference. So utterly pure that a famous laboratory certifies every bottle.

Then what folly it is to turn to "near-beers", without age or flavor. Or to wretched home brews. Or to mourn a beverage which brought you so many delights and helps. There was never a malt-and-hop brew better than this Atlas Special Brew. And it is always at your call.

Why Beer Soothed

Beer contained esters and aldehydes, aids to digestion. Most sleeplessness is caused by disturbance in the digestive tract.

Beer was a tonic, largely because of the malt. Beer was quieting, largely because of the hops. Beer was delightful, because of its sparkle, foam and flavor.

All those factors remain at their best in Atlas Special Brew. Forget the alcohol. That was not the basis of your love for beer.

Atlas Special Brew is supplied by over 15,000 grocers, delicatessen stores and drug stores in Chicago and surrounding states. It is also served in most restaurants, hotels and clubs. It costs only 15c a bottle, much less by the case of 24 bottles, whether delivered direct to your door or from your neighborhood store. Be careful of the brand—Atlas Special Brew. If you should have any trouble getting it, write or telephone us for the name of your nearest dealer. Atlas Brewing Company, 2107 Blue Island Avenue, Chicago, Ill. A Bed Ensemble —the newest, smartest GIFT!

HERE IS A beautiful and yet most practical solution to the gift problem!

A truly charming and useful Boudoir Box containing a full length UTICA "Tintedge" or "Tintall" hemstitched sheet, two hemstitched pillow cases to match or two sheets and two cases (for twin beds).

The Boudoir Box is gayly colored and strongly made. In the top compartment nestle the two pillow cases. In the drawer appears the sheet. The box is of the sort that you would pay more than a dollar for, if purchased alone. It is usable for jewelry, gloves, hosiery, handkerchiefs, etc.

The sheet and pillow cases are the well known UTICA Brand. "Tintedge"—snowy-white with colored hems or "Tintall"—solid colors. They are very carefully woven of selected cotton and finished to preserve their softness, whiteness and strength through literally hundreds of launderings. Torn, not cut, so as to iron easily and evenly. Noted everywhere for their long life—and actually look better after initial use.

Seven pastel shades to choose from—Green, Lavender, Maize, Blue, Pink, Peach, Rose. Color guaranteed fast to light and laundering.

A treasure box indeed! Fascinating as a gift should be . . . and as useful as the most practical mind could want . . . even in the matter of cost!

See this Newest of the New. You will respond to its appeal instantly.

Mohawk Brand

A sheet of quality similar to "UTICA" but lighter in weight and therefore lower priced. Offered in "Tintedge" and "Tintall", seven shades, in attractive boxed sets, also in white.

Utica Percale

The height of luxury combined with long wear. Long staple cotton, fully combed, very closely woven into an exquisitely soft, even, white fabric that is a delight to the lover of superfine textiles. Beautifully boxed.

New Evening Mode Is Altogether Ladylike

The Graceful Lines and Soft Rich, Fabrics of the New Fashion Proclaim the Eternal Feminine.

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—It won't suffice for the smart girl this winter to say "Her mother was a lady." Girls must look like ladies themselves if they would be chic, for evening particularly. Paris has been hovering perilously on the verge of returning fashions to ladyhood, and this fall she has gone and went and done it. Little chiffon frocks that begin far, far down below the shoulders and end their mad career on and above the knees are fini, out, done. They are as demodé as starched petticoats. And the slinky, vampirish thing in dress is quite in the same plight. The old fashioned girl who looked girlish, and the old time lady who looked womanly are back in the inner circle of the grand chic. Not that we are going to wear the clothes they wore. Heaven forbid! We will look just as refined and mysterious and alluring, but in the 1929-'30 model of ladylike styles.

There is a rich and elegant flavor to evening fashions from Paris. It permeates them, so that even the simplest clothes have an air of having stepped out of a limousine's latest descendant. And, at the same time, if you can believe it, these styles aren't the least bit pretentious. They play the lady through and through.

There is a great deal more to the smart skirt that swishes around after dark this winter. It is half way to the ankles or longer even for dancing, and for the grand formal evening it trails upon the polished floor or whatever happens to be under foot. The skirt begins its career high on the silhouette, at the normal line in most cases, although this line is tempered to the figure of the lady who cannot afford to indulge in an in-curve at such a high point.

Some of the smartest evening dresses just glide over the waist line without taking any notice of it whatever, and they are designed for the woman a bit heavy in the upper regions. Other frocks hold the high waist line at normal with fitted belts, sashes, or seams, and are just enchanting for the sweet, slim young thing. All this restricts the bodice to a very limited territory, but it does the ladylike thoroughly, eliminating those exposures that last winter brought the décolletage down to the waist line in back. It is no uncommon thing to see sleeves in the winter evening gown, a high back to the bodice, and a scarf that drapes the neck and, incidentally, adds to the beauty of most women who wear it.

The long line of chic that is allotted to the dress has its effect on the smart evening wrap. Some of the Paris couturiers dip their evening coats to trailing points in the back so they may go with the skirt all the way. Jean Patou does this. Others limit the length of the evening wrap so that it terminates its span of line anywhere from the hip line to the knees, while the skirt goes down and down in filmy beauty. This is most successful, because the silhouette thus interpreted is becoming to all and smart on any woman.

There are two favorite materials for the evening coat. They are velvet and lamé. Velvet is anything from velveteen which is very, very chic, to panné, which is an old favorite returned to fashion's fold. Now that the fabric makers have found a way to treat the metal lamé so that the tarnish does not corrupt it, nor the wrinkles break up its smooth beauty, this, too, is a prime material for the coat. Velvet appears in rich colors, and lamé is brilliant with gold or silver and vari-toned motifs.

Thus the coat heralds the extreme elegance of evening fashions and the dress beneath bears out the good news. Lamé is one of the smartest materials for the evening dress—a new chiffon lamé as thin as a veil. Velvet, and particularly panné, makes many fashionable evening gowns. Satin, both crêpe and the stiff satin of last season, is a leading dress material, as are also the stiff brocades and metal moirés and taffetas. Lace is seen about in chic places, and there are quantities of net and marquisette and some chiffon.

Certain colors are the colors of Paris fashions, but every color is worn. Particularly good is black. White and its sister ivory are used by such great houses as Vionnet, Lelong, and Chanel. Much maidenly blush pink is seen after dark, and all of the lighter tones of blue, green, and yellow are favored evening colors. Violet is coming in and will bear watching, while red still colors the chic evening all around Paris. The gold and silver sheen of lamé plays over the whole style scene.

The first two figures shown in our sketch illustrate one of the lady evening ensembles Paris has devised for the fashionable woman this winter. This model from Germaine Lecomte has a frock of silver and colored lamé, cut with slender princess lines to below the hip line, where two flaring circular ruffles break the line at the point most approved by Paris fashion makers. The skirt, which is full below these ruffles, trails in back. The coat shown on our first figure is the wrap that makes this one of the most ravishing ensembles seen in Paris this season. This coat is made of dark mulberry colored velvet, and is slightly molded under the arms to suggest the princess silhouette. It is the popular knee length and ends with two fox skins, the heads being used to ornament the back. There is a large fox collar of the same black fox, and the unusual sleeves have bands of fox to the elbows in front, while the back is shirred vertically and puffed.

Our third model is a duplex evening model from Louise Selby, one of the clever young couturiers of Paris. There is a long semi-fitted coat of black velvet, buttoned straight down the front and with a jabot of white lace and small standing collar. This coat is removed to show an exquisite evening frock of white lace, the lower skirt of which you could see all the time below the charmingly severe velvet coat. The individual character of this model is the quality that Paris seeks in all her evening clothes this winter.

The fourth figure of our sketch is an evening ensemble from Nicole Groult which is made of black lace and designed to wear under a velvet evening cloak. The rather long jacket of lace ties around a high neck with velvet ribbon, and at the lower right side Groult places a long spray of wisteria—a new and chic location for the artificial flower that blooms after dark. The black lace frock has long sleeves of lace and chiffon, and is quite décolleté in back.

The waist line is placed high and emphasized by a velvet girdle, and the skirt is fitted almost to the knees, then flared below. It reaches almost to the ankles in front and trails to the floor in a full panel at the back. The refinement of this model is characteristic of Paris evening fashions at their best.

The smartest type of evening wrap for winter is sketched at the extreme left. Germaine Lecomte makes it of mulberry velvet and trims it with black fox.

This frock is worn under the coat at the left. It is made of silver lame and trails in back.

Louise Selby's duplex evening model, shown next, has an outer fitted garment of black velvet that unbuttons to reveal a princesse frock of white lace.

Nicole Groult designed this unusual dress of black lace and its accompanying sleeveless lace jacket, pictured at the extreme right. A new location for the artificial flower is shown by the wisteria that Groult places at the right side of the jacket hem.

Paris Snapshots.
By Bettina Bedwell.

Evening slippers match the evening frock this winter, or they come in bright colors banded with the stuff of your frock.

Lanvin makes little bonnets of pearl embroidery that are cunning caps to wear with the evening gown.

Paris insists on the gloved hand after dark, and Maggy Rouff's ten button pink suede gloves or Worth's coral red gloves that reach the elbows are the favorites.

Nicole Groult has made the dahlia in outsizes and fashioned out of chiffon the smart evening flower.

If you can get a brocade bag made out of a piece of Marie Antoinette's favorite dress, you have the smartest evening carry-all for powder and what not, but something from Martha Washington or even out of a store would do.

Baby Carriages Have a Fascinating History

By Edith Weigle.

THE baby of 1929, nonchalantly surveying this slightly cockeyed world from the luxurious and springy depths of the latest model perambulator doesn't know how lucky he is. He and his parents, too, take the baby carriage for granted.

It was not with such ease that Egyptian youngsters sallied forth. They were taken out in shawls worn in front, in back or at the side by their mothers or nurses. Italian children were carried aloft in flat baskets on the heads of obliging mothers, and Swiss parents did the same for their babies, placing them in wooden cradles, which must have been frightfully heavy to lug along on the cranium. The Baskirs, a Tartar-Finnish people of Russia, invented a strange vehicle, the shaft of which was made from the forked limb of a tree. Tree bark, sewed together, formed the body of the carriage, which was attached to the shaft with thongs.

But that was all centuries ago. In the middle of the 19th century an Englishman named Charles Burton made what is said to be the first modern baby carriage and in it he proudly placed his child, displaying baby and carriage, with equal pleasure along the esplanade of the Battery in New York. The carriage attracted so much attention and favorable comment that he decided to make more, so he returned to England and was soon the head of the first baby carriage concern in that country.

Queen Victoria ordered three perambulators of him and Isabella II., Queen of Spain, and the Pasha of Egypt were also his customers.

Burton had patented his invention, but this patent did not prevent the production of three-wheeled baby carriages of various kinds, and soon many rival makes sprang up and cheap imitations flooded the market. As is so often the case, the man who originated the thing did not profit by it for long. He died in poverty, and only due to the generosity of Baroness de Rothschild and others were his widow and children cared for.

Burton's baby carriage was the first to attract public attention in the United States, but patent records show that A. Clifford of West Point, Mass., applied for a patent for a perambulator in October, 1829. However, even the town has disappeared today, let alone the patent.

The industry in this country gained a firm foothold shortly prior to the civil war, hand labor being employed exclusively in production. Today many factories exist, turning out carriages by the thousand by machine and hand labor.

Carriages like the modern ones pictured were seen at the American Furniture Mart.

Accompanying this article are pictures of baby carriages in various stages of evolution. The one at the lower left was an early type made in Germany and now used here for exhibition purposes. The other one, much like it in general character, was made about 1860 and was bought at auction eight years ago when an estate of one of the oldest inhabitants of Westboro, Mass., was sold.

The airy, fairy vehicles with the parasol tops flourished twenty-five years ago and the perambulator is a 1930 model, boasting four wheel brakes and balloon tires, while the wicker carriage is equally modern.

Every one interested in furniture may see the newest things in the first annual furniture show now being held at the Chicago Stadium. It will continue until October 28 and contains hundreds of groups, appealing to every person and purse under the sun. No sales are made at the show, the idea being merely to gather under one roof many examples of present day styles.

Beauty's Greatest Destroyer

by Antoinette Donnelly

With So Many Women Dieting the Subject of Constipation Ought to Be Considered

LET'S dwell today on what may be righteously described as youth and beauty's greatest destroyer. Yes, even greater than time and the troubles an average life holds is this vicious destroyer of youth and beauty.

It's not one of the pleasantest subjects in the world to discuss—but why be delicate when there is so much at stake? We refer, of course, to the evils of constipation.

There is a very special reason why we bring the subject up again today. Women—half of them, maybe three-quarters of them—are pursuing with vim and diet their lost figures. There is no other topic so widely discussed at the moment, and we doubt if there is another pursuit so assiduously practiced by our sex [and some of the other] as reducing. Of course, in this reducing game, women have come to believe that by diet alone is the figure preserved or recovered, as the case may need. Some have a consciousness that exercise ought to be included along with the reduced fares. But most better silhouette chasers belong to the diet cult solely.

Nor are we attacking diet when it is practiced wisely and in moderation. We're for it.

Causes of Colonic Lethargy.

And the very ailment we are concerned with today is often benefited through a complete change of foods in a reducing régime.

There is no news in the fact that people are fat, nine times out of ten, because of an abuse of starches and sugars and a disuse of vegetables, fruits, salads and high residue foods. The moment a woman makes up her mind to reduce she says: "Out with bread, potatoes, macaroni and sweets and the other articles of high starch and sugar content."

But there may be news to a great many people in the fact that fat people are what one eminent physician calls "constipated bipeds." The abuse of starches and sugars and disuse of the high residue foods already referred to produce colonic lethargy.

Dr. Clarence M. Lieb, author of "Eat, Drink and Be Slender" [John Day], emphasizes this connection between constipation and obesity.

"The longer food remains in the colon, the more nutriment and fluid are absorbed, both influencing the scales unfavorably. Constipation may exist though the obese subject eats plenty of high residue or fodder foods. There is no enzyme in the human subject which digests cellulose, but it has been shown that bacteria in the colon have the ability of converting the cellulose into sugar—a fact rarely considered even by experts in nutrition."

A Cure for Constipation.

Dr. Lieb, too, offers as a cure for constipation of the obese high residue food, "fodder vegetables," such as cabbage, spinach, lettuce, Brussels sprouts, broccoli and greens of all kinds. Such foods are incorporated into good reducing diets. They have low nutritive value while they have mineral salts and vitamines. And they leave a large amount of undigested material in the colon to stimulate peristalsis.

Some of the reducing mixtures on the market contain substances which act on the bowels. But the taking of purgatives and cathartics is not recommended in weight reduction as they hurry the food through the intestines before complete absorption of the nutritive material takes place, and this produces peristaltic fatigue among other disadvantages, according to Dr. Lieb.

Another thing that is observed in nine out of ten cases of obesity is the "auto-intoxicated" condition present. The high sounding term does not stand up so elegantly under analysis, as it boils down to intestinal disorder. People so afflicted suffer a common bodily lethargy which precludes exercise. This, with the intestinal disorder, adds to the corpulency.

A Housecleaning Effect.

Not long ago in this department a three to four day liquid diet was recommended as a means of losing anywhere from four to six pounds. The great benefit from that diet was the general housecleaning effect it had internally. In the testimonials received, the disappearance of that lethargic condition referred to above was stressed enthusiastically. And in many instances, this clearing up internally was given its proper credit for eye and complexion brightening along with the other advantages.

It's trite and repetitious to call attention to the greater brilliance of eye, skin and hair with the internal cleanliness that follow constipation cure or relief. But it is one of those good old fashioned beauty formulae for which no better substitute has ever been perfected. An axiom that stands on its own long and distinguished record is that good blood tells every time. And good blood flows only through clean, well regulated channels.

But to get back to the corpulence angle:

A Warning on Irrigations.

If you are overweight, consider this phase of corrective work along with your diets. And don't believe what any one tells you about drinking water being harmful. On the contrary, it is one of the things the fat inclined needs for just the cleansing work we are talking about today. Drinking water and your diet, though it be well regulated with a goodly percentage of the high residue foods, may not be enough if constipation is long established.

And just a word of warning here about irrigations, a fad that has sprung up and is practised often by poorly trained technicians, with the reducing hegiras of our age. Some women, in fact, put their reducing faith entirely into the hands of such practitioners and their irrigation "pariors." Colonic disorders belong in the realm of medical supervision. Where there is no serious disorder, and though an occasional irrigation may be given by a nurse or trained technician, may be of temporary benefit, the frequent irrigation habit as practised by a number of women, is not advisable. Especially harmful may it prove to that growing class of women who foolishly believe they can eat their fattening foods at fulsome meals so long as they keep their appointments at their favorite irrigation parlor.

Regular Habits Help.

To reëstablish normal habits of evacuation is the object to strive for, both for the immediate good of one's general health and for present and possible future battles with adipose. The measures which tend to reëstablish colonic efficiency are, first and foremost—regularity of habit, and the temporary use of such non-habit forming preparations as mineral oils, agar-agar or mixtures of these two. Psyllium seed, an old standby Central Europe remedy for constipation, mixed with water is another non-habit forming measure recommended. Its action is purely mechanical. Bran, too, in muffins, biscuits, or added to cereal foods increases the food residue and serves a worthy purpose. With the taking of bran, medical authorities advise sufficient water drinking along with it to prevent impaction of bran in the colon.

The old-fashioned enema, with a level teaspoonful of salt to a quart of water, in conjunction with an obesity cure meets with Dr. Lieb's approval, though a course of self-given enemas he advises be taken only under the advice of a physician.

Fear Takes the Joy Out of Life

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Sex Education Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AS you look around you at people, don't you sometimes wonder what it is that figures most in keeping people from enjoying life?

You go over some of the possible handicaps. There's illness. But some people who aren't well get a lot of joy out of life.

Then there's lack of money. But you can have a great deal of fun and real happiness with very little of the world's goods.

And then you come to fear—fear of poverty, fear of old age, fear of the future, fear of disease, fear of failure, fear of losing a job, fear of what people may think, fear of physical accidents, fear of taking a chance in life, fear for your children's future—O, there's many a fear hanging on its possessor's neck like the Old Man of the Sea.

It is one of the most cramping emotions in the world—fear. It prevents freedom and joyousness and daring and development. It takes the edge off living, and it certainly ties your spirit down good and hard to earth. It is so paralyzing, so insidiously destructive.

Then, for contrast, there is probably not one of us who in a city street has not stood still and gazed up at the tiny distant figure of a workman on a threadlike steel beam, outlined against a blue sky. Nor one of us who has not watched, fascinated, a riveter catch his flying red hot bolts. But let the steelworker become fearfully conscious of the dizzy depths below him, and he is literally unfit to walk those narrow spans. He has to quit his job. Let the riveter dread the receiving of each tossed searing rivet, and his hand would lose its steadiness and carefree accuracy.

Knowing what a hampering, even disintegrating thing fear can be, let us try to rear our children without it, as far as lies within our power. At least let us, if we have fears ourselves, try not to let them percolate through to our children.

Some schools of psychology say that babies are born with only two fears—the fear of lack of support and the fear of a sudden loud noise—and that every other fear is acquired after birth. They consider their experiments conclusive. There are others who contend that babies carry with them racial fears.

In any case we can observe the existing fact—which is that practically every baby soon after it is born gives evidence of some sort of fear. It becomes our business then to prevent that, first, by not creating a fear in them ourselves, and, second, by seeing that no one who is apt to do so takes care of our babies and children.

The other day I heard a little girl of about 9 trying to quiet another one of about 4 who was crying on the street. Just as they were passing an old vacant store, with boarded up doors and windows, I saw her lean over and say in a coarse whisper: "Look! See there—there's a dead man in there! If you don't keep quiet he'll get you." Can't you imagine the horrors of the smaller little girl ever after at the thought of that store, or death, or perhaps a dark house? This may be an especially gruesome example, but more of this goes on than most people realize.

Fears of all sorts can be started by some one, you intrust your child to, either as a convenient means for discipline or because, having certain fears themselves, they pass them on by association and example.

The third thing to do, once a fear gets established, is to try to dissipate it. Fear of the dark, fear of dogs, fear of a certain closet, fear of strangers, fear of animals, fear of policemen—all can be dispelled if you go about it in the right way.

The average child seems to be naturally venturesome. For example, when he's learning to walk, no bumps, no knocks or bangs will keep him from persisting in his efforts. But you can spoil their fearlessness by being fearful and overcautions for them. Of course, you have to draw a line where the risk of serious injury is so great that if they get hurt a big fear might be engendered. You must be on the alert for that. But where a venture is moderately daring, it often takes a lot of self-control for a father and mother to sit tight and let it go forward. Even when you do have to check them, you can get your results without the "I'm afraid you'll get hurt" idea.

Every one will work this sort of thing out differently, using different devices or methods at different ages. But one good way is to make children who are old enough to understand exercise caution on the score of efficiency, or intelligence, or common sense. As, for example, that it isn't sensible to lift things that are too heavy just to show how strong you are, or that pointing a gun at a person is a stupid thing to do—and not getting out of the way when some one else points a gun at you is stupid, too.

In many situations you can point out that a good workman or scientist or athlete or sportsman or explorer handles himself and his companions for safety, because that is the intelligent thing to do. To invite disaster is not being brave—it is being foolish. In aviation, for example, the airmen we admire the most are not those who are having accidents. Instead it's the ones who don't have them because they use their heads that we admire. And it is those who are doing the most for flying.

Fear takes a mental, physical, and emotional toll of the body. Create, if you can, a home atmosphere as free from it as possible. And, that established, try besides to free your child from any fears that he collects outside.

KONJOLA

There is a reason why Konjola is becoming a household word in every city, town and hamlet where this new and different medicine is known.

No wonder, for Konjola has made a record matchless in the annals of medicines.

Here is relief for the ills of the stomach, liver and bowels; from rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness.

After all, results . . . not words . . . are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results.

If they could reach you, tens of thousands of men and women would urge you to put your faith in Konjola.

Konjola is sold by all responsible druggists everywhere in Chicago and Vicinity.

"Greater Freedom" Is Illusive

Woman Who Seeks Career Ought to Ask Self How Much Talent She Put Into Art of Wifehood.

by Doris Blake

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

THE other day we got another of those surprise bits of gossip about—Mrs. Amiel, we'll call her—joining the army of home deserters for the great wide world of careers. Not at all the type that you would suspect of nursing a yen for the "greater freedom" of the woman untrammeled by mate or children, or both. That's where the surprise came in, of course. There are women with tremendous restless energy, or with a consuming talent which may seem to call for expression outside of home, at whose career departure one is not surprised. But here's an instance where the woman and her home background seem to establish a nice, agreeable unity.

Of course, she is not going to be unpleasant about Jack. He always was a perfect dear, even though the atmosphere he provided was stifling to a woman predestined for larger achievements than those bounded by the average comfortably-off home. A nice, quiet little separation can be arranged later, or a divorce if the new freedom seems to warrant it. Anyway, to try her wings in the great wide open space away from home is the immediate ambition.

Just a Little Incongruous.

Now, if the woman possessed a startling talent, we'd say well and good, go ahead and self-express, but why break bonds with the better half? It isn't necessary any more. It's quite respectable, in fact, to carry on a career and a home at the same time. It's being done cleverly, capably by clever, capable women.

But our friend is going to express herself in an office job and a job that a competent young woman in her early twenties could do quite as efficiently; which, to those plugging away at office jobs and wishing some man would come along and make them a nice home managing offer, must seem incongruous, to put it mildly. Maybe the woman nurses the idea that she has the making of a great executive and all she needs is the business atmosphere. You never can tell what goes on in the heads of those quiet home bodies who suddenly serve notice on their husband-employers.

The Propaganda of "Freedom."

More likely, however, may we see in this front door slamming episode the vicious propaganda of "freedom." Of all the myths that attend the pursuit of happiness there is no more ridiculous one than that to be found in the pay envelope of the average career enthusiast. When you get right down to the discontent that starts wives to thinking their jobs are inconsequential and their horizons limited you invariably find that the pay envelope of the unincumbered woman acquaintance is the irritant.

If they had her money, what they couldn't do with their lives! They could buy better clothes. They could attend the theater more often. They could travel. They could entertain downtown. They could be marcelled, massaged, and manicured as often as they wished. And, of course, they could come and go as they please. And, of course, they're all quite sure that the bank roll prince is outside there somewhere. Only the four walls of the home separates them from him.

And, like the proverbial green hills, the foliage is something else again when met.

There's no denying that the outside world has opportunities for women. There's no gainsaying the fact that a number of women have made and are making big money out there. But almost to a woman of them their accomplishments are the result of some driving force of necessity, dependents usually, or, as we have said, of an outstanding talent.

Theme for a Great Novel.

The woman, on the other hand, without marked ability or without the responsibility of dependents to drive her on to success, becomes simply another cog, aimless, drifting and unimportant. But chiefly her failure lies in the narrowing, cramping atmosphere of self-pursuit. The duties of a harassed overworked wife and mother are not half so cramping to soul expansion as chasing the rainbow with self as the beginning, the middle and the end of it.

Some day some one will do the great American novel on this theme of the green hills far away on the business slopes. And the so-called freedom will be shown up for the mirage it is. And women, we hope, will absorb the obvious conclusion that out there in the world there is very little more of the vaunted freedom among respectable women than is permitted the self-respecting home body. The code of conduct is identical among self-respecting individuals. And the money problem may be equally acute. The very lack of security that a home and the average good American husband provides makes the so-called free woman spend more on herself. The older she gets in her career the more she is called upon to spend on dress and the other things that help keep up the simulation of youth.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day; also ease salts (acid), says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which often paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it into the blood. The blood becomes sluggish and poisons; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

FRIEND IN NEED

You Can Lessen the Dread of Cold Winter Days for Children Who Haven't Any Warm Clothes.

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which is not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it. Write to me and I should be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

By Sally Joy Brown.

EVERY one, I expect, has been enjoying and appreciating our splendid Indian summer weather of the last week, knowing how little more we'll have of it this year. But I wonder how many think what misery it's been for hundreds of families in Chicago that are wondering desperately how they'll get warm clothing for the winter.

Take a moment to think of the need in this family:

"Dear Miss Brown: I have taken three orphaned children and they are badly in need of winter clothes. The older boy, age 12, needs a heavy mackinaw jack. The girl, age 10, needs a winter coat, and the youngest boy, age 7, a winter overcoat and a suit of clothes. Would you be able to help me get these little ones together?

"MRS. W. B."

Haven't you some outgrown garments that would help Mrs. W. B. carry through with her generous undertaking? Shouldn't every one be only too willing to help when a family of limited means undertakes to care for three orphans.

And here is a request from a widow in behalf of her son.

"Dear Miss Brown: I wonder if any of your readers has a suit of clothes, size 34, and an overcoat, size 40, they no longer want. My son is a cripple and has just come out of the county hospital, where he has been for twelve weeks. He is sadly in need of clothes, and as I am a widow and only do housework to support us until such time as my son is able to get some kind of light work I am unable to supply him. MRS. D. W."

Think of that—a widow barely able to make ends meet when all goes well, and burdened now with caring for a crippled son just out of the hospital! These are just two of hundreds of cases where warm clothing is needed. Any outgrown garments you may have for grownups—for children—outer garments, shoes, underclothing—we can place where it will bring comfort and happiness and lessen dread of the cold months that are coming. Won't you write today, letting me know what you can give?

Roller Skates for a Fan.

"Can you obtain for me through your column a pair of women's roller skates? I am anxious to have them, but cannot afford to buy them. I wear size 5. A. C."

If roller skating is one of your favorite pastimes and you have more than one pair of skates, perhaps you can fulfill the request this young woman makes. I know she'd be happy to receive any you are discarding.

Requests Typewriter.

"Several years ago my husband deserted me, leaving me with three small children, and since that time I have worked and struggled to support them. Although I had taken a business course, when I came to Chicago it was necessary for me to take a job in a factory because I could find nothing else. Now I would like to get back to stenographic work, but it has been so long since I operated a typewriter I have lost all my speed. Do you know of some one who has an old typewriter to give me, so that I can practice in my spare time?

"Z. P."

The astounding courage and energy of this mother, whose life since the desertion of her husband has been one long struggle, should be rewarded. With a typewriter, she'd be better equipped to find for herself a place in business, where she would be happier and her chances for obtaining a more remunerative position would be greatly improved.

Blankets and Stove Needed.

"I have just come out of the hospital where I was operated upon for cancer. As I have not been able to work for a long time and will not be able to do anything for some time, I am not able to buy some of the things I need. If one of your readers has a rug, blankets and heating stove, I would appreciate them so much. We feel the cold these days. I am a widow and my only daughter is ill, too. MRS. H. N."

This unfortunate family has had more than its share of life's ills and little or nothing to combat them. With the coming of cold weather, even greater discomfort will be theirs unless we can supply these few needs. Have you one or more of them to give?

A Loss

By Eleanor Jewett.

I lost something, little and round;
It's very important, can you guess?
You use it on coats and leggins and shirts,
On go-to-school frocks and party dress.

I suppose probably it's the most
'Portant something on all this earth—
And yet you can buy it four for a cent,
And hundreds come in a dollar's worth—

Can you guess what it is? It's round and smooth,
With holes in the middle to catch the thread;
Nurse sews them on by the dozens and dozens
When I am a sleep in my go-to-nap bed.

I've lost—a button. There, now you know!
I didn't believe you could ever guess—
And if somebody doesn't quick sew on another
I'll pretty near almost lose my dress.

BEAUTY ANSWERS by Alice Thompson

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Sky on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, pallor, pimples, or blackheads? Flat-chested or flat-footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

E. O'G.: FACE STEAMING IS beneficial at times, but it should not be indulged in too freely for a long period at a time. For blackheads rub a cleansing cream into the skin, then wring out a towel in hot water and hold it over the face. Repeat with several towels. As the pores open the cream works its way in, softens the hardened matter which forms the blackhead and cleanses each pore. After the steaming, apply cold water.

E. M.: THE CAUSE OF MOLES IS unknown. There is no ointment you may use which will remove them, nor would you attempt to treat a mole. The ordinary mole which is light brown and elevated and about the size of a pea can be removed successfully by the electric needle if the work is done by one skilled in that line of work.

F. D. M.: HERPES IS MORE COMmonly known as cold sore. If you are subject to cold sores there may be digestive disturbances causing them. Camphor ice may be applied. Soften the lips with cold cream several times during the day.

MARIE: LOCAL MEASURES FOR an oily scalp are to shampoo the hair at least once a week and rub the following tonic into the scalp every night: Resorcin, 40 grains; water, 1½ ounces; alcohol, 1½ ounces; witch hazel, 1½ ounces. The witch hazel and alcohol have a drying effect.

MISS D.: SITTING ALL DAY cannot possibly enlarge the ankles. Massage, combined with exercises, is excellent for reducing over stout ankles. I have the exercises, so send me a stamped, addressed envelope for them.

MISS H.: THE DEEP LINES under your eyes are caused by lack of sleep. Six hours are not enough for you. You should have eight hours of sleep every night, and in a well ventilated room. Try to spend some time each day in the open air.

L. S.: THE CORRECT WAY TO walk is to point the toes straight ahead. You walk more gracefully and minimize the size of the feet.

O. F.: HEADACHES SUCH AS you complain of are often due to improper diet and lack of exercise rather than to too close application to your work. You should arrange to get some exercise during your lunch hour. A three or four mile walk a day would be excellent for you.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Forty-Seven Stylists and Buyers Bring The New Fashions to WIEBOLDT'S

Fashions at Wieboldt's are chosen by a staff of forty-seven stylists and buyers who are in constant touch with the style centers of the world. The combined efforts of these experts are concentrated in assembling garments that are correct in line, superior in quality and exceptional in value.

Imagine going to Europe and buying a new gown for only a few cents more than it would cost you if you were a resident of Paris! When our buyers go to Europe they buy such large assortments of merchandise from so many sources that the actual cost of the trip is pro-rated at less than ten cents per item. Naturally, our patrons benefit by this advantage and are enabled to obtain the newest of the new modes at a moderate cost.

Select Your New Coat First

Your winter coat is the mainstay of your wardrobe. Your frock, your hat, your shoes—all must harmonize or afford a pleasing contrast with the coat. Wieboldt's assortments are unusually comprehensive with smart coats of every type attractively priced.

Long-Haired Furs Trim Many Smart New Coats

Long-haired furs are wonderfully flattering and exceedingly chic. The coat at the left is developed in fine broadcloth and trimmed with a large collar and deep cuffs of American opossum. In green, brown, black and navy. Sizes 36 to 42. A noteworthy value.

Winter Fashions Accent Black

In Broadcloth and Fur Wraps and in Frocks of Satin It Is Reckoned the Smartest Color

By Lolita.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—She was coming down Park avenue, the other day. She wore one of the new black felt turbans that shows a crescent of forehead and long flaps at the sides. Her coat of black broadcloth was straight line, but the old time severity was offset by a draped collar of black Persian lamb. Her opera pumps were of black suede and her handbag of black antelope.

Who was she? The question is almost irrevelant. She was more than a woman. She was the very spirit of a mode. She was one of the thousands of well dressed New Yorkers of 30 and over who have decided that black is the smartest of all daytime tones.

Well, well, we have been what might be called ink-oculated this many a day. But now we have really taken an ink stand. Those who are not wearing sports or evening clothes are apt to come out in Hamlet's favorite wear. Although this committing of our daytime wardrobes to black is sometimes shared by the younger woman, the fanaticism is most apparent among women of 30 or over.

In this story of autumn fashion—we might almost denominate the story "Black Beauty"—furs are taking an active part. Suppose that you want a formal fur coat of the type which will take you to the fashionable tea, the matinee, the club meeting, to any one of a number of formal afternoons. Then unquestionably the coat of black fur suggests itself immediately. For those who can afford that lovely pliable pelt, breitschwanz is the first choice, but both Persian lamb and black caracul form excellent substitutes and these are, of course, less discouraging to the average purse.

Here, as in every other province of the separate coat, the modernity of the model is apt to be in the hands of the collar. The fashionable black fur coat of this season often has a capelet, or if not so explicit in its sympathy, the collar—by means of skilful, soft draping suggests a cape. Occasionally one finds the princess silhouette enunciated in such models, but this is perhaps more countenanced by Paris than by home talent.

Over here we feel that the familiar straight line may be feminized sufficiently by the addition of the draped collar and by perhaps some such detail as a deep yoke in the back. Also, is that new insistent note of femininity sounded by muffs which frequently accompany the fur coat of elaborate styling.

Hand in hand with the vogue of that separate coat of black fur, one finds the numerous ensembles finding their climax in a jacket or perhaps three-quarter coat of fur. Usually the less expensive pelts are involved in such ensembles. Galyak, for example, is a favorite in this connection und a number of the smartest afternoon ensembles top off black broadcloth skirts or frocks with three-quarter coats of this pelt in black. These coats are encouraged by the pliability of the fur to take on the look of a fabric wrap.

Persian lamb is another fur sometimes playing a stellar rôle in the ensemble and I think I have already referred to a charming afternoon creation from Worth utilizing this black pelt in connection with a black broadcloth skirt. But to go back to galyak. In this we encounter a solution to that vexing problem: How buy a black fur coat and still go on paying the rent? It is infinitely cheaper than the three other nominees we have already mentioned and, although its life may not be prolonged indefinitely, it will do well by its wearer so long as it lasts.

Now, to emerge from black furs into black fabrics. I have already dwelt upon a renewed interest in black broadcloth frocks. Here, therefore, I shall merely recapitulate by saying that, although not so universal as the coat of the same material and color, they are decidedly to be pointed out on today's blackboard of fashion. The same may be said of the black broadcloth hat.

If one is going to economize on one's winter wardrobe, there is no better suggestion for a start along such paths of virtue than is contained in the advice: Buy a black satin frock. Make it on lines not too elaborate for the restaurant luncheon and yet elaborate enough for the afternoon tea Complete it with black accessories and a black coat—either fur or fabric. If so, you have one perfect ensemble. You can get along, then, with only two other ensembles—one, the smart tweed or other woolen and the second, an evening costume.

Now to the Frenchwoman, this advice about buying a black satin frock would sound almost as electrifying as, "Buy a perambulator for your infant." The French woman usually keeps on hand one of these ultra wearable black satin frocks. We on this side, however, are often distracted by an ephemeral interest in other weaves. This season it is different, for there is an universal emphasis upon black satin, and some of the smartest daytime creations of the hour use it as a medium.

Among the many suggestions for this type of gown we have selected for our group of sketches a Lanvin model of great distinction. This frock is true to that general creed of the hem to which nearly all of our black molded bodice and irregular skirt satin gowns have pledged themselves, but it is distinguished by especial strokes of finesse. Chief of these is to be rated the vestee of white satin revealed in diamond shaped sections between bands of the black satin. These latter are drawn into buckles, which may be of metal or of rhinestones. As are all of the best bred gowns of this year, this one is perceptibly longer. In fact, that godet of self material expanding into a fan shaped hem at the very front is many inches below the knee cap.

With this frock are worn the new very long gloves. These are of suede in one of the off-white tones. The hat of black satin is caught with a rhinestone ornament. Incidentally, many of the smartest millinery consorts for these new black satin gowns are construed of matching materials. In the selection of a shape for such hats one is given almost free rein. The hat may be large, as we see it here, or it may be one of those smart fitted turbans pushed back to show our Florentine brows and with that becoming frame at the sides and back which is such a feature of the late turbans.

As I have said, this type of costume is good enough to carry most of us straight through the ordinary afternoon. However, if we wish to supplement our wardrobes by an afternoon gown of even more elaborate character, there is certainly no dearth of encouragement from Paris. Never, indeed, were the daytime models of exclusively formal interest more varied in fabric and treatment. Not in years, certainly, have they been more feminine in spirit.

An excellent example of the fact that no mode is too picturesque for today is contained in our third sketch. Here is one of the numerous elaborate frocks choosing velvet as its fabric source and black as its tonal inspiration. But how courageously does this model—one of Boulanger's — depart from the hackneyed! That long medieval bodice, those puffed sleeves, that full skirt—it might have been transcribed from some old tapestry, some figure from a medieval missal.

The full skirt, dipping at sides and back, is topped by a ruche of cartridge plaits and these same plaits are repeated above the puff of the sleeve. Below the puff a line of tiny self covered buttons add a final touch of elaboration. Yet, even in this historic mood, our gown does not forget those modern precepts about the raised waist line. This latter is suggested in groups of minute tucks taken in the corsage. Also do we find small tucks taken on top of the shoulders.

For many seasons we have been as partial to a silver basis as the late Mr. Bryan. Yes, we are speaking of fur scarfs and the intense accent upon the silver fox. This season the silver fox might serve as one of those vanquished heroes of the animal kingdom of which La Fontaine is always reminding us. The story of "The Silver Fox and the Sable"—yes, that would commemorate the defeat of the former. Silver fox is, of course, still in. We see it both as a separate scarf and as the collar of some stunning black fur coats. But it has yielded much of its former prestige. Frequently as one enters the lobby or the restaurant of a fashionable hotel one sees a woman swathed in a voluminous scarf composed of perhaps eight skins of the sable. This gives just the right play of tone to a black satin frock and a black hat, for it must be remembered that these rich brown skins are administered freely to the black costume. In the same breath one must mention the tremendous vogue this season of the marten scarf.

I met a friend of mine the other day wearing a black caracul coat. "O," remarked I, "I thought you were going to get a black broadcloth wrap." She looked crestfallen—ay, more, completely chastened. "I was," she retorted, "until I discovered how hideously expensive the really good cloth coats trimmed with fur really are. I simply couldn't afford one."

It is precisely from this situation that the furrier reaps his advantage. Nothing is more important in establishing one's reputation as a well dressed woman than the coat. It must be of the most beautiful materials and the best cut in order to justify the wearer's keeping warm.

One is, sartorially speaking, judged by coat, hat, and shoes. There are few of us who can afford to meet the test, for the really fine cloth that is so expensive and so comparatively ephemeral that the average woman feels a fur coat as representing a real economy. The latter, even though demanding more for the original outlay, usually lasts long after the former has gone to the Charity society.

For those who can afford the beautiful cloth coat the Worth model at the extreme left is significant of the modish new wrap and what makes it so. Made of that favorite material, black broadcloth, it is trimmed with black caracul. This fur borders a cape divided front and back and forms the new high standing collar.

LEFT PANEL. The pointer on the blackboard of fashion indicates a stunning Worth coat of black broadcloth trimmed with black caracul and feminizing its straight line by a fitted cape.

CENTER. A Lanvin model of black satin, relieved by a vestee of white satin and completed by a draped black satin hat, composes another version of what might be called today "The smart New Yorker's daytime uniform."

Next, an afternoon gown of black sheer velvet uses puffed sleeves, cartridge plaits and a full skirt in the interests of the new mode.

Third, a Marcel Rochas evening gown of gold, pink and green brocade utilizes for the skirt plaited, fan-shaped draperies applied at various levels. A bow of self-material finishes the deep V of the back and a jabot of self-material accents the front. A panel with shirring on either side further distinguishes the front corsage.

RIGHT. At the top a necklace interposes jet rondelles between oblong capucine beads. Below, a black antelope bag is finished by an ornament exploiting genuine crystal baguettes and onyx. The bag is mounted in silver.

Next, Jane Regny's new gloves in black and white kid may be worn with cuff either back or otherwise.

Last, one of the many evening echoes of the Greek sandal is found in overlapping sections of satin and crepe. There is a buckle of brilliants.

For the Autumn Wedding

The Reds and Golds of the Season Provide a Rich Background for the Fall Bride

It is the aim of this department to serve as a practical guide in problems of everyday etiquette. Self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Miss Helen Bartlett, Sunday Department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

By Helen Bartlett.

IF THESE be melancholy days, our mailman doesn't know it; daily he brings us breathless letters from autumn brides, who are anything but melancholy. Most of them appreciate the fact that the fall wedding can be the pageant of their dreams, but a few sigh because they won't have the orthodox "pretty" wedding of June.

For the bride, autumn is the ideal season. Socially, it is the sophisticated season; esthetically, it is the season of richest beauty. And, to be absolute matter of fact, it's not the season of shiny noses. The velvet gowned bride waiting in the vestibule of the church is assured of looking her best on her promenade up the aisle—she is not enervated by summer heat.

And, instead of the sentimental greens and pinks of spring, she can have the gorgeous reds and golds for her decorations. There is nothing lovlier than bronsed oak leaves in combination with bright orange and yellow chrysanthemums, or red roses and the bronsed leaves, or than the little bronze chrysanthemums and the big purple and yellow asters. Another beautiful combination is bittersweet and bright leaves. There are any number of exquisite decorative schemes to be evolved from autumn's offerings.

An Unusual Ensemble.

The spring bride rarely deviates from the traditional white, unless it is to be slightly daring by appearing in a soft rose or ecru gown and veil. The bride of autumn, however, can do startling things with her gown and those of her maids, so long as she keeps the ensemble artistic. One gown recently seen was of silver cloth, trimmed in silver lace, with which was worn a silver tulle veil and silver slippers. The attendants were gowned in shades of yellow and the church decorated with gold leaves and chrysanthemums in yellow and white.

Another exquisite bridal gown was also of silver cloth, with a white chiffon overdress. With a gown of this type a bride could carry calla lilies, or merely a white and silver prayer book with a place mark of silver ribbon.

However, the traditional white velvet gown, made on long, slenderizing lines, with long sleeves, holds its own. The attendants can be gowned in chiffon trimmed in velvet and here, in their gowns, the bride can make good use of the new combinations of the season. Nothing could be more effective than to carry out the chrysanthemum colors. Various shades of pale yellow, ranging into gold and orange, look beautiful against a background of autumn leaves. Lavenders and deeper shades of rose, too, can be effectively used. At one lovely wedding where the church was extensively decorated with autumn leaves, the pale green chiffon gown worn by the maid of honor stood out with startling loveliness.

Formality Enters In.

Autumn and winter functions are more formal than those of spring and summer. Receptions, dinners or breakfasts following the formal weddings of this season are dignified affairs. They are no less enjoyable for this, but there is a subtle difference.

Not all of our correspondents, however, are planning on formal weddings, and these girls, too, are besought with doubts as to how to make their weddings beautiful. It's very simple. Of course, the garden wedding is out of the question; most informal weddings will be held at home, a few at church.

For the informal small wedding the beautiful offerings of the season can be put to good advantage. Large bowls of autumn leaves, chrysanthemums, and sprigs of bittersweet will provide a lovely background for the home wedding.

If the house or apartment boasts a fireplace it can be banked with autumn leaves in the varying russet shades. If the bride can wear henna, beige, brown or rust she may be sure of looking well against the background.

The irformal tea or reception after the ceremony can be equally attractive. The long tea table or sideboard can have bowls of autumn flowers, yellow candles and touches of fall coloring through the china service and even the menu.

Answers to Etiquette Questions.

"At the wedding of my son, would a black evening dress be the proper thing to wear? What kind of shoes would you suggest?

"Mrs. W. T."

If the wedding is a formal evening one, you should wear evening dress, but I advise against black. Wear gray, rose, a pastel blue or any other soft color that is becoming, rather than black. Wear slippers of satin the color of your gown, or gold or silver kid, whichever seems most harmonious with the rest of your costume.

"In a small home wedding where there is only one attendant, does the bridesmaid enter the room with the best man or does she precede the bride, walking alone, as in a church wedding? Also, does the bridal party face the guests or does the clergyman? E. L."

The bridesmaid enters first. Just before her entrance the best man and groom will have taken their places at the improvised altar. The bride and groom stand facing the minister, their backs to the guests.

"What invitation form would you suggest for a tea in honor of a visitor? Does 'R. S. V. P.' appear in the invitation? Mrs. W. F. S."

I suggest that you use your visiting cards. Above your name write, "To meet Mrs. John Blank." In the lower left hand corner put this: "Tuesday, November third, tea at four o'clock." Do not put "R. S. V. P." on the cards.

"Should a letter to a married woman be addressed to "Mrs. Mary Smith" or "Mrs. John Smith?" "E. A. P."

Mrs. John Smith. Even if she were a widow that would still be her title.

"When should one answer an invitation to a wedding? R. W."

If one is invited to the church alone, no acknowledgment is necessary. If invited to breakfast or the reception an immediate response is necessary.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

A Profitable Sleep.

I work for a small manufacturer and at this particular season of the year business was dull. Our boss told us girls in the office that if we could think up some plan whereby we could sell a certain amount of our products he would give the girl with the best plan a bonus.

We all thought and thought for some novel idea, and as I was sadly in need of some extra money I pondered far into the night, but fell asleep without a plausible plan. That night I dreamed I wrote a letter to a number of our customers and the orders we got far exceeded our expectations. I awakened and thought it over, and it did seem like a mighty good letter, so the next morning I wrote it down as I remembered it in my dream.

The boss took each idea that we presented and tried those that seemed good, mine among them, on some of our best customers. Much to my surprise, mine brought the best results and when we wrote that letter to all of our customers it brought in the orders, which we were all kept busy filling. I got my bonus and then some more, too, a permanent raise in salary, and the boss told me to dream some more. M. E. L.

Holdup Avoided.

I was ending a short visit at my cousin's in Chicago not long ago. On the last night I had a dream that has made me regard dreams rather mysteriously. This was my dream:

On my return home along the Lincoln highway I came upon two men walking. They hailed me for a ride, one being exceptionally tall, while his partner was quite short. The tall one rode in front with me and the other got in behind. Suddenly as we were riding along a gun was pressed to my back. A terrible fight ensued. I awoke at the climax when the fight seemed to be in my favor.

I was driving home the next day when, unexpectedly, I looked down the lonesome stretch of cement to see a tall and a short man walking along. My dream flashed in my mind as a warning. I pressed hard on the accelerator, feeling a bit scared. Just before I swished by they turned to hail me. Their faces were identical to those in my dream. Safely but nervously I got by. J. P. McM.

Foretold Fire.

Last fall our landlord gave us notice to move. He had sold the place, and this was our third move in five years, so we decided to buy.

We looked at two houses, one new and modern, which we immediately fell in love with, and an older place but more within our means. We went home, talked it over and way into the night figured ways to get the new house.

That night I dreamed we bought the new house and moved in. I started a furnace fire and went about my work. Pretty soon the rooms began to fill with smoke, and when I opened the basement door to go down flames met me. The fright awoke me.

Well, we bought the old home for financial reasons and I forgot my dream. One chilly day a fire truck went screaming past our place and, like all small town folks, we rushed out to see where the fire was. It was the new bungalow and it burned to the ground on account of a defective flue. My husband reminded me of my dream as we stood watching.

Worth More Than 3 Cents.

I worked as bookkeeper, having complete charge of accounts. One month my books were off three cents. I checked and rechecked back and forth, going over every transaction and about 500 accounts, for almost a week, and still no sign of the three cents. I just about gave up. Needless to say, this bothered me a great deal. It must have worked on my mind during my sleep.

We carried a large account under the name of, I shall say, Smith & Co. One night I dreamed that this concern sent me a check for three cents.

I called up the bookkeeper during the course of the dream, asking her why she sent me a check for three cents, and she told me that in checking over my monthly statement, she found a discrepancy of three cents and that check was to cover it.

Acting on that hunch the next morning to the amusement of the office bunch, I rechecked Smith & Co.'s account, and, believe it or not, there was the three cents. Who said one can't rely on dreams? J. J. S.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of Calonite powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Maiden Meditation

By Sara Moore.

Ex-Flapper to the Ex-Sheik.

You ask a sign, a symbol set
To prove each day love's quality;
So startled from our calm routine,
I view our marriage hastily.

You ask a sign, a proof of love;
I'm moved to wonder why you should.
Are not these waffles feather light?
Is not this golden coffee good?

Taxi Economy.

When we were first married and just getting a start in life my husband was a traveling representative for a large concern. His salary was not large and he could not cut much on his hotel bill as he had to put up a good front but he always contrived to save money in one way at which we have often laughed since. When he arrived in a city he would find out where all the firms he had to call upon were located and how to reach them by street car. Then he would get up an hour earlier and ride out to the farthest firm on the street car, alighting within a couple of blocks of the business house he was calling on and, hailing a taxi, drive up to the [illegible] with as much nonchalance as [illegible] he had come in the taxi all the [illegible] from the hotel. He would call on [illegible] other firms in the same manner, [illegible] saving quite a few dollars a week [illegible] his taxi fare. He is now sales manager for the same firm and [illegible] jokes about his early taxi [illegible] D. C. W.
